The view of the Northumberland coast from Holy Island is very beautiful—the strip of blue sea fringed with white foam, the low shelving shore with its bar of golden sand, behind in the misty purple distance the towering Cheviot Hills guarding the scene of Scotland's woe, the Field of Flodden, where Ettrick's shepherds fell before the arrows of the conquering English army, and king and nobles perished. We are not very far from "Scott's Country" here, and this island, where St. Aidan, "the Apostle of Northumbria," founded a monastry in the seventh century, is described fully in "Marmion"; indeed, as we view along the mainland the ruins of St. Hilda's Abbey at Whitby, and on the island itself, all that remains of the once famous monastry of Lindisfarne, of which the renowned Scottish Monk, St. Cuthbert, was prior, we see the abbess with her novices and nuns sailing towards us, the sandalled monks making their daily pilgrimage to the shrine of St. Cuthbert, the sunshine glinting on the golden tresses of the Lady Clare, and think, with a shudder of her terrible fate, of the immured nun who loved "not wisely but too well," and of Marmion, handsome, knightly, heroic, yet full of evil, who betrayed her and caused her death.

Long in Railroad Service.

Among the oldest railroad men in western Ontario is John Quirk of Wingham, who is aged ninety years. Mr. Quirk, though definitelp out of railroad work for some time, can look back to 50 active years spent in the service of various steam roads in the province. When he first began railroading in 1867 the engines burned wood, there were no such things as diners and sleepers, cars were linked with pin coupler and the speed attained, under favorable conditions, was only about twenty miles an hour. About the only thing that was the same as it is today was the way that the conductors punched tickets. Mr. Quirk was a conductor during all the 50 years of his railroad service.

Making a Home.

"It takes a heap o' living in a house to make it a home," writes Edgar Guest, the Detroit author. And it takes only a little common sense in the selection of furniture to make that home better - furnished according to the American scale. Sentimem surrounds the furniture in the home as well as it centers on some particular spot or locality in which that home was built. In fact, sympathy for good furniture means better furnished homes and the treatment of that furniture.

AN INTERESTING EXPERIENCE

A. MacMurchy, C.P.R. agent at Corbetton, had an interesting experience with his auto last week. On Monday night, returning from a drive he housed the car in his garage as usual. The garage is located some distance from his home. He had no occasion to drive till Friday p.m. and had not been at the garage in the interval. On opening the door Mr. MacMurchy was astonished to find the place empty and the prospect of a pleasure trip vanished in thin air. The wires were soon busy in trying to locate the thief or thieves and the stolen car. The situation was relieved three or four hours later when the lost car was discovered in another garage in the village owned by parties who were away for a week on holidays and knew nothing whatever of the incident. Mr. MacMurchy had a few anxious hours Friday night and had no idea how long his car was used or where it was in the four-day interval.—Dundalk Herald.

NOTHING DOING

"You have saved my life," said the old man whom the young hero had just pulled out of the river.

"As a reward, you may marry my daughter."

The hero glanced at the daughter, then grasped the old man.

"What are you doing?" asked the perplexed father.

"Going to throw you in again," he replied.

SUFFOCATED TO DEATH

Robert L. Brunkard, of Elora, Loses Life When His House Was Burned.

About 3.30 Thursday morning, August 9th, 1923, citizens of Elora were aroused by the clanging of the fire alarm. The cause was a fire at the cottage of Mr. Robert L. Brunkard, at the northerly end of Moir street in the northern section of Elora, the blaze having been noticed by a neighbor, Mrs. Boswell, who awakened Mr. N. D. Hall's household, near by, and had the alarm given. The house was built in two sections, the main part being erected by the late Thomas Bruce, and an annex by Mr. Frank Martin, a later owner of the property. The latter part of the structure was of frame, brick veneered, and had an upstairs. When the crowd arrived on the scene, the fire was burning in the upper part of this wing, and in the roof. All the furniture was removed from the main section and the lower flat of the annex, and the chemicals were used on the roof, to retard the flames. As soon as the fire engine got going, a better showing was made, and about an hour from the ringing of the alarm the fire was extinguished, though not before the roof and upper section of the home were a wreck, the lower section being, of course, damaged by water.

Possibly half an hour after the crowd gathered, and after the household effects had been removed, one of those on the scene was attracted by groans, coming apparently from a verandah on the north side of the house, opposite where the crowd was gathered, and investigation showed it was the unfortunate owner of the building, who had returned only the night before from a visit in the Niagara district. He was partly dressed, and was found to be unconscious He was borne on a stretcher to the house of neighbor and medical aid procured as soon as possible. He had not been burned at all. There was no apparent heart action when the doctor arrived but respiration was restored, and for a time it looked as though he would be revived, but a relapse ensued and he passed away at about five o'clock, an hour or so after he was discovered, his death being ascribed to suffocation. Dr. Kyle, Coroner, of Fergus, was notified, and after investigating the circumstances, decided an inquest was not necessary.

There are two principal theories advanced as to the cause of the fire, one being defective wiring. This is not satisfactory, as the house had been closed for a long time and the service was not in use. The other and more plausible ascribes it to the use of a coal oil lamp, broken parts of which were found in the room occupied by the late Mr. Brunkard.—Elora Express.

While riding on a load of hay driven by Mr. Harold Richardson of Flesherton, Mr. Wm. Reid and son, Victor, suffered severe injuries, the latter a broken leg, when the load upset, throwing them off with some force to the ground.

The Great Western Stampede

Bucking steers and unbroken horses featured the Stampede. Top right, Mayor Webster interrogates a brave.

CLATTERING horses of the cow-boys, nodding head-dresses of the Indians with their stolid squaws and families, cow outfits, real old-time chuck wagons and other figures of the last great west, led the modern motor about the streets of Calgary, during the great stampede. Cow-boys and cow-girls, decked in all the bright colors which their predecessors wore in the early eighties—these were the prominent notes in the great symphony of color.

Calgary took on the appearance of frontier days with hitching posts along the main streets and the old cow-town ponies stood in front of the skyscrapers of the modern city.

In the great parade in which several thousand participated, Mayor George Webster struck the keynote in his wonderful leather chaps, blue silk shirt, pink handkerchief and huge Stetson hat. The stimulating contrast of the new and the old was evident in the roar of the big airplanes overhead while the pioneers' and old-timers section of the parade, venerable Red-river carts, original Hudson's Bay vehicles, squeaked their way over the pavement that covers the virgin sod they travelled many years ago. They were driven by the men of 1860, 1870 and 1880 and drawn, in many instances, by venerable nags that looked as if they, too, had survived the days of the rutted prairie trails to walk through a city that was but a dream when their work began.

There was the real old-time prairie schooner, complete with trailer. The stove in the ancient wagon was going full blast and all the housekeeping requirements were there. On the trailer were a load of ducks and geese, some spare firewood and tied behind, walked a white goat and a cow. The Sarcee, Blackfeet and Stoney Indians, resplendent in all their feathers and war-paint, beaded garments and ermine tails, were everywhere in evidence. Clerks in gaudy-colored shirts, telephone operators as cow-girls, cow-boy sports, cow-boy yells, bucking horses, made a week, famous in the annals of sport in the world.

Back about 1905, Alberta cow-boys visiting Calgary, gave up the practice of hitching their ponies on Eighth avenue but during stampede week, the chuck wagons were parked in front of modern retail buildings, horses were tied in front of dignified banks—the cow-boy literally "pitched camp on the main drag." To add to the great wild west picture was to see "Tony," a black pony ridden by a typical westerner, make his way through a cafe or to see Mrs. Duck Thief making her way up Eighth avenue, just previous to winning the first prize for travois turnout. The tepee poles crossed over her horse, dragging behind and the family followed, quite comfortable except for the car track crossings.

The buffalo barbecue was a new interest to the present generation, even if old-timers were quite at home in enjoying their buffalo sandwiches. Five buffalo were obtained from the Wainwright herd and the committee served over twelve thousand sandwiches.

Of all the striking pictures of the old, wild west, that have ever been presented to the world, the great Calgary stampede will live forever in the minds of those whose imagination grasps in significance of the passing of the last great west. And it is thus passing in pictures that are a dazzling succession of brilliant colors.

The new Banff-Windermere motor highway, forming as it does a link in a 6,000 mile chain of good roads, was used by hundreds of visitors who motored from the western States and from British Columbia and who afterwards toured the Canadian Pacific Rockies. From every viewpoint the great Stampede was an unprecedented success.

While Mr. S. S. Blackburn, foreman of the Mount Forest Confederate, was pouring some melted linotype metal some sort of explosion took place from an unknown cause and hot metal was scattered in all directions. Some of it flew into Mr. Blackburn's face, and the services of a surgeon were required to remove some of the metal from one eye. Luckily the sight was not injured, though the eye was very painful for a day or two.

Father—"But, my boy, surely you are too young to marry Jean. How old are you?"

Suitor—"Eighteen, sir."

Father—"And she is twenty-four—too great a disparity. Why not wait half a dozen years? Then you will be twenty-four, and she'll probably be the same age as you."

The tramp knocked at the farmhouse door and asked for the farmer. He recited a tale of woe, and asked for a job.

"Yes, you can have a job," said the farmer. "You can gather eggs for me if you are certain you won't steal any."

The tramp choked with gratitude and emotion. "Sir," he said, with eyes brimful of unshed tears, "you can trust me with any mortal thing on earth. For twenty years I was manager of a bath-house, and I never took a single bath."

Irishmen are noted all the world over for the unconscious wit they display in repartee, and the following incident, which occurred at the Limerick Assizes, hits off the simple Irish character to perfection. Patrick McAnslaw was indicted for stealing a sheep, the property of his landlord, Sir Garret FitzMaurice. He pleaded ingeniously that he found the animal straying on the road bleating sorrowfully, and was simply driving her home lest any harm should come to her.

"Can you read?" asked the irate Judge.

"A little bit, me Lord," was the reply.

"Then you could not be ignorant that the sheep belonged to your landlord, Sir Garret FitzMaurice, as his brand, G. F. M., was on her."

You can imagine the laughter which prevailed in Court when the prisoner replied:—"True enough, me Lord, but sure I thought the letters stood for 'Good Fat Mutton'."

FIRST AND PARAMOUNT, ABSOLUTE SECURITY TO POLICYHOLDERS

Wives Sometimes Object To Life Assurance But— Widows Never Do

Many a man has failed to insure because of his wife's noble but misguided scruples. She didn't want even to think of her husband being taken from her. The thought of money forcing itself into such a tragedy filled her with horror.

Such a woman overlooks the awful plight of a family left destitute. It's a husband's duty to protect his family from want and suffering after his death. A wife who opposes her husband in performing this duty is unfair to him, to herself and to her little ones.

DIED AT BALL GAME

Mrs. Chas. Hall, of Hillsburg, Succumbed to Sudden Heart Attack.

Mrs. Charles Hall, a well-known resident of Hillsburg, died very suddenly on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 22nd, while sitting in her car watching a game of baseball between the Belwood and Hillsburg teams. Mrs. Hall's son was pitching for the Hillsburg team. The game had reached the eighth inning when the fatality occurred. The home team was badly beaten, but there was considerable excitement nevertheless. Suddenly friends of Mrs. Hall noticed that she was in serious distress. The trouble proved to be caused by collapse of the heart action and in less than five minutes the unfortunate woman had passed away.

The late Mrs. Hall was the wife of Mr. Charles Hall, a prominent Hillsburg merchant. Her name before marriage was Sarah McMillan and she was born at Hillsburg. She is survived by her husband and a family of three children, namely, William, Minnie and Hazel. The sad circumstances attending her death caused general gloom in the village and district and created widespread sympathy for the bereaved husband and family. The funeral, which was a very large one, was held from her late home to Hillsburg Cemetery at 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon.

VISITING KNIGHTS PLEASED

Dr. A. J. Hunter, one of the members of the local committee in charge of the arrangements for the recent Derry Day Celebration, has received a letter from Sir Knight E. A. Fennell, of Toronto, Grand Registrar of the Grand Black Chapter of Royal Black Knights of Ontario West, expressing the pleasure the Toronto Knights felt at the success of the Celebration and the manner in which the local arrangements for the day were carried through. Sir Knight Fennell writes in part:

"The gathering was a complete success. The Sir Knights are greatly pleased with the local reception, the decorations throughout the town and the meals that were furnished. Without detracting from the efforts of any person or interest, the service of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches was especially commented upon by those served by these interests."

BEGINNING OF C. N. E.

The Canadian National Exhibition is now in its 45th year. It started in 1879, but really dates back to 1864, when the Association of Ontario Art and Agriculture was formed, an institution that had its start with the first fair in Canada, established at Niagara in 1793, when the future settlers decided to grow flax for the purpose of furnishing the raw material for the canvas that provided the motive power for the British Navy and Mercantile Marine of that day.

BANKS MERGE

Bank of Commerce Takes Over the Bank of Hamilton.

Like a bolt from the blue came the announcement in Tuesday morning's dailies that the Canadian Bank of Commerce had absorbed the Bank of Hamilton. The two merging banks have branches in Orangeville, but the local managers and their staffs were just as much surprised as the outside public. They had not the slightest inkling of the impending merger or of the negotiations that must have been in progress for weeks, perhaps for months, before the transaction was finally consummated. The first public statement came from Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, who announced late on Monday evening that at the request of the directors of the two banks concerned, and in conformity with the provisions of the Bank Act, he had given his consent to the making of an agreement for the sale of the assets of the Bank of Hamilton to the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

The Bank of Hamilton, which was organized a little over fifty years ago and which will now pass out of existence, has 154 branches, 71 of which are located in the province of Ontario. It has been particularly aggressive in pushing its business in Western Canada in the last two decades. Altogether the institution had 72 branches in the three Western provinces. The Bank of Commerce, which now becomes one of the very largest of Canadian banks, has 508 branches, 135 of which are located in Ontario and 173 in the prairie provinces. As a result of the merger the combined banks will have a paid-up capital of $20,000,000 and a rest account of $19,000,000. Their total deposits in Canada will exceed $314,000,000 and their total liabilities $412,520,000.

The Orangeville Branch of the Bank of Hamilton was founded about 1886 under rather unusual circumstances. The late R. T. Haun was manager of the Bank of Commerce, which had been established here for a number of years. Mr. Haun was very popular with the citizens of Orangeville, took a keen interest in all local enterprises, owned a large home in the West Ward and had other interests in the town. When the Bank proposed to transfer him elsewhere, the citizens petitioned to have him retained in Orangeville. The petition failed to alter the decision of the head office. Steps were at once taken to have the Bank of Hamilton open a local branch. When the Bank agreed to the proposal Mr. Haun resigned from the Bank of Commerce and became the first Orangeville manager for the Bank of Hamilton. The local branch has had a successful career since its inception and enjoys a large business at the present time.

The news of the merger created keen interest locally and not a little apprehension in the minds of some of the customers of the Bank of Hamilton, who got hold of the mistaken idea that the Bank failed. Fears of this nature were fortunately easily set at rest. For the present the Orangeville Branch of the Bank of Hamilton will continue to carry on just as it would have done had there been no merger. It may be weeks yet before details for the taking over of the business will be fully completed. In the meantime business will go ahead as usual. When the final change is decided upon and the time definitely fixed all depositors and customers of the Bank will be fully notified. The absorption of the Bank has created a good deal of regret amongst the citizens and farmers in the district who have done their business with the Bank of Hamilton for years. We understand that the late W .H. Hunter, The Maples, and Mr. Robert Irvine, of this town, were the first depositors, when the bank opened here nearly forty years ago.

Other chartered banks were quick to grasp at the opportunity that the merger offered to enter the Orangeville field. Representatives of the Royal Bank and Bank of Toronto arrivd in town early on Tuesday and shortly after the noon hour the two institutions had secured temporary premises on Broadway and had signs in place announcing that they had opened branches and were ready to do business.

REUNION OF THE ARTHUR FAMILY

The first reunion of the Arthur family, descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Arthur, who settled in the township of Mono in the year 1850, took place at Wasaga Beach on Wednesday, August 15th. Those present at the reunion included Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Arthur and family, of Orangeville; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Arthur and Marion, Mono Centre; Mr. and Mrs. Austin Arthur and Thelma, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Avison and family, Relessey; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Halbert and family, of Shelburne; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McKenzie and Drury, of Allliston; Mr. and Mrs. John Gallaugher and family, of Everett; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Halbert and family, of Beeton; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Halbert and family, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Halbert and family, of Shelburne; Mr. and Mrs. John Hammond, of Laurel; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hand, Mansfield; Mrs. J. H. Pentney, of Collingwood; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Arthur, Mrs. Clarence Arthur and Audrey, Mr. and Mrs. Wellesley Arthur and Baby Clarence, of Everett; Mrs. Wm. Ewing and family, of Rosemont; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scott, of Shelburne. Over sixty were present. Dinner was served at a long table, nicely decorated with flowers, and every one enjoyed the good things provided. The afternoon was pleasantly spent by all and after luncheon the following officers were elected for the coming year:—President, Mr. Ernest Arthur; Secretary, Mr. Frank Halbert; Treasurer, Mr. Arthur Avison. The gathering broke up after singing "God be with you till we meet again."

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

May Obtain Relief by Enriching the Blood Supply.

In the days of our fathers and grandfathers, rheumatism was thought to be the unavoidable penalty of middle life and old age. Almost every elderly person had rheumatism, as well as many young people. It was thought that rheumatism was the mere effect of exposure to cold and damp, and it was treated with liniments and hot applications, which sometimes gave temporary relief, but did not remove the trouble. In those days there were many cripples. Now, medical science understands that rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and that with good, rich red blood any man or woman of any age can defy rheumatism. There are many elderly people who have never felt a twinge of rheumatism, and many who have conquered it by simply keeping their blood rich and pure. The blood enriching qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are becoming every year more widely known, and the more general use of these pills has robbed rheumatism of its terrors. At the first sign of poor blood, which is shown by loss of appetite, dull skin and dim eyes, protect yourself against further ravages of disease by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have helped thousands—if you give them a fair trial they will not disappoint you.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EDITORIAL NOTES

If the miners persist in striking every year or so, coal will have to be classified as one of the precious metals. The black diamonds have certainly become expensive and hard to get.

With a system of Government owned railways it should not be difficult to transport Alberta coal to Ontario in case of a coal famine. It is quite proper for the management of the National system to endeavor to procure a freight rate that will at least pay for the cost of the long haul east, but this is a consideration that should not be allowed to stand in the way should there be an actual shortage of coal. Better for railways owned by the people of Canada to haul Alberta coal free of any freight charge than to allow citizens of this country to suffer privation because they cannot obtain the coal they need to heat their homes. Paying freight rates are quite necessary under normal conditions, but they should not be allowed to constitute an obstacle to shipment of Alberta coal should any real emergency arise in Eastern Canada.

TWO NEW BANKS

The Royal Bank of Canada has opened a branch in the office formerly occupied by Squire Pattullo. The branch is under the temporary management of Mr. W. O. C. Ahern, manager of the Grand Valley branch. The bank will occupy the present office until permanent quarters are secured. Mr. Davidson, of the Supervisor's Department of the Royal Bank, Toronto, will assist Mr. Ahern until the permanent staff is taken on. The Royal is here to stay.

The Bank of Toronto opened a permanent branch in town yesterday morning. A temporary office is now open in the law office of Lucas, Henry and Evans next door to C. R. McKeown's office. Mr. W. E. Sharpe, manager of the Shelburne branch, is in charge. The Bank of Toronto has been in successful operation for over 67 years and has a number of branches in Western Ontario towns.

MR. AND MRS. L. H. WILLIS HONORED BY FRIENDS

Belfountain and the surrounding district was well represented at the farewell gathering held at the home of Mr. L. H. Willis on Monday night of last week, when 300 people gathered to express their appreciation of one of the most popular of Caledon's citizens. Mr. Willis' removal from a district in which he has spent so many useful years is received with deep regret by the entire community. This sentiment was expressed by George Blair, who acted as chairman, when he called on John Drury to read the following address: Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Willis.

Dear Friends,—

"Friendship above all ties doth bind the heart,
And faith in friendship is the noblest part."

Thus, briefly, does the poet express his conception of that everlasting bond that binds hearts to hearts, and makes "the whole world kin."

You have spent much of life in this community. Memory takes us back to the happy days of childhood when we played together in our homes, in the old school grounds, or on the village green.

During the years that have passed—at first slowly, as the gently flowing brook through its grassy meadows, later as the swiftly flying bird across yonder sky—we have learned to know you as the finest of citizens, and the kindest of friends. You will never be forgotten. You will live for e'er in the hearts and minds of those with whom you came in contact day by day.

Knowing and appreciating your worth, we are here assembled to express concretely our high esteem for you and your family. We, therefore, ask you to accept this purse as a tangible proof of our regard and good-will.

Think not that we desire to frame these words for this particular occasion—not at all; but we do desire to show how we appreciate your life in our midst You will be greatly missed throughout the entire community.

May you long live to enjoy your new home in health, prosperity and happiness. We know you will make hosts of genial friends, and that our loss will be their gain. Our sincere wish is that your life may be calm and bright. May your pathway be strewed with roses, may the richest odors perfume the air, may the unbeclouded sun shine upon you, and may a cloudless sky canopy your home.

Signed on behalf of the committee.

Stewart Scott,
Ronald McEachern,
Belfountain, Aug. 13, 1923.

Mr. Willis was then presented with a purse, and in a very happy manner expressed his sincere regret at leaving Belfountain and its many happy associations, speaking for Mrs. Willis as well as himself. Addresses, in which many warmly-applauded references were made to the Clerk of Caledon and his good wife, were given by S. Kannawin, T. Wilson, T. Quinn, G. N. Gibson, G. T. Scott, John Drury and others. During the evening Piper Smeaton enlivened the proceedings with several 'skirls' on the pipes. Dancing and cards passed several happy hours, and a supper, served by the ladies of the party, brought the evening to a close, Mr. and Mrs. Willis being the recipients of very hearty wishes for success and prosperity in their new home in Brampton.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED

At the citizens' meeting in the Auditorium of the Public Library on Monday night the following committee was appointed to make arrangements for a reception to the Oxford-Cambridge lacrosse team, which plays here on Saturday: Mayor Jeffers (chairman, W. C. Hopkins (secretary), C. R. McKeown, M. P. P., E. C. Clark, E. G. Bingham, Judge Fisher, Chas. Gillespie, Bert Booth, Dr. Campbell, B. McGuire, J. Foley, Jas. Armstrong, W. M. Green, J. W. Aiken, Dr. Henry, Albert Walker, Dr. Bowles, J. A. McBride and W. C. Barber.

A STRANGE BIRD

One day last week Mr. John Waller found a large bird perched on his spacious lawn on Second Street. He showed it to a number of townspeople before sending it to Caledon Lake, and thus giving it a chance to live in its natural environment. The bird evidently belonged to the crane family. It stood over two feet high, had a neck the length of a man's arm and a bill some 6 or 7 inches long. No one who saw the oddity could give it any special name but all agreed it looked like a crane.

A HIGHWAY ACCIDENT

The first accident to happen on the newly made roadway on the Provincial Highway north of Brampton occurred on Wednesday of last week, when Foster Carruthers, of Tullamore, had his face cut and his buggy smashed by a motor car that slipped in the newly spread gravel. The car ran into the buggy and then plunged into the ditch. Its occupants had the good fortune to escape unhurt.

CALEDON

On Sunday morning last a very disastrous fire occurred on Mr. Jas. Pearson's farm, lot 10, 1st line, east, when the splendid barn and season's crop, together with three head of live stock, were entirely consumed. The farm is occupied by Mr. Fred Nicholson, who is also a heavy loser, as his hay, grain and some implements went up in smoke. A general alarm was given on the telephone and neighbors turned out and saved the house which was in great danger, owing to the strong wind blowing in that direction. Mr. Pearson is now a patient in Battle Creek Sanitorium and much sympathy is expressed for he and Mr. Nicholson in the loss sustained.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Palmer, of Detroit, Mich., are visiting the latter's mother and brother, Mrs. R. Johnston and Frank, on the 1st line, west.

Wedding bells will ring on 15 sideroad next Monday for one of our former Caledon girls (best wishes.)

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Chambers, of Arthur, visited Caledon friends last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Dick, of Saskatchewan, are spending the summer among Caledon friends.

Harvesting has been greatly delayed owing to the frequent showers.

Some of our early risers report considerable frost on more than one night last week.

The Caledon Women's Institute will hold the regular monthly meeting on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 5th, at the home of Mrs. Sam Patterson. There will be a community sing along will call. Every member is urged to be present as there is considerable business to be transacted. All ladies welcome.

ALTON

Miss Margaret Lemon is visiting her sister, Mrs. L. Butler, Toronto.

Miss Nancy Meek is spending a few days with Miss Gladys Nodwell, Hillsburg.

Miss Olive Dods is home from Toronto, where she was employed as a stenographer. We understand Miss Dods will be home for some time.

The Girls' Baseball Team went to Orangeville on Friday night, Aug. 24th, and played with the team from the Dods Knitting Co. The game resulted in victory for the Alton team with a score 26-18. The girls are picking up in batting, five home runs being struck in the course of the game.

Miss Erma Bell, Georgetown, was the guest of Miss Agnes Meek over the week-end.

Mrs. Harry Lovell and babe, of Mount Forest, are visiting relatives in town.

Miss McIntosh, of the Department of Agriculture, Brampton, spent Monday in town.

Mrs. J. A. Lovell has returned home after a trip on the St. Lawrence River.

We are sorry to report the removal of Dr. Price and family from our village. The doctor has a practice at Norwich, Oxford County.

The Erin Women's Institute, to the number of 25, visited Alton W. I. on Thursday evening, Aug. 23rd. The meeting was held in the Club Rooms, which were prettily arranged for the occasion. The ladies of Erin gave a splendid program of music, both vocal and instrumental, two papers on "The work of the Institute in a Community," demonstration of folk dancing, and two recitations. Each number was well rendered and thoroughly appreciated. After the program the Alton ladies served a dainty lunch, also enjoyed by all. We hope Erin may come again.

There will be a picnic held on the school grounds on Friday, Sept. 7th, from 2 o'clock to 5 p.m. Everybody invited to come and enjoy the afternoon in sports, games, etc, inspect the improvements in the school and meet the teachers. Bring your baskets and enjoy lunch together.

Mr. Chantler and family have returned from their holiday trip to Muskoka, Collingwood and Meaford.

GUARD BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SUMMER

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic, diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to banish them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers, or by mail, at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

EDWARD J. COBEAN

Oldtime Orangeville and Mono friends learned with a great deal of sorrow of the death of Edward J. Cobean, of Toronto. The sad event occurred at his late residence, 373 Wellesley St., Toronto, on Sunday, following a short illness from pleurisy and pneumonia. Mr. Cobean, who was in his 71st year, was born and spent the early part of his life in the township of Mono. He will be best remembered by our Mono readers as a general merchant in the village of Camilla, where he ran a successful business for a number of years. He also filled the office of Postmaster and took an active part in the public and business life of the community. Twenty-five years ago he moved to Toronto, where he organized and assumed the management of the Hygiene Kola Company, Limited. By close attention to his enterprise and sound business management he had built up an extensive business, of which he was still the active manager at the time of his demise. The late Mr. Cobean was a member of Old St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Toronto, and was identified with the Oddfellows and Orange Orders. He was a staunch Conservative and took an active part in furthering the fortunes of his party. He is survived by his wife, who is a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Henry, of Mono Centre, and a sister of Mr. W. A. Henry, Clerk of Mono township. Messrs. William Cobean, of Orangeville, James Cobean and Mrs. James Fleming, Toronto, are the surviving brothers and sister. The late Mr. Cobean was a frequent visitor to Orangeville. His last visit to the town was on August 11th, when he attended the Derry Day Celebration and spent a happy day renewing old friendships.

The remains were brought to Orangeville yesterday morning, the funeral taking place from the C. P. R. station to the family plot in Mono East Cemetery.

LAUREL

The Rev. J. A. Reddon,, Mrs. Reddon and son, Morris, have moved from the manse to take up their residence in Toronto.

Mr. W. R. Grosskurth has added much to the appearance of his store by the new plate glass windows at the front.

Miss Hilda Banks is visiting relatives in Toronto.

Mrs. Rusher and children, of Toronto, have returned home after their holiday with friends here and at Orangeville.

Rev. W. Rackham was back in his puulpit on Sunday evening after spending a very pleasant holiday at Ravenna and other former pastorates.

Motor visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richardson were Rev. D. A. Thompson, Hastings, Rev. Archibald Thompson, Moncton, Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson and children, manager of Union Bank, Shelburne, last week.

Mrs. E. B. Cooney has been spending a few days with friends in Shelburne.

Mr. J. A. Hughes, Mrs. Hughes and Willie, with Mrs. Dobbin, of Fergus, were renewing acquaintances here.

Misses Florence Stevenson and Eliza Rennick have returned from an extended holiday in Muskoka.

Mrs. Black, A. T. C. M., of Toronto, spent her holidays at Laurel and Durham, returning to her home last Monday.

Mr. Thos. Nelson is back in the store again after a pleasant vacation at Wasaga Beach, Toronto and Orangeville.

LAUREL

The Amaranth Plowmen's Association, organized a few weeks ago under the auspices of the Laurel Junior Farmers' Improvement Association, is meeting with encouraging success in the enrolment of members and also in the matter of securing prizes for the proposed Plowing Match late in October. The Bank of Commerce, Orangeville, has donated a handsome cup and the Orangeville Branch of the Bank of Hamilton is also offering a special prize for one of the events. About the only thing needed now is a good list of entries for the Plowing Match and these will undoubtedly be forthcoming in due time.

The Union Garden Party held here recently under the auspices of the Presbyterian churches of Black's Corners, Laurel and Waldemar was a pronounced success. The affair attracted a large crowd and everybody was delighted with the fine program provided by the Brunswick entertainers, who proved themselves just about the best artists heard here for a long time.

ELBA

The last regular meeting of the Elba Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. J. Elgie on Wednesday, Aug. 8th. There were a goodly number present. Mrs. Summerfield, the President, was in the chair. After the business had been transacted, a program was given, consisting of Community Singing, a Reading by Mrs. Fines, "Towser must be Tied To-night" instrumental music by Mrs. J. Woods, and a solo by Miss Lola Wooder, accompanied by Miss Lila Wooder. There was a discussion on Canning Fruit and Vegetables and also an Apron demonstration. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Norris Fines on September 12th. Salad demonstration.

The members of St. James' Church, Primrose, have made arrangements for their annual Peach Social and Garden Party on Tuesday, Sept. 4th. Jas. Fax, humorous entertainer, has been engaged. They will also have their Harvest Home services on Sunday, Sept. 9th, at 2.30 p.m.

ALICE MYRNA CUNNINGTON

The funeral of the late Alice Myrna Cunnington, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Cunnington, took place on Friday, the 17th, at 2.30 p.m. Sorrowing friends left the home at 54 Third Street, S. W., for Fifth Avenue Methodist Church where an impressive service was led by Rev. H. E. Gordon, the pastor. The comforting words spoken were based on the familiar text contained in first verse of the Fifth Chapter of Second Corinthians: "For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." Favorite hymns of the deceased young lady were sung: "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me," and "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go." Mrs. Fossum sang sympathetically, "There Shall Be No Night There."

The late Miss Cunnington was born at Orangeville, Ont., and was twenty years of age when life closed. She came west at the early age of two, with her parents, to Caron, Sask., later moving to Prelate, Sask., thence to Medicine Hat, where she had resided for the past ten years, taking her public and high school work here, with great credit, but being prevented by illness from continuing a more extensive course.

Miss Cunnington was an active worker in the church and took a great interest in Girls' C. G. I. T. work. She was much beloved for her gentle and beautiful qualities of mind and heart, her wonderful patience and cheerfulness during her final illness endeared her to all and many who came to her bedside to give comfort went away themselves comforted and strengthened.

Alice leaves to mourn her loss her parents and one sister, Mrs. Stanley Alger, of Orangeville, Ont., besides many friends.

The casket was banked with flowers, tokens of love and esteem for the departed and sympathy for the bereaved. It was borne to itslast resting place at Hillside Cemetery by six of her girl friends, Misses Nellie and Gwen Hunt, Helen Taylor, Margaret McDonald, Mae Goode and Margaret Byers.

The floral offerings were as follows: Anchor, father and mother; cross, Mrs. Robinson and J. M. Oliver, Toronto; sheaf, sister, niece and nephew; sheaf, Miss M. A. Carson; basket, Mr. and Mrs. Bateman; wreaths, Fifth Ave. Methodist choir, Ever Ready and Willing Workers of Fifth Ave. Methodist Church, Mr. and Mrs. Jones; sprays, Mrs. Harold and family, Caron, Sask., Mrs. Young and family, Caron, Sask., Mrs. Margaret Speers, Orangeville, Ont., Mrs. Alice Reaburn, Orangeville, Ont., Lucky Clover C. DUFFERINS ARE BEATEN

Greenshirts Were Unable to Hold Weston in Early Stages of Saturday's Game.

Weston Won by 6 to 3.—Winners Piled up Three Goal Lead in First Few Minutes of Play.

The Dufferins' chances of getting into the finals for the senior championship of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association were greatly endangered if not spoiled altogether by their defeat in Weston on Saturday. Supporters of the green and white had been hoping that their favorites would take a fall out of the redshirted Weston team, but they did not prove equal to the undertaking and were forced to accept the second defeat of the year at the hands of Fred Rowntree's braves. The game was won and lost in the first five minutes of play.

Dufferins journeyed to Weston by special train, which was so late arriving that the players were compelled to step into the game without the usual preliminary work-out. On a warm summer day this might not have mattered, but in the chilly autumn atmosphere of Saturday afternoon it mattered a great deal. The players were cold and stiff when the match started. Weston had been limbering up for half an hour before the game and for the first five minutes their home simply played rings around the Dufferin defence. When The Dufferins finally got into the game in earnest the score was 3 to 0 against them. For the remainder of the game they were just as good and scored just as often as their heavier opponents, but were unable to pull down the early Weston lead. The defeat was a keen disappointment to the Orangeville fans, many of whom were quite confident that the greenshirts could win right in Weston.

One of the largest crowds of the year turned out to witness the game. There were more people on the grounds than there were in Idylwyld Park here for the Weston game, but probably not so many as witnessed the game with Maitlands on Derry Day. The field was completely surrounded by motor cars, parked three and four deep at many points. The game was of the strenuous variety for which the heavy, hard-checking Weston team is noted. As a consequence there were a large number of penalties, numerous delays and several injured players. In this respect the games with Weston have been in marked contrast with the games with the Maitlands, which were equally as fast and productive of much cleaner lacrosse.

Saturday's defeat makes the fourth loss for The Dufferins. They were previously defeated by Brampton in Brampton, by Mimico in Mimico and by Weston in Orangeville. In the other three games they were beaten by a one goal margin, Saturday being the first time they were decisively defeated in a championship game. To have any chance of getting into the play-off now they will have to win their game from Brampton on Wednesday and Maitlands will have to win their two remaining games, Weston in Toronto and Brampton on Brampton grounds If these three games go in the manner indicated, and we are forced to admit that the "If" looks formidable enough, then The Dufferins, Brampton and Maitlands will tie up for second position and will have to play off for the honour of going against Weston in the finals.

Supporters of The Dufferins should not overlook the fact that the team has been badly handicapped in recent games by reason of injuries to the two goalkeepers, Booth and Firth. Booth was crippled at the beginning of the season, but his loss was not felt so keenly because Firth, who had a year's seasoning with Mimico in 1922, was ready to step into his place. When Firth was injured about three weeks ago, Booth was still far from fit to play the game, but went into the flags and did the best he could in his crippled condition. He defended the goal position with his oldtime skill, but was unable to field the ball on account of his injured knee. Before he was injured Booth was very fast on his feet and was usually able to beat the opposing home to the ball, whenever a shot went out behind. In recent games he has not been able to leave the flags and this has proved a serious handicap to the defence.

The Mail and Empire report read:—

"Weston's rush in the opening minutes of its game with Orangeville Saturday resulted in enough counters to win the senior O. A. L. A. fixture at Weston by 6 to 3. The Kingdom brothers, with the assistance of White, notched three counters during the first three minutes of the game and although the green and white clad stalwarts from Orangeville had the best of play during the rest of the 80 minutes, they could not overcome the handicap.

Orangeville's loss almost put them out of the running and unless several things happen the Dufferins will not have a chance to be in the championship play-off. Weston is the only team sure of a place in the play-off as its hold on first place is secure. The battle for a chance to play Weston is between Brampton and Orangeville. Brampton has the best chance, with a firm grip on second place, and although it has two more games to play than Weston and three more than Orangeville, the prospects are, if it continues playing the same brand of lacrosse it showed against Weston two weeks ago, Orangeville will be listed among the also-rans.

The Kingdom brothers proved Dufferins downfall, their early start Saturday to slip passes around the nets had the Orangeville defencemen puzzled. Orangeville stepped into the game the minute they arrived on the field and before they could get going, Weston had a lead big enough to warrant victory. After the winners secured their lead they used their bodies to stop the speedy visitors and played a defensive game during the last half of the game.

White notched the first two counters on passes from the Kingdoms. Eddie Kingdom grabbed the ball at face-off and secured Weston's third. Orangeville secured its first goal on a pretty play by Gordon, who drew out the defence and passed to Burnside. In the second session both teams scored one Harris landing Weston's and Brown, Orangeville's. Weston got the only tally of the third when Farr was allowed to wander about the nets and he shipped one past Booth. Gordon stepped around Holly for the first goal of the last session. Orangeville had the best of playing during the last 20 minutes and tried hard to overcome the two goal lead, but Coulter ended the scoring by putting Weston another one in the lead."

Teams and officials were:—

Orangeville — Goal, Booth; point, Cushing; cover, Henderson; defence, Scott, Ewing and Cruikshank; centre, Burnside; home, Golden, Wilson, Brown; outside, Gordon; inside, Hawken; spares, Sargeant and Robinson.

Weston — Goal, Rowntree; point, Farr; cover, Holly; defence, K. Coulter, Harris, B. Coulter; centre, Stevenson; home, F. Kingdom, K. Kingdom, Keith; outside, G. Coulter; inside, White.

Referees — Carmichael and Powers, Toronto.

A BUSINESS CHANGE

Messrs. Waller & Haddock have bought out the local Chevrolet agency and the East Broadway garage and repair shop from Messrs. Barber & McNichol. We understand that Mr. McNichol is retiring from the business altogether. Mr. Barber retains the general district agency for the McLaughlin which his firm has been selling for a number of years. The members of the new firm are young men of energy and enterprise and should make a success of their undertaking. Mr. Lyman Waller, one of the partners, is a former Mono man, who has been living in town for the last two years. His partner, Mr. Clarence Haddock, is also a Mono boy, being a son of Mr. W. H. Haddock, of Belessey.

MOTOR ROAD MAPS

The 1923 road map of the Ontario Motor League is now on sale at The Banner Office. The map has been thoroughly revised and greatly improved in a number of respects. It shows in accurate red outline the Provincial Highway system of Ontario and also the best roads in Western Quebec, New York State and Eastern Michigan. The relative importance of all roads is indicated by three classes of lines—red, medium and thin black. The map sells at 50 cents, the same price as last year.

Customer—"Send up a quarter's worth of boiled ham."

Shopman—"All right, sir. Anything else."

Customer—"Yes. If [illegible] isn't at home, tell the boy to put it through the keyhole."

The Medicine Made From Fruit

You can get rid of Rheumatism. You can be free of pain—of swollen hands and feet—of aching arms, legs and back.

"Fruit-a-tives" will drive the cause of Rheumatism out of the system and give you permanent relief.

"For over three years, I was confined to bed with Rheumatism. Finally I decided to try "Fruit-a-tives". Before using half a box, I noticed improvement. I continued taking "Fruit-a-tives" improving all the time. I can now walk about two miles and do chores around the place".

ROMANIZING THE CIVIL SERVICE

Before the King Government was returned to power the Post Office Department was directed by:

Hon. P. E. Blondin, a French R.C., as Postmaster-General;

Dr. Coulter, a Protestant, as Deputy Postmaster-General;

Colonel George Ross, a Protestant, Superintendent.

In these three chief positions there were two Protestants and one Roman Catholic. Now the department is directed by:

Hon. Charles Murphy, an Irish Roman Catholic, as Postmaster-General;

L. J. Gaboury, a French Roman Catholic, as Deputy Postmaster-General;

P. T. Coolican, an Irish Roman Catholic, as Superintendent;

And T. P. Murphy, formerly the Minister's private secretary, has been put at the head of the equipment and supply branch.

That is Romanizing the postal service with a completeness that ought to satisfy the most bigotted K. of C. in the country. Three principal positions formerly held by Protestants are turned over to Roman Catholics. What has been done at the top will, of course, be done down at the bottom. The P. M. G. might as well put up a sign "No Protestants Need Apply."

Ever since the change of Government complaints have reached The Sentinel of the unjust discriminations against Protestants in the service. Those complaints related to the minor positions. But now the country has an opportunity to study the policy of the P. M. G. as it applies to the controlling power over the Postal Department.

There has been a deliberate plan to bring this about. The superannuation of Dr. Coulter and Colonel Ross was a crime against economy and efficiency. Both these men, although in the sixties, were vigorous publis servants. They knew more about postal service than any other two men in Canada. Their long experience was an asset that tho country could not afford to throw away. Their retirement meant an addition of almost $8,000 to the cost of civil government. But what is that to Mr. Murphy when he wanted to advance his friend, Coolican? His intention was to make P. T. Coolican deputy-minister. But the French element rebelled. They threatened to defeat Mr. Murphy in Russell County if he did not put in a French Deputy Minister. They named E. J. Lemaire, formerly private secretary to Sir Wilfred Laurier. Then the Clerk of the Privy Council died, and that being a better post Mr. Lemaire dropped in there, leaving the place for Mr. Gaboury. After the conduct of P. T. Coolican in the Edmonton robbery affair, he became impossible as deputy minister.

When the position of Clerk of the Privy Council became vacant, it was claimed by a Frenchman because the former occupant was French. But when the Deputy Postmaster-General's post was vacant it was grabbed off for another Frenchman. Now it will be held to be the right of a Frenchman to hold that place forever.

What has been done in the Post Office Department is being done in every other department where it is possible. The clamor of the Knights of Columbus for public offices is a loud, continuous roar in the ears of the ministers, and as there are 67 Roman Catholic members of Parliament supporting the King Government the sound of the clamor is being heard by the ministers like a clear call to serve out "fat" situations to the faithful knights.—Orange Sentinel.

—Camilla Women's Institute will hold its next meeting at the home of Mrs. R. J. Galbraith on Friday afternoon, Aug. 31st. Miss Campbell, Provincial Public Health Nurse, will give a Talk at the meeting.

The famous tragedian was playing in "Richard III."

When the actor came to the lines, "A horse! a horse! my kingdom for a horse," a man in the pit called out, "Wouldn't a donkey do?"

"Yes," responded the tragedian. "Come around, please to the stage-door."

"I Now Feel Fine"

Mrs. P. G. Murdoch, Box 433, Portage la Prairie, Man., writes:

"I was troubled for years with biliousness, constipation, kidney and liver troubles. I tried many different kinds of medicine, but nothing did me much good until I tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I now feel fine, but am never without these pills in the house. Dr. Chase's Ointment has relieved my husband of piles, from which he used to suffer badly."

She was a dear old lady with a rosy face framed in silver hair, and eyes that were all kindness.

She was being shown round the prison, and endeavored, as she passed, to say a few kind words to the unfortunate prisoners.

"Remember, my good man," she chirruped to one veteran, "that stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage."

"Well," said the old sinner, "they've got me hypnotised, then—that's all ma'am."

Two witnesses were called in a case which concerned long-continued poultry stealing.

Nothing could be got from them in the way of evidence until the prosecuting counsel asked: "Will you swear, Mike Lonergan, that Thady O'Farrell has never, to your knowledge, stolen chickens?"

"Bedad, I don't know about that, your honor," said Mike, "but I do know that if I was a chicken, and Thady was about, I'd roost high.

A very kind-hearted man could never be brought to say an unkind word about anybody. One day a friend expostulated with him.

"Look here," he said, "it's all very well being charitable and all that, but you can carry that sort of thing too far. Now, there's Blank. Can you honestly find a single good point about Blank?"

The kind-hearted man appeared to be beaten, for Blank was a very bad man, and it seemed impossible to find anything good to say about him.

"Well," he said at length, "you must admit he wears a fine fur-lined coat."

Bill Douthitt is a Terre Haute lawyer and an enthusiastic member of the Lion's club. The other day two of its members became benedicts and Bill was called on to make the speech when the club presented them with a motley collection of kitchen utensils.

In the course of his remarks, Bill defined "Love." He made it sound as if it were the most glorious and lasting thing in the whole world. But during the speechmaking one of the younger members of the club with a sense of humor whispered, "Sit down, Bill, for goodness' sake, before you ruin your business."

Pressed for an explanation by the fellow next him, the youngster said: "Well, some of these fellows might want a divorce some day, and no one would ever go to a lawyer who believed in the sort of love he's talking about."—Indianapolis News.

AN INVESTMENT IN LOVE

It Was a Complicated Business.

By EUGENE A. VOGT

Glenwish Johnson sat in the private office of the Acme-Johnson Grocery company, of which commanding establishment he was president and practically sole owner.

Curtis, the confidential young man of Johnson's own business rearing, was with him, as usual, at this hour—4 o'clock—to receive his superior's final instructions for the day.

"Well," concluded Mr. Johnson in that icy tone the meaning of which none knew better than Curtis, "that's settled. If that Marden note is not paid tomorrow you go ahead and foreclose the mortgage. This presuming on old friendship and that sort of rot will not go. I've renewed it once, and I'm tired of it."

Curtis smiled and nodded as he shut down the top of his chief's desk. The latter had turned to go, but stopped suddenly.

"By Jove!" he exclaimed. "I almost forgot. My little girl is twenty-one today." The diplomatic Curtis merely smiled his congratulations. "Hand me my private check book, Curt," ordered Johnson. "I'll take it home with me."

Emil, the porter of Charles Thran's leaf tobacco establishment on Water street, New York, was the first member of that firm's force to gasp as Edna, Glenwish Johnson's daughter, alighted from her electric car and briskly entered his part of the house.

"I should like to see Miss Grace Marden, Mr. Thran's stenographer," she said sweetly.

"Right in there, lady," he said, pointing toward the inner office.

"Hello, Edna," came Thran's voice, cheery and cordial. "What on earth brings you way down to Water street?"

"I came down to see Grace on business, Mr. Thran. You don't mind letting me speak to her in private for a few minutes?"

Thran patted the girl's cheek with the familiarity of a very old friend and ceremoniously bowed himself out of his own office, softly closing the door behind him. Presently, however, the door of the private office opened and Edna stood at the threshold, her face rather pale and her pose unsteady.

"Please come in, Mr. Thran," she pleaded tremulously.

Mr. Thran re-entered his sanctum only to find that his troubles had just begun. His young stenographer was huddled in her chair disturbingly near the verge of tears.

"I can't do a thing with her, Mr. Thran," began Edna fiercely. "I do wish you would make her do it; I can't."

"What is it, Edna?" he inquired, with real concern.

"The whole thing in a nutshell is this: Mr. Marden, this foolish girl's father, owes papa $5,000, and if it isn't paid before 3 o'clock today papa says he will foreclose the mortgage or something, and Grace and Uncle Bully John Marden will be homeless. Now, I was twenty-one yesterday, and papa gave me a check for $5,000 as a birthday gift. I was so happy about it, knowing that it would just cover the amount Uncle John owes papa, and now Grace—Grace—she won't take it. Please make her take it, Mr. Thran."

"Please, Mr. Thran," now came appealingly from the other girl, "please do not try to make me do this thing. God knows I appreciate Edna's motives, and I love her all the more for her kindly intentions. But I cannot take this money from her."

"Edna," he said very tenderly, "you are a very kind, dear girl, and I am proud to know you. But you do not understand, my dear. I am truly very sorry for both of you."

* * * * * * *

Johnson would gladly have paid the five thousand himself, but was afraid of that man Curtis. After twelve years of patient work to make a real business man out of his young confidential man Johnson did not dare to make so sentimental a proposition.

So he had carefully planned it all, had presented Edna with the check and an admonition to invest it as she saw fit, and then dexterously appraised her of Marden's indebtedness to him and the inevitable consequences of a failure to meet the note the next day.

Johnson only heard of the miscarriage of his plan at about 2 o'clock that afternoon. Returning to his private office from luncheon at that hour, he found his daughter on the verge of tears, with the check in her hand.

"Oh, papa, Grace won't take the check, won't let me help her—me, her best friend."

He turned to his daughter, smiling grimly. The girl placed the piece of paper she had been holding in his hands.

"Come along with me, dearie. You do not have to ask Grace Marden or any one else to pay that note. All you need do is to go over to the bank and pay it. But as my check is not certified and, besides, you have never been inside of a real commercial bank I'll go with you if you will let me."

Edna rewarded her father with a grateful smile and kiss, and they travelled the outer offices. Glen Johnson, followed by his daughter, walked decisively up to the note teller's window of one of New York's largest banking institutions.

"How do you do, Mr. Johnson?" greeted the man behind the bars respectfully.

"All right," responded the other cordially. "You have a note here for collection, $5,000, John Marden, maker, to my order. This lady wishes to pay it. Want me to certify it?"

The note teller scrutinized the check.

"Oh," remarked Smith, still smiling amusedly, "the check is all right, of course, but I can't take it. The note has been paid, Mr. Johnson."

"Paid?"

"Most unusual thing about this collection," resumed the teller. "It seems everybody wants to pay it. You are the third party to attempt to do so. It wasn't more than ten minutes ago that Miss Grace Marden came in to pay it. She presented a certified check signed by Charles Thran"—

"Oh, Mr. Thran!" interposed Edna gleefully. "So he paid it himself. Isn't that noble of him?"

"Mr. Thran's intentions were good," proceeded the teller, "but he was too late by at least half an hour; but, of course," and here the teller risked a sly wink at Edna's father, "you know who really paid it, Mr. Johnson."

"I! I!" exploded the latter. "Do you think I came over here with my daughter to make a fool of myself?"

"I—I—really, I beg your pardon," stammered Smith. "But naturally I thought you knew when your own Mr. Curtis paid the note."

"It's all right, Mr. Smith," muttered Johnson, stroking his brow. "Come, Edna, let us go."

Johnson was still nervously clutching his daughter's hand as they passed through the outer offices of the Acme-Johnson Grocery company.

Just before he ushered the girl into the private office he ordered the office boy to send in Mr. Curtis at once. The culprit entered with his usual placid air.

"Hear anything about the Marden note?" asked Johnson leadingly.

"Yes, sir," replied Curtis dryly. "The note has been paid."

"Oh, it has, has it?" asked the chief sarcastically. "How do you know that since you haven't been to the bank today?"

The smile on the confidential young man's face was serene.

"I've been at the bank, Mr. Johnson," he said calmly. "I went there for the purpose of paying the Marden note."

"And you paid it?"

"I paid it."

"You paid it," repeated Johnson, rilled by the other's nonchalance. "We know you paid it, but why? You—in heaven's name! Why did you pay it? There is something behind all this, and I want to know it."

"There is a great deal behind it, Mr Johnson," admitted Curtis cheerfully. "My life's happiness is behind it. Grace Marden has promised to become my wife."

"And you thought you would do a very wise thing by paying her father's note?" demanded Johnson.

"I thought so," replied the young man with just the slightest note of doubt in his voice. The elder man turned abruptly to his desk.

"I am sure," soothed his daughter, "that you are to be congratulated, Mr Curtis. And your paying the note was a very noble act."

"Thank you," replied Curtis sheepishly as he took the dainty hand she had extended.

Ungallantly and ungratefully, he wished the radiant young woman showering him with appreciation would suffer him to get away or—better yet—would depart herself and leave him to have it out with her imperious, heartless father alone.

But suddenly Johnson rose to his feet. The young assistant's worried expression gave way to a triumphant grin at sight of the changed countenance of his chief, for the good, old fighting gleam shone in those eyes once more. Johnson handed the young man a check he had written.

"Now, listen here, Curt," he said sharply. Curtis knew the tone and hearkened attentively. "This is an order, and if it isn't carried out to the letter I'll fire you." Johnson's gray eyes softened as he continued: "Curt, you have put your good self in a fix. Bully John's daughter is too proud to stand for what you have just done. Don't I know the girl? Now, boy, you go over to the bank and stop that fool deal you just made. Now, you listen to me!" as Curtis made a gesture of protest. "Listen to sense, will you, even if you are in love! You go over to the bank and do as I say. Then you come back here with that abominable note. And then it's my move. I'll write Marden a letter, agreeing to extend that infernal note of his another four months. I'll tell him—er—anything—changed my mind or something. Well, never mind what I tell him; that's none of your business nor," turning to his daughter, who had laughed audibly, "any of yours either, madam. That saves the girl's pride and relieves the old man's anxiety. Now, listen to me, you two—two—well, never mind!" for Edna had laughed irreverently again. "I want you to know this much. I pay the $5,000—do you get that? I—Glenwish Johnson—and no other living man, or woman either! Now, Curt, scoot!"

Curtis having "scooted," father and daughter faced each other with a new and better understanding.

"I am so proud of you," she murmured. Glen Johnson caught the tears in her voice even before he saw them on her cheeks.

"You mustn't cry about it, girlie," he said tenderly.

But she did cry about it, while her happy father held her very close to his breast, for he knew that every tear she shed was a token of her new love and reverence for himself.

CERTO (Surejell)

How to Make Apple or Crabapple Jelly

Remove stem and blossom ends from about 3 lbs. ripe fruit, and cut in small pieces. Add 3 cups water, cover pan and simmer 10 minutes. Crush with masher, cover pan and simmer 5 minutes longer. Place fruit in cheese-cloth bag and squeeze out juice. Measure 7½ level cups (3¼ lbs.) sugar, and 4 cups juice into large saucepan, stir and bring to a boil. At once add ½ bottle (scant ½ cup) Certo, stirring constantly, and bring again to a full boil for ½ minute. Remove from fire, let stand 1 minute, skim and pour quickly.

THE DELINQUENT BOY OR GIRL

(Dr. J. G. Shearer.)

Since the century began great progress has been made in the care of delinquent children. The aim universally accepted is to keep them from association with criminals in gaol or court or penitentiary, to treat them as erring children, and to restore them to rectitude and good citizenship.

The Juvenile Delinquents Act of Canada passed in 1908 states in its preamble that "it is not expedient that youthful offenders should be classed or dealt with as ordinary criminals; the welfare of the community demands that they should on the contrary be guarded against association with crime and criminals, and should be subjected to such wise care, treatment and control as will tend to check their evil tendencies and strengthen their better instincts." Hence the Juvenile Court—not the Police Court, the Detention Home, not the gaol; the Industrial School, not the prison or penitentiary, are required in terms of this beneficent measure. Children are not born delinquents as many suppose or assume. They become such. And society has much responsibility for this as is shown from a consideration of some of the causes of delinquency. One of the most fruitful of these causes is mental defectiveness. Society could and should prevent the greater part of mental defectiveness by segregating mental defectives and thus preventing the bringing of the mentally defective child into the world. Two thirds of mental defectiveness is hereditary according to Dr. H. H. Goddard. But in dealing with an unfortunate child born with a mental lack and a consequent moral weakness, it is foolish and wrong to treat the child as a criminal. It is entitled to paternal sympathetic treatment. It needs care and training for body, mind and spirit, such as it will receive in an industrial class in school or in a school given over to the care of the feeble-minded. Society is, by its neglect, responsible for the birth of two-thirds of these little ones.

Neglect and dependency of children is another fruitful cause of delinquency. Families numbering many thousands are left penniless and dependent through the death or permanent disability of the fathers. The mothers are compelled to go out and earn the necessaries of life for themselves and their families. The children unmothered in the day time get into bad company and bad habits, violate some by-law or statute and thus become delinquents. Others would be better off if they had no parents, sad to say, and they more readily become delinquents. Society should provide for such dependent and neglected children by such means as Mothers' Allowances which is now done in the four western provinces and in Ontario.

Many cases of delinquency are due to the spirit of curiosity enterprise and adventure which is found in every healthy child and if society does not provide for the satisfaction of this spirit in adequate facilities for organized and supervised play the children will form "gangs" and proceed without supervisory direction to find satisfaction "on their own" and will get into "trouble" with the farmer, grocer, etc., whose fruit or other property is stolen in a spirit of mischief and adventure. Here again society must take the principal share of responsibility for such delinquency.

Society therefore ought to provide for the care of delinquents and if it does not do so it will be compelled to care for them later as adolescent or adult criminals and at an enormously enhanced cost in money in addition to all the wreck and ruin wrought in these young lives, which might have been a splendid asset instead of a serious liability.

The Juvenile Delinquents Act was enacted to make this possible. It, however, does not come into force in any municipality or province, excepting at the request of the local authorities and on proclamation of the Governor in Council, that is the Federal Government. It is now in force in most cities in Canada and in the whole provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia. Where it is not in force a child becoming delinquent cannot be sent to an Industrial School but only to gaol or penitentiary and it is a social crime of the first magnitude for any child to be sent to herd with the adult criminals. Whatever such child is on joining such companionship, it will be almost without fail a confirmed criminal on regaining liberty.

How is it in your community? Is the Juvenile Delinquents Act in force and efficiently operated?.

A lady, recently returned from a Mediterranean trip, says that as the ship was leaving the harbor of Athens a well-dressed lady passenger approached the captain, and pointing to the distant hills, asked:—

"What is that white stuff on the hills, captain?"

"That is snow, madam," answered the captain.

"Is it really?" remarked the lady. "I thought so, but a gentleman just told me it was Greece."

COMMUNITY HALL

Dedication of Soldier Memorial Building at Caledon East on Saturday Afternoon.

Corner-Stone is Laid by Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer.

The corner-stone of the fine $4,000 Community Hall, which the citizens of Caledon East and district are erecting as a memorial to their soldier dead was well and truly laid on Saturday afternoon by Hon. W.H. Price, K. C., M. P. P., Provincial Treasurer. His Lordship, the Bishop of Toronto, dedicated the memorial and in the course of a touching address paid an eloquent tribute to the nobility and the sacrifice of the gallant soldier lads who have given their all for their country in her hour of need. Reeve W. N. Riddell, of Albion, occupied the chair, and with him were Councillors Kelly, of Albion, and John McBride, of Caledon. Addresses were given by Hon. Col. Price, Bishop Sweeney, S. Charters, M. P., Reeve Riddell and Rev. Hugh Matheson, of Knox College, Toronto, a former pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, Caledon East.

This memorial, which will be one of the finest in the county of Peel, takes the form of a community hall, one and a half storeys in height with a basement, the construction to be of brick and to cost about $4,000. The ground hall is planned for a recreation hall and gymnasium, with removable seats, and when turned into an auditorium will accommodate about 550 people.

The grounds in which the hall will stand are over 3 acres in extent, situated on the east side of the village, the groung being purchased after the planning of the memorial at a cost of $600.

A large lacrosse field is being prepared to the south of the hall, and on the east, bowling greens and tennis lawns will be ready for next year. One quarter of the cost of the hall has already been raised by public subscription. The townships of Caledon and Albion each gave $250, the women of the village are raising $100 and when the hall is completed the Government will pay one-quarter of the cost. Sums of money left over from the Patriotic Fund, the Red Cross Society and the Merchant Marine Fund, amounting in all to $1,000, were turned over to the building fund at a public meeting, after the head committees had advised spending the money in the community.

Everything used to the present has been paid for, and the material with the exception of the roof and interior finish is on the ground and also paid for. Much of the labor has been given voluntarily, and there is a promise of plenty of help as soon as the harvest is over.

Before laying the corner-stone Col. Price read the following names, which the hall will memorialize: Hillyard Perdue, Elmer Moss, Harry Hickey, Wilbert McCaffery, Lawrence Matthews, Cuthbert Pitchford, John Bass, Jerry Riddell, Morley Atwood, James Cardie, depositing the list of names in the cavity under the stone.

The silver trowel with which the ceremony was performed, bore the following inscription: "This trowel was used at the laying of the corner-stone of the Caledon East Memorial Hall by the Honorable Lt.-Col. W. H. Price, K. C., M. P. P., Provincial Treasurer of Ontario, August 25th, 1923."

A lacrosse match between Erin, leaders in the Caledon-Erin League, and Humbers, of Bolton, runners-up in the Peel Suburban League, took place after the ceremony, followed by a supper and garden party. Weston Boys' Band furnished music during the afternoon and evening.

—At Arthur races a few days ago, Overland's Jack Canuck won the 2.14 trot and Dr. Riddell's Bertha Walsh captured third money. Riddell's Dixie Hal won first money in the 2.20 race and Overland's Fen Todd carried off the honours in the 2.30 trot, Riddell's Jennie Bison winning second money. Arthur and Orangeville intermediates played an exhibition lacrosse match, the former winning by 6 to 3. The game is described as having been an excellent exhibition.

Rev. and Mrs. S. C. Jarrett, of Cardwell, are spending their holidays in the Kawartha Lakes district.

Mrs. Thos. Clancy, of Napanee, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Macdonald, for the last two weeks.

Miss Verna Island is taking Miss Emily Bennett's position in the Hydro office while Miss Bennett is on her holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Bennett and daughter, Emily, are on a two weeks' motor trip through Ontario. They will visit Guelph, London, Strathroy and Sarnia.

Mr. Robert Wilson, of Detroit, Mich., is visiting his sister, Miss Margaret Wilson, and his niece, Mrs. R. J. McConnell. He is an old Mono boy, having spent his boyhood days in that historic township. Despite the fact that he has spent the greater part of his life in the land of Uncle Sam he is still an ardent admirer of the land of his birth.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Marshall, of Vancouver, who are on an extended visit in Ontario, were the guests of Sheriff and Mrs. H. Endacott for a few days last week. Mr. Marshall is a brother of Mrs. Endacott and Mrs. Marshall, nee Ada Jarvis, was born in Orangeville and lived here for a short time after her marriage some forty years ago. The visitors speak very highly of Vancouver and are thoroughly Western in spirit and outlook.

MIDGETS WIN

Orangeville defeated Weston in a Midget O. A. L. A. semi-final game at Idylwyld Park last Wednesday afternoon. The score was 16 to 2. The return game was played at Weston on Saturday afternoon previous to the Weston-Orangeville senior engagement. At Weston the locals held the redshirts to a 6-6 tie. The Dufferin midgets are now in the third round of the semi-finals for the honours in the kid series, having won the second round by the comfortable margin of 14 goals.

In the game at Idylwyld Park, Smith, the Orangeville goalkeeper, played a first-class game while the Weston goaltender proved himself to be a capable guardian of the nets. The game was fairly clean, 11 penalties being given. Of these the visitors got eight, while the homesters drew 3. The Weston lads were badly outclassed. The score by periods was 3-2, 2-0, 4-1, 7-1, total, 16-2.

Soon after the opening of the game Robertson scored for Orangeville and before the end of the period Hughes and Duke each notched a goal. In the second period Stewart Young and Joe Merlina grabbed a counter each. Lund, of Weston, scored at the beginning of the third quarter and then Brawley tallied for the locals while two of the visitors viewed the game from the penalty bench. Duke scored for the locals and soon Hughes repeated his performance. Brawley scored just before the quarter ended, making the three-quarter time tally 9 goals to 1. In the last lap Brawley and Hughes scored a goal each while eleven Weston men played on the field. Hughes scored twice for the Dufferins. A Weston boy tallied only to be followed in a trice by Hughes again. Young scored for the locals. Just before the final whistle blew Merlina secured the ball and passed it to Hughes who once again bulged the Weston nets.

There was only a small crowd on hand to cheer for the boys. Ernie Menary acted as referee. The line-up:

Weston — Goal, Greenwood; point, Shannon; coverpopint, Dick; defence, Keyes, Holland; centre, Burgess; home, Simpson and Baldwin; inside home, White; outside home, Varcoe; subs., Rice, Noah, Greer.

Orangeville — Goal, Smith; point, Moore; coverpoint, Crawford; defence, Black, Merlina; centre, Robertson; home, Brawley and Snell; inside home, Hughes; outside home, Young; subs., Gray, Watt, Duke.

PERSONAL MENTION

Miss Ellen B. Dance, of Shelburne, spent the week-end with Mrs. W. J. Gillespie.

Miss Berniece Davison, West Broadway, is visiting Miss Lorna Corbett, Melville Cross.

Miss Marion Beggs, of Oakville, is visiting at the home of her grandfather, Mr. J.R. Lathwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Huston, of Brantford, are visiting at their respective homes in town this week.

Nurse Austin and Miss E. Mills, Bythia St., are visiting with friends in Windsor, Ont., Detroit and Toledo.

Mrs. Wm. Stinson and two children, Marshall and Eunice, from Cobalt, are in Toronto visiting their aunt, Mrs. Will Robbins.

Mr. Elmer Irwin, clerk in Chas. Reid's drug store, has returned to town after spending a few weeks' holidays with Tottenham friends.

Mrs. (Rev.) C. C. Simpson and daughter, Pauline, of Coniston, Ont., who have been in town for several weeks, are visiting friends around Waldemar.

Mrs. Fred Wright and children, Frances, Eleanor and Grant, are visiting Mrs. Wright's sister, Mrs. T. J. Beggs, at their summer home, "Agoming," on the lake shore near Bronte.

Town Treasurer John Norris and his niece, Miss Kathleen Hughes, arrived home on Monday night after an enjoyable visit of two weeks with relatives in St. Catharines and Niagara Falls.

Mr. Verrall Dedrick, the stalwart defence fielder of the Toronto lacrosse team and one of the Dufferins' reliables a few seasons ago, has been holidaying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dedrick.

Mr. J. R. Lathwell, Miss Marian Beggs, of Oakville, Mrs. W. E. Braden and children, of Toronto, and Miss Bertha Lathwell motored to Meaford this week and are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Lathwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Will A. Browne and little son, Roderick, of Edmonton, Alta., Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Ramsay and daughter, Grace, of Timmins, and Misses Margaret and Dorothea Browne, of Wiarton, visited Mr. and Mrs. A. D. McKitrick this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sloan are in Montreal this week attending the annual convention of the Life Underwiters' Association of Canada, being held at the Mount Royal Hotel. We understand that the Mutual Life, of which company Mr. Sloan is District Manager, is giving him this trip as a reward for good work.

Miss Clara Cannawin, First Ave., is home from Toronto, where she spent the greater part of the summer vacation taking a summer course in kindergarten work. Miss Kannawin resigned her position on the Orangeville Public School staff some weeks ago to accept an appointment to the staff of the Danforth school, a newly erected school in the suburbs of Toronto.

Dr. and Mrs. Harvey MacAdam, who have been summering at Caledon Lake for the last five weeks, left for their home at Worcester, Mass., to-day. The visitors, who come to Orangeville every year, made the journey here and home again by auto. Dr. MacAdam had the added pleasure this year of visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. MacAdam, who became residents of Orangeville a few months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., are holidaying with friends in Orangeville and vicinity. Our visitors made the journey from the Soo by auto, leaving on Wednesday morning of last week and reaching Orangeville late Friday afternoon. They made 205 miles on Wednesday and about 210 miles on Thursday. This does not speak badly for the roads in a part of Northern Ontario that many people still regard as a wilderness of rock and forest. Mr. Smith reports an abnormally heavy snowfall in the Soo last winter and an extremely dry summer. There had been little or no rain at all until very recently.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Dailey and family, of Everett, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Brown and baby, of Hillsburg, spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Tribble.

Mr. Claude Irwin, of Tottenham, spent the week-end visiting at Mr. J. J. White's.

Misses Juanita and Marguerite Hannington, of Toronto, have been visiting Miss Jean Atkinson.

Misses Irene and Gladys Lang, of Toronto, visited Alton and Orangeville friends this week.

Miss Pearl McCannell, of Collingwood, spent the week-end with Miss Birdie Curry, First Street.

Mrs. Henry Ames, of Duluth, Minn., is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Alex. Oliver, Third Avenue.

Mr. Harry F. Reid, of Hamilton, is visiting his sister, Mrs. J. Z. Henry and other friends in town for a few days.

Mrs. George Duke and son, George, have returned after a delightful visit with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith, of Laurel.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Annis left on Tuesday morning for Whitby and Oshawa, where they intend to visit friends for a week.

Mrs. Ernest Beatty and two children, West Broadway, visited the former's cousin, Mrs. J. L. Landsborough, of Shelburne, last week.

Mr. Murray McKitrick, of the Bank of Commerce staff, left on Friday morning for Tillsonburg, where he will be engaged on relief work for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dowling, of Mansfield, and their daughter, Margaret, of Toronto, viisted with Messrs. Wm. and Geo. Leflar and Miss Leflar, of Amaranth, last Thursday.

Mr. H. A. Dorrance, Agricultural Representative for Dufferin, left on Friday for Toronto, where he is acting as Superintendent of the Horse Department at the Canadian National Exhibition.

Mrs. W. H. Nodwell, First Ave., announces the engagement of her daughter, Elizabeth, to Ralph B. Endacott, son of Sheriff and Mrs. H. Endacott, of Orangeville. The marriage will take place early in September.

Misses Winnie Clowes, Gladys Torrance, Waneita Goodeve and Helen McConnell returned home on Friday night from Camp Kumunruffit, Jordan Station, where they have been picking fruit for the last two months for Mr. W. E. Troop.

Rev. R. Halbert, wife and two children, of New Lowell, Mrs. W. Kelso and Miss Harriet Laird, of Providence, R. I., mother and cousin of Mrs. Halbert, spent a few days last week visiting with friends at Rosemont and also with Messrs. James and R. J. McCutcheon, of Relessey.

Miss Edith Armstrong, of the Orillia Public Schools teaching staff, and her niece, Miss Roberta McEwan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McEwan, of Mono, have returned from New York, where they spent a month visiting with Miss Armstrong's sister, Mrs. Harold Gregg.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Lovell, of Waldemar, and Mrs. C. Linfoot and Baby Joy, of Orangeville, have returned from Welland, where they attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Chas. Miller, mother of Mrs. Lovell and grandmother and great-grandmother of Mrs. Linfoot and Baby Joy.

Rev. J. A. Matheson and family, of Mono Mills, have returned from Whalen's Island, Georgian Bay, where they spent their summer holidays. Mr. Matheson reports a very pleasant holiday, and as he is a gentleman of the cloth and a thorough going Scotchman, who can speak the Gaelic on provocation, his statement that the fishing was good may be safely accepted without the customary mental reservation. Mr. Matheson states that the tourists were numerous in the north this summer. The recent cold spell has shortened the season by a couple of weeks, causing many of the campers and cottagers to return home earlier than they had intended doing.

Miss Agnes Rush, of Toronto, is visiting Miss Myrtle McAulay, West Broadway.

Miss Marguerite Snell, of Toronto, spent a week with her aunt, Mrs. (Dr.) W. H. Bowles, at Caledon Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman R. White, of Simcoe, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Price. Mr. White was on the Bank of Hamilton staff here sixteen years ago.

Miss Wilson, of Alliston, head milliner in Miss Little's establishment, arrived in town on Monday night and is preparing for the fall millinery opening.

DIED IN HOSPITAL

Flesherton Man Fatally Injured by Kick From Horse.

After an unsuccessful operation at the General and Marine Hospital, John Kerr, of Flesherton, passed away Saturday morning as the result of the kick of a horse received the morning of the day before. Mr. Kerr was kicked in the stomach by a horse on the farm of Mr. John Dow, three miles south of Flesherton yesterday morning and was brought to Owen Sound on the late train last night. It was thought possible that an operation might save his life, but all efforts failed, and he passed away early this morning.

Mr. Kerr, as usual, went to the field Friday morning to get the horses for the day's work, taking with him a bag of oats to assist in catching them. The horse which kicked him was an ordinarily quiet beast. He told Mr. Dow that it tried to get the oats from the other horse, and in the melee he was kicked. In spite of the fact that he must have been struck a terrible blow he led a team of horses to the stable and tied them there. Going to the house he sat down, but did not tell Mr. Dow of his injury till a few minutes later. As he gradually grew worse Dr. Carr, of Priceville, was sent for. All during the day he got gradually worse in spite of all efforts. Toward evening it was seen that the only possible means of saving his life was through an operation. He was accordingly brought to Owen Sound on the night C. P. R. train, and operated on immediately upon his arrival. He was found to be terribly injured internally, and passed away in the early hours of Saturday morning. It was only a tremendous vitality that kept him alive for almost twenty-four hours.

Mr. Kerr had been employed for the past year on the farm of Mr. John Dow. He was born near Walkerton 69 years ago, but moved to Flesherton when he was a young man. He worked in the neighborhood for a number of years, marrying Miss Elizabeth White, of Flesherton, while there. Later he moved to Toronto. Some time age he was forced to leave the city on account of ill health. His wife and one son, however, remained.

He leaves to mourn his passing, besides his wife, a son, Roy, of Toronto; one brother, Donald J. Kerr, of Rockwood; and two sisters, Miss Kerr, of Chicago, and Mrs. Ray, of Tara. The remains will probably be sent to Toronto this afternoon.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

ENGLISH LACROSSE TEAM HERE SEPT. 1

Elsewhere in this week's issue we are publishing a photo of the Oxford and Cambridge lacrosse team, which is touring Canada at the present time. The team is scheduled to visit Orangeville on Sept. 1st, when they will play The Dufferins an exhibition game on Idylwyld Park. The members of the team are:—F. L. L. Neylan, captain; V. A. Wansborough, J. Heywood, C. H. Leach, E. N. Giles, S. W. McLennan, L. N. Pearson, J. H. R. Fleming, A. C. Valentine, C. N. Clarke, D. A. S. Curtis, G. C. E. Bennett, J. B. Hilliard, J. B. Ives and H. L. Good. The photo was taken aboard the C. P. R. steamer, S. S. "Montlaurier," on the way to Canada.

The bands of Owen Sound, Hanover, Durham, Chesley and Markdale are considering the formation of a musical circuit with its object the interchange of band concerts.

$40,000 FIRE

Old Club House of Cold Creek Club at Bolton Completely Destroyed.

Building Was Used by the Neighborhood Workers' Association.

The large three-storey frame building which was used as a club house by the Cold Creek Trout Club when it was in operation before the war, but recently used as a building to house Toronto's poor and needy children by the Neighborhood Workers' Association, was totally destroyed by fire, from an unknown origin, Wednesday morning, at a loss estimated over $40,000.

The fire was first noticed by a young lady helper at the camp, who was sleeping in a tent near the burning building. No person was sleeping in the building, as the children had returned to the city on Tuesday. Mr. Thomas, another helper, was aroused anda general alarm given. At this time just the top of the kitchen was burning and had there been any fire protection it might have been no great difficulty to save it. The fire burned on with great rapidity, fanned by a steady wind blowing toward the south-east. Soon a large number of people from Bolton and surrounding district were at the scene of the burning building, the fire illuminating the whole sky so that it could be seen for miles around, but it was useless at this time to try to control the flames and no particular efforts were made to save the contents. The tents surrounding the building were torn down and removed, and before an hour was up the whole building had fallen in ashes.

The building, called "Hastings Lodge," in honor of Dr. J. O. Hastings, the veteran Health Officer of the City of Toronto, is situated on a prominent hill on the Albion-King townline, a mile and a half from Bolton. Cold Creek, which has a reputation as a trout stream, runs through the property. Some years ago the Cold Creek Trout Club bought the property and erected the building which is now in ruins. The war put a crimp in the club's operations, the property passing into the hands of J. H. Champion, of Toronto, who sold it to the Neighborhood Workers' Association, and was used to bring health and happiness to city children for the past two years.

The building destroyed by fire was a large modern structure. Built for a club house it had a large spacious verandah, bathrooms, electric light and other conveniences, including fine furniture. On the main floor were three very large and beautiful rooms, each with a large fire-place, these rooms being utilized as dining and recreation rooms. There were fourteen bedrooms on the top floor and several cheery rooms in the basement.

The building and the tents surrounding it were known as the old camp since the new buildings were built on the opposite hill and has been in charge of Miss Held. The building and tents surrounding it accommodated about 140 at a time, 90 could be housed in the building quite easily.

This week has been full of mishaps for the Fresh Air Camp as they had not recovered from the shock of the drowning on Sunday last of Lloyd Clarke, a little lad who was holidaying at the camp. When Hastings Lodge was burned the workers and officials who have this year been at the camp had almost finished their years' work and would soon be able to enjoy a well-earned rest.

The loss is estimated in the neighborhood of $40,000, while the building and contents were insured for $30,000.

A meeting of the N. W. A. has been called to consider the matter of rebuilding.—Bolton Enterprise.

The following is the list of prize-winners in the Standing Field Crop competition in Oats, conducted by the Dufferin Central Fair:—1st, Geo. E. Foster, Mulmur; 2nd, Albert Davidson, Mulmur; 3rd, Harold Leitch, Mulmur; 4th, W. G. Noble, Melancthon; 5th, Leonard Buchanan, Mono; 6th, W. J. Davidson, Mulmur; 7th, Archy Greer, Mulmur. F. B. THE HOME BANK

Institution Had a Branch in Shelburne.

Like a bolt from the blue came the announcement last Saturday morning that the Home Bank of Canada has suspended payment. Locally, at any rate, there had been no hint that the institution was in a shaky condition and there had been no unusual withdrawal of deposits. As the Home Bank had branches at Shelburne, Horning's Mills, Alliston and Everett, a large number of depositors in town and surrounding country are affected by the suspension. Among the accounts carried by the Shelburne branch was that of the local Hydro. Different business concerns in town also had deposits. Whether the depositors will eventually recover all or only part of their money is for the future to tell. A. B. Barker, who has been appointed curator under the provisions of the Banking Act, has ninety days in which to investigate fully the Bank's affairs and make his report. It may be that time before the depositors will have any idea whether there is any chance of them getting their money in full or not. In the meantime they have the privilege of whistling to keep their courage up. Shareholders are worse hit than the depositors, as they may lose not only the value of their shares but have to put up as much more under the double liability clause that applies to bank shares.

The bills issued by the Home Bank will be taken by any of the other banks at face value, as a Government fund, contributed to by all the banks, protects the note circulation.

If the depositors do not recover a good part of their money, it will be a serious matter to many, who had all their savings on deposit.—Economist.

MRS. ALEX. BENNETT

Mrs. Jane Bennett, relict of the late Mr. Alex. Bennett, passed away on Friday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Brown, on the north plain, at the age of 72 years and 9 months. Mrs. Bennett, with her husband, came to Lumsden district from Shelburne, Ont., in 1912. She was born in Chinguacousy, Peel county, Ont. Her husband predeceased her in 1913. The surviving members of the family are a son, W. J., Mrs. John Brown and Mrs. Olive Brown, all of whom reside in the village of Lumsden; a brother, Charles Banks, resides at Oxbow. Mrs. Bennett was of a kindly and generous disposition, and was greatly esteemed by her acquaintances. The funeral on Saturday was attended by many friends and neighbors of the deceased and family. The pallbearers were: Thos. Currie, of Balgonie; Thos. West, W. A. R. McLean and Robert Dean. Rev. J. A. Davidson conducted the memorial service at the home of her son and performed the last sad rites for the repose of the dead at the grave.—Lumsden, Sask., News-Record.

Anaconda is a town in the Far West, mainly inhabited by quartz miners. The local journal announced the death of a well-known citizen prematurely, and he wrote the following letter by way of contradiction:—"Sir,—I desire to call your attention to a few errors in your obituary of myself of Wednesday last. I was born in Washington, not in Wheeling, and my retirement from the flour and feed business in '06 was not due to ill-health, but hard times. The cause of my death was not pneumonia.

THROUGH FERGUS EYES

Fergus-Orangeville Juvenile Game Looked From Other Side.

On Friday last, Orangeville Juveniles captured the honors in this group by winning in an extreme battle with the local team. The day was ideal for the game, and a very fair attendance was recorded.

In the first quarter, the play showed pep, and combination work was ineffective. There were practically no attempts to score in on the goal, and random shots were tried by both teams, few of which gave the goalkeepers any concern. However the local team had the edge on the play in this period, although this did not benefit them as far as counters were concerned, as the whistle sounded before either team had netted a goal.

In the second period the play started faster, and it was evident that each team was determined to get a lead over their opponents. In this Orangeville was the first to be successful, for in spite of the good work of Curliss in goal, the first tally of the game was run in the Fergus goal toward the beginning of this period. The local squad came back with a strong attack on the visitors' defence. The Fergus home put up a good display of speed, and Otto Lovell had the honor of being the first to bulge the nets of the visitors with a well shot counter. This left the score even at half time, each team having scored one.

At the beginning of the last half of the game the Orangeville home came out stronger and in spite of the good work of the local defence, succeeded in netting two more goalsH. The Fergus team as a whole did not show up to their best advantage, although Lovell was again successful in scoring one on the visitors. This left the three-quarter score 3-2 for Orangeville.

The last quarter was an even fight nearly all the way through. However, the visiting team were unable to score further upon their opponents. The Fergus team worked hard and were rewarded when Campbell Dick succeeded in getting a lucky shot past the Orangeville goalkeeper. The final whistle sounded before any more scoring was done. This left the score even at 3-3.

In the first five minutes of overtime the play was even and fast. Both goalkeepers stopped some good shots and neither permitted anything to pass them. When the second five minute period was entered upon Orangeville made a desperate attempt on the Fergus defence and succeeded in getting a tally past Curliss. This ended the scoring of the game and Orangeville carried the day by the narrow margin of one goal.

Had Fergus won, it would have tied up the group and necessitated playing two more games. However, it was a close battle and Orangeville can be thankful for getting into the semi-finals without having to play any further group games. We congratulate the winners.—Fergus News-Record.

SHOWERS FOR BRIDE

On Tuesday evening the women and girls of Knox Church gave a "shower" for Miss Marjorie Craig, which in itself was quite unique. A fairy band of girls led the guest in blindfolded, and at the opportune moment in their song the mask was removed, where, on a table, in a smother of flowers, stood a reading lamp and an electric iron. A pleasant hour was passed with games, thanks from the favored one, and good wishes for the future. Before leaving Toronto Marjorie received a silver tray from the Peter Pan Chapter I. O. D. E., of which she is Secretary; a brass kettle from the staff of John Wilcox school; a miscellaneous shower at Mrs. Fred Stuckey's; a kitchen shower at Mrs. M. E. McIntyre's and a towel shower at Ed. Grossurth's.—Star & Vidette.

Cleopatra's Beauty Secret

Cleopatra knew that to have a fresh fine skin, thorough cleansing was necessary. She knew that the gentlest means must be employed. She used Palm and Olive oils.

The crude combination of these oils which was the best even royalty could command, is today brought to perfection in Palmolive.

Every girl can have the radiant healthy skin which is the foundation of all beauty. Intelligent care is the secret — thorough cleansing the basis.

Unless thoroughly cleansed with soap and water, the skin becomes sluggish and inactive. The tiny pores clog with dirt, oil secretions, perspiration, rouge and powder, and blackheads and other blemishes result.

A pure mild soap causes no irritation.

Women who fear it have been using the wrong soap.

Palmolive, with its creamy mild lather is lotion-like in its action. It soothes while it cleanses; it freshens, revives and stimulates and leaves the skin delightfully fresh and rosy.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first-class dealers.

A FLYING CONTACT

On Sunday last a young man from the country thought he would have some fun coasting with his bicycle down the runway in McTavish's garage leading down from the second storey and out onto the street. This runway is used for taking cars up to the second storey and is quite steep. It offered a great thriller for both coaster and spectators, and evidenced the great bravery of the young man in question.

Several of these exhibitions had been pulled off and another was in progress when a car happened along just as the wheel and its rider shot out onto the street. The wheel struck the car fender, crumpled up the bike wheel and the brave young man took a flying stunt clean over the car alighting on the road on the other side. A little adhesive plaster was all the young man required but the bike needed more.—Flesherton Advance.

RAIL MOTOR BUSES NEEDED

One of the most important questions in the Grey and Bruce district is the matter of increased train service on the existing steam lines. While the present trains give splendid connection with through lines, west and east, the service as it concerns local traffic leaves much room for improvement. It is out of the question for the municipalities concerned to ask for extra passenger trains to be put on to meet this local situation but new rail motor busses which have been tried out successfully on certain branch lines of the Canadian National and other roads recently seem to be what is required to improve the service in this part of the country.

One of the cars is what is required on the Canadian National between Owen Sound and Palmerston and could be operated so that it would greatly increase the traffic on these lines and would be a real convenience to the people in the towns and villages along the road. Owing to the infrequency of trains local traffic along the line is being driven to the motor cars. The same situation exists on the Owen Sound branch of the C. P. R. Motor buses on the rails between Owen Sound and Walkerton via Saugeen Junction would be a boon to the entire section and would give towns on the Walkerton branch full advantage of the train service on the Owen Sound branch, which they are not now receiving on account of the fact that there is only one passenger train a day each way.

Increased services on the railroads by means of rail motor buses is a matter that should have the closest attention of the Board of Trade through this district.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

THE FRENCH ON TOP

The intensity of the French pressure on the King Government is revealed by the appointment of J. L. Cote, of Edmonton, to the vacant senatorship.

From the party standpoint there is no man in Canada more deserving of recognition than on. Frank Oliver, also of Edmonton. As a Minister in Laurier's administration he was the doughtiest fighter of them all. In 1917 he sacrificed his political future by sticking to Laurier and the French-Canadian policy in the war. That was only the culminating event in a lifetime of service for the Liberal party. Now he is an old man. Things have not gone well with him, and the ease of a seat in the Senate is about all that is suitable for him.

But a Frenchman had the seat before, and a Frenchman had to get it now, even if the faithful old colleague of Laurier should die of humiliation and neglect. He is said to have had a place on the Railway Commission offered to him. Frank Oliver is physically unfit for so arduous a position. It is an insult to offer it to him. But that is the best on the shelf after the French-Canadian is provided for. There have been few cases of political ingratitude equal to this. But then the French must be served first.

During the week three first-class appointments have been made, and all of them went to Frenchmen, and two others of almost equal remuneration went to two prominent Roman Catholics. First, the Clerk of the Privy Council, Mr. Lemaire; second, the Deputy-Postmaster-General, Mr. Garboury; third, a senatorship to Mr. Cote. Then P. T. Coolican becomes postal Superintendent, and T. J. Murphy heads the purchasing department. The French and the K. of C. believe in making hay while the sun shines.—Orange Sentinel.

Gordon Barnes, aged 20, son of Jas. Barnes, farmer on the 8th line, Esquesing, was found dead in his father's barn on Sunday last when the family returned from church. The cause of death was not apparent, and Coroner D. McColl, of Milton, is investigating.

—School Opening Supplies at The Banner Office.

Harry Bailey, who for some weeks has been employed by Wattam & Smith, at Shelburne Quarries, met with an unfortunate accident one morning recently. The derrick, which is used for lifting the huge boulders, was being placed in its desired position, when the tongs, which held a large stone, fell and struck Mr. Bailey on the muscley part of the right arm, completely cutting a large portion of flesh therefrom.

ELIZABETH, THE JEALOUS

A jealous woman was Queen Elizabeth. She had many good qualities, it is true, and easily holds her place among the great sovereigns of England. Nevertheless, there was, says Mr. R. Thurston Hopkins in Kipling's Sussex, a certain meanness in her nature, and jealousy was a mania with her.

She thought that no young cavalier ought to marry for love, since everyone was supposed to love only the queen. For that reason the Earl of Leicester had to keep his marriage with Amy Robsart secret; and when Sir Walter Raleigh dared to fall in love with Elizabeth Throgmorton, Elizabeth imprisoned him in the Tower for a brief period and expelled his fair bride from the court.

The story of the queen and the Windsor carter shows that Elizabeth was also a whimsical woman. When she wanted to go from Windsor to some other place the carts and horses in the neighborhood were impressed for the service. But she changed her mind constantly. The Windsor carter who had been ordered to provide carriage for part of the royal wardrobe, once came to Windsor Castle and found that the queen had changed her date of departure; he came a second time and found that she had changed her date again. He came the third time, and when he learned that his queen had once more changed her royal mind he clapped his thigh and exclaimed, "Now I see that the queen is a woman as well as my wife."

Elizabeth, who was standing at an open window, heard him. "What villian is this?" she asked, laughing, and directed the attendant to give him three angels "to stop his mouth."

TWO OF A KIND

An old Yarmouth fisherman called in the east side of London and looking over his grocer's bill he cautiously found charges like the following: "to 1-4 lb. tea—to ditto."

"Wife," said he, "this 'ere's a pretty business; I should like to know what you have done with so much tea 'ere ditto."

"Ditto, ditto," replied the old wife, "never had a pound of it in the house in my life."

So back went the ex-fisherman to the high dudgeon that he should have been charged for things he had not received.

"Mr. Brown," he said, "I should like to know what this Wife says she has had a pound of ditto in her life."

The tradesman thereupon explained the meaning of the term, and the old man went home satisfied. His wife inquired if he had discovered what ditto meant.

"Yes," he said, "it means that I am an old fool and you're ditto."

A STILL HUNT IN LUTHER

On Thursday afternoon License Inspector Robinson, of Orangeville, a couple of Provincial men and Chief Arnott went on a still hunt up to the 9th line, East Luther. While the scent proved strong, and there was some evidence of game in the vicinity, the quartette were not successful in getting anything except experience. The week previous a stranger, who has been stopping at W. I. Taylor's, had a motor breakdown on the Amaranth-Luther townline, and from suspicious actions connected therewith, the authorities were put in touch. This resulted in paying a visit to Mr. Taylor's place on Thursday, but they found nothing of a suspicious nature—except an unopened barrel of molasses, which the proprietor stated had been got for pig feed. Just as the police car drove in sight the officers saw a man disappear from the rear of the house and put across the fields. It was quite likely the stranger, for he was not to be seen around the place.—Star & Vidette.

When a lantern exploded in the fine bank barn on the farm operated by Mr. George Cain about a mile east of Stayner, a serious fire followed.

FIRST AND PARAMOUNT ABSOLUTE SECURITY TO POLICYHOLDERS
Wives Sometimes Object To Life Assurance But— Widows Never Do
Many a man has failed to insure because of his wife's noble but misguided scruples. She didn't want even to think of her husband being taken from her. The thought of money forcing itself into such a tragedy filled her with horror.
Such a woman overlooks the awful plight of a family left destitute. It's a husband's duty to protect his family from want and suffering after his death. A wife who opposes her husband in performing this duty is unfair to him, to herself and to her little ones.
A few dollars each year invested in an Imperial Income Policy will secure the payment of a regular, monthly income to a man's family after he's gone. We have an interesting booklet which tells all about it, and will send a free copy to any man or woman who asks for it.

REWARD IS OFFERED

A reward of $100 for information of the whereabouts of William A. Shaw, editor of Tilbury Times, who disappeared from his home, Tuesday, Aug. 7th., has been posted. Information regarding his whereabouts is to be forwarded to Mrs. Shaw at Tilbury, Ont.

Mr. Shaw was last seen on King Street, Chatham, between 8 and 9 p.m., on the night of his disappearance. A description of the missing editor is as follows:

Age 61 years, height 5 ft. 8 in., weight about 160 pounds, light hair, very bald, eyes blue, complexion fair, clean shaven, slightly stooped shoulders. When last seen he was wearing a dark suit, brown cap, black shoes, light shirt, no collar or tie. He also wore, on the third finger of his left hand, a gold ring with a red stone in a claw setting.

If the above comes to the notice of Mr. Shaw, his distracted wife pleads with him to communicate with her immediately. Please do for my sake and because of the anxiety of everyone in your home town.

BARN BURNED

Mr. Jas. H. Maguire, a Mono farmer, living in the Relessey neighborhood, experienced a severe misfortune last Wednesday afternoon when his barns were completely destroyed by fire. The buildings were a bank barn, 42 by 60, and a frame driving shed. With the buildings Mr. Maguire lost about 25 tons of new hay, some implements, three horses, a sow and twelve young pigs, some alsike and red clover. The fire, which broke out about two o'clock in the afternoon, is attributed to spontaneous combuustion. Mr. Maguire stands to lose heavily as he carried only $1200 insurance on the buildings. Fortunately, the contents were fully insured. The insurance was carried by the Peel & Maryborough Mutual, and Mr. Geo. Wilkins, the local agent, notified the Company and had the loss adjusted by noon on Thursday, the day following the fire. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. Maguire, who are an honest and hard-working couple, in their trying misfortune.

A FINE COMPLEXION

Can Be Had Through Keeping the Blood Rich and Pure.

A girl's complexion is something more than a matter of concern to her vanity. It as an indication of the state of her health. Pallor in a growing girl means a thinning of the blood. Eruptions mean impurities in the blood. Mothers should be watchful of their daughters complexions and see to it that these signs are corrected—not covered up.

When a girl in her teens becomes pale and sallow, especially if, at the same time, she shows an inclination to tire easily, a listlessness and inattention to her work or studies, she needs Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically corrects the condition from which she is suffering. A chemical analysis of the blood of such a girl would show it to be deficient in just the elements that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can supply, but the physical signs are plain. The girl with a bad complexion, or who suffers from occasional headaches, who is easily tired and breathless after slight exertion, should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once. A good appetite, sparkling eyes and rosy cheeks follow the fair use of this medicine.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

We heartily agree with the suggestion that steam tractors should be prohibited from passing over the Broadway pavement. The traction engines are undoubtedly very hard on any pavement and will in time do much to destroy the surface finish. Such outfits can pass through the town by way of First Ave. and Zina St. without having to travel much farther. If we mistake not, a number of Ontario towns have by-laws that prohibit threshing and other tractor machinery from travelling on paved streets.

HOSPITAL NOTES

LAST CHANCE GONE

Dufferins Can Now Sing, "Yes, We Have No Championship This Year."

Greenshirts Downed by Brampton in Last Schedule Game of the Year.

Dufferins' chances of getting into the play-off for the senior championship of the Ontario Amateur Lacrosse Association went glimmering when they were beaten by Brampton Excelsiors in their last schedule game at Idylwyld Park on Wednesday afternoon of last week. Had the Excelsiors been beaten the greenshirts might have stood some chance of getting into the play-off, provided Maitlands succeeded in taking a fall out of Weston and Brampton, but with their loss to the Excelsiors in Wednesday's game they lost absolutely their last chance of figuring in the final contest for the championship honors.

Three thousand spectators saw a fast, clean game between two evenly matched teams. It was undoubtedly one of the best games played on Idylwyld Park this year, ranking with the memorable 11th of August contest with the Maitlands. Both teams travelled very fast and the crowd was treated to some very brilliant play. The teams played much the same style of game, although the Orangeville home combined much better than their apponents in the first half of the match. In the second half there was an unaccountable reversion to individual rushes and we have no hesitation in affirming that this had much to do with the defeat of The Dufferins. When the Dufferin home plays the combination game that it is capable of putting up, it is more than a match for any defence in the senior series. When the players revert to the individual style of play they are pie for a heavy, clever defence, such as the Brampton and Weston teams possess. It is impossible for a light player, no matter how speedy or elusive he may be, to dodge his way through a heavy, hard-checking defence. He may get through occasionally, but not often enough to win many games.

The game started with a prolonged scramble in midfield for possession of the ball. First one side, then the other had the rubber, but the player in possession was always checked before he could break away. Finally Eddie Hawken emerged from the crowd of struggling players with the ball securely lodged in the net of his stick. The Orangeville rush that ensued was of a most determined character and for a minute or two it looked as if the Brampton citadel must surely be carried. Finally Mara and company relieved and the ball travelled to the other end of the field, only to come back almost immediately. This time Mara was benched for introducing a specialty not provided for by the rules. Orangeville had much the better of the game, the greenshirted home swarming about the Brampton net like a cloud of angry hornets. Campbell was a busy man, but he proved Johnny on the stot, turning aside shot after shot with remarkable dexterity. At the other end of the field Bill Henderson was doing some remarkable intercepting, breaking up the Brampton attacks in great style. Shortly after Mara came on the Orangeville home engineered a spectacular attack that proved successful. Brown, Gordon and Golden shot in quick succession. Campbell made two splendid stops but Golden beat him with the third shot. Shortly after the face-off Brown made a pretty shot that looked good enough to count, but Campbell got in the way. Hawken was doing some brilliant work close in and behind the flags, frequently beating the Brampton defence in the race for possession out behind. Golden shot but again Campbell saved the bacon. Brampton rushed and Firth, who had been having a rather easy time, was called upon to make a couple of saves. Although plainly handicapped by his injured leg, Harry handled them splendidly and was given a hearty round of applause for his work. The quarter ended with the Dufferins leading by 1 to 0.

Burnside got the ball from the face-off in the second and Orangeville at once assumed the offensive. Robinson rushed in fast and transferred to Golden, who shot wide. A little later Gordon tried his markmanship on Campbell, but without success, Johnny handling the shot in great shape. Cruikshank rushed the Brampton defence a little later and after dodging his check passed the ball across to Eddie Hawken, who was right inside and had no trouble beating Campbell. Cruikshank was benched for upsetting his check. Golden shot a hot grounder, that Campbell just managed to stop. At the other end of the field Henderson made a sensational save. Cruikshank signalized his return to the game by another rush and pass to Hawken, who converted. With the score 3 to 0 in favor of the Dufferins Brampton supporters were glum and the players were noticeably anxious, fumbling the fall frequently and doing some bad passing. Another goal or two at this stage would have won the game for the Dufferins. The locals tried hard and had a number of good chances, but seemed unable to convert. Golden, Brown and Gordon had good shots, but all looked alike to Campbell. Finally the Brampton home broke away and Hillgartner, who had come on at the quarter, worked well in on the side. Just as Cushing checked him to a standstill, Sproule broke away right in front of the goal. Hillgartner made the pass perfectly and Firth had no chance to stop Sproule's shot. Robinson and Sargeant had shots shortly after the face-off, but neither man was able to beat Campbell. Shortly afterwards Brampton counted their second goal. Anderson made the shot after dodging past his check and getting close in. Heartened by their success the Excelsiors showed a better brand of lacrosse and the play was not so much in favor of the Dufferins. The quarter ended without any further scoring, the half-time count standing 3 to 2 in favor of The Dufferins.

Brampton showed a marked improvement in the third and Firth was given plenty of opportunity to show his skill. Harry was in great form and made a number of splendid saves. At the other end of the field Campbell was also having a busy time, for the Dufferin home was rushing hard and shooting at every opportunity. Brampton finally evened the score, Zimmer doing the trick after circling in from behind and delivering the shot just as a couple of Dufferin defence men grassed him a few feet out from the net. It was one of the finest plays of the game. Anderson was benched for hitting Scott and the game veered in favor of the Dufferins. Cruikshank again put the greenshirts in the lead, by fooling his check and beating Campbell with a beautiful backhand shot. Brampton came back in short order, Machell beating Firth with a shot from the side. When the bell rang the teams were still tied, with a 4-4 score.

Brampton went into the lead right from the face-off in the final period. Anderson secured the ball and on the rush in Pim outfooted his check, took the pass and bulged the net. Content with their one goal lead Brampton played a defensive game for the remainder of the quarter and it was only occasionally that their home broke away for an attack. The Dufferin home tried hard to even up, but spoiled many good chances by over anxiety and individual rushing where combination play would have been more effective. They were pressing in determined fashion at the finish and it was with evident relief that the Brampton players and supporters heard the gong sound for full time.

It was a great game—one of the very best ever played on Idylwyld Park—hard to lose, but splendid to win. To give the Excelsiors their due they played clean lacrosse and won the game in a creditable manner. The Dufferins have seldom performed more brilliantly. Every man on the team gave his best. They were just as good as the winners and had the fates been a little kinder had just as good a chance to score a victory. Brampton was naturally jubilant over the win as they recognized that the Dufferins would prove a hard proposition on their own grounds. Players and officials were:—

Brampton—Goal, Campbell; point, Mara; coverpoint, Burrell; defence, Ingram, Burton and Warr; centre, Kendall; home, Sproule, Anderson and Pim; outside, Machell; inside, Zimmer; spares, Stevens, McLean, Worthy and Hillgartner.

Dufferins—Goal, Firth; point, Cushing; coverpoint, Henderson; defence, Scott, Ewing and Cruikshank; centre, Burnside; home, Golden, Sargeant and Brown; outside, Gordon; inside, Hawken; spares, Robinson, Wilson and Booth.

WALDEMAR

(Intended for last week.)

Harry Lovell, one of Waldemar's bright young men, has taken a position in Mr. Watson's store. Success. Harry.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gamble left for the West last Friday. They were accompanied by Miss Ida Gamble, who has taken a position as dietitian in the hospital at Ninette, Man.

The members of the Y. P. S. intended holding a social evening at the home of Mrs. J. A. McLeod, at which to tender their President a united expression of their sorrow at her removal from Waldemar and their appreciation of her work in the church, but owing to Miss McColman's illness this plan could not be carried out, so the officers of the Society met in the sick room and presented her with a valuable onyx ring and the following address:—

To Miss S. E. McColman, from the Y. P. S., Waldemar.

May the best of the best be your portion,
In highways of life you pursue;
May good Health, Peace, Prosperity, Favor,
And Fortune be mindful of you:
Thus our best and our heartiest wishes
Are yours, may they follow you far:
May the pathway of life you have chosen
Be bright as the clear morning star.

Let the spring-time of May find you happy
And cheerful wherever you go:
May the light in your eyes ever sparkle,
Your cheeks reflect health's ruddy glow.
When the summer sun shines in its splendour,
When Nature her beauties unfold,
May the beams in your hair scintillating,
Enhance its bright lustre of gold.

When the leaves brown and sear in the autumn,
Fall withered and dead in the wood,
May the riches of grace be your guerdon,
Bestrewing your pathway with good.

On behalf of the Young People of Waldemar.

LAUREL

Mr. and Mrs. George McRoberts, Mr. George McQuillin and Miss Winnifred Haines, Wingham, accompanied by Mrs. Jas. Snowden, on her return trip, motored down and spent the week-end with friends here and in Orangeville.

Mrs. James Snowden and son, Ernest, have returned home after spending a very enjoyable two weeks' vacation with her mother, Mrs. Robert Haines, and other relatives around Wingham, Lucknow, St. Helens and Dungannon.

Miss Winnifred Haines, of Wingham, is spending a few weeks visiting her sisters, Mrs. Jas. Snowden and Mrs. R. E. McPherson.

Mr. and Mrs. George McRoberts, Mr. George McQuillin, Miss Winnifred Haines, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Snowden and son, Ernest, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McPherson and family spent a week ago last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McPherson, West Broadway, Orangeville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McQuillin and family, of Lucknow, were visitors at R. E. McPherson's and James Snowden's on Monday and Tuesday of last week. They continued their motor trip to Toronto Exhibition for three days, returinng home on Friday.

The Presbyterians of Black's Corners, Waldemar and Laurel inducted their new pastor, Rev. A. F. Webster, here last Thursday evening. Several neighboring ministers were present, including Rev. Mr. Rackham, Methodist minister here. The service was very interesting, including very appropriate music by the choir. It was brought to a close by the ladies of the three congregations serving cake, and ice cream.

The children around here are wearing "smiles" this week. Is it because the holidays are over and school has opened? It just depends on which way those smiles twist. We likely all know. We were all kiddies once.

HORNING'S MILLS

Word has been received here of the death of a former well known resident of Horning's Mills in Tugaske, Sask., recently, in the person of Mr. John Cave, who moved from here to the West a number of years ago.

Messrs. Albert Sawden, of Caledon, and James Sawden, of Melancthon Station, with visitors from Toronto, called on Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Yokum in the village last week.

Pasture is very scarce in this vicitity this season on account of the sun-burned hills and lack of moisture. About the only place a cow can get a mouthful of grass is along the banks of the sparkling brooks in the shady valleys.

While a few of our citizens are taking in Toronto Exhibition this week, we are all looking forward to Orangeville Fall Fair on Sept. 13th and 14th.

The present season has been pretty good for black thimble berries on the Mulmur hills just east of here.

ENDACOTT–NODWELL

The marriage of Mr. Ralph B. Endacott, youngest son of Sheriff and Mrs. H. Endacott, and Miss Elizabeth Nodwell, daughter of Mrs. W. H. Nodwell First Ave., took place at the Presbyterian Church manse on Saturday, Sept. 1st, at 8.30 a.m., Rev. F. W. Mahaffy, the bride's pastor, performing the ceremony. The young couple, who were unattended, left on the morning train for Toronto. They are spending their honeymoon in the Thousand Islands. They will reside in Orangeville. Both are well and favorably known here and a large circle of friends unite in tendering their congratulations and hearty good wishes for their future happiness.

REID–SPEERS

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Speers, Caledon, on Wednesday afternoon, August 29th, when their second daughter, Lena Margaret, was united in marriage to Robert P. Reid, youngest son of Mrs. Reid, Derry West, Ont. The ceremony took place in the parlor, which was prettily decorated with asters, gladioli and sweet peas. The bride entered the parlor on the arm of her father, to the strains of the Lohengrin wedding march rendered by Miss Edith Greene, and took her place under a very pretty arch of evergreen decorated with flowers and a large white bell and banked with lovely summer flowers. Her only attendant was a little niece, Berniece Kidd, daintily dressed in white, who made a sweet little ring bearer, carrying the ring in a basket of asters and sweet peas. The bride wore a lovely gown of ivory canton crepe with accordion plaited skirt and trimmed with silk braid. Her wedding veil was of tulle with coronet of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. After the ceremony the bride and groom led the way to the dining room, where a dainty luncheon was served to about thirty-five guests. The tables were nicely decorated with dahlias. Later Mr. and Mrs. Reid left amid showers of confetti for Toronto, Niagara Falls and Hamilton. Going away the bride wore a gown of navy blue canton crepe with accordion plaited panels edged with silver, the sleeves and waist being trimmed with silver, also a burberry coat and grey hat. On their return the young couple will live on the groom's farm at Derry West, Ont.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts, among them being cheques from her parents, The Copeland-Chatterson Company, Brampton, where the bride had been a member of the office staff for the last four years, and Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Reid, Grand Valley, Ont.

Prior to the bride's departure from Brampton the members and staff of the Copeland-Chatterson Company met at the home of Mrs. Raeson and gave her a shower, consisting of a full set of aluminum kitchen utensils.

REID–COLEMAN

Quietly, at the home of Mrs. J. H. Coleman, Tottenham, Ont., on Wednesday, August 29th, the marriage took place of her daughter, Mary Margaret, to Mr. Charles Reid, Phm. B., of Orangeville. Rev. Mr. Fox officiated. The bride, who was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. John McCaig, wore a French gown of biege satin crepe and hat to match. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley and wore the gift of the groom, a platinum and cluster diamond bar pin. Miss Ena Wilson, of Hamilton, made a pretty bridesmaid in a blue satin gown and large picture hat, and carried American Beauty roses. Miss Emily Coleman played the wedding march. Both wore the groom's gifts of sterling silver initialled vanity cases. During the signing of the register Miss Annie Coleman sang, "O Fair, O Sweet and Holy," accompanied by Miss Winnifred Cousins. After the wedding breakfast the happy couple left for a trip through Western Ontario and the States, the bride travelling in a French coat of beige tricotine, with brown velvet hat and cinnamon fox fur. They will reside in Orangeville.

SHORT COURSE

A School of Agriculture and Domestic Science to be Held in Caledon.

Caledon district has been offered the privilege of having what corresponds to an agricultural college for three months this winter, commencing about December 1st. The Department of Agriculture is preparing to send specialists on the various home and farm problems and it will depend on how enthusiastic the people of the township accept this offer whether or not the schools will go on.

In order to decide the matter and afford everyone interested an opportunity of discarding or encouraging the proposition, the local committee has decided to call a public meeting, to be held in the township hall. Caledon, on Wednesday, Sept. 12th, at 8 p.m. The proposed courses will be outlined by Miss McIntosh and J. A. Carroll, of the Department of Agriculture, Brampton, and questions relative to them will be in order. A local committee has been appointed to arrange for music and motion pictures will be exhibited.

If you wish the courses to be held in Caledon, show your interest and give your support by attending the meeting on Wednesday evening, September 12th.

MONO MILLS

Anniversary services will be held in the Methodist Church here on Sunday, September 16th. Further announcement next week.

Mr. Thomas Duke, of Vancouver, is visiting his brother, Mr. Wilson Duke, here.

It is with sincere regret we note the removal from the village of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Lee and family. Mr. Lee is taking a situation in the new Ford factory on Danforth Ave., Toronto.

Among those who spent Labor Day with friends here we note the following: Mr. and Mrs. William Snell and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arnott and children, Mr. Collins, Mr. Calvin Lewis and Miss Margaret Harvey, of Toronto.

Mrs. Robert Young spent last week with friends in Brantford.

Miss Margaret Lee, Miss Minnie Lyness and Miss Elsie Cliff were delegates from L. T. B. No. 339 at the convention held in Toronto last week.

Miss Elma Shaw, of Brantford, spent last week with her friend, Miss Mary Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Dredge and Mr. and Mrs. Pallin motored to Campbellford and spent the week-end with friends.

Mr. Victor Stork and friends from Nassagewaya spent Sunday at Wasaga Beach.

The schools have reopened this week for the fall term. Miss Englehart, of Bronte, has charge of Mono Mills school, Miss McLean, of Priceville, succeeds Miss Beley in Connor School. Miss Beley comes to Mills School. Miss Stubbs, of Wiarton, is in Holmes School. Miss Price is in Albion school and Mr. McKee, of Sandhill, is in Shannon's.

Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, of Brantford, spent a few days here this week. Mono Mills is the old home of Mrs. Shaw and, needless to say, her many friends here were pleased to renew acquaintance.

A SAD DROWNING

Infant Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison, Toronto Gore, Lost Life in Bath Tub.

Very deep sympathy is felt throughout the community for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison, of Toronto Gore township, in the sad death of their twin baby, Venus. The little one was found by her mother in a small tub in which were a few inches of water. The child had been smothered when she fell in and was unable to turn to get her breath. Mrs. Morrison had bathed the little girl and her baby brother, Frank, who in 11 days would have celebrated their first birthday, in a summer kitchen. Shutting the children in the dining room, she went outdoors for wood to continue her household work. Some of the older children ran through the house, leaving the door of the summer kitchen open. The twins, who were very bright and active children, followed the others and it is supposed that Venus, trying to get at the water in the tub, overbalanced and fell in. The children were the pride and delight of the neighborhood, being very bonny and winsome babies. Besides the twin, who survives his sister, there are seven other children. The funeral of the little one took place to Tullamore Cemetery, the services being conducted by Rev. Mr. Knight, of Bolton.

ELLEN CRUIKSHANK

The death of Miss Ellen Cruikshank, a daughter of the late James Cruikshank, of Mono Centre, took place at the residence of her sister, Mrs. J. W. Gibb, 1273 Nelson St., Vancouver, on Thursday, Aug. 23rd, in her 58th year. Deceased was born at Mono Centre, lived in Orangeville for several years before the family moved to the West and had made her home in Vancouver for the last 17 years. She is survived by four sisters and one brother, namely, Mrs. Emil Beck, of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Gibb, of Vancouver, and Mrs. Lou Harkness, Mrs. R. C. Black and Mr. J. J. Hewitt, of Medicine Hat, Alta. The funeral was held from the home of Mrs. Gibb on Saturday, Aug. 25th, at 3.30 p.m., Rev. Dr. Carruthers officiating. Interment took place in Ocean View Burial Park, Vancouver.

FUNERAL OF E. J. COBEAN

The funeral of the late Edward James Cobean, of Toronto, whose death was reported in last week's Banner, was held from the C. P. R. station to St. John's Cemetery, 7th line, Mono, on Wednesday morning of last week. A large number of friends and relatives were at the depot to pay their last tribute of respect. Rev. F. W. Mahaffy, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, conducted the service at the grave. The pallbearers were Messrs. William Cobean, Robert Anderson, R. J. Leggatt, W. A. Henry and James McNeil. Among the friends who accompanied the remains from the city were Mrs. J. S. Island, William Howard, John McClelland, Verne Island and Dr. and Mrs. E. Falconer, of Sarnia.

MRS. MARY SLOAN

There passed away in Orangeville on Wednesday morning, Aug. 29th, an old and highly respected resident in the person of Mrs. Mary Sloan. Deceased was a daughter of the late Charles McCutcheon, of Mono, and was born in that township 82 years ago. Many years ago she became the wife of Edward Sloan, and for the past 35 years has been a resident of Orangeville. Three brothers and three sisters survive. They are Charles McCutcheon, of Dundalk, Samuel, of Toronto, and William, of Regina, Sask., Mrs. William Park, of North Bay, Mrs. Ellen Ogilvie, of Vancouver, B. C., and Mrs. A. Freeman, of Keppel, Sask. The funeral took place Thursday afternoon from the residence of Mr. George Moffatt, First St. to the Shelburne Cemetery. Rev. W. G. Brown, pastor of the Baptist Church, conducted religious services and the pallbearers were Messrs. S. Lackey, George Moffatt, John McKee, Robt. Thompson, Wm. and J. E. McCutcheon.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Margaret Williamson, who died on September 4th, 1919.

She is gone through the beautiful gates,
Away to the city of gold,
Which knows no sorrow, sin nor pain,
She is safe in the heavenly fold.

Sadly missed by Father, Mother and Brother.

Our summer sale is on. Now's the time to buy the breezy summer things you NEED while you can buy for such LOW PRICES.

"The Clothing Man"

BROADWAY ORANGEVILLE

ALTON

On Sunday, Aug. 26th, two impressive services were held to commemorate the reopening of the Presbyterian Church here. The edifice has been redecorated throughout and great credit is due to the decorators, Messrs. McLean & Shaw, for the masterful and finished manner in which the work was done. At the morning service the pulpit was occupied by the pastor, Rev. W. N. Carr, who gave a very inspiring address on "Church Going." The choir, which took no small part in the service, rendered the anthem, "Abide With Me" in finished manner. Mr. R. Wallace's solo, "Face to Face" was also beautifully sung.

The evening service was also of a special nature. The Rev. T. W. Mills, of Caledon, who occupied the pulpit, gave a thoughtful and most interesting sermon. The choir again displayed their talent in that beautiful anthem, "O Saviour of the World." They sang this in a way that did their leader and themselves credit. Mrs. Storey, Miss McLean, Mr. Wallace and Mr. Singer also sang a quartette, "Lead Kindly Light," in first-class style. Mr. L. P. Singer, the choir leader, rendered a beautiful solo, "Learn to Hope," in a masterful way. Alton should be proud to be the possessor of musical talent such as all who attended the reopening services had the pleasure of listening to. The ladies are to be congratulated on the tasteful way in which they put the finishing touches to the church with bouquets of pretty flowers, which added greatly to the appearance of the edifice.

DIED

EUDLE—In Orangeville, on Tuesday, Sept. 4th, 1923, George Eudle, aged 78 years.

Funeral from his late residence, Townline St., to Greenwood Cemetery, on Thursday, Sept. 6th, at 2.30 p.m.

BACON—In Erin township, on Tuesday, September 4th, 1923, Sarah Jane Porterfield, relict of the late James E. Bacon, in her 86th year.

Funeral from the residence of her son, Mr. Miles Bacon, lot 11, con. 6, Erin, on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 6th. Interment in the Forest Lawn Cemetery, Orangeville.

MELANCTHON STATION

The farmers are in the midst of harvest. Crops are fairly good.

Several of our citizens are taking in Toronto Exhibition this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sawden and son, Elgin, of Melville Cross, motored up last week to Melancthon and paid Mr. and Mrs. James Sawden a visit.

Our local produce dealer, Mr. Abraham Catzman, paid a visit to Toronto last week.

Business is brisk in real estate circles in Melancthon. Mr. Arthur Dobson's farm, just north of the village, the old Lavelle farm, was advertised to be sold by auction last Monday, but we understand the deal was closed for the sale to a Toronto party before the time set for the auction, and the farm was therefore not offered at the sale on Monday. We understand the new purchaser intends to move on to the property. Mr. George McComb has bought the 50 acres, also just north of the village, from the executors of the estate of the late Geo. Shoaff, who died last spring. The two northwesterly lots, 281 and 282, of the S. Sawden estate, have been purchased by a gentleman from Toronto. We understand that the Canadian Oil Fields Co. intend to drill for oil on the other end of the farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Arnold and children and Miss Mary Sawden, of Toronto, have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Sawden, of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. O'Neill, of the corner store, are visiting Toronto friends.

The "daylight saving" fad is quite a nuisance to people going to Toronto to do business. If we make an appointment to meet someone in the city at a set time we find out that we are an hour late when we get there.

Mr. Arthur Dobson, of Toronto, spent the past week in Melancthon helping to take off the crop on his farm here. As Mr. Dobson is from County Tyrone, Ireland, he is quite interested in the recent elections in the Irish Free State.

MOTOR ROAD MAPS

The 1923 road map of the Ontario Motor League is now on sale at The Banner Office. The map has been thoroughly revised and greatly improved in a number of respects. It shows in accurate red outline the Provincial Highway system of Ontario and also the best roads in Western Quebec, New York State and Eastern Michigan. The relative importance of all roads is indicated by three classes of lines—red, medium and thin black. The map sells at 50 cents, the same price as last year.

Hale and hearty, Mrs. Murray, one of the grand old pioneer women of West Luther, on Wednesday, the 22nd ult., celebrated her ninetieth birthday. Mrs. Murray, who has now accomplished her four score years and ten, has a host of friends who will hope that she may reach the century mark.

LIFE BURDENED BY DYSPEPSIA

Health and Happiness Came With "Fruit-a-tives"

Made From Fruit Juices and Tonics

"Fruit-a-tives", the wonderful medicine made from the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes, is one of the greatest means of doing good that this country of ours has ever known.

"Fruit-a-tives" is bringing health to hundreds and hundreds of people who suffer with chronic Constipation, Biliousness and Dyspepsia.

Mr. Frank Hall of Wyevale, Ont., says, "I purchased a box of "Fruit-a-tives" and began the treatment. My condition improved immediately. The dyspepsia ceased to be the burden of my life as it had been, and I was freed of Constipation".

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At dealers or sent by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

DELVE INTO PAST

Work of Archeologists Always Intensely Interesting.

Explorers Must Be Trained to the Occupation, and Use the Utmost Care in Excavating.

People often wonder how the explorers of ancient ruins in Egypt, Palestine, Mexico and elsewhere make their discoveries; how they know where to look for what they find, and how they know that anything may be found where they search.

The work of the Harvard university-Boston Museum of Fine Arts expedition to Ethiopia, which has spent ten years in Egyptian archeological exploration and is still working there, is an example of how such explorations are carried out. Its search has resulted in the discovery, in an obscure village beyond the borders of Egypt, on the banks of the Nile river, of a great number of tombs which were found to contain the history of 20 generations of Ethiopian kings who ruled over Egypt, and the recovery from beneath the deeply drifted sands of material buried and lost to human knowledge for thousands of years, revealing the arts and crafts of this lost civilization.

The explorer comes upon a mound, or series of mounds, of drifted sand in the desert in a region known to have been inhabited by ancient races. He sets his trained workmen to clearing away the sand, after first having made photographs of the undisturbed site. As soon as a tomb or pyramid is uncovered, the stairway leading into the tomb is the first to be cleared. This had been filled in after the funeral with the clean debris left after the excavation of the rock-cut chambers and the building of the pyramid. Then the plunderers came, at some time or other, and dug a hole in the clean filling of each stairway, this hole afterward becoming stopped up partly with the things that the grave robbers threw away as valueless, and partly with drift sand. The robbers were naturally after the gold and jewels they knew had been buried in the royal tombs.

It is easy to distinguish between the original filling and the debris of the thieves' tunnel. The objects found in the latter usually came from the royal chamber and, in the records of expeditions, have to be carefully distinguished from other objects. When the doorway at the foot of the stairs has been reached, the workmen begin to clear the pyramid above, or another stairway, until the record of the blockings and measurements of the stairs have been made. After that, the sand is removed, leaving only about eight inches of the floor debris intact. Whatever is found in the sand—and it is usually little enough—is considered as having washed in from the thieves' tunnel outside. When the sand is out, then the serious and difficult work of examining the floor debris and removing it bit by bit begins, and for this only the most skilled Egyptian workers are employed, under the supervision of a member of the expedition. This floor dirt is to the Egyptologist what pay dirt is to the gold miner.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Northcliffe and His Co-Workers.

Securing for his co-workers some of the titular distinctions that came to him was one of Northcliffe's specialties while he basked in the sunshine of prime ministers' favor.

A man who began life as Northcliffe's office boy is now a baronet. Half a dozen reporters and business managers were knighted. A Daily Mail news editor who wrote "save coal" posters for the government during the war now adorns his visiting card with C. B. E.—Commander Order of the British Empire. The Viscountess Northcliffe, who maintained a magnificent war hospital out of her private fortune, is a Dame Grand Cross Order of the British Empire.

Northcliffe printing press power made not only himself but his brother, Rothermere, a viscount, and two of their younger brothers are baronets. Another brother, untitled as yet, is undersecretary of state for foreign affairs.—Frederic William Wile, in the Saturday Evening Post.

THIEF AT ERIN

Erin was visited last week by one of those clever guys who will not work for a living. He drove into town with a large Studebaker car and put up at Mrs. Leitch's rooming-house. No one was suspicious of him until he was gone. Sometime during the night of Wednesday, the 22nd, he departed, taking with him $6 in cash belonging to Mrs. Leitch and neglecting to pay his bill, which in all amounted to $17.50. County authorities were at once notified and it was found that the car had been stolen at Guelph, but was carrying markers which had been stolen in Hamilton.

No trace of him has been found. During the time which the stranger was in town Mr. Geo. Ramsden's gasoline pump was broken open, but the noise woke Mr. Ramsden from his sleep, and the thieves made a hasty retreat before they managed to get any gasoline. The lock on the pump was wrecked, and had to be replaced. There is no doubt but that the same gent was responsible for this, too.—Advocate.

EXCRUCIATING PAINS, CRAMPS

Entirely Remedied by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Eberts, Ont.—"I started with cramps and bearing-down pains at the age of eleven years, and I would get so nervous I could hardly stay in bed, and I had such pains that I would scream, and my mother would call the doctor to give me something to take. At eighteen I married, and I have four healthy children, but I still have pains in my right side. I am a farmer's wife with more work than I am able to do. I have taken three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I feel that it is helping me every day. My sister-in-law, who has been taking your medicine for some time and uses your Sanative Wash, told me about it and I recommend it now, as I have received great relief from it."—Mrs. NELSON YOTT, R. R. 1, Eberts, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a medicine for ailments common to women. It has been used for such troubles for nearly fifty years, and thousands of women have found relief as did Mrs. Yott, by taking this splendid medicine.

If you are suffering from irregularity, painful times, nervousness, headache, backache or melancholia, you should at once begin to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is excellent to strengthen the system and help to perform its functions with ease and regularity. G

DEMOCRACY ON TRIAL

(Dr. J. G. Shearer.)

China is in a state of chaos and anarchy. Russia is under dictatorship. Yet both are in theory democracies. Democracy is the ideal form of government only for an ideal people, or at least a people sufficiently advanced toward the ideal to make democracy practicable. It is the rule of the people. It requires a higher standard of intelligence and integrity among the people than any other system. A people far below the required standard of intelligence and trustworthiness are quite unable to govern themselves. If a large number of the rank and file are selfseekers and grafters they will suspect their elected rulers of selfseeking and graft usually with good reason. In a democracy the people elect, as a rule, the sort of rulers they deserve. The only sure way of raising the standard of governors and legislatures is to raise the standard of citizenship in general—to improve the calibre and character of the people. It is a slow process. Hence only a few of the nations of the world have become or continued to be democracies—Great Britain and her daughter Dominions, the United States of America, France and a few others. Some new democracies have arisen since the war. The future will demonstrate whether their peoples were ready for the great adventure, as manifestly China was not, nor Russia. The other nations of the world are monarchies or oligarchies.

The essential qualifications on the part of any people for democracy are:—

First, at least normal mentality. Subnormal individuals are utterly incapable of government. They need a benevolent autocrat to guide and govern them.

Second, a high standard of education, the higher the better. Illiterates cannot understand the problems of government. It is difficult enough for non-illiterates.

Third, but mere literacy as usually interpreted falls far short of being sufficient. Rulers of a nation (and such are all electors in a democracy) must be educated. They should all have at least High School training in history, literature, and all the common subjects on a school curriculum, and also a knowledge of the elements of economics.

Fourth, character, conviction, conscience, a clear knowledge of right and wrong, and a desire to choose the right and reject the wrong, a sense of justice and a desire to see justice done and therefore a disposition to "do unto others as each would that men should do unto him."

Judged by these standards what seems the outlook for democracy in Canada? The world knows the shock with which the United States people learned of the large percentage of their draftees who did not pass the literacy test. Would the percentage be lower in Canada? Probably not. One province reports 17 per cent. of its children of school age not in school. Some other provinces will not be far in advance of the one referred to. Compulsory school attendance is laxly enforced in very many communities.

Psychiatrists tell us about two per cent. of the people are mentally subnormal. Probably one third of these are 21 years of age or over. It is startling to contemplate 60,000 Canadian electors utterly incapable of exercising the franchise. And they are multiplying twice as rapidly as normal folk. Again it is a significant fact that only ten per cent. of our school children are taking High School courses. That means that ninety out of every hundred drop out of a school before ar at the time of completing public school studies. So that at best only a small minority of our electors are up to the educational standards essential for sharing in the effective operation of democratic government.

While by comparison with others our people may stand fairly high in character, integrity, dependability, honor, yet there is an alarmingly large minority who, through drink, gambling and other vices and through dishonesty practised in business are far below the standard on the score of mental character.

In view of these considerations, if Canadians are to make such a success of democracy as will be worthy of our place in history—the last of the nations with all the heritage alike of wisdom and folly on the part of our predecessors to profit by—we shall need to give united and concentrated attention to the raising of the standards of mentality, of literacy, of education and of morals. And the institutions to which in the main we must look under God to accept the challenge and undertake the task are the Home, the School, the Church, including the moral and social leaders. In our next we shall discuss some of the particular problems of democracy.

MRS. CHARLES MILLER

(Intended for last week)

Mary Jane O'Reilley, aged 83 years, 5 months and 7 days, beloved wife of Chas. Miller and mother of Mrs. Ellen Webber, of this city, departed this life Saturday, August 18th, 1923, after a long illness. She bore her pain and suffering unto the last thread of life, when God called her to the Great Beyond, where pain and suffering are no more. She leaves to mourn her loss an aged husband of 91 years and two sons and four daughters, Jas. Miller, St. Catharines; Israel Miller, of Orangeville, Ont.; Mrs. Wm. Gray, of Laurel, Ont.; Mrs. Wm. Lovell, of Waldemar, Ont.; Mrs. Robert Mann, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Mrs. Ellen Webber, of this city. The funeral services were held on Monday at 2 p.m. by the Rev. A. C. Campbell, of Welland Baptist Church, burial at Fonthill Cemetery. The sermon was very touching, speaking of the deceased's Christian character and devotion to her faith all through the long years on this earth, just to pass this worldly life to the greater life beyond. Deceased was born in the township of Erin on March 11, 1840, was married November 3rd, 1859. Ten children were born to this happy union, the above named surviving. Mr. and Mrs. Miller spent nearly their entire married life at farming in the County of Dufferin until their later years. The funeral was largely attended by many friends and relatives from far and near, and at the grave the floral offerings were beautiful and numerous. The following are those who so kindly sent flowers: Mr. and Mrs. George Petitt, Ross St., Welland, spray; Mr. and Mrs. John Tebbutt, Kennedy St., spray; Mr. and Mrs. John Tattersall, Plymouth Road, spray; A. Many, Welland, spray; Mrs. C. Durk, Welland, spray; Mr. and Mrs. Viola Strept, Buffalo, N. Y., spray; from family, wreath.

The pallbearers were nephews and grandsons of the deceased: Laverne Miller, Calvin Mann, Albert Mann, Harold Mann.

Her weary hours and days of pain,
Her troubled nights are past;
Her ever patient, worn out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.
Her cheery ways, her smiling face,
Are a pleasure to recall.
She had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.

"My Hands Trembled and I Could Not Sleep"

Mr. Thomas Honey, Brantford, Ont., writes:—

"When I began taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I was so nervous that when I picked up a cup of tea my hand would tremble like a leaf. I could not sleep well, could not remember things, and there were neuralgic pains through my body. After taking seven boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am in perfect health."

EAGER TO COME TO CANADA

This photograph was taken at the European head office of the Canadian Pacific Railway in London, England, and shows a number of men who were induced by the special harvesters rate to make further enquiries with regard to the scheme and conditions to be expected here after the harvest. Nearly five thousand men, the finest to come within the Canadian immigrant class in years, were recruited by the Canadian Pacific, and lack of steamship accommodation necessitated the closing of the doors against almost as many more.

DEFEATED DUFFERINS

Oxford-Cambridge Team Won Saturday's Game by 19 to 18.

English Tourists Were Royally Entertained During Stay in Orangeville.

One thousand people saw the touring Oxford-Cambridge lacrosse team defeat the Dufferins by a score of 19 to 18 in the exhibition game at Idylwyld Park Saturday afternoon. The size of the score is attributable to the entire absence of the body-checking usual in games between Canadian teams. Both teams have fast, clever homes, and the defences found it difficult to hold the home players out when the body-check was tabooed. The speed and clever stick handling of the English visitors was a revelation to the spectators. Wansbrough and Pearson, who did most of their scoring, are very fast on their feet, and proved themselves adepts at dodging their checks. Curtis gave a clever exhibition in the flags, making a number of exceedingly good stops. The Dufferins uncorked some dazzling combination plays that seemed to non-plus the visitors, but the greenshirted home missed a number of good chances to count by their indifferent shooting. The game afforded the lacrosse enthusiasts of the district an excellent chance to compare the English style of play with that in vogue here.

Dufferins tallied first, Robinson making the shot, but the visitors evened the count after a couple of minutes fast play. The score seesawed for the remainder of the quarter which ended with the tourists leading by 4 to 3. Dufferins evened early in the second period but the visitors soon regained the lead and at half-time had the big end of a 10 to 6 score. Dufferins had the edge in the third, scoring seven while the English team were getting four and finishing the period only one goal down. Wansbrough took two early in the fourth but the Dufferins ran in four in a row, putting the greenshirts in the lead. At this stage the tourists' home division displayed some of the fastest lacrosse of the game, running in three goals in short order. The Dufferins tallied just before the bell rang, making the score 5 all for the quarter. The game was free from penalties. The line-up:

Oxford-Cambridge— Goal, Curtis, point, Heywood; coverpoint, Good; defence, Ives and Bennett; centre, Neylan; home, Wansbrough and Pearson; outside home, Fleming; inside home, Leach.

Dufferins—Goal, Booth; point, Henderson; coverpoint, Gordon; defence, Scott and Cruikshank; centre, Burnside; home, Robinson and Wilson; outside, Golden; inside, Hawken.

Referee—Dr. Campbell, Orangeville.

The English team arrived in town by C. P. R. train from Toronto on Friday night. They were met at the depot by the Orangeville Citizens' Band, officers and members of the Dufferin Lacrosse Club, and a large number of citizens in autos. The visitors were escorted to Alexandra Park, where Mayor Jeffers delivered a civic address of welcome, Mr. C. R. McKeown, M.P.P., also speaking. Capt. Neylan replied on behalf of the visiting team. Later in the evening the visiting players were the guests of honor at a largely attended dance in the Arena assembly hall.

Saturday's program included an auto sightseeing trip, dinner at the Caledon Mountain Trout Company's Club and a dance at Caledon Lake at night. Early on Sunday morning the touring team were motored across country to Guelph, where they took the train for St. Marys.

The visitors, who seemed to enjoy their visit in Orangeville immensely, were billeted in private homes while here. Some of the players are Canadians who are studying at the two English universities. Lester Pearson, one of the stars of the home division, is a son of Rev. E. A. Pearson and a nephew of Dr. W. H. Bowles and Mrs. W. M. Green. He was the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Bowles while here.

SCHOOL AT CALEDON

A rural school, one of twelve arranged for by the Department of Agriculture, since the change of government at Toronto, will open at the village of Caledon on November 27th and will continue for three months. District Representative J. A. Carroll and Miss K. F. McIntosh, home demonstrator for Peel, held a meeting in Caledon one night last week to secure enrolment and make other arrangements for the students. This will be the third school of the kind in the county of Peel, a three months course practically similar to the one now planned, having been held in Bolton two years ago and at Streetsville last year. The attendance at Bolton was considerably over 100. While the attendance at Streetsville was not so large it was quite representative of the community.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. A. Hilliard wish to thank the nurses of the Lord Dufferin Hospital and their Alton neighbors and friends for the kind and helpful sympathy expressed for them in the loss of their infant babe.

—Ex-Warden T. F. Simpson, of Amaranth, who is retiring from the farm, has purchased a dwelling house in Shelburne. The purchase was made from the executors of the estate of the late Geo. Shoaff.

It is false economy to use cheap teas, for they are invariably inferior, and yield poorly in the teapot. Use only the genuine "SALADA" to secure the maximum cups to the pound, and the real satisfaction that fine flavour gives.

—The big day in Shelburne, Sept. 19th, the last day of Dufferin Central Fair. Come with the crowd and meet your friends.

—Mr. John Moffatt, of Glencross, has sold his dwelling house on Zina St. to Mr. E. Hackett, Principal of the Orangeville High School. Mr. Hackett will get possession immediately. Mr. Moffatt bought the house from Mr. Geo. Collins a couple of weeks ago.

—Riversides and The Dufferins were talking of playing a game for the Desborough Cup on Idylwyld Park on Saturday afternoon. Nothing definite had been arranged when The Banner went to press.

—Orangeville bowlers and other friends were greatly pleased to learn that Mr. W. H. Wright, of Owen Sound had been appointed a Judge of the High Court of Ontario. The appointment was announced yesterday.

BROADWAY—ORANGEVILLE

—Jack Downs, who worked in McCann's barber shop here a number of years ago, died suddenly in the West last week.

—His many friends will be pleased to learn of the recovery of Mr. William Morrow, Amanda St., who was critically ill for several days last week.

—Mr. Joshua Wiggins, an old resident of Orangeville, dropped dead about 11 o'clock yesterday forenoon. Deceased had been in very poor health all summer. Funeral arrangements had not been announced when The Banner went to press.

—Attend the Short Course meeting to be held in the township hall, Caledon, on Wednesday, September 12th, at 8 p.m. Addresses by Miss McIntosh and J. A. Carroll, of the Department of Agriculture, also motion pictures will be exhibited and music rendered.

—The awful catastrophe in Japan has brought anxiety to at least one Orangeville home. Miss Edna Knight, a sister of Mrs. W.C. Barber, is a teacher in the Canadian Academy, a large school in Kobe. Mr. and Mrs. Barber are uncertain whether Miss Knight is in Japan at the present time or spending her vacation travelling in China.

MATCHES AND MATCHES

Principal Firth, of the Brampton Public Schools, had a hard time. Orangeville is his old home, his son is the very efficient goal keeper of the Dufferins, but he is now a resident of Brampton. His cheers, and they were numerous in the first part of the game, were for Orangeville but at the conclusion he got very nearly to the view that, all things considered, the best team won. At the Orangeville station he got mixed up with a wedding party and boarded the train in a shower of confetti, which caused him to forget the lacrosse match and to think of matches of another kind.—Conservator.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR THE BABY

Nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets as a medicine for little ones. They are a laxative, mild but thorough in action, and never fail to relieve constipation, colic, colds and simple fevers. Once a mother has used them she will use nothing else. Concerning them Mrs. Saluste Pelletier, St. Damas des Aulaines, Que., writes:—"I always keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They are the best medicine I know of for little ones and I would not be without them." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail, at 25c. a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MEAN BUSINESS

A mean piece of business was attempted and partially accomplished at Caledon East on a recent Sunday afternoon, when the corner-stone of the new Memorial Hall was raised from its place and partly turned over. It is suspected that the intention was to abstract the coins and records deposited beneath the stone. Fortunately the parties were caught in their nefarious act and are now faced with the alternative of calling, apologizing for their act and settling the matter, or legal proceedings will be instituted against them.

A DISASTROUS FIRE

The large bank barn on the farm of Wilbert H. Horsley, east half lot 28, con. 2, Amaranth, was totally destroyed by fire, together with the entire contents on Tuesday afternoon. Threshing operations had been in progress and the threshers had supper at four o'clock and returned to the barn when a small stream of smoke and a slight blaze was observed at the peak of the straw stack on the outside of the barn, presumably caused by a spark from the blower. The efforts of the threshers to get water from the windmill to stop the blaze were futile, so their attention was then directed to rescuing the twelve horses which were in the stables beneath. The threshing machine was also destroyed, the blaze licking its way through the barn with startling rapidity. A strong north-west wind was blowing, partly in the direction of the house, but the residence was saved through the united efforts of the threshers and willing helpers who came to their assistance. Heavy downpours of rain also materially assisted in quenching any fresh outbreaks on buildings in close proximity. The barn, which was 44 by 60 and 32 by 50, was the largest in that neighborhood and contained this season's hay crop, 23 loads of grain, and a number of farm implements. All but three loads were threshed and operations would have ceased in less than an hour. The threshing machine was owned by a number of farmers residing in that vicinity. We understand there is insurance on the building and contents in The Dufferin Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co. to the amount of about $3,500. —Shelburne Free Press.

MRS. WM. J. CAVEN

We clip the following item from the Souris, Man., Plaindealer. It refers to the death of Mrs. Caven, wife of W.J. Caven, formerly of Whittington, and well known around Shelburne.

"The death occurred in the hospital on Friday evening of Mrs. W. J. Caven, after an illness of over a year, during which time medical men held out no hope for her recovery. Deceased was born near Bowling Green, Ont., in July, 1866, and was therefore in her 58th year. In 1899 she married William J. Caven in Brandon and for 15 years they resided at Oxbow, Sask., later at Hartney, coming to Souris nearly three years ago. About two years ago her health began to fail, although it was not until about a year ago that her condition became serious. Since early July she had suffered terribly, death on Friday coming as a relief. Besides her sorrowing husband she leaves a family of four, Mrs. Elmer Clark, of Hartney, and Wilbert, Beatrice and Nellie, at home. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon from the residence to the Glenwood Cemetery, Rev. Mr. Stewart conducting the services."

TRICKED OFFICIAL OF SOVIET

Customs Authority Satisfied He Was the Victim of a Particularly Well-Played "Bluff."

Travelers in and out of Batum, the center of transit to and from Tiflis, Baku and other points in Persia, are learning how to circumvent some of the restrictions of the soviet authorities, says an exchange.

There is the case of the pet cat of Xenia. Xenia Makilitzous, an exponent of Russian dancing who is not unknown in Boston and other American cities, had to return to Petrograd on personal business. That concluded, she went south and was lately in Batum anxious to go to Trebizond, down the coast in Turkish territory, to fulfill a dancing engagement. The port authorities suspected she was trying to bid them farewell and at the same time carry away a few of the jewels for which Russia had become famous. So they began their game. They detained Xenia, searched her and took away her money. Still she would go.

"All right," they said, finally, "if you insist; but you can't take that Angora cat. We have a little idea that you have fed her jewels and that once aboard the steamer—"

Tears, Xenia shed them copiously, but the shower was in vain. Then an official said he believed he would cut the cat open any way, then and there.

Whereupon there came to the front Mr. Makilitzona, Xenia's manager, theatrical, diplomatic and otherwise, and her husband. "Let a man handle this situation," he declared. "Cut the cat open," he said, "but on these terms: If jewels are found in her inside you, Mr. Customs Inspector, can shoot me. If there are no jewels, I will shoot you. There is the pistol; these are my sporting terms. Go ahead and cut."

But no official could withstand this evidence of good faith. He let them go to Trebizond, all three, the dancer, the diplomat and the cat. He now tells the story on himself and still insists the cat carried the jewels.

Plan to Prevent Bad Checks.

To protect merchants and students from the passing of bad checks by a few dishonest persons—an evil which had become quite troublesome in the last two or three years—a new plan has just been worked out by a Madison bank which will assist University of Wisconsin students in proving their check signatures to be genuine.

Under the new plan the student carries an identification card issued by the bank with which to compare signatures. The acid-proof card, which is given to each student who opens an account, includes in the identification the student's signature as signed in the presence of the bank teller, so that it may be compared with the one on the check.

Forgery will be difficult with this new method, and it is hoped by the originator of the plan that every student will adopt the idea.

The handling of the small temporary bank accounts of 7,500 students offers a complicated problem, and, because Madison merchants have been accommodating in cashing student checks, more or less opportunity has been offered for dishonest persons to pass bad checks.

Classics Running Behind.

The Moliere tradition remains strong and abiding. The actors of the Comedie Francaise are artistic descendants of the famous playwright. The Comedie Francaise had its beginning nearly 250 years ago, when it was founded by the amalgamation of Moliere's own company and the comedians of the Hotel de Burgoyne. The permanent staff of the Comedie Francaise enjoy a substantial state subvention, from which each of the players receive in addition to payment for every performance "a retaining fee" of 12,000 francs and when too old for service a generous pension. The only condition of the subvention is that Moliere's plays must always be in the repertoire, despite the fact that of late this has meant financial loss, as modern plays prove more attractive to the Parisians than those of the classical dramatist. Modernists are ahead of the classicists nowadays in more than one walk of life, which after all is but a sign of the times.—Montreal Gazette.

Radio on Motor Busses.

Equipping motor busses with radio apparatus is a departure inaugurated by a transit company operating some eighty-five of these vehicles on the Pacific coast. This innovation is the result of the keen rivalry of the bus concerns to obtain for their respective lines the patronage of the thousands of tourists who annually visit the western states. That the venture is practical has been fully demonstrated by extensive experiments. Possessing only a two-step radio short wave receiving outfit, the experimenters could hear concerts at a distance of fifteen miles from the broadcasting station, and this despite the obvious necessity of employing a low antenna. —Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Money Talks!

It was a warm day and the front door of a meat and vegetable market was wide open. The proprietor of the market, a man known for his absent-mindedness, was heroded in a flowing butcher's apron and was busying himself with some accounts. He did not hear a woman and a little girl enter the market, for when he hastily opened the cash register and stooping over the drawer, said: "Hell-o." The giggle of the two customers brought him back to life in this world and he answered the fatigued telephone in the way decreed by sensible mankind.

BACK WAS BROKEN BUT STILL LIVES

Owen Sound Man Had His Back Broken by Falling Tree in January.

Harry Flavelle, who had his back broken by a falling tree last January, still lies in the General and Marine Hospital with his condition unchanged. It is the opinion of his physician, Dr. Gaviller, that he may live for some years. He is paralyzed from the waist down, and is perfectly helpless; yet he has the full use of the upper part of his body, and is able to think and speak quite clearly. Owing to the fact that he is unable to change his position in bed, but must lie down all the time, he suffers very greatly from bed sores. An air or water mattress would greatly relieve his sufferings which otherwise must be endured as long as he lives.

Flavelle received his injury on January 11th in the bush to the south of the Cruikshank settlement on the farm of Mr. Jack Kells. With Mr. Kells he was cutting down a tree. When the tree began to fall he ran to get out of its way, but was too late. A limb caught him and hurling him to the ground broke his back. He was brought to the hospital that night, and has been there since. It seems strange that Mr. Flavelle should have so long survived his injury when it is remembered that Robert Hazen died instantly from similar injuries he received at the new Technical School the same week. Flavelle suffers very greatly and is kept constantly under the influence of narcotics.

He is a comparatively young man, between the ages of 30 and 35, and has lived and worked in and around Owen Sound all his life. His father lives on sideroad 15 and 16 of Sydenham, and he also has a brother and sister in the city. A short time before his accident he was married. — Owen Sound Sun-Times.

CHILD KILLED IN MISHAP

Little Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Young, of Meaford, Meets Tragic Death.

Mary Gwendolyn, the one year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Young, of Meaford, and grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Young, of this village, was instantly killed in an automobile accident at Goderich about noon on Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Young and their little daughter, an only child, left early Tuesday morning in their auto for a pleasure trip to Watford and Sarnia, and through the Niagara Peninsula, with the intention of taking in the Toronto Exhibition on the way home. They had planned to stop at Goderich, and were within a short distance of that town when a bee lit on the baby's cheek. Mr. Young took his hand off the wheel to brush the bee off, when the car suddenly swerved and ran into the ditch. The jar caused the baby to roll off its father's or mother's knee and strike its head against the dash-board with such force as to cause instant death.

Mary Gwendolyn was a bright, handsome and intensely interesting child, greatly loved by her parents and admired by all friends of the bereaved father and mother, who have the heartfelt sympathy of the community in their sudden and severe affliction.

Mr. and Mrs. Young immediately arranged to return to Meaford with the body of their little one. They reached there between one and two o'clock Wednesday morning. It is now believed that the child's skull was fractured in the fall.—Markdale Standard.

DR. J. D. KELLOGG'S ASTHMA REMEDY

NO NEED TO SPEND RESTLESS, SLEEPLESS NIGHTS. IRRITATION QUICKLY RELIEVED AND REST ASSURED BY USING THE REMEDY THAT HAS HELPED THOUSANDS OF SUFFERERS

A BIG MEDICINE MAN

Arthur, during the present summer, has been rather neglected by the travelling fakirs that from time to time hold forth offering wares of wondrous potency. However, on Saturday afternoon last, one arrived, which in avoirdupois at least, made up for two or three of the ordinary street artists. He was a man of unusual size, and offered family remedies quite as unusual. His weight was variously given at amounts ranging from three hundred and ninety to five hundred and ten pounds. He recently visited Walkerton, and in its characteristic manner, the Times-Herald of that town tells of how he held forth in Bruce's county town, which applies equally well to his manifestations in Arthur.

One of the biggest specimens of humanity that we have ever seen outside a circus held forth on the street corner here last week in the form of a huge Indian medicine man and sold a herb preparation that was claimed to rival the miracles of scripture, in making the sick well and knocking the undertakers out of a job. Anything from an aching head to a broken heart was as good as chased off the map when a certain little tonic that was passed out among the crowd was properly used. Oils that would remove corns from the hoofs of natives as they slept over night was another of the specialties that people were asked to step up and buy and be convinced. As an amusement to keep the crowd from going to sleep and being arrested for blocking traffic this human silo undertook to dance, holding his stomach with both hands as he jigged to prevent it knocking all the buttons off his vest. His song, "The Drunkard's Dream" nearly made the mouths of the old topers water, while a solo, "Take Care of Mother My Boy" almost brought a cheer from the House of Refuge Committee. With the panacea for every ill thus discovered and according to their own contention, practically given away like prizes in pop corn, on the street corners, doctors should go away for a long holiday to prevent being pinched under the anti-loafing law.—Enterprise-News.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Lester Locke, Son of Rev. John Locke, Had Skull Fractured in Toronto.

The many friends of John Locke, both in the congregation of First Methodist Church and out of it, will be glad to learn that his son, Lester, who was seriously injured in an accident in Toronto last Saturday night, is recovering. Mr. and Mrs. Locke went immediately to the city on hearing of the accident, Mr. Locke going from Clifton Springs, where he was spending his holidays; and Mrs. Locke going from Owen Sound.

Young Locke was crossing Queen Street about 11 o'clock Saturday night in a car with his chum, when they were struck by a Queen street car. The automobile was demolished and Locke had his skull fractured, in addition to being cut about the head and face. He was rushed to St. Michael's Hospital and is now doing very well.

He is employed on the Engineering staff of the Hydro Electric Power Commission, and is a graduate of School of Practical Science, Toronto. He is not very well known in Owen Sound, not having been home a great deal since his parents came to the city. Together with his sister he was a visitor here about two weeks ago, when they motored up from Toronto and spent a few days with the Rev. and Mrs. Locke. In a letter to Mr. J. H. Packham received Saturday morning, Mr. Locke says that his son, after being unconscious for two days, is able to speak to and recognize him. The many friends of Rev. John Locke and his wife will wish for the speedy recovery of their son.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

The Importance of Being Pretty

Many a girl's fortune is determined by her face. A skin which is fresh, smooth and alluring with the radiance of health, predicts a happy future, because this is the greatest of all womanly charms.

Every girl can have a beautiful, attractive skin if she will only learn to give it proper care.

The constant application of cold creams, lotions, powder, and rouge tend to make the skin sluggish and inactive. Dirt accumulates and blackheads and other blemishes appear.

Thorough cleansing once a day prevents such a condition and keeps the complexion fresh and smooth. Cold Cream is beneficial when applied to a clean skin and rouge and powder are harmless beautifiers—but—start fresh every day on a clean foundation. Keep your skin active and it will be clear, fresh, youthful and attractive.

Soap to be thorough, need not be harsh. The mildest toilet soap made is the most thorough of all cleansers, as you will know after you have once tried Palmolive.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first-class dealers.

WHY DENNIS WAS SAD

The following is said to be the classic mother-in-law yarn. "Arrah, you're lookin 'very sad," said Pat O'Hoolihan, addressing his friend Dennis the other day. "Oi feel sad!" responded Dennis. "Oi've lost me mother-in-law. I tell you, it's hard to lose your mother-in-law." "Hard!" exclaimed Pat. "B'gorrah, it's almost impossible."

Criminal Fools and Canadian Forests

A beautiful stand in the Nipigon district, near which a Canadian Pacific Bungalow Camp has been erected. Imagine the result if this camp fire should be neglected.
Below—Canadian Pacific tank car unit on the road.
Left—Showing the pumps and how they throw a stream high over a 90 foot tower.

LOOK at the boards at your feet, the walls which surround you, the roof over your head, the chair in which you sit, and your furniture. All are products of the Canadian forests, and practically everything you come into contact with in the day depends on the forest for one or more of its component parts. Then take the foods you eat, the paper you read by the wood fire at night; the food is produced by Canadian farmers who depend on the forest for a regular supply of moisture, the paper is composed largely of wood pulp. It is almost beyond comprehension—the amount of lumber used by Canadian industries each day, and the amount used in construction and in the development of the country each year. Canada's prosperity, her whole future, is one with that of her forests.

Ontario alone gives employment to 17,000 men in the bush; pulp and paper mills in the same province employ 8,000 men, and the amount of capital invested in the two industries amounts to over $150,000,000. Yet, for every tree that is felled, for every log that helps to keep the wheels of industry moving, for every board that is used in construction, twelve are destroyed in the forest by fire. This means that forest fires consume twelve times the amount of the lumber which is the life of Canadian industries, and that each year fire is depleting the forests which should hold back the rain fall so as to ensure throughout the year the moisture which is the life of the farm. Five hundred thousand acres of forest are burned over in Ontario each year, and the government of this province is burdened with a forest fire protection organization which costs $3,000 a day.

Why is the country put to such a loss?

Because there are no means of segregating the criminal fools and careless! Take the fire which in October last took forty-four lives, rendered thousands homeless, and destroyed property valued at eight million dollars in the vicinity of Haileybury, the terrible fires in 1916 around Matheson, and in 1911 around Cochrane. These, like the majority of other fires, were the result of criminal carelessness. Settlers allow their slash fires to grow beyond control, the sportsman builds his camp fire in a mossy place and forgets to extinguish it, a lighted cigarette or match is thrown away carelessly and originates a small blaze which may soon develop into a holocaust beyond control of man.

Years ago the railways were, perhaps, responsible for many conflagrations, but not so today. Although one half of the Canadian Pacific Railway right-of-way lies in forest areas in the east and is flanked by forests for hundreds of miles in both Ontario and British Columbia, this railway has long since ceased to be a factor in the destruction of the forests. In order to eliminate the possibility of fires being started by passing trains, all Canadian Pacific locomotives are examined at the end of each trip and great care is taken to see that ash pans and front ends are in perfect condition. Engineers and firemen are given explicit instructions not to dump live coals or to throw waste upon the right of way, and should an engine crew notice a blaze, by a series of whistles the section men and fire patrol are notified, and the nearest despatcher takes steps to secure whatever additional men are required.

The Canadian Pacific maintains a regular and efficient force which patrols the right of way in forest areas after the passing of trains and which cooperates with the Dominion, Provincial and other fire prevention organizations to the fullest extent. Also at various points along the line are kept a number of fire tank units, each unit consisting of two tank cars, each of 7,000-gallon capacity, equipped with powerful pumps, and approximately one mile of hose. This equipment has proved valuable not only in fighting forest fires but in fighting fires which have occurred in forest and rail side towns.

FROM BED TO WORK IN THREE WEEKS

Dreco Helps Put Wm. Walker on His Feet and Enables Him to Return to Work.

"For the past year my husband has been a sufferer from ulcers on the stomach," says Mrs. William Walker, of 158 Eileen Ave., Toronto, Ont. "His food lay in his stomach and would not digest and he frequently had severe vomiting spells. He was on a diet most of the time. This resulted in his entire system becoming run-down. He had chronic constipation and was very restless and nervous.

"About three and a half weeks ago I brought him home a bottle of Dreco. He tried it and said that the first dose seemed to give him relief and eased his stomach of the terrible pains that griped him. His bowels became more regular.

"We are both greatly pleased with the benefits Dreco has already produced. My husband's system is improving generally and after the severe trouble he has just passed through, he was able to return to work in three weeks' time.

"Mr. Walker is feeling very much stronger and I want him to continue this good medicine, as it is the first medicine we have found that goes right to the root of his troubles."

Dreco's beneficial action on the organs of digestion is remarkably quick and thorough. No matter how severe the case or how long standing, Dreco will help. This remedy contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs. It is made solely from herbs, roots, bark and leaves and has established an enviable reputation, earned only by genuine merit.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Orangeville by R. Fairbairn, and is sold by a good druggist everywhere.

The Southampton Council is having a steel tower erected on the peak of the fire hall in which the fire bell will be hung. The fire bell is at present in the town hall tower under the clock, and the alarm does not carry very far when the bell is so confined.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Edgar, Owen Sound, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Edythe Minto, to Robert Hughes Balfour, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Balfour, of Hamilton, the marriage to take place quietly in Owen Sound about the middle of september.

Word has been received in Brampton of the death in Whiterock, B. C., of Mrs. Mary Graham, widow of the late James Graham, of Derry West, Toronto township. Mrs. Graham was the daughter of the late William K. Emmett, one of the pioneers of Peel, and was born on the 4th line, east, Chinguacousy.

Some weeks ago Mr. Fred Dowling, of Flesherton, was breaking up a box bound with wire. When the wire broke, one end flew around and penetrated his hip. At the time nothing was thought of it but it did not heal and blood poisoning set in. He was finally taken to Owen Sound Hospital for treatment and an X-ray examination made.

Maddened by the scent of blood at the abattoir, to which he was being led, a bull broke loose from a farmer in Kitchener recently and for two hours defied all efforts to catch him. The infuriated animal bowled over a man on Mill Street, dashed a small touring car and knocked down a horse in its wild career. Residents were terrorized when the bull invaded their back lawns and gardens. Children playing had narrow escapes from being gored. The animal was finally lassoed by park workers and subsequently shot.

Wives Sometimes Object To Life Assurance But— Widows Never Do

Many a man has failed to insure because of his wife's noble but misguided scruples. She didn't want even to think of her husband being taken from her. The thought of money forcing itself into such a tragedy filled her with horror.

Such a woman overlooks the awful plight of a family left destitute. It's a husband's duty to protect his family from want and suffering after his death. A wife who opposes her husband in performing this duty is unfair to him, to herself and to her little ones.

THE TOWN COUNCIL

Little Except Routine Business at Monday Night's Meeting.

The business transacted by the Town Council at Monday night's meeting was largely of a routine nature. Accounts were passed as follows:

Geo. R. Hogben, $45.15; George King, $72.50; Jas. Morrison Brass Mfg. Co., $13.17; J. W. Wild, $4.90; Dominion Express Co., 55c.; Orangeville Hydro Commission, $32.82; Orangeville Hydro Commission, street lighting, $318.20; J. E. Jeesop estate, $15.25; Jos. Ogston, $29.55; J. C. Hirons, $5.06; Orangeville Hydro Commission, $6.35; Jas. Wise, $5.04; W. C. Hughson, $2.40; Bell Telephone Co., $3.59; Northern Electric Co., $82.82; Matthews & Jenkins, $6.10; Alfred Colley, $19.25; Edward Delaney, $7.70.

A. Henderson's account amounting to $24.66, was referred to the Town Property Committee to adjust and pay.

Councillor Reid reported that the weighscales were in a dilapidated condition. The Town Property Committee was instructed to make the necessary repairs.

Chief Portland and Town Engineer Marshall were asked to inspect the business premises on Broadway with a view to encouraging the removal of waste and thereby contribute to prevention of fires. The Clerk was instructed to advertise the proposed inspection in the local newspapers for two weeks.

A by-law appointing a sheep valuator was given the necessary readings. Mr. James Thompson, a retired farmer living on West Broadway, was given the appointment.

LACROSSE DOUBLE HEADER

Orangeville Juvenile and Midget lacrosse teams journeyed to Toronto yesterday, where the former met St. Catharines in the last round of the semi-finals for championship honors. The winners of the game will meet St. Simons Juveniles in the final game. The Midgets played the St. Catharines Midgets in the final game for the championship of the series. The two teams met in the finals last year, the St. Kitts team winning out by a one goal margin. The two games were played at Scarborough Beach.

—Orangeville Presbytery met on Tuesday.

VISITED PRESIDENT'S HOME

Mr. Mervin Laverty, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Laverty, of Glencross, who is now holding down a responsible executive position with a large business concern in Akron Ohio, tells in a letter home of paying a visit to the late President Harding's home in Marion, Ohio, last autumn. Mr. Laverty and a friend happened to be in Marion and thought they would like to see where the President of the United States lived. At a bank corner a number of old men were standing chatting. Tied to a post nearby was an old horse and a worn looking buggy. Approaching the group the visitors asked if anyone could tell them where the President's house was. An old man in a well worn grey suit stepped forward, asked the strangers to follow him and proceeded to untie the horse and get in the old buggy. When they reached the President's home Mr. Laverty asked the guide how he knew the place so well. The reply was, "Well I guess I ought to know, I am President Harding's father." The visitors enjoyed a friendly and informing chat with the old gentleman before they proceeded on their way.

ORANGEVILLE BAND AT C. N. E.

The Evening Telegram states that the Orangeville Brass Band supplied music for the last day of the Toronto Exhibition on more than one occasion in the early eighties. In its own inimitable fashion The Telegram describes the closing scenes on one of these occasions:—

"The old main building was ablaze with the light of arc lamps. As compared with the noonday blaze of modern lighting, the main building in the evenings looked like 4 a.m. daylight saving time.

"The Orangeville band filled the night with music. At 10 p.m. the late H. J. Hill, general manager of the Fair, marched at the head of the band in a grand procession through the aisles on the ground floor of the old main building. The march ended at the centre of the main floor. The men stood uncovered and the women waited reverently while the band played "God Save the King." These solemnities closed Canada's great Fair of 1884 and other earlier years. The ceremonies of closing night always followed according to the simple ritual shaped annd fashioned by the rude forefathers of the Fair."

THE HIGH SCHOOL

Prizes and Medals to Successful Students.

Now that all the results of the recent examinations are to hand, and that there has been time to make a survey of the work done by the pupils, it is satisfactory to note how well the standard of efficiency has been maintained during the past year in our High School.

It might be well to remind those who are not in close touch with educational matters, of the high standard demanded by the Universities and Department of Education. In order to obtain a pass in any subject fifty per cent. is required; not only that, but the papers are more difficult than heretofore.

Last year the Upper School was the largest in its history, the attendance was over twenty, whereas formerly the average was eight or ten. The work in this part of the school, with the exception of one subject, was highly creditable. In almost all the papers written on the percentage of successes ran from sixty to over eighty per cent. This year the attendance is about the same, and even better results are looked for.

In the Middle School, which numbered close to seventy students, a very creditable showing was made. No less than one hundred and thirty-five honours were gained, which in itself reflects considerable credit on the work done by the staff. Among those who gained honours, two in particular deserve special mention: Lulu Wise, who wrote on eight subjects, gaining seven first-class honours and one second-class, and Irene Harrison, who also wrote on eight subjects and got six first-class and two second-class honours. As a recognition of such exceptional merit the Board has been pleased to offer special prizes to these two students.

The Lower School, which of late years, has shown the greatest successes in the school, still maintains its enviable record. This year fifty-five were successful in the Lower School examinations.

Through the kindness of Dr. and Mrs. Kyles, a special prize was offered for the best pupil in the first year. This was won by Marion Cameron with an average for the year of over eighty-three per cent. John Kyles ranked first, but was debarred by the donors of the prize, but as a reward for his excellent work the Board decided to give him a special prize.

The Commercial Department is maintaining its high standard of efficiency.

In the senior division the following gained the Underwood Certificate for typewriting: Winnie Clowes, Muriel Ellis, Beatrice Hopkins, Alva McKim, Myrtle McKinney, Muriel Webb. Besides these successes, Alva McKim obtained a medal and bar, and Myrtle McKinney a medal.

The following in the junior division were successful in gaining their promotion: Marjorie Bell, Irene Brown (Honours), Margaret Delaney, Mabel Dods (Honours), Irene Murphy, Laura Rennick, Delia Shirley, Lily Shirley, Aileen Speers (Honours), Reta White.

The attendance last year was the largest in the history of the school. There were two hundred on the roll, and this year it looks as if the number of students will almost reach the same limit. The second year Junior Matriculation class is now completely filled and no more pupils can be accommodated in it.

HISTORY OF MONO

I have been asked to write a history of the Township of Mono. It is important that I receive information regarding the early settlement of the township, the names of those who were amongst the first settlers, their experiences, the difficulties they had to overcome and the dangers to which they were exposed. Also incidents in connection with the churches, school government, etc. Any who have any information which they think would be interesting and which would assist me would confer a great favor if they would write me. My address is

REV. JOHN NEIL, D. D.,
151 Lawton Blvd., Toronto.

Y. P. L. CONVENTION

The officers and members of the Orangeville District Young People's League are anticipating a pleasant and profitable time at their Annual Convention, which will be held in the Orangeville Methodist Church on Tuesday, September 18th. There will be two sessions, one at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and the other at 7.30 in the evening. Supper will be served at 6 o'clock to out of town delegates who attend the afternoon session. Rev. C. W. De Mille, B. A., of Toronto, General Superintendent of the Ontario Religious Education Council, will be the special speaker. Mr. De Mille is an entertaining and inspiring speaker and one who can always hold the close attention of his audience. Those who hear him will be thrilled as he reveals a vision of the Great Game of Life in his evening address on "Our Greatest National Need." There will be a Missionary Exhibit in connection with the Convention. Pictures of the Elgin House Summer School will be displayed. Everybody is cordially invited to attend the convention. If you are interested in Young People's work and would like to hear an inspirational address by a leader in Young People's work, COME.

SYMPTOMS OF DEBILITY

How to Tell Whether Your Blood Needs Revitalizing.

The symptoms of general debility vary according to the cause, but weakness is always present, a tendency to perspire and fatigue easily, ringing in the ears, sometimes black spots passing before the eyes, weak back, vertigo, wakefulness caused by inability to stop thinking, and unrefreshing sleep. The cause of the trouble may be some drain on the system, or it may be mental or physical overwork, sometimes insufficient nutrition due to digestive disturbance.

If you have any or all of these symptoms try building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as the new blood courses through your veins there should be an increase in your appetite, a better digestion and soon a renewal of strength and vigor.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ONE LAW FOR ALL

DESPERADOES cannot take the banks' money out of messengers' satchels and put that money in their own pockets without being justly prosecuted with all the agencies at the command of the Attorney-General of this Province.

DIRECTORS can take the depositors' money out of bank accounts, put that money in rotten loans or the directors' own worthless stock, and have the whole procedure regularized by a semi-benedition from the Attorney-General of Ontario.

Ontario has long suffered from the lack of an Attorney-General who would act upon the truth that the DIRECTORS who wreck a bank may be just as worthy of prosecution as the DESPERADOES who rob a bank. Ontario continues to suffer. —Telegram.

MANAGER OF ORANGEVILLE BANK

W. O'C. Ahern, for seven years manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, Grand Valley, on Saturday received an intimation from head office of his appointment as manager of the new branch at Oranageville, which he opened up on Tuesday last. This is a merited, if belated recognition of Mr. Ahern's services to the bank, for he deserves the promotion, and unquestionably will make good in the county town. His business relations here during the past seven years have been of a very pleasant nature, for serious differences never occurred between the manager and the bank's clients. Mr. Ahern will be missed outside of the business circles as he took an active part in bowling and curling, and was energetic in the work of St. Alban's Church.—Star & Vidette

CHELTENHAM FIRE

Fire, which broken out in the Inter-provincial Brick Yards, Cheltenham, in a basement where baled straw was stored, did considerable damage a week ago Sunday. The fire was discovered in the baled straw. A line of hose was played on the smoking straw up to midnight and a guard posted to see that there was no further outbreak through the night. When the blaze was at its worst a bucket brigade was organized and their efforts were successful in keeping the fire from spreading. In the next floor above the fire was two hundred tons of coal. The cause of the fire is unknown.

AMARANTH S. S. CONVENTION

The Annual Convention of the Township of Amaranth Sabbath School Association will be held in the Methodist Church at Campania on Thursday, Sept. 20th. Afternoon and evening sessions will be held, the former commencing at 2 o'clock and the latter at 7.30 o'clock. At the afternoon session, Rev.J. Russell Harris, the Provincial Representative, will give an address on "Our Task in Religious Education," and will also lead a Round Table Conference. In the evening Mr. Harris will speak on "The Marks of a Successful Leader of Boys." There will be a number of addresses by local ministers and Sabbath School workers, the annual election of officers and consideration of a number of business reports.

ALTON

Our village has been without a doctor since the removal of Dr. Price. This is not a satisfactory condition and we hope it will be remedied ere long. There is a good opening here for some energetic medico.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Chantler arrived home last week looking much the better for their five weeks holiday in Muskoka.

Mr. W. O. Chantler, one of our general merchants, has purchased the building occupied by Mr. D. C. Worts as a drug store and ice cream parlor. Mr. Chantler is having the building altered and renovated and will move his general stock to the premises as soon as they are in readiness. Mr. A. C. Tennyson, another of our merchants, is preparing to move to Mr. Chantler's present store just as soon as the premises are available.

Mr. D. C. Worts, Mrs. McKinnon and Mrs. Leonard Cavers have moved to Toronto. We understand that Mr. Worts, who has been conducting a drug store here for a number of years, will take several months' rest before again embarking in business, which he will probably do in the city. In the removal of Mr. Worts and the other members of the family Alton has lost excellent citizens. The good wishes of the people of the village accompany them to their Toronto homes.

Donald McLean, our veteran painter and decorator, celebrated his 70th birthday on September 3rd. Donald is still looking hale and hearty and can wield the brush with the best of them despite the weight of his threescore and ten years.

Mr. Wm. Rowcliffe received word last week of the death of his brother, Wesley, at Baltimore, Ont., a short distance from Cobourg. Deceased, who was a blacksmith by trade, was in his 58th year and is survived by a widow. Ed. Rowcliffe, of Sunderland, and Bert Rowcliffe, of Toronto, are the other surviving brothers.

We regret to learn of the serious illness of Mr. William Hunter, an aged resident of our village.

H. C. Barber is leaving this week for his home in Chilliwack, B. C after a visit of two weeks with his brother, Mr. Everton Barber, and other relatives here. Mr. Barber Mutual, was in town on business on improve in B. C.

Waldo Dorrington returned home on Monday after a week's visit with friends in Toronto and Buffalo.

Arthur MacLachlan, of Evanston, Ill., is spending three weeks vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. MacLachlan. Arthur has a good position as storekeeper in the hospital at Evanston and is one of the many Canadian boys who are making good in Uncle Sam's domain.

Lloyd MacLachlan has returned home after a visit of two weeks with his brother, Arthur, in Evanston, Ill.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Daniel McFaul is recovering, though slowly, from the effects of the stroke he suffered some seven weeks ago. He was strong enough to be taken out for his first drive last Sunday. All hope that the improvement will continue.

David Harkness, another of our older citizens, is able to go about again after being laid up for several weeks from the effects of a heat stroke. We regret to learn that Mr. Harkness' eyesight is very poor since his accident, but hope that there will be a speedy improvement now that he is able to get about.

Mr. R. B. Henry, the affable and hustling Orangeville and Caledon representative of the Peel Farmers' Mutual, was in town on Business on Monday.

The School Picnic on Friday afternoon last proved a most enjoyable affair and gave the mothers of the village an excellent opportunity to meet and become acquainted with the new teachers, Miss Wilson, of Owen Sound, and Miss Grosskurth, of Laurel.

The two woollen mills are fairly busy.

Willard Houston, the bustling proprietor of the Alton grist and chopping mill, is kept moving lively now that the fall trade is setting in. Good workmanship and a genuine desire to give his customers good value and satisfaction are factors that have combined to bring Mr. Houston business from farmers living at considerable distances from Alton.

Mrs. (Dr.) S. T. White, of Shelburne, visited with her brother and sister, Mr. Robert and Miss S. Clark, on Monday.

Tennis has been very popular with our citizens this year. We have a number of expert players, well worthy to match their skill against the best that any of the neighboring towns or villages can produce.

Wedding bells are ringing very clearly this week. Two of Alton's well-known girls are about to change their names and places of abode. Meantime the village is filled with the pleasureable interest that always precedes these happy events in life.

Miss Ruth Babcock, a charming bride-to-be, was the raison d'etre of a delightful miscellaneous shower at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Everton Barber on Monday night. About fifty of the girl and other friends of the bride were present and showered her with a large number of pretty and useful gifts. A very pleasant social time is reported.

Mr. A. Harrison spent Labor Day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Harrison.

Mr. W. Alexander Jr. spent the holiday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Alexander.

Mr. John Erskine spent the holiday in London visiting his daughter, Mrs. Gordon Somerville, and Mr. Somerville.

Miss Sylvia Schnider, of Detroit, is visiting Miss Lena Russell.

Miss Mildred Reid is visiting in Toronto.

BANK OF TORONTO

The Bank of Toronto, which has been housed in temporary premises in the law office of the late Geo. Robb, is moving to more commodious offices in the Queen's Hotel building. The Bank expects to be installed in the new offices by Monday of next week. Mr. A. Weaver, of Omemee, has been appointed acting manager of the branch here and has been in charge since the first of the week.

M'ALLONAN-COOPER

Quietly at the home of Mrs. M. E. Cooper, Second Line, West, Mono, on Wednesday, September 5th, the marriage took place of her daughter, Alexandria Elizabeth (Lexxie), to Mr. Albert E. McAllonan, of Dunnville. The Rev. H. L. Partridge, of Orangeville, was the officiating minister. The bride, who was unattended, wore a blue dress of crepe de chene, and a sunburst of pearls, the gift of the groom. After the wedding breakfast the happy couple left amid showeers of confetti on the morning train for Toronto, Hamilton and Detroit. On their return they will reside at Dunnville. Orangeville and Mono friends of the bride unite in tendering their hearty congratulations and good wishes.

CLARK-WILSON

Bonar Presbyterian Church, Toronto, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon when Mary Hazel, daughter of Mr. J. L. and Mrs. Wilson, became the bride of Robert Knox Clark, son of the late John A. and Mrs. Clark. Rev. Norman MacEachren was the officiating clergyman and Mr. Harold A. Frost presided at the organ. The bride wore a French gown of pearl grey georgette, embroidered with pearl trimming, and hat to match. She carried pale pink roses. Mrs. A. Ackehurst was matron of honor. She wore cocoa canton crepe with black velvet hat and carried Ophelia roses. Mr. Howard Wilson acted as groomsman. During the signing of the register Miss Isabelle Laughlin sang "All Joy Be Thine." After a reception for the immediate families, the happy couple left for a two weeks honeymoon at points north. The bride wore a brown frock with fox trimmed coat and hat to match. On their return they will reside on Emerson Ave. The groom is a nephew of Messrs. John, William and Robert McConnell, of this town.

MONO MILLS

The harvest anniversary services in the Methodist Church here, announced last week, will be conducted by Rev. E. J. Adams, of Toronto, a former pastor. Services at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Service in Mitchell's and Raney's Methodist churches and in Mono Mills Presbyterian church cancelled for that day.

Mr. and Miss Breckenridge, of Peterborough, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pallin here.

Mr. M. W. Webb, of the Canadian Bond Co., of Toronto, is building a summer cottage in the village.

Our local garage man, Mr. Murray, has received and put up a number of Motor League signs for the accommodation of the large number of travellers who are passing through here this summer.

Miss Annie Harvey, who has been spending the summer at her home here, returned to Toronto last week.

A delegation of five members from the L. T. B. Lodge at Monticello, Ont., attended the meeting of the Lodge here on Monday evening last.

Miss Florence Varey, of the Bell Telephone staff at Brampton, is holidaying with her aunt, Mrs. Geo. Adair.

Mrs. Strathee, of Toronto, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Hamilton, here.

JOSHUA WIGGINS

As intimated briefly in last week's issue the death of Joshua Wiggins, an old resident of Orangeville and district, occurred very suddenly about 11 o'clock on Wednesday forenoon, Sept. 5th. Mr. Wiggins collapsed suddenly in Matthews & Jenkins' stables, while assisting Mr. Matthews unhitch one of the firm's teams. Although Mr. Matthews was only a few feet away the stricken man was breathing his last when he reached his side. Mr. Wiggins, once a strong, rugged man, had been in failing health for the last three years. Last spring he suffered a light stroke and had been in very poor health all summer. The late Mr. Wiggins was born at Oakville, but his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wiggins, came to this district when he was a mere child, his father dying when he was only four years old. The family lived near Camilla for a time, afterwards settling in East Garafraxa on the farm directly across the road from Greenwood Cemetery. Eventually Mr. Wiggins moved to Orangeville, where he followed the trade of stonemason and plasterer for the greater part of his life. He was an excellent workman, industrious and careful in anything he undertook to do. Less than two years ago he sustained a severe loss through the death of his wife, who died on October 5th, 1921, exactly twenty-three months before her husband. He is survived by three sons, R. C., with the C. P. R. in Toronto; W. J., an inspector in the service of the Toronto Street Railway, and W. E., of Winnipeg, and two daughters, Mrs. (Dr.) Ed. Barber, of Swift Current, Sask., and Miss Florecne, of Orangeville. Deceased was a Presbyterian, a Conservative and had been an active member of the Orange Order earlier in life. The funeral was held to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Friday afternoon, Rev. F. W. Mahaffy, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, and Rev. J. W. McDonald, of St. Mark's, conducting the services. The pallbearers were Messrs. W. J. Brown, Toronto; Alfred Brown and J. S. Wallace, Laurel; R. I. Currry, Jas. A. Patterson and John Buchanan, Orangeville. Very general sympathy is felt for the family and especially for Miss Wiggins in their sudden and distressing bereavement.

CAMILLA

(Intended for last week.)

It is so long now since we has seen the events of Camilla and neighborhood chronicled in your columns that we have concluded that the scribes of bygone days have either departed for other fields or else have joined the ranks of the benedicts. We know that it is not lack of material that holds the pens of our scribes silent, for events of interest are always happening around here. Perhaps it was the unexpected change of government last June that has made the scribes of other days sad and weary.

The Y. P. S. held a social evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reid one night last week. The programme took the form of a corn roast. The corn was good and as the appetites were in the same prime condition, little time was wasted in formalities before the gathering set to work on the toothsome repast. Under favoring conditions aided by the kindly hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Reid and family everyone had a happy time. Following the feast, came entertainment of a pleasing character in the form of an impromptu program. Our coming elocutionist, Miss Eva Gaslaugher, performed really well, giving a recital from Pauline Johnston. The programme was happily varied by popular airs from Art Curtis' mouth organ. "I Love a Lassie" was listened to with rapturous delight by most of the swains. After that Bros. Marshall and Henry brought the tears to the eyes of some of the audience, when they surprised everyone by reciting some of the poems of Robert W. Service. An indolent youth, who was not listening very attentively to the aforesaid recitals, suddenly exclaimed that the weiners were now ready, so suddenly that Bro. Marshall forgot the last verse. The happy gathering was brought to a close by a song from the host, Mr. Robert Reid.

Miss Annie McKim entertained a few of her friends one evening last week.

Miss Rusk and Miss Firth were guests of Miss Lola Kyles last week.

Mr. Rudd was a Camilla guest last week-end.

We have been hearing faint sounds lately, but as they gradually became clearer we concluded that it wasn't a cowbell, but rather the faint tingling of wedding bells on the townline.

MRS. JAS. E. BACON

Oldtime Caledon friends learned with real regret of the death last week of an old and highly respected pioneer of the north end of the township in the person of Mrs. James E. Bacon. The sad event took place at the home of her son, Miles E. Bacon, "Maple View Farm" lot 11, con. 6, Erin township, on Tuesday, Sept. 4th. The deceased lady had reached the advanced age of nearly 88 years and had been bedfast for the last three months. During her last illness she received every care and attention from members of her family. Mrs. Bacon was a daughter of the late John Porterfield, one of the early settlers in the north of Caledon. Born of Irish parentage in Lockport, N. Y., she came to Caledon with her parents and a family of six brothers and two sisters when only seven years of age. The family settled on lot 27, 1st line, west, the farm on which the Melville Quarries now operate. Here she spent her girlhood days in a home that nestled in the shelter of the Melville hills. Almost seventy years ago, she married the late James E. Bacon, for many years a Councillor in the Township of Caledon. After their marriage the young couple settled on lot 23, Centre Road, Caledon, where the subject of our sketch reared a family of ten children, four of whom predeceased her. Fifteen years ago she moved, with her son, Miles, to Erin township, where she spent the remaining years of her remarkably long and useful life. Mrs. Bacon was a woman of a kindly, generous nature, ever ready to lend a helping hand to those in need or distress of any kind. In religion she was a member of the Methodist Church and she and her husband were amongst those who helped to build the Melville Methodist Church.

The funeral was held by motor from the home of her son in Erin township on Thursday afternoon, interment taking place in the Forest Lawn Cemetery, Orangeville, where the remains were laid to rest in the family plot. The obsequies were attended by a large number of friends, relatives and old neighbors from Caledon and Erin, the number present showing the high esteem in which the departed woman was held. The pastor of Erin Methodist Church conducted the services. The pallbearers were five grandsons and a grand-nephew, Basil, Lorne and Gordon Watson, Reginald Rowcliffe, Carman Corbett and Elgin Sawden. Among the floral tributes were a family wreath from Mr. and Mrs. Miles E. Bacon and a pillow from the daughters. Surviving to mourn the loss of their loved parent are two sons and four daughters, namely, Miles Bacon, Erin; Albert Bacon, Caledon; Mrs. John S. May, Detroit; Mrs. Joseph Watson, Caledon; Mrs. A. E. Rowcliffe, Toronto, and Mrs. Sam Corbett, Melville Cross. There are also 38 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

Peaceful be thy rest, dear mother,
In thy grave so low and deep;
As the river murmurs beside you,
It cannot disturb your sleep.

THE MAPLES

The next meeting of The Maples Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. Jacob Hoare on Thursday afternoon, Sept 20th, at 2.30 o'clock. The program will consist of a chorus by the members of the Institute, music by Misses Eva and Lily Hoare, and roll call answered by a recipe for pickling. A white elephant sale will also be held. The meeting will be taken by Mrs. W. H. Reid. A good attendance is requested.

GEORGE EUDLE

George Eudle, an old resident of Orangeville and district, passed away at his late home, Townline St., on Tuesday, September 4th, after an illness of eleven days following an apoplectic seizure. Deceased, who was 78 years of age, was born in Long Sutton, Lincolnshire, Eng., but came to Canada nearly fifty years ago. He lived at Waldemar for some time before finally settling in Orangeville, which has been his home for the last thirty or thirty-years. He is survived by a widow and a family of two daughters, Misses Mary and Hannah, who have the sympathy of their friends and neighbors in the loss of their husband and father. We understaand that a sister is still living in England. Deceased was a member of the Anglican Church and Rev. J. W. McDonald, the rector, conducted the funeral services. The funeral was held on Thursday afternoon, interment taking place in Greenwood Cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. T. Hepton, John Suggitt, Geo. Nicholson, James Irwin, William Walker and George Fines.

MISS MARY INGRAHAM

(An Appreciation.)

On June 9th, 1923, there passed away, at the family residence, Orangeville, after a brief illness from diphtheria, Miss Mary Ingraham, eldest daughter of the late Alex. and Nancy Ingraham. Deceased was born in East Garafraxa and resided in Orangeville during the greater part of her life, being well known here and very highly esteemed by all with whom she came in contact.

The two surviving sisters, Margaret and Rebecca Ingraham, have had the sympathy of the entire community in their sad bereavement. An Anglican in religion, Mary Ingraham, during her earlier years, was a very earnest worker in church and Sunday School. Always, in later years, the activities and achievements, progress and prosperity, of the church she loved so well, claimed and kept her warmest interest and its utmost welfare was ever her heart's desire.

Possessing, beyond most, the ability to make friends, Miss Ingraham possessed also, to an unusual degree, those qualities of mind and heart which enabled her to keep the friends she made. Her days filled to the brim with cares and duties, she yet found time for the claims of friendship.

For a long time, the years in their passing, seemed to touch her but lightly, and in her ordered life of helpful service, replete with kindly deeds, she kept the even tenor of her way, deeming that, as it had been—so it would be to the end.

As time rolled on, however, the continued strain of demanding duties, of long sustained activities, began to tell. Her day had reached its afternoon. Physical strength commenced to fail, and in each fluttering pulse she felt the ebbing of life's tide.

Bravely she struggled on, battling with her growing frailty, and striving still to do her part. Then, just when it seemed imperative that life be made easier for her, she was called upon to pass through a series of trying experiences. Bereavement, long continued illness in the home, business losses, grief, anxiety and care, like a canker, fed upon her enfeebled frame, laying heavy toll on her slender store of strength lowering her vitality, as the months went by, and greatly lessening her powers of restance, so that when, later, she was stricken down by illness, the conflict was brief; she rapidly succumbed, the tired heart faltered—and failed! The agony was ended! The burden lifted—and the freed spirit rose to its resting place—Mary Ingraham was at home—with God.!

"My soul is full of whispered song
My blindness is my sight,
The shadows that I feared so long
Are all alive with light."

Gentle, genial, generous to a fault, humble-hearted, tender and true as the tempered steel, was Mary Ingraham, and earth is poorer for her passing. Strange it seems to those who loved her that to such faithful, patient spirit, such distress should come.

"Our times are in His hand, Perfect the cup as planned."
"Then welcome each rebuff
That turns earth's smoothness rough,
Each sting that bids nor sit, nor stand, but go."

Our choicest, costliest blossoms we weave into wreaths to garland the graves of our hero dead! Ours it is, a sad and sacred pleasure to lay affection's offering of flowers upon the bier of our beloved dead;

Be mine to place one little flowret, a fadeless immortelle, on yonder lowly grave in Greenwood; the tomb of simple unassuming worth—The tomb of Mary Ingraham.

"The daily round, the common task
Will furnish all we need to ask—
A field for service and a road
To bring us nightly—nearer God."

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

Anniversary Thank-Offering Services will be held in Bethel Presbyterian Church, Price's Corners, on Sunday next, Sept. 16th, at 11 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. Rev. S. Lundie, of Grand Valley, will occupy the pulpit on both occasions. The services will mark the 31st anniversary of the present church and are therefore creating keen interest in the congregation.

Similar services, marking the 54th anniversary of the church, will be held in St. Andrew's Church, Hillsburg, on Sunday, Sept. 23rd, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Rev. A. C. Stewart, M. A., of Acton, will be the special preacher for the day.

No use of going to any other clothing store for the new overcoat you need; come to us and save TIME and MONEY. We can fit you out in fifteen minutes and give you the real goods.

It is a highly luxurious feeling to slide into one of our warm, well-lined overcoats. Do so and you will be so prosperous that you can also afford one of our handsome, stylish, well-made new suits.

We have been selling clothing for a good many years, but we never have had anything to compare with the immense stock of Coats we have this year. We spent a great deal of time in picking out these Coats, but when you see them, you will agree with us that we have a right to be justly proud of our selection. We have dozens and dozens to choose from, and for style, quality and price we defy competition.

Be sure to see these Men's and Boys' Coats before buying.

Remember our Guaranteed Serges to order, Botany wool and Indigo dye.

LAUREL CONTINUATION SCHOOL

At the annual convention of the Ontario Trustees and Ratepayers Association in Toronto last Easter, Mr. Louis S. Johnston gave the following report of the organization and work of the Continuation School now in operation at Laurel:

In September, 1922, a Grade C. Continuation School opened in Laurel village, S. S. No. 3, Amaranth Township, County of Dufferin. Previous to this, there had been a strong feeling in the community favoring the establishment of secondary education in our midst. As some of the pupils, who had passed the entrance examinations in 1922, were very young, the parents and others wished the trustees to take action toward establishing secondary education.

The trustees called a meeting of the ratepayers, and invited our Public School Inspector, Mr. W. R. Liddy, to explain the situation. As a result the School Board was instructed to proceed to the establishment of a Continuation School.

The first move was to secure a schoolroom. This was obtained in a private dwelling in the village, at a rent of $150 per annum, which included caretaking and heating. The Secretary-Treasurer, Louis S. Johnston, and Mr. Liddy were then sent to Toronto to interview Mr. Mills, the Continuation School Inspector, as to equipment and grants. After giving full particulars such as situation, conditions, number of pupils, the section of country the school would serve, etc., Mr. Mills approved of the school and gave us an itemized list of the required equipment for a Grade C. Continuation School. This was purchased for $433.86.

The next move was to secure a teacher. This we did through advertising and Mr. Liddy's assistance. We had no trouble whatever in securing a teacher at a salary of $1200.

The school opened with seven pupils, three of whom were from our own section, the others were to prove that the provision more started, making nine in all, who were taking First Form of High School work. Just here, I might mention that Mr. Mills visited the pupils in the new school, and heartily approved of the work that was being done.

The first four months' teaching ended with the year 1922, and cost as follows:

School equipment	$433.86
School rent	60.00
Telephoning, advertising and incidentals	15.11
Teacher's salary	468.00
	$976.97

The income for these four months was as follows:

Township grant from general school rate	$238.80
County grant	521.76
Written promise from Government	160.00
The balance was cost to the S. S. for four months	56.41
	$976.97

In making our application to the County Council as to the cost per pupil of county pupils, we deducted nothing for Government grants, as we had received nothing from the Government at that time.

However, the Government wrote us and assured us of $400 for the year, which gave us the $160 for what the school had earned in the four months. This amount will be paid at usual time of payment of school grants.

The statistics here given will go to prove that the provisions made in the School Act are within the means of the people in rural districts. Thus far, the school is giving splendid satisfaction in every particular, and a much larger attendance is expected after the entrance examinations this year.

I might add that we found the Department of Education, the Public School and High School Inspectors, also the Township and County Councils, most courteous and obliging in helping us deal with our problems.

Instead of the $160.00 promised by the Government, we understand that the School has actually received $396.47 in legislative grants.

SALE REGISTER

Mrs. Robert Speers will hold a Clearing Auction Sale of Farm Stock, Implements, Household Effects, etc., on Lot 38, 2nd line, Albion township, on Tuesday, September 25th. For terms, list and other particulars see advt. in Banner, or consult posters. Jas. A. Patterson, Auctioneer.

EMPLOYEE FOUND DEAD

Richard Cooper, an employee of the Inglewood Brick Plant, was found dead in the plant on Friday night. There is a good deal of uncertainty as to the manner in which the man met with his death. He was alone at the time and one story is that he was fatally injured while working with the machinery. It is also said that suicide is suspected. Cooper was about 23 years of age and had been in the employ of the Brick Company for some time. The Banner got in touch with officials of the Company by 'phone yesterday morning, but when we asked for the facts were put off with the excuse that an inquest was pending. We understand that Dr. A. F. Roynar, of Palgrave, will open the inquiry in Inglewood to-day (Thursday.)

ONE 50c BOX BROUGHT HEALTH

Years of Constipation Ended By "Fruit-a-tives"

The Wonderful Fruit Medicine

Anyone who suffers with miserable health; who is tortured with Headaches; and who is unable to get any real pleasure out of life; will be interested in this letter of Mrs. Martha de Wolfe of East Ship Harbor, N.S.

Mrs. de Wolfe says, "For years I was a dreadful sufferer from Constipation and Headaches and I was miserable in every way. Nothing in the way of medicine seemed to help me. Then I tried "Fruit-a-tives" and the effect was splendid; and after taking only one box, I was completely relieved and now feel like a new person".

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

TURNIPS DAMAGED

Many farmers are complaining about the almost, and in some cases, complete failure of the turnip crop. Some sort of mite or blight has completely destroyed many acres of beautiful turnips. This will be a hard blow to many who grow a considerable quantity of turnips for sale, besides those who depend on this fodder for the winter feed for their herd. Surely the farmer is hard-hit in these days of low prices for what he has to sell and high prices for what he must buy; and then some insect demolishes a portion of their hard labor each year.—Erin Advocate.

SAFETY IN A NUTSHELL

A fifteen-year-old of Detroit has written these slogans for autoists:

Drive right and more pedestrians will be left.

Watch your "step on it."

Taking the other fellow's dust is better than "to dust returneth."

Six feet have awaited many a driver who wouldn't give an inch.

DROPPED FORTY-FIVE FEET OVER CLIFFS

Eight-Year-Old Owen Sound Boy Seriously Injured at the West Rocks.

That Terrance Pembroke, the eight-year-old son of Major and Mrs. H. E. Pembroke, is alive seems little less than a miracle. To fall a distance of forty-five feet to limestone rocks below, and live, is not an every day occurrence. Yet this was the experience of the boy on Monday afternoon. A careful examination showed that his most serious injuries were a severely broken left shoulder, and serious cuts about the back of the head and the back. He was, of course, bruised all over the body, and is suffering considerably from shock.

In the summer holidays the boys with whom Terrance plays, are in the habit of running about the cliffs to the west of the city. Monday afternoon they were enjoying themselves along the cliffs about three hundred yards west of Brown's old lime kiln where Mr. John Dewar has a gang of men at work quarrying and crushing stone. There were five or six boys in the party, and in the afternoon's fun, the little Pembroke lad got too near the edge, and in some manner, he slipped over.

His little boy companions took the most sensible way of assisting him. Two of them climbed down the rock to the foot, where he was lying bleeding and unconscious, while the remainder ran along the cliffs to where the men were at work. They soon had the men at the scene of the accident, and when Mr. John Dewar, who was the first to arrive, picked the boy up, he was partly conscious.

He was rushed to his home as carefully as possible, and there his injuries were dressed by Dr. A. L. Danard. Although the boy's injuries were very serious, his complete recovery is expected, but it will be some weeks before he has recovered from the very severe shaking up he received. The opinion is held that the lad's body must have caught in some bushes, and thus broken the fall, because it is inconceivable that he should drop forty-five feet clear, to the rocks below and escape with his life.

This is by no means the first accident that has occurred in the same section of the cliffs. About a year and a half ago, a boy who lives on the west hill had a similar experience, and although severely injured, he entirely recovered.

At 10.30 o'clock on Tuesday morning, the injured lad was reported as progressing favorably. Examination showed that he was injured internally, but how seriously could not be ascertained. The cuts in the head are considered very serious. The internal injuries, and the seriously injured head are occasioning considerable anxiety on the part of those who are caring for him. He is, however, considerably brighter, and his condition has changed for the better rather than for the worse.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK, OCT. 7-13

Comprehensive plans are being formulated for observing October 7th to 13th as Fire Prevention Week. In a number of cities and towns efforts are already under way to co-ordinate the activities of local interests by appointing a general campaign committee representing the various organizations in the community. This year the main emphasis is to be placed upon (1) Better fire protection in public institutions; (2) Fire prevention instructions in schools and colleges; (3) More thorough inspection of buildings by fire departments and extension of systems which may at present be in force; (4) Correction of deficiences in building and fire prevention ordinances. Preliminary plans should be made in every community for carrying out a definite programme. As in former years, a proclamation will be issued and a limited quantity of campaign literature will be prepared for general distribution through local channels. Applications for literature should be made to the Dominion Fire Commissioner not later than September 15th.

SORRY IS NOT ENOUGH

"Allan! Where is Allan,"

A moment ago he was playing with his little cart in the yard, hauling dirt to the currant bushes. I can not tell how many cartfuls he carried. He was busy as a little man. But Allan is gone. Where is his cart?

"Allan! Allan!"

"I'se here!" at last said a voice from the back parlor.

"What are you there for?" asked his mother, opening the door and looking in.

Allan did not answer at first. He was standing in the corner, with a pretty sober look on.

"Come out to your little cart," said his mother; "it is waiting for another run."

"I'se not been here long 'nuff," said the little boy.

"What are you here for at all?" asked his mother.

"I punishing my own self. I picked some green currants, and they went into my mouth," said Allan.

"Oh, when mother told you not to. Green currants will make my little boy sick," said his mother in a sorrowful tone.

"You needn't punish me," said Allan; "I punish myself."

His mother often put him in the back parlor alone when he had been a naughty boy, and, you see, he took the same way with himself.

"Are you not sorry for disobeying your mother?" she asked Allan.

"I sorry, but sorry is not 'nuff. I stay here a good while and have thinks."

A GROUNDHOG FREAK

Mr. James Dargavel, Rock Mills, showed the Flesherton Advance a freak growth on the nose of a groundhog. Mr. Dargavel had killed the animal for his foxes and on cutting it up noticed the strange formation on its nose. The two front teeth had grown until they formed two tusks between two and three inches long. These had grown out and curved around until one had grown through the upper lip and the other was curved up beside its jaw. Mr. Groundhog must have experienced some inconvenience in eating, still it was in good condition. The nose and tusks are kept as curiosities.

"I Can Now Do My Work Without Feeling Tired"

Mrs. A. Moffatt, Routon Falls, Que., writes:

"I suffered from a run-down system and nervous debility. I could not sleep or rest at night, and felt so weak I could not walk any distance. I took several tonics, but they only helped me while I was taking them. Mother advised me to take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and I felt great benefit from the first box, and continued taking several boxes. To-day I feel like a new woman, and am able to do my work without that dreadful tired feeling."

WOMAN SUFFERED FOR MONTHS

Weak and Nervous. Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Webbwood, Ont.—"I was in a very weak and run-down nervous condition, always tired from the time I got up until I went to bed. Sleep did not rest me at all. My sister recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and others told me about it, but it was from my sister's advice that I took it. It did not take long until I felt stronger, headaches left me and my appetite came back to me. I am a farmer's wife and have many things to do outside the house, such as milking, looking after the poultry, and other chores. I heartily recommend the Vegetable Compound to all who have the same trouble I had, for it is a fine medicine for women."—MRS LOUIS F. ELSASSER, Hillcrest Farm, Webbwood, Ont.

Another Nervous Woman Finds Relief

Port Huron, Michigan.—"I suffered for two years with pains in my side, and if I worked very much I was nervous and just as tired in the morning as when I went to bed. I was sleepy all the day and didn't feel like doing anything, and was so nervous I would bite my finger nails. One of my friends told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it helped me so much that I soon felt fine."—MRS. CHARLES BEELER, 901-14th St., Port Huron, Mich.

Women who suffer from any feminine ailment should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. C

There are a number of auto owners in town and county permitting children under 18 years of age to drive their cars. This is strictly against the law and the car owner is liable for a fine. If between 16 and 18 years the child may pass an examination for qualification.

SUCCESSFUL SHOW

Hillsburg Horticultural Society Held Its Annual Exhibition Last Week.

(Intended for last week)

The Hillsburg Horticultural Society held its fourteenth Annual Show in the Prresbyterian Church sheds in Hillsburg on Tuesday afternoon and evening, August 28th. The Show was a fine success, the attendance being very satisfactory and the exhibit excellent in all departments. Special features that added much to the interest and enjoyment of the crowd included some community singing, excellent music by the Premier five piece orchestra, of Guelph, and contests in elocution. When it came to the pie eating contest the married men present were too modest to give a public demonstration of their abilities in this line and the competition had to go by default. Not so the bun eating contest, in which Joe Hall finished first, beating his brother George by one awful face and two tremendous swallows.

The financing of the Show was assisted materially by generous donations from Hon. H. Guthrie, M. P., Hon. W. E. Raney, R. Barbour, R. Nixon, Dr. A. Gibson and W. Glassford. The Society is greatly indebted to these gentlemen for their interest and good-will.

The Directors of the Society are to be heartily congratulated on the success of the Show and the interest they evince in the welfare of the Society. A live Horticultural Society is a real asset to any community and it is greatly to the credit of the people of Hillsburg and community that they have always given their Society a generous measure of public support. Here and There

Protection of migratory birds has been added to the duties of the Canadian Pacific Railway's constabulary.

Airplanes attached to the Ontario Forestry Department are now equipped with radio sending apparatus so that they can keep in constant touch with the chief and other rangers.

There was an increase of sixty-three per cent in the number of immigrants to Canada during the last three months as compared with the corresponding period of last year.

Canadian Pacific agents in Britain recruited nearly five thousand men for work in the harvest fields of Western Canada and, through lack of steamship accommodation closed their doors on as many more who, attracted by the special harvest rate, sought to enter Canada.

The branch lines program of the Canadian Pacific Railway carried out this year will bring into operation on the prairies a larger mileage than any one year since 1914. Of the 431 miles of line under construction, 281 miles will be ready for handling grain in the Fall, and of the balance, 115 miles will be ready for steel by the winter freeze-up.

A building has been acquired by the University of Toronto to be entirely devoted to the manufacture of insulin. This will be the only factory in Canada to manufacture the curative fluid in commercial quantities and, although it is manufactured in the United States, Great Britain and Denmark, the Canadian product will be sold throughout the world.

Dawson City recently celebrated the twenty-seventh anniversary of the discovery of the Klondyke. In an exhibition of Yukon products cabbages 16 inches in diameter and weighing thirty pounds, potatoes as big as a man's head, pumpkins as big as watermelons, wheat, oats and barley bore witness to the fertility of the Yukon soil. Side by side with these ranged gold nuggets, gold dust and silver bars.

Dr. James Inches, Commissioner of Police, Detroit, and a guest at the Canadian Pacific Bungalow Camp at Nipigon, holds the record for the biggest speckled trout caught in the Nipigon River this season, having captured a fish weighing 7½ pounds. This catch was above the average, but a large number of six pounders have been taken from the Nipigon this season. Several years ago, and from practically the same place, Dr. J. W. Cook, of Fort William, caught the world's record speckled trout, which weighed fourteen and one-half pounds, and was more than two and a half feet long.

A record was established recently when one of the latest type of Canadian Pacific locomotives drew a train of 42 cars of newsprint, weighing more than 1,100 tons, from the plant of the Abitibi Pulp and Paper Company, North Bay, to Toronto, without mishap. Ordinarily, it would have taken two passenger engines to haul such a load for the 320 miles. After proving its worth by this feat the huge engine, together with an all steel train consisting of the latest model tourist, dining and sleeping cars, and a baggage and compartment car, formed part of the Canadian Pacific exhibit at the National Exhibition at Toronto.

THE NUMBER THIRTEEN

Where is there a man or woman who has not at some time or other believed that the number thirteen was unlucky. Such a person would be rather difficult to find. Therefore it ought to be of interest to everybody to know a few cases where thirteen may be found. On each American twenty-five cent piece there are 13 stars, 13 letters in the scroll of the eagle's neck, 13 leaves on the olive branch, 13 arrow heads and 13 letters in the words "quarter dollar."

DEMOCRACY ON TRIAL

(II.—Dr. J. G. Shearer.)

In our former article we emphasized the necessity for a high standard in mind and morals on the part of the citizens generally if democracy is to prove in practice an efficient form of Government.

One of the points at which democracy is tested and in consequent danger is at the ballot box. The secret ballot is a safeguard of honesty and freedom in the expression of political manhood and womanhood. It makes possible an honest vote. It is not sufficient to guarantee it. There are sinister influences at work. One of these is the purchasing of votes. The effort undoubtedly is too frequently made in keen party contests. In many cases it is successful. An honored member of the House of Commons is authority for the statement in my possession—a signed statement—that in his constituency, a rural one in Eastern Canada, 70 per cent. of the electors were open to receive whisky or money or both and 50 per cent would importune candidates or workers for money or liquor or both. There are cases on public record where professing Christian men were the agents for distribution of corrupt funds and liquor. It would seem that many who are honest in business have no conception of honesty in politics. The President of one of our old Universities tells that when he went to vote in a certain general election he met an official of a rural church of the denomination to which he belonged and in conversation was informed that this man had two sons voting for the first time at this election and that he, the father, had thought well to give them advice about their duty in the exercise of their new power of manhood and had said, "boys take all the money the Tories will give you and take all the money the Grits will give you—but vote your own conscience!" What did this man mean by "voting your conscience?"

But aside from cases of rigid party electors who will take money but not sell their votes the party system lends itself to the buying of seats in Parliament, Legislature or municipal council. In each 1000 electors in a close constituency there may be 400 of one party, 400 of the other, 100 independents and 100 purchasable voters. The keen election leaders will concentrate on the 200, half of whom can be bought, and the other half must be persuaded. A purchasable ten per cent. may decide an election in a large number of constituencies. Here lies a very strong temptation to unscrupulous candidates and party leaders. The history of practical politics in Canada provides all too clear and unsavory evidence that in a certain number of constituencies the temptation has been yielded to and the will of the people defeated. Democracy has in that case and to that extent failed.

Practical politicians not infrequently speak of politics as "the greatest game on earth." If it is merely a strenuous struggle between two teams for the victory—and glory—if not the spoils, there is practical certainty that the welfare of the people will be a secondary consideration if a consideration at all. Politics OUGHT to be the "science of social welfare;" this only, this always. All else is secondary and comparatively unimportant.

The growth of a spirit of independence among electors and the consequent readiness to vote against the party of their preference is a hopeful sign of the times. The rugged independence of the electorate in Great Britain is well known. The average life of a government there is not above four or five years. And the life of governments in Canada would seem to be growing shorter. Insofar as this indicates a development of the spirit of independence in politics it would seem to be in the interests of the whole people and to make for successful democracy.

One of the greatest needs is a larger number of men and women of real ability offering themselves as representatives. To such men and women this means real sacrifice of self interest but it means also the spirit of service in politics. Service ought to be the universal ideal not in politics alone but in commerce, industry, the professions—indeed in every sphere of life.

One thing that would lead more worth-while men and women to offer themselves for service in politics is the elimination of slanderous abuse from platform and press in political campaigning, which in the past has been and in the present is altogether too common.

It would be highly amusing were it not so serious to read the purely party organs and to hear some leaders' speeches in a heated contest. It is simply wholesale unblushing misrepresentation and slander!

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our grateful thanks to our neighbors and friends and the people of Orangeville generally for the kindly and helpful sympathy shown to us in so many ways since the sudden death of our father, the late Joshua Wiggins.

WON CHAMPIONSHIP MEDAL

Mr. Geo. Thompson, one of Mono township's well-known horsemen, was a successful exhibitor at the Canadian National Exhibition. Mr. Thompson had the distinction of carrying off the grand championship ribbon and medal for the best Clyde stallion at the show with his horse Krishma. In the heavy draft class Mr. Thompson's Salem Lass was awarded first prize for three year old filly. Queen of Maryfield, another of Mr. Thompson's entries, was given third prize in the farmers' class for mares four years and over. The Toronto dailies state that some of the finest Clydes yet seen at the fair were in the ring this year.

How to Make Delicious Grape Jelly

Stem and crush thoroughly about 3 lbs. grapes. Add ½ cup water, stir until boiling and simmer 10 minutes in closely-covered saucepan. Place cooked fruit in cheese-cloth bag, and squeeze out juice. Measure 8 level cups (3½ lbs.) sugar and 4 cups of the juice into large saucepan, stir and bring to a boil. At once add 1 bottle (scant cup) Certo, stirring constantly, and bring again to a full boil for ½ minute. Remove from fire, let stand 1 minute, skim and pour quickly.

—Poor tea that can be sold at a low price is extravagant in use. A good tea like "SALADA" makes more cups to the pound, and is therefore really economical.

—Mr. Wilmer Palmer has sold out his general store business at Connor to Mr. A. L. Marshall, of Georgetown, who takes possession the latter part of this month.

—The dollar that goes out of town never comes back, but the money spent at home is used to develop the town and help to make improvements. If home trading was discontinued entirely there would be no towns in the country. Let us build up our own community by securing everything we require, which we possibly can, in our own home town.

—While riding on a coaster wagon near the east end of First Ave. one afternoon last week, Jimmie Merlina, the eight-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Merlina, was badly bitten on the face by a dog that jumped on him as he was passing. The child's face was gashed so badly that Dr. T. H. Henry was obliged to use seven stitches to close the wound. The boy is getting along nicely.

HOSPITAL NOTES

On account of the Orangeville Fall Fair coming on Friday of this week, the Executive of the I. O. D. E. will hold its meeting at the home of the Regent, Mrs. W. E. Irvine, Zina St., on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 15th, at 3.30 o'clock.

The hospital staff are very grateful for the following donations:—Mrs. Whaley, Shelburne, plum jam and buns; Mrs. White, bag of potatoes; Miss Atkinson, apples; Mrs. Carson, Mono Mills, quilt; Mrs. W. Gillespie, pickles; Mrs. Elmer Still, plums; Mrs. Connell, two baskets of apples; Mrs. N. J. Reid, Orton, apples.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS OF GREAT VALUE

Mrs. Mermadis Chagnon, Ste. Theodosie, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets have been of great value to me in keeping my little one well and I would not be without them." Thousands of other mothers say the same thing. They have learned by actual experience the value of the Tablets in regulating the bowels and stomach; banishing constipation and indigestion; breaking up colds and simple fevers; and keeping the baby free from the many simple ailments of childhood. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail, at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHORAL FESTIVAL AT ST. MARK'S

On Tuesday evening, September 18th, at 8 o'clock, there will be a Choral Festival in St. Mark's Church. A choir of one hundred voices, representing Guelph, Mount Forest, Harriston, Palmerston, Elora, Fergus, Arthur, Moorefield, Grand Valley and Orangeville, will give the programme under the leadership of Mr. J. R. Pears, conductor of the Guelph Choral Society. The preacher will be the Right Rev. Bishop Reeve, of Toronto.

MRS. MARY A. IRWIN

In the death last week of Mrs. Mary Irwin, at the home of her son, Albert, 643 Glebeholme Boulevard, Toronto, a pioneer of Caledon township and an old resident of the east end of Toronto was called to her long home. Mrs. Irwin, who was in her 89th year, was born in Caledon and had personally experienced many of the hardships and trials that were the common lot of the early settlers in this part of Ontario. Her loss is mourned by a family of five sons and two daughters. Her husband died seven years ago. The members of her family are: William George, of Owen Sound, formerly of Orangeville; Walter, in Saskatchewan; John, Albert and David, of Toronto; Mrs. Code, in Saskatchewan, and Mrs. Willoughby, of Shelburne.

REV. C. W. De MILLE, B. A., General Superintendent of the Ontario Religious Education Council, who will speak at the Annual Convention of the Orangeville District Young People's League, to be held in the Methodist Church, Orangeville, on Tuesday, Sept. 18th, 1923. Mr. De Mille's evening subject will be "Our Greatest National Need."

B. Y. P. U. RALLY

The Baptist Young Peoplee's Union of this town had a good representation at the rally of the Unions of the eastern district of the Guelph Association held in the Baptist Church at Georgetown last Friday night. A truck load left town about 6.15 p.m. and after a rather long trip, during which the front lights gave out and a lantern had to be substituted, reached their destination about 9 o'clock. After a spiritually helpful meeting, in which the members of the local society took part, along with the others present, refreshments were enjoyed in the basement of the church. After partaking of the good things provided by the Georgetown friends, the return trip was commenced. Soon rain commenced to descend and continued to do so until the wanderers reached home. A blanket and an umbrella furnished about the only shelter those in the body of the truck had, and everyone was pretty well soaked to the skin as a result of the ceaseless downpour aided by the best efforts of the wind. A stop was made under a shed at Alton, but it was not for long. Even amidst the physical discomforts of the journey, a good spirit pervaded all, as was evidenced by jokes and songs, the latter being practically all hymns, and one of the party slept practically all the way home. About 2.30 a.m. the town streets afforded a welcome to the B. Y. P. Upers, who were thankful to arrive safely and whose spirits were undaunted by such a trifle as a rainstorm.

FAIR NIGHT CONCERT

Orangeville Fall Fair Concert in the Opera House on Friday night should be just about the finest concert staged before an Orangeville audience for some years. No less than seven artists will contribute to the programme. They are Duncan R. Cowan, the widely known humorous entertainer, Miss Jessie Butt, contralto, Pipe Major Donald E. Macpherson, who will skirl the pipes, Miss Sheila MacAlinden, national dancer, Miss Hazel Byram, violinist, Miss Mary Dundas, national dancer, and Mrs. A. R. Westlick pianiste. The programme will close with a sketch, "An Old Sweetheart" by the entire company. Talent of such outstanding ability should ensure an overflowing house for the concert. Tickets have been priced at 50 and 75 cents. All seats reserved. Reserve seats now open at The Banner Office.

—Rev. J. A. Wilson, of Hamilton, an oldtime Orangeville High School boy, attended Presbytery here on Tuesday. Mr. Wilson was here in connection with the call to Rev. C. S. Jones, of Preeville, from one of the charges in the Hamilton Presbytery.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear uncle, Archie Speers, who departed this life on September 10th, 1922.

One year has passed since that sad day,
When one we loved so well
Was taken from his place on earth,
With Jesus Christ to dwell.

Little did we think that morn,
When we from slumber rose,
That he would be cold in death,
Before the day would close.

If we could have raised his dying head,
Or heard his last farewell,
The grief would not have been so hard,
For those who loved him well.

Many a sigh was heard that day,
And many tears did fall;
He was not loved by friends alone,
But by his comrades all.

It is lonely here without you,
And sad the weary way;
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.

Then try to wipe away those tears,
And try to weep no more,
For God knows best, He took him home,
Where parting is no more.

The Golden Gates were open,
A gentle voice said come;
And with farewells unspoken,
He calmly entered home.

Greatly missed by his two nieces, L. S. and R. W.

FLEW OVER NEW ONTARIO

(The feature article by H. C. Templin, of the Fergus News-Record, winning the first prize in the competition at the Short Course in Journalism at the University of Toronto.)

"On my second flight," said the Judge, "it became monotonous and I fell asleep and slept for an hour or so."

I smiled incredulously. The idea of anyone sleeping for an hour in an aeroplane seemed impossible, besides being a waste of most valuable time; yet the Judge had made the trip but a month before and the next day I was to fly away towards the north and learn that His Honor spoke only the truth.

On Sunday afternoon we stood beside the large seaplant anxiously watching the western sky. Overhead was clear blue, but farther away a black cloud hid the sky and occasionally flashes of lightning were followed by distant thunder.

Already we were wearing our heavy clothes. The pilot and mechanic had on their leather suits and caps, and I wore a winter overcoat and my fur-lined helmet and goggles. The plane stood on the landing stage facing the lake, and waiting for the pilot to make his decision.

Finally the Colonel spoke, "All right boys, hop in; I think we can beat the storm."

We hopped in. I buckled the heavy strap around my waist and turned to watch the mechanic crank the engine. "Contact," he said and the pilot repeated "Contact." There was a roar from the engine which drowned out all other sounds and for two hours I heard nothing else.

Slowly, the seaplane ran down into the water, gaining speed as we "taxied" along the surface of the lake into the wind. Every wave could be felt pounding against the hull, but with decreasing force, until the bumps ceased altogether and we were in the air. Then the trees on the shore began to sink down until they were right under us. We were flying over land, although it seemed rather that the land was running under us.

Indeed, it appeared that we four men were remaining steady, while the whole earth was falling away and decreasing in size. Rem Lake, which had taken us an hour to cross in the motor boat, was shrinking rapidly. I stood up and look'd over the edge, forcing my way against the wind. Directly below us was the island with the landing stage. The men were like dolls and I could hardly see them waving their tiny arms.

After that I settled back in the seat to enjoy myself and look around. There was little to see except bush, mostly spruce, which the settlers cut for pulpwood. No clearing could be seen, but away to the south, the line of the Transcontinental stretching both directions with a tiny bridge over the river: the night before, when I crossed that bridge, I thought it a large one. A train crept along the line which indicated the railway, too small to notice, but for the trail of white smoke behind it; and far away to the west, more puffs of smoke showed me the town of Kapuskasing.

Five minutes later, we were following the river, which was our only guide for nearly two hundred miles, until it emptied into James Bay. From the height of half a mile, the earth continued to seem unreal and the aeroplane the only object in the whole universe. Looking down, Northern Ontario was like a great relief map which curved up slightly at the edges to form a saucer, one hundred miles or more from rim to rim. It was colored in three shades—dark green for the spruce, light green where the birches grew along the rivers, and the brown of muskeg. Over this map our shadow crawled like a black beetle, but that was the only sign of life; even the waterfalls and the rapids seemed motionless as though carved from marble.

But if all was still below us, there was excitement all around. The cloud was threatening to cross our path ahead. Rain was pouring from it, looking, from our viewpoint, like a solid pillar, bright and glistening next the sun, but grey and dark towards the north. I realized what the pillar of cloud and fire of the Israelites must have looked like.

Our speed was a hundred miles an hour, yet that cloud was coming closer and closer. The pilot swerved to the right but soon changed his mind, for another black cloud lay in that direction. There was nothing for it but to race, so we did. The flashes of lightning were coming closer and closer, but without a sound of thunder, because the roar of the engine had made us deaf. Another flash came right beside us. I looked up. A cloud was almost touching the top of the plane. The Judge would not have slept under those circumstances.

Away ahead was a row of bright pink clouds. Below them I could see the shore of James Bay, but the water was largely hidden by the mist rising from the floating June ice. I looked for Moose Factory but could not see it, so turned again to the thunder clouds. They were a mile behind, thanks to our speed.

Then I saw Moose Factory, most southern of Hudson Bay Posts in Ontario, almost below us. The white buildings stood out like neat dollhouses on a green cardboard island.

We were coming down. The water was still as a mirror with no waves to slow us down gradually. I stood up to take a photograph at the moment we hit the water—hard. As I was jerked to the end of my retaining straps, I realized how useful they were. I escaped a bath in Moose River and my longest flight was finished.

Brampton's Old Home Week had a deficit of $769, which is being assumed by the town council.

James Reid died suddenly at Feversham on Monday of last week from heart failure. The deceased was one of the pioneers of this district, having been born near Eugenia, Township of Collingwood, 73 years ago. He conducted a general store at Singhampton for many years.

On Sunday, Sept. 2nd, the Right Rev. David Williams, D. D., Lord Bishop of Huron, dedicated the new St. James' Anglican Church in Dundalk, also consecrated the chancel furniture, altar table and holy communion rail, donated by Miss B. Johnston and ex-members of her class.

MAIL ORDER HOUSES

Better Spend Money Locally.

Many small and large sums are sent through the banks and post office weekly to various mail order houses. So the filteration goes on, to our own individual and general disadvantage.

Let us look the thing squarely in the face.

You are employed here in whatever business applies; are getting your living here for self, wife and family, yet you are foolishly sending money out of your own town—actually sending your own living away — for groceries, provisions, hardware, printing, clothing, jewelry and drugs.

Now, if you are in any particular business, how long, do you think, you will be employed if everyone does the same?

Not very long.

Now, what pecuniary benefits do you derive by sending out of town for your commodities? Supposing you do save a few cents—or even dollars—you must first write; secondly get an order on the P. O.; thirdly await the arrival and fourthly, more often than not, make exchanges.

1. Note paper and envelopes do not cost much, but collectively, it is quite a big factor in expense; also the time taken up in writing means so many thousand hours in a year wasted.

2. The commission on orders or drafts and postage is also another item of expense we cannot overlook.

3. "Time is money" and the delays occasioned before receiving your order is perhaps the greatest expense for it can never be recovered.

4. If your goods are not satisfactory, you have no redress except to either keep an unsatisfactory article or lose more money, in time expended by exchanges.

How much have you saved? Surely to look at the catalogue prices "it pays to send out of town," but to get down to brass tacks, besides jeopardizing your own living here, you can put on the losing side of your ledgers, as absolutely lost beyond recovery, a sum which amounts to many times more than the amount saved on the actual purchase.

Probably your local merchants are bound to have their prices a little higher than out-of-town prices, but this is due entirely to your own dispositions as a community, for you are not giving them the volume of business to which they are entitled to being amongst you and not sufficient to warrant their prices being competitive.—Ex.

WHAT EVERYBODY BELIEVES

That if you don't disturb the bee it won't sting you.

That if you eat before you go to bed you will dream.

That people with black eyes are always bad-tempered.

That if you "kill" a snake in the daytime, it won't die until nightfall.

That you should never let your right hand know what your left hand doeth.

That small boys always hate to have their necks washed.

That a drowning person reviews in a second his whole past life.

That if poverty comes in the door love will fly out of the window.

That all professors are absent-minded.

That the roof never starts leaking until you get the ceiling newly papered.

That a toad will give you warts.

That when a bee stings you, it goes away and dies.

The Real Reason for A Pretty Skin

Why is it that one girl has a fresh smooth complexion and another a skin which is lifeless, dull and sallow? Is it a gift of nature or some guarded beauty secret?

It is a secret, but an open one in which every woman may share. It consists in knowledge of the care which keeps the skin free from clogging, poisonous accumulations. In the removal every day of all dirt, oil secretions, excess cold cream, powder and rouge.

To do this, use mild soap, massage it thoroughly into your skin and remove with many rinsings. The mildest soap you can choose for this purpose is Palmolive. It contains Palm and Olive oils. These rare oils are the mildest cleansers nature ever produced. They are the oils used by Cleopatra thousands of years ago.

Their combination in Palmolive produces a profuse, creamy lather which penetrates every tiny pore, removes every trace of dirt, oil, rouge and powder and leaves the skin smooth and fresh as a rose.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first-class dealers.

Palm and olive oils —nothing else—give nature's green color to Palmolive Soap.

WHEN you make your trip to the Far East, in which China must be embraced, you will be sure to visit Hong Kong and Canton, for both places are renowned in poetry and prose the world over. You cannot, very well, call at Hong Kong without "making your number" at Canton, for the places are only eighty miles distant from each other.

The Canadian Pacific "Empresses" call at Hong Kong and from there you can proceed to Canton by either train or river steamer. Those in the "know" usually go by train and return by steamer, or vice versa. By the train you will be able to feast your eyes on southern China inland scenery and village life. By the steamer you go up or down the Canton river. Both journeys are interesting; but the run on the Canton river will be more enjoyed. A number of the Canton river steamers, as well as being large, fast and spacious vessels, will take a lot of beating as regards accommodation, table and general service. There is at all times plenty of excellent company on board — visitors like yourself, and European residents in various parts of Asia — in whom you will discover charming and instructive companions.

There will be so much to attract your attention in Hong Kong that your heart's desire will be to "just see every place of interest at one time." As your steamer glides into the magnificent harbour hundreds of Chinese junks will be thrust upon your view, under sail, tacking, "going about" and at anchor. They are all picturesque to a degree, with their rich brown sails, peculiar rig—strictly indigenous to Old Cathay—and their hulls with an eye on the port and starboard sides of the bow, for, as the Chinese will explain to you: "Suppose no got eye, no can see."

Stretched before you, as your steamer passes to her wharf at Kowloon, is the noble Praya—now named Connaught Road—or waterfront. The denizens of Shanghai call their waterfront, The Bund. Part of the Praya, to the left, is land reclaimed from the sea. Splendid buildings, with their tiers of verandahs, have been erected upon it, among which is that of the Hong Kong Club, one of the most luxurious social institutions in the world.

UNREFRESHING SLEEP

If You Are Tired Out When You Arise in the Morning Read This.

The woman who is tired out, who aches all over when she arises in the morning, who feels depressed most of the time, needs just the help that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can give her—new blood and strong nerves.

The number of disorders that are caused by thin blood is amazing and most women are careless about the condition of their blood. Quickly the nerves are affected and the patient becomes irritable, worries over trifles, does not sleep as well as formerly and is not refreshed by rest. There may be stomach trouble and headache. This is a condition that calls for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and the first sign of new life will be noticed in your appetite. You will be hungry by meal time. As the blood becomes enriched it feeds and soothes the irritated nerves, sleep becomes sounder and more refreshing, your worries become less, your work lighter. These are some of the things that these tonic pills do. Try them for any trouble caused by thin blood.

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, has had prepared some handsome certificates of honor, which are being sent out to the agricultural representatives in the Province in connection with the Rural School Fair Movement.

Mr. W. F. Rudd, of the 15th con. of Peel, had the misfortune to lose a team of horses in a very peculiar manner. While his hired man was ploughing near the orchard, his team was attacked by bees. With the help of neighbors, he managed to unhitch the horses and get them into the stable. Although a veterinary was summoned from Arthur, his help proved unavailing, and the horses died in a short time.

In company with Mr. Cardwell Graham, Mr. Stanley Campbell and his little 5 year old son, Teddy, of Dundalk, were returning home from Flesherton. Teddy's hat blew off, and before Card got the car stopped, Master Teddy, who was in the back seat, jumped from the car to recover his hat, receiving a very nasty fall. This was a miraculous escape, but resulted in a few bruises and a cut in his head, which necessitated a few stitches.

$5,000 or $10,000 would come in mighty handy to you to-day, wouldn't it?

Think, then, how much more valuable it will be to you at forty-five or fifty.

Of course, you'll say, I'll have been successful and won't need it then. But stop! You may—and if you do, you'll need it more then than you do to-day.

Your producing years will be waning and $10,000 will mean all the difference between a dependent and an independent old age.

Man, there's a big idea back of Imperial Old Age Insurance—one that's mighty interesting to you. Let us send you particulars. Write for them now. A postal will do. Address:

MIDGETS ARE CHAMPIONS

Defeated St. Catharines by One-Sided Score in the Final Game.

When Orangeville's senior lacrosse team fell by the wayside in the race for the championship of their series, their little brothers, the Midgets, stepped into the breach and saved the lacrosse honour of the town by bringing home the O. A. L. A. championship of their series. This they did by defeating St. Catharines by the one-sided score of 16 to 2 in the final game, a sudden-death fixture, at Scarborough Beach last Wednesday afternoon. The victory was doubly sweet owing to the fact that in the final game for the same championship a year ago the St. Kitts boys downed the locals by a one goal margin. St. Catharines were either weaker or the kid greenshirts were much stronger this year for the issue of Wednesday's game was not long in doubt. The locals were all over their opponents from across the lake and after the first quarter won in a romp. The score at the end of the first period was 1-0, at half time 6-0, and at the three-quarter stop 11-0. The Mail & Empire in its report of the game, says, "The speed and combination of the winnning youngsters was a treat and Orangeville will not have to worry about its lacrosse players of the future. Brawley, Robinson and Hughes played best for Dufferins. Smith in goal was also good." The line-up was:—

Orangeville—Smith, goal; Black, Moore, Merlina and Flett, defence; Robertson, centre; Brawley, Kyles, Hughes and Smith, home ;Snell, Davidson and Duke, spares.

St. Catharines — Preston, goal; Rothwell, Tourbin, Murray and Wright, defence; Warburton, centre; Ashworth, Sheehan, Barnett and O'Malley, home; Lee, Purcer, Gerner, spares.

Referee—Len Smith.

The Banner congratulates the Midgets on their victory and championship. They have proved themselves clever exponents of the game and have done great honour to themselves and the town they represent. We hope the champions will be given fitting recognition in the near future.

JUVENILES WORSTED

Were no Match for the St. Catharines Boys.

If St. Catharines lost to Orangeville in the race for the Midget championship of the O. A. L. A., it had its innings in the race for the juvenile honors. Juvenile teams representing the two towns met at Scarboro Beach last Wednesday afternoon in the semi-final round. The locals were no match for the boys from the other side of Lake Ontario, who won handily by a score of 16 to 3. St. Kitts assumed the offensive right from the face-off and at quarter time had the locals down 6 to 2. In the second period they outscored the greenshirts 3 to 1, and by the end of the third had increased their total to 11 against three for their opponents. St. Catharines added 5 in the last frame, holding Orangeville scoreless for the quarter. The players were:—

St. Catharines—Williamson, goal; Luby, Doucette, Haslen, Rhymer, defence; Wagstaffe, centre; Lounsberry, Calderone, Richards, Stewart, home.

Orangeville—G. Sanderson, goal; B. Henry, L. Sanderson, D. Black, Hall, defence; Adamson, centre; D. Davidson, Connell, Douglas, Flint, home.

Referee—Len Smith.

DEATH OF INFANT

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Lennox, of Glencross, have the heartfelt sympathy of their neighbors and friends in the trying loss they suffered last week through the death of their infant daughter, Mary Kathleen Augusta. The little one, who was 1 month and 14 days of age, passed away on Thursday last in Lord Dufferin Hospital, where she had been under the care of the hospital staff for two weeks. The parents and two brothers are left to mourn her loss. The funeral was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Moffatt, First St., to St. John's Cemetery, Mono, at 10 o'clock on Friday morning. Rev. J. A. Matheson, of Mono Mills, was the officiating minister. A number of floral tributes bespoke the sympathy of the neighbors and the bereaved parents.

CAMILLA

Anniversary services will be held in St. Andrew's Church here on Sunday, Oct. 21st. On Monday evening, Oct. 22nd, the Ladies' Aid Society will hold their annual Fowl Supper and Bazaar.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank our neighbors and friends for the sympathy shown us in the illness and death of our infant daughter and also for the flowers sent at the time of the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Lennox.

ORANGEVILLE - - ONTARIO

THE FALL FAIR

EXHIBITS AWAY AHEAD OF ANY FORMER YEAR.

Attendance Hardly up to the Mark on Account of Unfavorable Weather.

On account of the cold, cloudy day and the constant threat of rain there was a noticeable falling off in the attendance at the Orangeville Fall Fair last Friday. The crowd, however, was much larger than the Directors were looking for in view of the unfavorable weather. The fact that so many were present shows the hold the Fair has obtained on the public of this district in recent years.

The Show itself was away ahead of any preceding Fair in the history of the Society. Never has there been so many entries as this year and never has competition been so keen in nearly every department. There was an exceptionally fine showing of horses, cattle sheep and swine. It is doubtful if so many sheep and cattle have been seen at any former fair in Orangeville. The stock stables, erected by the Society a few years ago were filled to overflowing and extra accommodation had to be provided outside the buildings. One of the noticeable features was the presence of several down-country exhibitors, who have not shown in Orangeville until this year. The poultry was about the average. The main hall housed an unusually fine exhibit. Field roots and vegetables were much better than usual. There was also a larger showing of grain and more competition than in former years. In dairy and domestic products and plants and flowers there was an unprecedentedly large entry. Upstairs the exhibit of ladies' work and fine art was noticeable for the number and general excellence of the articles shown. In ladies' work there were a number of new exhibitors and competition was very keen. The school children's exhibit was a source of never-failing interest. The kiddies excelled themselves this year, there being a considerable increase in the number of exhibitors as well as in the number of articles shown. Visitors to the Fair agreed that the Hall has seldom looked as well or been as well filled as this year.

Attractive special exhibits were made by J. C. Kentner, The McMillan Clothing Co., Hughes & Norris, E. A. Parson, J. E. Smith, Wm. Fiddes, Wm. Cole, Mono Mills, and others.

Vendors of refreshments and holders of other privileges made a veritable midway, which furnished the crowd with plenty to interest and amuse. The speeding event proved another popular attraction and were followed with keen interest by a large section of the crowd. The results follow:—

An interesting feature of the Show was the parade of the horses late in the afternoon. One would hardly realize that there were as many horses on the grounds until the line-up furnished convincing evidence of their presence.

Orangeville Citizens' Band provided a fine musical programme. The Scottish dancers, who took part in the concert at night, also gave a couple of exhibitions of their skill, although the day was rather "cauld" for the comfort of the lassies in the kilts.

The fair night concert attracted the usual large crowd, the Opera House being completely filled. An exceptionally fine programme was provided by Duncan R. Cowan, the well-known humorous entertainer, and his assisting artists, Pipe Major Donald E. Macpherson, Miss Jessie Butt, contralto, Miss Hazel Byram, violiniste, Misses Sheila MacAlinden and Mary Dundas, national dancers, and Mrs. A. R. Westlake, pianiste.

WESTERN COAL SATISFACTORY

A carload of western coal was delivered round town a couple of weeks ago by Mr. A. W. Annis. Last Tuesday being a cool day some of the purchasers tried it in their grates and were surprised to find it vastly superior to bituminous coal they have been using in the open fire places. It fuses into a red mass, gives off no smoke and burns to a brownish ash free of clinkers.—Alliston Herald.

DUFFERIN EXHIBITS WIN PRIZES

At the recent Canadian National Exhibition held in Toronto Dufferin county exhibits won high honors. Geo. Thompson, Orangeville, had the first-prize three year old Clydesdale stallion, "Krishma." This animal was also winner of the sweepstakes and silver medal for the best Clydesdale stallion, and grand championship and gold medal for the best Clydesdale stallion of the show. Mr. Thompson also was first in the three year old heavy draught mare class with "Salem Queen," and in the heavy draught yeld mare class won third prize with "Queen of Maryfield."

W. P. Dodds, Orangeville, had a string of roadsters and won 2nd prize in the three year old, two year old and yearling sections of the class.

Messrs. John Black & Sons, Amaranth, were to the front with their Herefords.

Messrs. Geo. Gier & Son, Shorthorn breeders, of Waldemar, had 6th prize for Sr. yearling heifer, 4th Jr. heifer calf, 6th Sr. bull calf, 4th Jr. bull calf, 7th get of sire, and 5th prize in special classes for Shorthorn steers.

In the grain sections, Wm. Morrow, Orangeville, was second in threshed grain in this division of the standing field crop competition in oats. J. C. Jackson, Orangeville, was 3rd in open competition in oats.

"Lady Broadhooks," a Shorthorn heifer, bred by Messrs. Gier & Son, was the grand champion female at the recent Iowa State Fair held at Des Moines, Iowa.

The winning of prizes in such competition reflects considerable credit on the exhibitors, and shows the kind of stock being produced in this county. Shows provide an excellent means of advertising the exhibitors and the locality, and it is hoped that many others will be encouraged to exhibit their stock at future shows.

WOMEN'S PRAYER CIRCLE

The Women's Prayer Circle of this town held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Passmore, West Broadway, on Thursday of last week, on account of Friday being Fall Fair day. This was to have been the annual Picnic, but on account of the chilly weather the meeting was held indoors. Rev. W. G. Brown, pastor of the Baptist Church, gave an address based on Romans 8, and a number of the ladies led in prayer. After the service a social time was spent and a bountiful supper, that was passed around, was enjoyed by all. The attendance was good. Most of the ladies were taken out and back again by car. The next meeting will be held on Friday, Sept. 21st, at the home of Mrs. Stratton, South Townline.

HOCKLEY

On Tuesday, Sept. 11th, the annual School Fair of the township of Mono was held at Mono Centre. Our school children went up in gaily decorated cars. We had an attendance of 28 out of 32 pupils. The children of this section surely had a wonderful day. They took first prizes for marching and singing and also brought home the most prizes for individual exhibits and the most money of any school there. We have a lovely school and school grounds and a cordial invitation is extended to any who may care to visit us, either in school hours or at any other time.

MELVILLE CROSS

Those of the farmers who have their threshing done report the grain as being a very good sample, although the yield is light in some places.

Since the big rain of three weeks ago the low tide that prevailed on the Credit in midsummer has now risen to high tide and the volume of water is almost large enough to float a line of boats.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sawden and party from Toronto, and Mr. and Mrs. John Sawden and family, of Maple Valley, spent Sunday at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sawden, of Melville. Mr. John Sawden is a prosperous farmer of Nottawasaga township, which borders on the three counties of Simcoe, Grey and Dufferin, although he is an elector of West Simcoe and in politics is a very ardent supporter of the U. F. O. cause. He says the Farmer Government will come back at the next general election. Being a native of Yorkshire, Eng., Mr. Sawden is in sympathy with the policy so eloquently upheld by John Bright and Richard Cobden in the British House of Commons in 1838.

MELANCTHON STATION

Some of the farmers are now only finishing up their harvest, much of the late oats and barley having become so badly lodged by the heavy rain and wind storms that it has not only retarded the maturing of the crop, but has also rendered it very difficult to cut with a binder. In some cases a mower has to be used.

Mr. Arthur Dobson, of Toronto, was in the village a few days last week winding up the business in connection with the sale of his farm here, the old Lavelle property on the Gravel Road.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Gilpin and Mr. and Mrs. Barton, of Brockville, visited Mr. Albert Gilpin, of the old Gilpin homestead, east of the village.

The hunting season is now with us again. Although there are a few rabbits and other small game in the surrounding woods, it is like nothing compared with what it was in the good old days when we could enjoy rabbit stew during the entire autumn season.

Mr. T. K. Slack, ex-M. P. P., had a trip to Toronto the other day.

MARSVILLE

Anniversary services were held in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday. The Rev. Mr. Lundie, of Grand Valley, preached excellent sermons in the morning and evening and was greeted by large congregations on both occasions. The choir was reinforced for the day and rendered good music at both services.

Harvest Home services will be held in the Grove Church next Sunday. The pastor, Rev. S. B. Stokes, will occupy the pulpit both morning and evening.

The Marsville Branch Women's Institute held its regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 5th, at the home of Mrs. Jas. Duncan. There was a good attendance and a profitable meeting was held. The principal feature of the meeting was prizes given for the best bouquets. Mrs. Jas. Duncan secured first prize, Mrs. Geo. Hawes, second, and Miss A. McGowan, third. The next monthly meeting will be held the first Wednesday in October at the home of Mrs. Holly Simpson.

On Monday night a large crowd of the young people of the vicinity gathered in the hall in the village to do honour to Miss Annie McGowan, a bride-to-be. A large number of presents of various kinds were showered upon her, then the remainder of the evening was pleasantly spent in dancing.

Miss Elsie Dyer, of the General Hospital, Toronto, is spending her holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dyer.

ALTON

A very pleasant farewell party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dods on Thursday night, when members of the Presbyterian Church, the church choir and other friends gathered to say good-bye to Mr. L. P. Singer, their choir leader, who has accepted a business position in Orangeville and has since moved to that town. During the evening Mr. Singer was presented with a well-filled purse and the following appreciative address:—

Mr. L. P. Singer,
Alton, Ont.

Dear Mr. Singer,—

Owing to the changes incident to life and work, you are called upon to take up your residence in another community. That such has become necessary, your many friends in this community exceedingly regret. Especially is this the case with the members of the church choir, of which you, too, have been a member, and the capable leader. We, therefore, who are associated with the choir, would avail ourselves of the opportunity now afforded of expressing to you our regret at your departure, and at the same time to voice our appreciation of the services you have rendered the choir and the church during the period you have been with us. You possess musical gifts and ability of no mean order, and these you have used freely for the benefit of the choir and the services of the church. We all feel we have benefitted by your instruction and leadership, and we could only wish that such might be continued. As a slight proof of our esteem and appreciation we ask you to receive at our hands this small gift. We believe you will find it usable. If you have no immediate use for it, the future may open up an avenue for its use. For such is its nature that it does not become oldfashioned, or get out of date.

We wish you well. We wish you well in your business career, in the practice of your music, and in any other laudable enterprise you may be minded to engage in.

Signed on behalf of the Presbyterian choir—Robt. Clark, Rutledge Wallace, Beatrice McLean, Mrs. E. Harrison.

Alton, Sept. 13th, 1923.

The address was read by Miss Akitt, the presentation being made by Miss Mabel Dods. Mr. Singer replied briefly, expressing his regret at leaving Alton and severing the many happy relationships formed during his residence here. A pleasant time was afterwards spent in music and amusements. A delicious lunch was also served. When the gathering dispersed Mr. Robert Clark motored Mr. Singer to Orangeville, several carloads of the young people accompanying them.

On Friday evening last Miss Mae Harris, a popular bride-to-be of this month, was the recipient of a shower given her at the home of Mrs. Jerome Treacy by Mrs. Treacy and Mrs. Herb Storey. About fifty friends showed their good feeling toward Miss Harris by attending and showering her with many useful gifts.

Mr. James Meek, of Portland, Ore., U. S. A., spent a week with his uncle, Thos. W. Meek, and met many of his father's boyhood friends. He is returning home by way of the Canadian West.

Mr. Harry Barber has returned to his home in Chilliwack, B. C., after a month's visit with relatives in town.

The regular monthly meeting of the Senior Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. T. Meek on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Owing to sickness Mrs. H. Jenkins was unable to take the meeting according to program. Members are requested not to forget the Roll Call answered by one minute speech from each member.

We are pleased to note that Mr. Daniel McFaul is able to be out again after his long sickness. We hope his improvement may continue.

Mrs. Roy McClellan and daughter, of Winnipeg, are visiting Mrs. Geo. Cameron.

No use of going to any other clothing store for the new overcoat you need; come to us and save TIME and MONEY. We can fit you out in fifteen minutes and give you the real goods.

It is a highly luxurious feeling to slide into one of our warm, well-lined overcoats. Do so and you will be so prosperous that you can also afford one of our handsome, stylish, well-made new suits.

We have been selling clothing for a good many years, but we never have had anything to compare with the immense stock of Coats we have this year. We spent a great deal of time in picking out these Coats, but when you see them, you will agree with us that we have a right to be justly proud of our selection. We have dozens and dozens to choose from, and for style, quality and price we defy competition.

Be sure to see these Men's and Boys' Coats before buying.

Remember our Guaranteed Serges to order, Botany wool and Indigo dye.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

Restored to Health By Taking "Fruit-a-tives"

Made of Fruit Juices and Tonics

The most convincing proof of the true worth of "Fruit-a-tives" as a medicine for women is found in the letters written by them to "Fruit-a-tives". For instance:

"I suffered with all the symptoms of female trouble, pains low down in the back and sides, constipation and constant headache. A doctor advised an operation. I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" and this fruit medicine completely relieved me of all my misery".

A FAMILY BRAWL

In the police court at Stayner before Magistrate Jeffs, Albert Gibson, of Angus, was charged with assaulting his brother, Wilburt causing serious bodily harm. The latter had three ribs broken, his nose broken and his head badly bruised in the fracas that occurred, over a 40 foot strip of land. J. R. Cotter, county crown attorney appeared for the prosecution. The case, owing to the conflicting evidence, was dismissed.

ADVERTISING COSTS LOW

Getting down to dollars and cents in dealing with advertising in the weekly newspapers, "Hardware and Metal" says: "It means that from three to five familes can be solicited for a single brown cent; and at a five-cent piece for the solicitation of from 15 to 25 families. What cheaper solicitation is possible or desired? Many a hardware dealer spent a dollar weekly to solicit the favor of some young lady in whose affections he would have a high place. He has spent a dollar or more weekly—perhaps a longer period—to have the favor of a single individual; yet has baulked at spending an equal sum to solicit the favor of 1,000 or more families whose business would quickly return to him the cost of solicitation. One wonders why so many men in the retail business neglect the solicitation of 1,000 or 2,000 families by the agency of newspaper advertising."

HAMILTON CENTENARY

One day recently two hundred of the descendants of James Hamilton, who emigrated from Donegal, Ireland, in 1821, gathered on the old homestead, now occupied by his grandson, Miller Hamilton of Athlone, to commemorate the one hundreth anniversary of the year in which this farm was secured by crown deed from the government of his majesty, King William IV. Some of the descendants present at this Hamilton centenary, while Wm. Jackson, of the third generation, enjoyed the distinction of being the oldest member of the gathering. Many interesting relics of pioneer days were on exhibits, bearing a mute, but forceful, testimony to the younger generations of the resourcefuiness and courage of their forefathers, who worked, hoped and suffered during the early days of Ontario. Of special interest was a pistol (fashioned from a harrow pin) and an old muzzle loading rifle which saw service during McKenzie's Rebellion. Both these firearms were made almost entirely at home by John Hamilton, the father of Miller, of Athlone, and William, of Tottenham.

HORDES OF BLACK SQUIRRELS

Aaron Cober, a farmer residing near Puslinch Lake, called on Crown Attorney J. M. Kearns of Guelph the other day and asked for a permit to shoot the black squirrels with which his farm is overrun and which, he stated, were playing havoc with his corn. Cober has four acres planted in corn, but it is doubtful whether he will harvest very much of it as hordes of black squirrels from the neighboring woods are carrying it away piecemeal and are destroying more than they eat. Cober refers to the squirrels as black pests, and states that if he turned his pigs into the field they could do no more damage than the unwelcome rodents have already done. Three years ago Cober had half an acre of corn, most of which the black thieves harvested. Last year they also destroyed the crop, and this fall they are making a grand clean up. For some years past black squirrels have been protected, but this year there is an open season, beginning on September 15th. The crown attorney was sorry for Cober's predicament, but had no power to grant his request.

LITERALLY DRESSED TO KILL.

Warriors of Old Were Dandies In Their Costumes.

The Greeks won the battle of Marathon by a lucky fluke and were dazed at their good fortune, for never before that day had they dared to face the terrible Persians, whose noblemen, formidable warriors, clad themselves in canary yellow silk trousers, embroidered with meandering jade green vines sprayed with blossoms crimson and blue; their pink silk jackets were adorned with appliqued lions and tigers, elephants and rhinoceroses, ostriches and peacocks of the gayest hues; they cased their throats with triple and quadruple necklaces of gold filigree set with every jewel known and their arms in similar bracelets and armlets by the dozen; their fingers were loaded with rings; their turbans blazed with jeweled aigrettes; the hilts and scabbards of their scimitars were encrusted with diamonds, emeralds and rubies; yet they were always ready to wade ankle deep in gore or kneel in mud, at any crisis of battle or match.

The traditions of such fashions have, in many years of the world, lasted almost or even to our days. The boyars of Muscovy, the princes of Poland, the magnates of Hungary upholstered themselves with wadded coats sewed all over with seed pearls, such as the famous diamond-encrusted heirloom coat of the Esterhazy family, which, according as one tale or the other turns out to be true, was either successfully hidden from Bela Kun and his communists or treacherously betrayed to them and by them scissors into salable snippets.—Exchange.

Why Sicilians Brave Danger.

There will be the familiar expressions of wonder that the Sicilians persist in living on the slopes of Etna, though they and all of their ancestors from time immemorial have known of the appalling dangers of the site, and again and again through all the ages have suffered, as they used to think, and perhaps as some of them so still, from the struggles of the giant Enceladus to break the prison into which Jupiter chained him.

They live there because between the eruptions life is easier there than elsewhere, the soil more fertile. Human beings cannot afford to keep always in mind a peril that is intermittent—that leaves long periods of prosperity under a threat that, for any one generation, may not, probably will not, be carried out.

It is a peculiarity of volcanic outpourings that, except when they take the form of lava that hardens into stone, on them big crops can be raised. And even the lava soon disintegrates into richness. That is enough to explain why, all over the world, people make their homes on or near mountains that at any moment may overwhelm them with fire, but usually are kind and useful neighbors.

"Paternalism" In Sweden.

In Sweden a farmer can be reprimanded by the governor of a province for abusing "mother earth." Over 1,100 cases of abusing farm land by neglecting to cultivate it properly have been dealt with during the last four years.

There has been some discussion as to definitions by those charged with determining when a farmer should be censured for neglect of his land, but the Swedish cultivation extension committee has come to the conclusion that corrective measures are necessary where land was found overgrown with weeds, where a field yielded notably less than the neighboring fields, where the annual production decreased, or where grain had been disposed of unthrashed. Of the 1,177 cases considered 124 had to be brought to the attention of provincial governors before improvement was effected.

Fishes as Pets.

Is it possible to tame fishes in the same way as we do other creatures that become our pets? The answer is, "Yes."

Dr. Fastenrath, of Zurich, has succeeded in taming fish in the Lake of Lugano to such an extent that they eat out of his hand and allow themselves to be taken up and caressed.

For six months the doctor repeatedly stood in the lake up to his neck in water, and holding a piece of bread in each hand. At the end of a couple of months the fish came up and nibbled at the bread and eventually became quite friendly.

Upon several occasions Dr. Fastenrath let a white screen down into the water, and against this background, by means of a special camera, he took some curious photographs of his family pets.

The Young Philosopher.

A young philosopher was employed in one of the stores at a salary of $6.50 per week. He told his employer one morning that he was going to leave, having found a better place.

"A better place?" echoed his employer." What wages are you to get?"

"Six dollars a week."

"But that is not as much as you get here."

"No," said the boy, "but then it's better to do less and not get so much than to do more and not get enough."

Outlawed Moth Baggage.

Empty grain bags have been outlawed in Guatemala, their importation being prohibited by Presidential decree. The purpose is to prevent the introduction of a moth, called the "gorgojo," found in many of the coffee-producing countries and very harmful to the coffee bean.

Mr. James Davidson, formerly of Inglewood, who has been living with his son in Toronto, is now ill in a hospital in the city. He is 76 years of age and may not recover. Mr. Davidson was for many years a member of Caledon Council and of Peel County Council.

Sergeant Doyle and Inspector Reevely, of Brampton, went to Caledon East and apprehended William R. Holloway, who is wanted in Simcoe, Ont., on an alleged charge of defrauding the public. Holloway, who is 24 years of age, and whose home is at Caledon East, has been taking subscriptions for magazines and failing to turn in the money, it is claimed by a firm in the city. He is also accused of securing small sums of money in petty ways. He was brought to Brampton jail, then taken on to the city, where the Simcoe authorities were to take him in charge.

MRS. BUDGE SO WEAK COULD HARDLY STAND

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

River Desert, Que.—"I used to have a severe pain in my side. I would be unable to walk fast and could not stand for any length of time to do my ironing or washing, but I would have to lie down to get relief from the pain. I had this for about two years, then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had had good results. I certainly got good results from it, too, as the last time I had a sore side was last May and I have not had it since. I am also glad of having good nursing for my baby, and I think it is your medicine that helped me in this way."—Mrs. L. V. BUDGE, River Desert, Quebec.

If you are suffering from the tortures of a displacement, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness, or a pain in the side, you should lose no time in trying Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write for it to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario. This book contains valuable information that every woman should know. C

She—"Well, if you want to break off our engagement, say so. I hate beating about the bush in these cases."

Forged In 1300 B.C.

Some French engineers have just been entrusted with the chemical analysis of an axe brought back from Salonica where it was found in a tomb.

From a study of the ground in which the axe lay scholars have made sure that it dates back to 1300 B.C., and our knowledge of the Macedonian people of that time is very scanty. The question the experts set themselves to answer was whether the axe belongs to the Copper Age or to the more recent Age of Brass; and, examining a piece of the metal with the microscope and by electrical analysis, they were able to show that the metal of the axe is 96 per cent. copper, with some arsenic and very small proportions of tin, lead iron, and traces of silver, and that the axe was made from metal that had been cast and forged.

The result of its chemical analysis shows us the value of modern science in throwing light on the ancient world.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK, OCT. 7-13

Comprehensive plans are being formulated for observing October 7th to 13th as Fire Prevention Week. In a number of cities and towns efforts are already under way to co-ordinate the activities of local interests by appointing a general campaign committee representing the various organizations in the community. This year the main emphasis is to be placed upon (1) Better fire protection in public institutions; (2) Fire prevention instructions in schools and colleges; (3) More thorough inspection of buildings by fire departments and extension of systems which may at present be in force; (4) Correction of deficiences in building and fire prevention ordinances. Preliminary plans should be made in every community for carrying out a definite programme. As in former years, a proclamation will be issued and a limited quantity of campaign literature will be prepared for general distribution through local channels. Applications for literature should be made to the Dominion Fire Commissioner not later than September 15th.

Capturing a Bride

Failure Meant Her Death.

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

On the western coast of Central America is a tribe of Indians who are very proud of their ancestry, tracing it to the Aztecs, who were a semi-civilized people. They trade with other races, but marry only among themselves. Nature in tropical climates supplies food in such superabundance that the natives may exchange what they don't need for what will provide other necessaries than food.

The principal food produced among this tribe of Central America is cocoanuts. The Indians do not need to climb the trees to gather them, for when they are ripe they fall to the ground. All day at the harvest season there is a constant dropping, and at night one who is unaccustomed to the sound will be kept awake by it.

There seems to be a natural law that those who don't have to work for a living consider themselves better than those who do. Whether it was this immunity from labor or the fact of the blue Aztec blood in their veins, these Indians would admit of no union among their people with any other. Their cocoanuts brought ships to their shores, and the sailors necessarily came ashore to load them. This was always done by daylight, but when night came every man on the island must leave.

The Aztecs described by the Spanish conquerors were a delicately made race, and some of their women in their dusky way were beautiful. So it was with these Indians of Central America. They would go to the shore in groups while the sailors were loading their boats with cocoanuts, and doubtless there were glances between them and the Jack tars. But the girls knew that there must be no further courting, for should there be the life of one or both would be forfeited.

One day a ship was loading cocoanuts on the shore of these proud people. Several girls stood on the bank watching the yawls come to the beach, take on a load of cocoanuts and start back for the ship. This getting a boat over the breakers is always an entertaining sight. Several men walking in the shallow water would pull the boat out to where the oars might take hold; then the oarsmen, watching an opportunity between waves, would pull lustily in order to pass the next wave before it broke. Unless the boat was skillfully handled it was liable to be capsized.

The morning when the girls were watching the sailors the breakers were quite high. The rudder of a boat coming from the ship was unshipped by striking a bar a short distance from the shore, and, the coxswain not being able to keep her straight for the shore, her side was turned to the incoming waves, and she was capsized. Some of the men in her got ashore, and some were drowned. One was washed ashore some distance below where the boat was to have landed. There he lay, rolled hither and thither by each succeeding line of foam that slid high up on the beach.

The men who succeeded in getting ashore alive were helped by the girls, who waded into the water for the purpose. One girl, seeing the body that had been washed ashore some distance from the others, ran to him.

Lying unconscious on the sands, his light curly hair stirred by the ever moving water, he was a picture of manly beauty. He was Ned Phillips, considered by his mates the daredevil of their number. He never went ashore that he did not get into a scrape and on several occasions had been saved by some of them from getting killed.

The girl kneeled by him and lifted his head in her arms. Whether it was their warmth or the change of position or that he had been revived by the air, he opened his eyes and looked into a dusky face with sympathetic eyes, all of which seemed very beautiful to him. He had become exhausted shortly before being thrown up on the beach and was therefore not very far gone. He returned the look of sympathy with one of gratitude, admiration, love. Then, staggering to his feet, he pulled himself together, and the two rejoined the others.

But Ned was not in condition for anything but rest. He lay down on the sand, and the girl who had raised him from the water sat by him and fanned him with a tropical leaf. For a time the other girls stood about them looking down at Ned's pale face and limp figure. But young people soon detest the mating of those about them, and one by one the girls stole away and left them together. Presently one of the other girls came and whispered something in the ear of Ned's mate, and with a frightened look she rejoined the others. Some native men were coming.

In due time, the sun having gone down, the process of loading was resumed. Phillips, with two other men who had suffered by the spill, was left on shore to recuperate. This was bad policy so far as he was concerned, for the girls resumed their position as watchers, and Ned caught a few moments when no native men were present to endeavor by signs and a few Spanish words he knew—some of which the girl who had taken him in her arms understood—that he was grateful.

Forbidden fruit is the sweetest. This girl knew that by encouraging this white man she was bringing upon herself the penalty of death, and Ned, too, was aware of the fact. While native men were present both were circumspect; when no one except sailors saw them they failed to conceal the bonds that were quickly being bound around them.

An old adage is "Love laughs at locksmiths." There were no locks and keys for these lovers, but there were plenty of persons to note what was going on between them. How they managed to secure a few moments now and again without being seen by any of the natives or whether they were seen by some who did not betray them is a matter which does not appear. The sailors would do anything in their power to protect Ned, and it may be that the girl had friends of her own sex who would screen her.

The weather proving at times unpropitious the loading of the ship was delayed, and Ned Phillips' love affair had time to grow strong. Either luck favored him or friends helped the pair to avoid detection until the ship was ready to sail; then the storm broke over the heads of the white sailor and the Indian girl.

Ned had become so infatuated that he resolved to attempt to carry his love away with him. The girl, though loath to leave those who had been all the world to her for a new life of which she knew nothing, was ready to make the plunge, though she realized that if she failed in the attempt her life would be forfeited. The evening before the ship was to sail Ned pulled ashore alone in one of the ship's boats. The Indian girl was concealed in a grove of cocoanut trees some fifty yards from the verge. She had recently been suspected and was watched by one who saw her enter the grove. When this person saw Ned coming he gave the alarm, but too late to prevent the girl from getting into the boat.

There was but little sea rolling, and Ned was pulling from the shore when a short distance up the beach the girl saw a party of Indian men hurrying a canoe to the water. A race was at hand, with two lives at stake. Ned's muscle was equal to a spirited pull, and he gave way at once with all his strength. The girl sat in the stern and covered her face with her hands.

A ship's boat is not usually made for one pair of oars. Although Ned had the smallest one of the set it was very heavy. But so much depended upon the effort that he had strength far beyond what was natural to him. His distance from the ship was a trifle less than that of the natives, but they could pull much faster than he. They were gaining on him, and he saw that despite the marvelous effort he was putting forth they would intercept him when the girl, who faced the ship, took her hands from her eyes and a newly awakened hope shone in her face. Ned burned to have a look at what she saw, but dared not cease rowing long enough to do so. But by signs she contrived to tell him that a boat was being lowered from the ship, and in another moment it was full of men and coming toward them.

There were now two points at issue—first, to save their lives the lovers must meet the ship's boat before the Indians could overtake them; second, if they succeeded in this a fight must occur between the rescue party and the pursuers. On came the sailors, now and again some one of the oarsmen in his haste striking the water and sending up the spray. On came the Indians, paddling carefully, but rapidly. Ned could see only the latter and knew that unless his friends were pretty near it would be all up with him and his love.

He saw a man in the bow of one of the canoes raise a spear and aim it at the girl. While it was coming from the canoe Ned turned the boat just in time to save her. The man took up another spear and was about to hurl it when there was a report, and the spearman dropped. He had been shot from the ship's boat.

The three boats now came together. The canoe contained, among others, the father of the girl, who was bent on killing both his daughter and the man who was carrying her away from her people. The sailors, not wishing to kill the Indians, fought with their oars. The Indians had had time only to collect a few spears, and they were soon sinking to the bottom without having done any serious damage. Ned kept his eye on any one who showed signs of injuring the girl, and no sooner was a blow aimed at her than he parried it with his oar. Finally with a blow he sent one of her enemies into the water and upset the canoe.

This ended the fight. While the Indians were hanging on to their canoe a man in the ship's boat threw Ned a rope. All gave way, and Ned and the girl were pulled to safety.

When the lovers were taken aboard the ship the crew, who had been watching the flight and the fight, greeted them with a lusty cheer. Even the captain, whose duty it was to keep his men from interfering with the natives, with whom he traded, could not refrain from a hearty welcome.

Contrary to what might have been expected, the match turned out a happy one. Ned concluded to leave a seafaring life and settled down on the coast of New England, where he engaged in fishing. He has accumulated some means and owns the house in which he lives. He has several stalwart sons and comely daughters of a darker hue than himself, but lighter than their mother, to whom he has often told the story of how she was captured with a death penalty hanging over her.

HIS REMEDY FOR INSOMNIA.

Not Found In Any Medical Work, But It Was Satisfactory.

The first three doctrs to arrive for a meeting of the Medical Society's directors were a general practitioner, a surgeon and a specialist in curative psychology.

The talk fell to insomnia as they whiled away the waiting and, as doctors will, they came at last to their own experiences.

"I stick to the old reliable formula when I can't sleep—I count sheep," said the general practitioner. "I've counted millions. It doesn't seem to work very well, but nothing does."

"As for me," said the surgeon, "I try to see myself climbing a mountain that never ends. I've never come to the top because I keep it up till I either go to sleep or have to get up for breakfast. But maybe—" and he turned to the third—"maybe psychiatry has something more certain than that."

The psychiatrist grinned through his distinguished gray beard.

"Well," he said, "I can't give any definite formula, but I'll tell you the prescription I follow myself. Wakefulness at night is such a waste I cut it as short as possible, and in extremity I find my method works—with me."

"Yes?"

"Now, don't laugh. But what I do is simply this: I sing to myself. I sing 'Go to Sleep my Little Pickaninny.' Just keep it up and it does the work. But for heaven's sake don't say I told you."

A Jungle Mystery.

It is an exceedingly rare thing to comes across a dead animal or bird, and yet, out of the millions that inhabit this earth, the few corpses seen are invariably those of animals that have met their death by accident. It is the natural instinct of wild things to hide away when they feel death approaching.

This is specially noticeable where elephants are concerned. Never yet has the body of one been found that has died from natural causes. In India and Africa the belief is held that they make their way to a secret place to die when they feel the end drawing near.

With an animal of this size, one would think that such a hiding-place would be easy to discover. On the contrary, in spite of every attempt to find it, the last resting-place of these enormous animals still remains one of the mysteries of natural history. The districts where elephants live in a wild state have been thoroughly scoured in every direction, without result. Not one single corpse has yet been found.

Attempts are still being made to unravel the mystery, for, besides the scientific interest in the matter, there must be an enormous accumulation of ivory somewhere from the carcases of elephants that have died throughout the ages.

The Wild Boy of Hanover.

In the year 1725 a boy was caught in the woods near Hanover, living wild. He proved to be imbecile, and the story of his capture, and unknown parentage, aroused the interest of King George I., who commanded that he should be brought to England. He became known as Peter the Wild Boy, and excited such interest in London that the craze was bitterly satirized by Swift. Lord Monboddo saw the boy in 1782 and used the remarkable story to illustrate the theory of the evolution of the human race.

Safety Pins.

Safety pins were much more necessary to ancients than to people to-day because in those days buttons were unknown. Etruscans inhabited Italy before the Romans arrived in that country. It may be that they invented the safety pin, but the Romans first developed it. They did so in a way beyond anything known to-day. It was improved to such an extent that the part in which the pin point fitted was a receptacle for a corsage bouquet of flowers.

WINTER–WILLIAMS

A pretty wedding took place in the Orangeville Methodist Church at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Ellen Williams, daughter of Mrs. and the late Mr. H. Williams, became the bride of Mr. Herbert Winter, of Brampton, until recently manager of the Orangeville branch of the Dominion Stores. The bride looked charming in a smart blue tailored suit with hat to match and carried a lovely bouquet of white and pink carnations. She was attended by Miss Rita Ward, of Edinburgh, Scotland. Mr. W. A. Mewhinney, of Orangeville, acted as best man. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. H. L. Partridge, pastor of the Methodist Church. Later in the day the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for Toronto and points east. On their return they will make their home in Brampton.

CAMERON–BABCOCK

A pretty wedding took place in St. Mark's Church, Orangeville, at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 12th, when Helen Ruth, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Babcock, of Alton, was united in marriage to John Harold Cameron, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Cameron, of Caledon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. McDonald, rector of the church, Mrs. Russell Morrow, of Orangeville, presiding at the organ. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, looked charming in a gown of white silk canton crepe trimmed with pearls. She wore an embroidered tulle veil with orange blossoms and a string of pearls, the gift of the groom, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley. She was attended by Miss Agnes Meek, of Toronto, who wore grey canton crepe with hat to match and carried a bouquet of Columbia roses. Mr. Hilton Cameron, brother of the groom, acted as best man. Dr. F. E. Babcock and Mr. Allen Cameron, B. Sc., were the ushers. After the ceremony the wedding party motored to Alton, where a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. After a buffet luncheon the happy couple left on an extended motor trip to points in the United States. The bride's travelling dress was navy blue silk canton crepe trimmed with beige. She also wore a nigger brown coat and hat to match.

JOHNSTON–HARRIS

St. Peter's Church, Orangeville, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday, Sept. 18th, when Mary Josephine, fourth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Harris, of Alton, became the bride of Francis Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Johnston, of 92 Rose St., Galt, Ont. The bride looked very charming in a gown of Harding blue georgette, heavily beaded, with biege velvet hat with ostrich plume and biege shoes to match, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Anna Margaret Harris, of Hamilton, sister of the bride, wore a gown of rose and orchid canton crepe, with black lace and velvet picture hat, and carried sunset and sweetheart roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Albert Johnston, of Galt, Ont. The groom's gift to the bride was a fox neckpiece, to the bridesmaid a French ivory clock, and to the best man an amethyst tie pin. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Bagnasco, after which the guests motored to the home of the bride's parents where a dainty wedding breakfast was partaken of.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Johnston, Galt; Misses Teresa and May Johnston, Galt; Miss Elizabeth Kelly, Galt; Mr. and Mrs. J. Redmond, Hamilton, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Harris, Detroit.

About two o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Johnston left by motor for Guelph to proceed to points east. Mrs. Johnston's travelling suit was navy blue. She wore a smart black hat to match. On their return they will reside at 44 Cambridge St., Galt, Ont.

NELSON TEETER

Nelson Teeter, a resident of the north of Amaranth for about thirty years, died at his residence, lot 26, con. 9, in that township, on Thursday, Sept. 6th, in his 68th year. Deceased was a native of the township of Erin. He had been in failing health for a year prior to his death. He is survived by a widow and a grown-up family. One son, Hanson, died about three months ago. The remains were interred in Shelburne Cemetery on the Saturday afternoon following his demise.

DEATH FROM FALL

Former Orangeville Man Meets Tragic End in Toronto.

George Patterson, aged 60 years, living at the Parkdale Hotel, 1303 Queen Street West, Toronto, was found dead in the alleyway that leads to the rear of the hotel about 8.30 o'clock last Thursday night. The body of the unfortunate man was removed to the morgue. It is thought that Patterson met his death by falling from the window of his room. Chief Coroner Graham, after making a full investigation of the circumstances, decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Deceased resided in Orangeville for a number of years and ran the North Broadway billiard and pool room until the business was taken over by Ernie Menary early last spring. He was a quiet, good-natured chap, who was well-liked by patrons of the place and citizens who knew him. He sold out his business here on account of failing health and we understand had been very poorly since he moved to the city. His unfortunate end has occasioned much regret among friends and acquaintances here. Deceased has a brother living in Acton.

WAS ELECTROCUTED

Leslie Cooper, the employee of the Inglewood Shale Products Company, whose death was referred to in last week's Banner, was found lying dead on a pile of scrap iron by other employees of the company, who had instituted a search for him. Some hours earlier the unfortunate man had told his comrades that he was going for a drink. This was the last time he was seen alive. From the position of the body and certain burns about the neck, it is thought that he had met his death by electrocution. It is supposed that he came in contact with a short circuit, while working clay down from the upper end to the centre of the container. Deceased was 25 years of age and married. He is survived by his wife, mother and several brothers and sisters. Following an inquest held by Dr. A. F. Reynar, of Palgrave, in Inglewood last Thursday afternoon the jury brought in a verdict of death from accidental causes, adding that no blame could be attached to the Company. The jury, however, suggested that if possible there should be some means of detecting leakages of electric current.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The next meeting of the Orangeville Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. Howard Cox, Zina St. Topic, "Economy in the Home," Mrs. Geo. Hepton. Reading, Mrs. Johnston. Music.

BANK PULLS OUT

This week the number of Orangeville's banks dropped from five to four. The change was caused by the Bank of Toronto deciding to pull out. The Toronto and Royal banks opened branches here as soon as it became known that the Commerce and Hamilton had merged. The Royal will now remain permanently. The change is the result of an arrangement between the two banks—the Toronto closing its branch here and the Royal doing likewise for the Toronto at some other point.

HOSPITAL NOTES

The following gifts are much appreciated by the Lord Dufferin Hospital:—Anglican Church, Erin, flowers and vegetables; Mr. Lewis, Erin, fruit and catsup; Dufferin Agricultural Society, flowers and vegetables; Mrs. Kyles, flowers and vegetables; Mr. J. H. Steele, flowers; Mr. L. McCarthy, laundry roller; Mono Women's Institute, chair.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad and loving memory of our darling baby, Daisy Giles, who passed away Sept. 21st, 1918, aged 2 months, 12 days.

Five years have passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away,
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.

An angel took our flower away,
But we will not repine;
For Jesus, in His bosom wears
The flower that once was mine.

Sleep on, dear Daisy, and take your rest,
We miss you most, who loved you best.

Yet again we hope to meet you,
When the day of life is fled,
And in heaven with joy to greet you
Where no farewell tears are shed.

The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day;
But never will the one we love,
From memory pass away.

Sadly missed by Mother, Dad, Lloyd, Mervin and Bruce.

THE SCOTCH DOUBLES

ORANGEVILLE BOWLERS WIN OUT IN FIRST EVENT.

Grand Valley Carry Off Honors in Second Competition.

Thirty-two rinks entered for the annual Scotch Doubles Tournament of the Orangeville Lawn Bowling Club on Wednesday of last week. The tourney started under favorable weather conditions, with the sun shining and a fairly warm atmosphere. The greens were in excellent shape and as a result some splendid bowling was witnessed in the early part of the day. Several heavy showers fell during the afternoon and evening, making the greens slow and heavy, interrupting the play at times and in other ways marring the enjoyment of the bowlers. Nevertheless excellent progress was made with the Tourney, which was brought to a successful completion in the small hours of Thursday morning.

In the first event R. Allen and Ross Curry, of Orangeville, and "Bob" Wilson and Bert Brown, of Fergus, worked their way through to the finals. In the closing game the Orangeville pair had the edge on their opponents and won out by a score of 16 to 9. The first prizes were electric toasters and the runners-up received a fancy fruit bowl apiece. The final game in the second event was between T. Wright and T. S. Parkinson, of Orangeville, and E. McIntyre and Frank Sargeant, of Grand Valley. Owing to the wet greens and the lateness of the hour the two rinks agreed to cut the game to six ends. The contest was a see-saw affair, neither pair having any decided advantage. At the finish the locals had the small end of a 7 to 6 score. The winners' prizes were a pair of silver compotes and the local pair received a pair of silver vases. The results follow:—

ORANGEVILLE, ONTARIO

ORANGEVILLE PRESBYTERY

The Presbytery of Orangeville met in St. Andrew's Church here on Tuesday, Sept. 11th. As usual the docket was large and the whole day was occupied therewith. The members were glad to welcome the Rev. A. F. Webster, the lately inducted minister of Laurel, into the work of the Orangeville Presbytery after a successful pastorate at Allenford.

Dr. R. P. McKay, the Foreign Mission Secretary of the Church, was present and gave a most interesting address on the present mission situation at home and abroad. There are four thousand new worshippers added to the Christian Church every Sunday and yet the work is impeded through lack of funds. On this continent there are 21,900 young men and women on the volunteer list, waiting for the opportunity to serve in the Home or Foreign field. Many have already waited a long time and yet two cents a day for every church member would meet all our mission requirements. Rev. J. A. Wilson, of Hamilton, whose boyhood and school days were spent around Mono Centre and Orangeville, was present in order to prosecute a call from the congregation of Waterdown to Rev. C. Sinclair Jones, of Priceville. Mr. Wilson was quite successful in his mission, for Mr. Jones decided to go to Waterdown. Mr. Jones was four years at Priceville, where he was very successful, especially in his work among the young people.

The congregation of Everett is extending a unanimous call to Rev. Geo. Extence, of Meaford. The salary offered is $1800 a year and manse. Mr. Extence has another call and must therefore be a much sought after pastor. Presbytery congratulated Everett on their attaining the minimum stipend by their increased liberality toward the church.

Horning's Mills has secured stated supply for six months. A Conference will be held in connection with the Presbytery on the afternoon of November 13th.

IN PRECARIOUS CONDITION

Edward Harris, a farmer living in the south end of Caledon township, is lying at his home in a precarious condition from the effects of injuries sustained in his silo, which was partially wrecked along with his barn in the storm of June 25th. Mr. Harris was making repairs to the silo, in order to have it in readiness for the season's crop of corn.

HOCKEY MEETING

A meeting will be held in the Public Library Auditorium to-night (Thursday) at 8.30 o'clock for the purpose of organizing a hockey team. Every citizen who is interested in this popular winter game is asked to attend.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE

A delightful miscellaneous shower was held in honor of Miss Edith Lang, a popular Laurel bride-to-be, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Trimble, on Thursday evening, Sept. 6th. Miss Lang was made the recipient of a number of pretty and useful gifts. The remainder of the evening was happily spent in conversation, dancing, etc. The same evening the Sunny Circle class, of Laurel, of which the bride was a member, presented her with a beautiful salad bowl.

COOK-LANG

On Saturday, Sept. 8th, the marriage of Miss Edith Pearl Lang, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lang, of Laurel, and Mr. Earle Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Cook, of Fraxa Junction, took place very quietly in Toronto, the Rev. J. R. Bell, formerly of Laurel, officiating. The bride wore a suit of seal poiret twill with shoes to match, hat of robin egg blue and mink shaker. Later in the day the bride and groom left for a short honeymoon trip. The friends of the happy young couple unite in tendering their hearty congratulations and good wishes.

BORN

DIED

McLEAN — In Orangeville, on Tuesday, Sept. 18th, 1923, Mrs. Jane McLean, widow of the late William McLean, of Caledon, aged 84 years. Funeral from the residence of her son, Mr. Geo. H. McLean, Zina St., to the Forest Lawn Cemetery, on Thursday, Sept. 20th, at 2.30 p.m. Service at the house at 2 o'clock.

SMITH—In Lord Dufferin Hospital, Orangeville, on Monday, Sept. 17th, 1923, Herbert Smith, aged 26 years and 5 months.

Funeral from his late residence, lot 10, 2nd line, west, Mono, to Greenwood Cemetery, on Wednesday, Sept. 19th, at 3 p.m.

MUST USE EXCISE STAMPS

An Ottowa despatch says—After October 1st next postage stamps will not be accepted for the war duty on cheques, receipts and bank drafts. Furthermore, it is announced by the Post Office Department, that excise stamps for this purpose will not be sold at post offices. This, it is contended, would lead to confusion, as postal matter might be mailed with excise stamps instead of the correct postal stamps. The excise stamps are to be sold at banks, "and such other places as may be designated by the Department of Customs and Excise." On money orders and postal notes the war tax will continue to be paid by affixing postage stamps.

"Wonder what an idle Telephone thinks about?"

"I STAND here idle for hours at a time! Ho-hum! She forgets that she hires me to help her.

"She complains of never having time enough, yet I've watched her for over an hour trying to write one letter to Springville.

"For a few cents I'd put her in Springville, and for 5 minutes the music of her voice would make somebody happy.

"When she picks up a pen she gets so self-conscious that her letters—well, honest, they don't do her justice.

"No pen helps a woman to express her real self, at her best, as I do—no postage stamp travels so fast.

"I sometimes think her husband appreciates me more. Ho-hum!"

WHAT A STEAMER DRINKS

Two men in overalls stand by a hydrant on the quayside, writes Douglas Kinack, in a London paper, the deck of the liner lying nearby, and they approach the hydrant. A twist of their hands and the water supply is cut off. The hose is disconnected, and the liner's wants are supplied. It has been a silent, unobstrusive business, yet the vessel has just taken in the best part of 2,000 tons of water.

She is a 12,000-toner, and each of her six boilers carries 60 tons of water. Each boiler loses some two tons on a day's steaming, and this has to be made good; so an extra 300 tons of fresh water has to be carried to feed the boilers. So far the boilers alone the ship needs 660 tons of water.

Then there's the ballast—some 530 tons of sea water. This, of course, varies, for as the liner rids herself of fresh water, stores and coal, her ballast has to be increased. This is not done in any haphazard fashion, but under conditions that have been scientifically worked out. She must preserve her stability at all costs.

Finally, there is the water for the crew's and passengers' needs—550 tons. The liner is well equipped here. There is water, water everywhere, and plenty to drink in every cabin. There is water for cooking and for the laundries—and it is all fresh. Almost 60 tons of fresh water are consumed every day. Sometimes the vessel runs short, and condensing has to be done. Condensed water is super-pure, so is mixed with fresh water, to make it more palatable.

Yes, this 12,000 liner carries the best part of 2,000 tons of water—to be precise 1,740. Think of the Majestic and other giants, and then you will have to multiply this figure by five or six. When the world's six largest vessels make Southampton, it is safe to say that that port's water supply is decreased by about 100,000 tons.

All this water is kept in tanks in the double bottom of the ship. These tanks are cleared out after every run, so are always spotlessly clean. Even the water stored in the lifeboats is changed every passage out and home.

GUARD THE BABY AGAINST COLDS

To guard the baby against colds nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are a mild laxative that will keep the little one's stomach and bowels working regularly. It is a recognized fact that where the stomach and bowels are in good order that colds will not exist; that the health of the little one will be good and that he will thrive and be happy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail, at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHINESE JADE INDUSTRY

The jade industry has flourished in China for centuries, and thousands of workers are engaged in the business, but native dealers and carvers generally refuse to handle more than one color of jade. Those in Pekin, Soochow and Shanghai confine themselves almost exclusively to the white, used in making bracelets, felt buckles, vases and incense burners, and other large objects, while Canton has for centuries been the centre of the green jade industry and sets the styles for ornaments made from it.

There are no jade manufacturers in Canton in the real sense of the word. Anyone may purchase the stone and send it to the contractors to be cut into articles by skilled workmen. The contractor owns the shop and tools, solicits orders and hires the jade workers, paying the latter by the pieces and providing food and lodging.

There are about 10,000 workmen engaged in the jade industry in Canton, who are organized into four trade groups or unions, as follows: Cutters, bracelet makers, plain carvers, and ornate carvers. Years of experience have produced highly specialized workers in the last mentioned group. Simple tools instead of standardized machinery are used in the manufacture.

ASLEEP AT WHEEL

Hanover Motorist in Collision With Ford Sedan.

While driving home from Durham Saturday night in his sedan Mr. Runstadler, of town, had an experience that he does not wish repeated. About a mile this side of Durham he met a Ford touring car driven by a man named Wideman, of Hanover. Miss Runstadler, who was driving the sedan, saw that the approaching car was not veering to pass and she got off the road as far as she could, but Wideman's car struck the sedan, bent the axle, radius rods and fender. Fortunately the speed was not great or the accident would have been much worse.

Wideman's car was also badly damaged, and both cars were taken to a garage in Durham for repairs, Wideman acknowledging that he was solely to blame and promised to foot the bill. He declared that he did not see Mr. Runstadler's car approaching, though how this could be is a puzzle unless he was taking a nap at the wheel. A driver who cannot see the lights of an approaching car at 11 o'clock at night ought to look up an oculist at once, or take something to keep him awake on the road.—Chesley Enterprise.

ARMSTRONG—CRAIG

Amidst very attractive floral decorations of white, pink and mauve fall flowers, Knox Church, Grand Valley, Ont., presented a pleasing aspect on Saturday, the 8th inst., when Ada Marjorie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Craig, was united in marriage to Mr. William Wallace Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Armstrong, of Peterborough, Rev. Mr. Lundie officiating. Mrs. Grant MacDonald presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register, "O Promise Me" was sung by Mrs. Jessie Reith. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a French gown of mauve crepe, studded with rhinestones, a Spanish lace scarf and a mauve feather hat and carried a shower bouquet of Columbia roses and lily of the valley. Miss Florence McIntyre, of Toronto, who acted as bridesmaid, wore rose taffetta with silver lace, a black picture hat, and carried Ophelia roses. Mr. Rea H. Craig, brother of the bride, was groomsman, and Mr. Kenneth Henderson, of Galt, and Mr. Turner Chapman, of Toronto, were the ushers. The bride's mother wore a gown of grey plaited canton crepe and a purple hat.

Medical aid was immediately summoned, and it was found advisable to rush him to Guelph Hospital. Concussion of the brain is feared.

How to make your skin fresh and clear

Every woman passes as pretty if only her skin is fresh, smooth and young. It is within the power of every woman to possess this attraction to make her complexion as beautiful as she longs for it to be.

The secret Cleopatra knew and practiced in the days of ancient Egypt. She observed a daily ceremonious cleansing. The cleansers she used were the same you may have today, Palm and Olive oils.

These beautifying oils are scientifically blended in famous Palmolive Soap. They give it mildness, wonderful soothing qualities, profuse, creamy and refreshing lather.

Cleansing with Palmolive is a beauty treatment in itself. No woman should say her skin is too sensitive to use soap until she has tried Palmolive.

The attractive green cake, the natural color of the oils, is within the reach of every one who appreciates that cleanliness is the greatest beautifier.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first class dealers.

A CAR'S NARROW ESCAPE

Last week while a company of fishermen were driving from Acton to Myers' Cave, in Frontenac County, they had an experience which for a few minutes was quite exciting. The baggage and fishing tackle were placed in a carrier on the running board on the left side of the motor car. As the fishermen reeled off the miles of their journey they whiled away the time by smoking. Their matches they carelessly dropped over the side of the car. As they were running along the Kingston Road in the vicinity of Newcastle they noticed people gesticulating to them but they gave the matter no attention. A little farther on they heard shouting and persons pointing at the car. A glance around showed that their fishing equipment was on fire. The flames were flying two or three feet high. Their matches had fallen on the canvas sacking of their outfit, and this bursting into flames set fire to their equipment. The flames were soon subdued and the fishermen took stock of the damage sustained. A suitcase belonging to one of the party was almost entirely consumed, with its contents of clothing, a pair of rubber wading boots, and other equipment; but the bait was unharmed. The car enamel was badly blistered, but otherwise sustained little damage. For the remainder of the trip the smokers "killed" their matches.—Acton Free Press.

CABINS IN THE CLOUDS

To climb 6,875 feet above Lake Louise and to enjoy a cup of tea in delightful surroundings is one of the attractions offered visitors to Lake Louise, Alta. Tea houses on mountain peaks were unheard of a few years ago, but to-day there are at least a dozen of them situated in the Canadian Rockies.

Two of the most picturesque are the "Beehive" on the shores of Lake Agnes, about two miles and a half from the Chateau and the other a rustic log cabin on the top of Mount Fairview. Walking and pony excursions over the mountains in the vicinity of this picturesque lake are among the popular pastimes of visitors from all parts of the globe to "the lakes in the clouds."

From the "Beehive" one can get a perfect view of Mirror Lake and Lake Louise, which, with Lake Agnes, are known as "the lakes in the clouds." This cosy little tea room is owned by Miss B. Dodds and operated during the season by Miss Goddard. Its furnishings are quaint and rustic.

The foodstuffs are delivered every morning by pack pony from the Chateau Lake Louise—even fuel for the cook stoves is transported in this way.

In addition to the tea room there is an attractive assortment of antiques from various parts of the globe, collected during the winter months by Miss Dodds, who usually goes abroad.

There are many surprises of scenic beauty along the trail to the tea room, but perhaps the most interesting fact is that one can obtain a delicious cup of English tea, with equally delicious home cooking within sight and sound of whistling marmots and squirrels and chipmunks that leap from bough to bough, and often within sight of friendly bears who come close to the kitchen door in search of tasty food.

One of the most interesting trips at Lake Louise is by a narrow, winding path on Mount Fairview to Saddleback Tea Room and Rest House which is 2,500 feet higher than the Chateau. This quaint little log cabin, situated on Mount Fairview, overlooks Saddleback Mountain, so called because of its rock formation being similar to a saddle. It takes almost two hours by pony to make the trip over a steep zigzag trail, from which can be seen winding streams and rushing brooks thousands of feet below.

This tea room and rest house, like "Beehive," is owned by Miss Dodds and operated by Miss A. E. Whyman. Its surroundings are most artistic and restful. The view of Paradise Valley and Mount Temple from the tea house is one of the finest in the Rockies.

Daily supplies of food and fuel are transported by pack ponies from the Chateau to serve approximately 25 guests a day, who are well rewarded for their journey to the "highest tea house in Canada."

TORONTO CONFERENCE Y. P. L. WILL CONVENE

(Intended for last week)

The officers and leaguers of the Young People's League of Toronto Conference are anticipating much pleasure and profit at their sixteenth bi-ennial convention, which will be held at Brampton on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 28th, 29th and 30th. Those in charge of the convention state that they can see no reason why the Sixteenth Convention will not be the biggest and best in the history of the Toronto Conference. A number of prominent speakers have promised to be present to address the Leaguers at the several sessions, each of which will be brimful of interest and inspiration.

The Convention will open for registration on Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Half an hour later Rev. G. N. Grey, pastor of St. Paul's Church, Brampton, will conduct the opening exercises. Immediately afterwards there will be a keynote address delivered by Rev. Frank Langford or Rev. Manson Doyle. This will be followed by the reports of the officers. In the afternoon the President, Mr. F. T. Grafton, of Toronto, will deliver an address. The reports from the District Presidents will be given and some messages from the General Secretaries of the various departments of the church will be heard. There will also be an hour devoted to committee work.

On Friday evening there will be one of the brightest and best services of the Convention. It will open with a sing-song at 7:30, after which a civic welcome will be extended to the delegates. Then there will be an oratorical contest for the beautiful cup donated by Mr. C. R. Conquergood, of Toronto, past president of the Conference League. The trophy is known as the "Conquergood Cup." The subject of the contest is "The Task of the Young People," and the time for the oration is ten minutes. Each district in the Conference is allowed to enter one contestant and a keen contest for the silverware is sure to take place.

On Saturday morning the delegates will meet at 9 o'clock to clean away any remaining committee work and receive their reports before going on with the general business and the election of officers. For Saturday afternoon an outing is planned, which will combine business with pleasure. On Saturday night there will be an interdenominational rally, to which all young people of the community are cordially invited.

The Sunday services will be of an inspirational character. In the morning the delegates will go to church with their hosts and hostesses. In view of the fact that the 30th is Rally Day in the Sunday Schools, no meeting has been arranged for the afternoon, but the delegates are invited to visit the Sunday Schools of the town. On Sunday evening all delegates will attend divine service in St. Paul's Church at 7 o'clock. This service will be followed by the closing session of the Convention.

Although St. Paul's has been designated as the Convention Church, both Brampton Methodist churches are co-operating in order to make the Convention a success. Billets for bed and breakfast will be supplied to all delegates.

WESTON ARE CHAMPS

Won Round From Brampton by Score of 8 to 5.

The O. A. L. A. senior championship series came to an end on Saturday when Weston and Brampton met on the former's grounds in the final game for the championship honours. Brampton made an unexpectedly good showing, holding their opponents to a tie score of 4-4. As Weston had previously won in Brampton by 4 to 1, they were returned winners of the round and senior champions by a score of 8 to 5.

Excelsiors scored first in Saturday's game, Pete Machell doing the trick. Before the period ended Weston were leading by 2 to 1, Bob Stephenson and Bill Coulter each netting the ball. At half time the suburbanites were leading the Peel capital team by 4 to 2 and looked to have the game well in hand. In the first half the Westonites had the edge on their opponents, but Brampton showed to much better advantage in the second forty minutes, a shake-up adding greatly to the effectiveness of the home. Hillgartner and Dr. McLean were sent in and proved very effective. The pair staged a lively rally that kept the heavy Weston defence working overtime for the balance of the game. McLean scored twice for the Excelsiors and tied up the count. Hillgartner and Zimmer had some excellent chances to put their team out in front, but were over anxious, thereby missing good opportunities to beat Rowntree with the shot. The game was not brilliant lacrosse, but was marked by close checking and the steady work of the Weston defence, which was at its best.

NEW LAMP BURNS 95 P. C. AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil.)

The inventor, F. N. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

THE METHODIST CHURCH

At the Methodist Church next Sunday, morning and evening, Prof. A. J. Johnston, of Victoria College, will speak on educational work. Prof. Johnston is known as a very able speaker. He was at one time stationed at Grand Valley.

S. S. CONVENTION

Amaranth Township Association Held its Annual Meeting at Campania.

The Annual Convention of the Sunday School Association of the township of Amaranth was held in the Methodist Church at Campania on Thursday last. Owing to the rainy, disagreeable weather the attendance was not as large as it would have been under more propitious conditions. However there was a fairly representative gathering of the Sabbath School officers and workers of the township. An excellent programme was provided at the afternoon session and again in the evening. Part of the afternoon session was given over to five minute reports from the departmental superintendents. These were followed by an excellent address by Rev. J. Russell Harris, Provincial Representative, on "Our Task in Religious Education," Rev. Jay, of Monticello, spoke on Sabbath School work and the session was brought to a close with a Round Table Conference led by Rev. Harris.

The officers elect were installed at the evening meeting. Rev. A. F. Webster, of Laurel, delivered a thoughtful address on "The Teachers' Task in the Sunday School." Mr. Harris, the Provincial Representative, gave the closing address of the Convention, his subject being, "The Marks of a Successful Leader of Boys." The officers for the ensuing year are:—

President—Robert Fife, Laurel.
1st Vice-Pres.—A. E. Williams, Shelburne.
2nd Vice-Pres. — J. J. Sproule, Black's Corners.
Sec.-Treas.—John Bryan, Laurel.
Departmental Superintendents—Children, Mrs. Ernest Richardson, Laurel; Boys, W. B. Grosskurth, Laurel; Girls, Miss Tena Gamble, Waldemar; Adults, Mrs. Ed. Richardson, Laurel; Teacher Training, Rev. W. W. Reckham, Laurel; Missionary, George Davis, Waldemar; Temperance, J. A. Lomas, Waldemar.

Next year's Convention will be held at Laurel.

GATE RECEIPTS DOWN

The unfavorable weather had quite a serious effect on the gate receipts of the Orangeville Fall Fair this year. The receipts show a decrease of over $300 from last year. The figures for the two years are:—

1923 — Gate receipts, $946.75; privileges, $177.50; concert, $258; grandstand, $17.90. Total $1340.15.

1922—Gate receipts, $1262.75; privileges, $86.00; concert, $281.65; grandstand, $26.65. Total $1657.05.

This year's membership list is much larger than the 1922 list, so that the Society will have a larger revenue from this source. On the other hand prize list disbursements will be considerably heavier this year on account of the large entry list and the fact that there were comparatively few classes in which the full complement of prizes was not awarded.

—The Toronto Daily Star Radio Car will be one of the attractions at Caledon Fall Fair to-day.

Refunding Loan 1923

5% Bonds

Dated and bearing interest from 15th October, 1923, and offered in two maturities as follows:

20 year Bonds due 15th October, 1943
5 year Bonds due 15th October, 1928

Principal payable at the office of the Receiver-General at Ottawa or that of the Assistant Receiver-General at Halifax, St. John, Charlottetown, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary or Victoria. Semi-annual interest (15th April and 15th October) payable at any branch in Canada of any chartered bank.

Denominations: $100, $500, $1000

All bonds may be registered as to principal only, and bonds in denomination of $500 and authorized multiples thereof may be fully registered.

These bonds are authorized under Act of the Parliament of Canada, and both principal and interest are a charge upon the Consolidated Revenue Fund.

To Cash Subscribers

Offering Terms

This issue presents a most attractive investment. The security is incomparable and the income return high. The bonds will occupy an investment position equal to that of Canada's Victory Bonds.

The bonds are offered for cash at the following prices:

20 YEAR BONDS
98.25 and interest yielding 5.14%

5 YEAR BONDS
99 and interest yielding 5.23%

This offer is made subject to prior sale and to advance in price.

To Holders of 1923 Victory Bonds

In addition to the bonds offered for cash it has been arranged that all owners of Victory Bonds due November 1st, 1923, may exchange their holdings for the same amount of the new issue. They will receive in cash the difference between the face value of their maturing bonds and the purchase price of the new security, namely: at the rate of $1.75 per $100 for 20 year bonds and $1.00 for 5 year bonds.

Special Privilege

Interest coupons on bonds exchanged are to be retained by the owner and cashed on November 1st. As the new bonds will be dated October 15th, holders who exchange will thus receive an extra half month's interest thereby reducing the cost of 20 year bonds from 98.25, and 5 year bonds from 99, to the following:

20 YEAR BONDS
98.02 and interest yielding 5.16%

5 YEAR BONDS
98.77 and interest yielding 5.28%

Holders are urged to act promptly as this privilege is subject to withdrawal.

Dominion of Canada bonds are the most attractive investment obtainable in Canada.

Orders may be telegraphed or telephoned (collect) and exchanges made through any of the undersigned or through your usual dealer or bank.

The right is reserved to allot a less amount of bonds than applied for, and to sell for cash more than $50,000,000.

These bonds are offered for delivery in interim form on or about October 15th, 1923, when, as, and if issued and delivered to us.

HADDOCK–LEWIS

A quiet but pretty wedding took place in St. Mark's Rectory, Orangeville, on Wednesday, September 12, when Miss Amanda Marguerite Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis, of Mono Centre, became the bride of Mr. William James Clarence Haddock, of Orangeville, only son of Mr. and Mrs. William Haddock, of Relessey. The Rev. J. W. McDonald, rector of St. Mark's, was the officiating clergyman. The bride wore a navy tricotine suit with sand canton crepe blouse and hat to match and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley. The happy young couple left immediately afterwards on the 9.30 train for a trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls and other points. After their return they will take up their residence in Orangeville. Their numerous friends unite in extending their hearty good wishes.

HOARE–OLIVER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Oliver, Third Avenue, was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, September 19th, when their elder daughter, Hazel E., became the bride of Mr. J. Clarence Hoare, only son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hoare, East Garafraxa. The ceremony, which was witnessed by about thirty immediate relatives of the young couple, took place in the parlor under an arch of autumn leaves and flowers. Rev. F. W. Mahaffy was the officiating minister. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a gown of ivory kitten's ear crepe. She wore the customary bridal veil and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses, carnations and maidenhair fern. The wedding march was played by Mr. J. B. Robinson, of Toronto, a cousin of the bride. During the signing of the register, Mr. Reginald Hoare sang "O Perfect Love." After receiving the congratulations of the assembled friends the newly wedded couple led the way to the dining room, which was prettily decorated in pink and white. Here a dainty buffet luncheon was served. The bride was the recipient of a large number of beautiful wedding gifts. The groom's gift was a handsome fox fur, to the pianiste cuff links and to the soloist a tie clip. Later in the afternoon the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes on a motor trip to points south, the bride travelling in a suit of navy blue tricotine with hat to match. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm in East Garafraxa.

MAY–M'GOWAN

"Churchview Farm," the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McGowan, 12th line, East Garafraxa, was the scene of a pretty event on Wednesday, Sept. 19th. The occasion was the marriage of their youngest daughter, Miss Annie Irene, to Mr. Lawrence May, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas May, 10th line, East Garafraxa. The home was beautifully decorated with pink and white asters for the happy event. Promptly at four o'clock, as Miss Margaret Nodwell, of Grand Valley, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march, the bride, escorted by her father, repaired to the lawn, where she took her place under a large wedding bell, suspended from the centre of an artistically arranged arch of evergreens adorned with flowers. Here the nuptial knot was tied by the Rev. A. W. Hare, of Hillsburg, in the presence of an assemblage of about fifty relatives and friends of the young couple. The bride looked most charming in a dress of white silk crepe de chene. Her tulle veil was held in place by a coronet of lace and orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. Little Myrtle Reid, niece of the bride, made a dainty flower girl, attired in cream silk. After the ceremony and the usual congratulations to the happy couple, all repaired to the dining room, took their seats around attractively arranged tables and partook of a bountiful wedding repast. The bride's going away costume was of navy blue tricotine with chic hat to match. The newly weds will reside on lot 6, 10th line, East Garafraxa, where they start out in life accompanied by the sincere good wishes of the community.

TROUGHT–LACKEY

On Wednesday, Sept. 19th, in St. Barnabas Church, Danforth Ave., Toronto, the marriage was solemnized by the Rev. F. E. Powell of Miss Elizabeth Lackey, third daughter of Mr. Samuel Lackey, Orangeville, to Mr. P. V. Trought, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Trought, of Inglewood. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore her travelling suit of navy gabardine with grey canton crepe blouse and black panne hat. Mr. and Mrs. Trought left on the evening train for Vancouver, B. C. They will also visit Victoria, Seattle and other Western cities. On their return they will reside in Toronto. The Orangeville friends of the happy couple unite in offering their congratulations and best wishes for happiness.

GLASSFORD–BELL

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley D. Bell, Beeton, Ont., was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding on Wednesday, Sept. 19th, when their eldest daughter, Lillian A., was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Jackson H. Glassford, son of Mrs. John Glassford, of Caledon. The Rev. Mr. Hearn, of Bondhead, was the officiating minister. The bride, who looked charming in a navy blue tailored suit, entered the drawing room on the arm of her father to the strains of the Lohengrin Bridal Chorus, rendered by Mrs. Hearn. Her bouquet consisted of white carnations, Ophelia roses and maidenhair fern. The drawing room was tastefully decorated with evergreens and autumn colors. After receiving the congratulations of the assembled friends the newly wedded couple led the way to the dining room, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served. Later in the day they left by motor, amid showers of confetti and good wishes, for Toronto, Niagara and Buffalo. The bride received a large number of pretty and useful wedding gifts. The groom's gift was a necklace of pearls and to the pianiste a gold bar pin. On their return the young couple will reside on the groom's farm in Caledon. A large circle of friends join in tendering their hearty good wishes.

BIBLE CONFERENCE

September 19–23 saw a Bible Conference in the Orangeville Baptist Church, at which Rev. W. J. H. Brown, pastor of Annette St. Baptist Church, Toronto, was the speaker, and Madam L. H. Jones, the coloured soloist, the singer. The attendance was good, interest ran high and the speaker's plain Gospel messages were greatly appreciated. The soloist delighted the hearts of all with her songs and Christians were blessed. Wednesday night the message was on "Consecration," a number indicating their response. "Prayer Power" was the subject of the next evening and the possibilities of a praying church were strongly brought home to the hearts of those present. Friday night the preacher took "The Holy Spirit Conversion." An open air meeting was held on Broadway Saturday night, at which the speakers received a close and attentive hearing from a large number of people.

Sunday was a red letter day in the history of the church. "Great Consolations" was the morning subject and at the close of the service the speaker baptized eleven candidates. In the afternoon a well-attended meeting was held in the Opera House, when Mr. Brown spoke on "The Signs of the Times." In the evening a large congregation listened to the sermon on "The Cross," and afterwards a special communion service was held, at which the pastor, W. G. Brown, the son of Rev. W. J. H. Brown, received eleven new members. "Praise God From Whom all Blessings Flow."

It should perhaps be added that a number of the baptisms and members are, under God, a result of the evangelistic campaign of Rev. and Mrs. F. E. Schmuck here during July.

BLOUNT

A large number of the members of the Blount Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. J. McCutcheon on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 12th, when all enjoyed an excellent programme. Mrs. S. Patterson gave an interesting and suggestive Paper on the "Beauties of Friendship." The programme also included selections by Mrs. McCutcheon on the Player Piano, current events by Mrs. Geo. Crozier, a Reading by Miss Grace Mills, and a solo by Mrs. W. A. Donaldson. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bagnall on October 3rd.

BRAMPTON'S POSTMASTER

Major Harold Robson, a veteran of the Great War, has been given the appointment of Postmaster of Brampton. We understand that the news of the appointment has been received with very general satisfaction. Major Robson, who is 32 years of age, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Robson, of the Royal Hotel. He was born in Brampton and attended the Public and High Schools of that town. In his earlier days he was connected with the baseball and hockey teams of his home town and was quite widely known as a skater, winning many prizes in local competitions. Robson enlisted in 1915 with the 126th Peel Battalion, went overseas and was later transferred to the 116th. After a year in the trenches he returned to England, where he qualified for and secured his commission as lieutenant. While taking part in the big September offensive of the allies just before the end of the war he was badly wounded in the leg and will probably always be lame. He is one of the senior officers of the recently organized Peel and Dufferin Regiment.

The new Postmaster is married his wife being Miss Gladys Harvey, daughter of the late Alexander and Mrs. Harvey, two of Brampton's oldest residents.

SHEEP FOR EXPORT

John E. Jackson, of Mono Mills, who has for some years kept a registered flock of Hampshire Down sheep, was successful lately in making a splendid sale of yearling and two shear rams to a buyer from the United States. The lot, which consisted of twelve head, was purchased by correspondence and the buyer upon coming to see the animals before shipping, was so well pleased with them that several will be exhibited by him at the Utah State Fair, held in Salt Lake City in October. When breeders of purebred stock are finding in many cases slow sale for their animals, it should be a source of great satisfaction to Mr. Jackson to be able to dispose of so many at such a good figure.

MONO EAST PARISH

Divine services will be held on Sunday, Sept. 30th, as follows:—St. Paul's Church in the morning, Hockley in the afternoon and Mono Mills at night. A Harvest Home service will be held at the last mentioned place. The Rev. Mr. Caldwell, of Port McNichol, will be in charge at all services. All are cordially invited.

New Dominion Refunding Loan Offered to the Public.

ADVANCE SUBSCRIPTIONS AGGREGATE MORE THAN $72,000,000—SYNDICATE EMBRACING BANKS, BOND HOUSES AND STOCK EXCHANGES LAUNCH CAMPAIGN.

The new Dominion Government refunding loan which is being offered to the public gives evidence of very marked popularity. Although the preliminary announcement was only made on Thursday morning by the Minister of Finance, advance subscriptions aggregating well over $72,000,000 (or over forty per cent. of the entire objective of $172,000,000) had been received by the selling syndicate at the close of business on Saturday. This leaves, in round figures, one hundred million dollars still available for subscription.

This heavy preliminary subscription is the more remarkable, as only two of the big special subscriptions which bulked so large in the Victory loans have been received and are included in this total. Others are pending confirmation at directors' meetings.

Cash subscriptions to date present a striking contrast to the situation which existed when the Government offered its renewal loan last year to holders of 1922 Victory bonds. That offer lasted for well over two months during which period the total of conversions was only $110,000,000. In the two days preceding the present offering cash subscriptions, in excess of $72,800,000 have been received, which is two-thirds of the entire amount taken up during last year's conversion loan. Practically every dollar of the subscriptions taken into account to date represents entirely new money.

Buyers Given a Choice

Buyers of the new bonds are being given their choice of a long or a short maturity. The former is of twenty years' duration offered at 98.25 and interest at which price it will yield the investor 5.14 per cent. Those who prefer securities with approximately the same life as the average first mortgage can buy a five-year bond at 99, which will return 5.23 per cent. on the investment. Present indications are that the twenty-year bond will be the more popular, as it was referred to by the head of one of the biggest financial institutions as "the soundest and sweetest bond ever offered the Canadian people."

The new issue is being offered at prices which give a materially higher interest return than similar obligations of the United States and Great Britain. Among the United States issues, the average interest return on eight of that nation's bonds is only 4 1-2 per cent. The United States' third Liberty 4 1-2 per cent. issue, which matures within two months of the new Canadian five-year bond, yields only 4.52 per cent. against 5.23 per cent. for the Canadian bond. In Great Britain the average yield on four War Loan issues is only 4 1-2 per cent.

HAVE YOU ANY OF THESE SYMPTOMS?

If You Have, You Are in Need of a Tonic Medicine.

Are you pale and weak, easily tired, and out of breath on slight exertion?

Are you nervous? Is your sleep disturbed? Do you wake up in the morning feeling as tired as when you went to bed? Is your appetite poor, your digestion weak, and do you have pains after eating?

If you have any of these symptoms you need a tonic, and in the realm of medicine there is no better tonic than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which enrich the blood, restore shattered nerves and bring the glow of health to pale cheeks. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is shown by the case of Mr. Horace Cuphi'l Woodward's Cove, N. B., who says:—"The first indication that my general health was not good was a shortness of breath after the least exertion. Then my appetite began to fail, and after eating it seemed as if there was a lump in my stomach. I grew so weak that I could not walk a hundred yards without resting. Then I was taken with a numbness all over my body and was in a sad plight. I was under a doctor's care, but as I was not getting better, I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The first few boxes did not seem to help me, but my wife urged me to continue their use and I got four boxes more. Before these were gone I could eat a fair meal, the numbness was leaving me and I was feeling much better in every way. I took the pills for a while longer, and felt that I was again a well man. I still take the pills occasionally, but have had no return of the old trouble."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DEANERY CONFERENCE

Choral Festival a Special Feature of the Tuesday Sessions.

The annual Conference of the Deanery of Wellington was held in St. Mark's Church here on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. Tuesday afternoon was devoted to the Sunday School and its problems, the programme opening with a Round Table Conference on the Rural Sunday School, led by Rev. R. H. Ferguson, B. D., of Guelph. This was followed by a second Conference on "Teaching the Catechism," led by a member of the G. B. R. E. staff. In the early evening tea was served and a pleasant social time spent in the Sunday School room of the church.

Tuesday evening members of the Deanery and citizens of Orangeville filled the church to capacity for a choral festival by a choir of 105 voices, representative of the several choirs of the Deanery. The united choirs, for such the choir really was, were under the leadership of Mr. J. R. Pears, of Guelph. Notwithstanding the difficulties in the way of practice together, the choir sang the special music provided for the occasion with remarkable unity and expression. The anthem, "Gloria in Excelsis," from Mozart's Twelfth Mass, was beautifully rendered and proved a source of real joy and inspiration to the large congregation. A very practical and helpful sermon was preached by the Right Rev. Bishop Reeve, of Toronto. The service was sung by the Rev. S. C. Jarrett, rector of Herald Angel Church, Cardwell, while the first lesson was read by the Rev. R. H. Ferguson, of St. James' Church, Guelph, and the second lesson by the Rev. Canon Scovil, of St. George's, Guelph. Mrs. J. Z. Henry presided at the organ in her usual efficient manner. It was a service unique in the annals of St. Mark's Church and one which will be long remembered by those who were privileged to be present.

Holy Communion was observed at 7.30 on Wednesday morning, a short devotional service being led by Bishop Reeve. At 10 a.m. the Wellington Deanery meeting of the Women's Auxiliary was opened, the session being devoted largely to routine business, an address by the Diocesan Officer and a discussion of the work and problems of the Deanery. The Deanery met in conference at the same hour, some of the subjects considered being, "'Retreat' in the Life of the Clergy," "How Can Laymen Be More Effectively Used in the Work of this Deanery," and "Means of Raising Money for Church Purposes."

THANKSGIVING DAY

Thanksgiving Day this year will be observed on Monday, Nov. 12th. The law provides that Thanksgiving Day shall be on the Monday of the week in which Armistice Day falls. Sunday, the 11th of November, being Armistice Day, the following day will be Thanksgiving, which means that the two events will probably be celebrated together.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our gratitude to our neighbors and friends for the kindness and sympathy shown in so many ways during the illness and since the death of our mother, the late Mrs. William McLean.

THE FAMILY.

CARD OF THANKS

I desire to tender my sincere thanks to the staff of the Lord Dufferin Hospital for the great kindness shown me during the illness of my husband. I also wish to thank our neighbors and friends for their kindly and helpful sympathy since his death.

MRS. HERBERT SMITH.

J. I. DAVIDSON

Jas. I. Davidson, ex-reeve of Caledon township and one of its councillors for a number of years, died on Friday last at the home of his son, Thomas A., in Toronto, after a brief illness. The late Mr. Davidson was born 75 years ago on lot 3, 3rd line, west, Caledon, where he lived and farmed until about 18 years ago, when he retired and moved to Inglewood. He went to Toronto a year ago. He was a prominent member of the Baptist Church at Cheltenham and was a staunch Liberal in politics. His wife, formerly Miss Elizabeth McArthur, died two years ago. He is survived by two sons.

MRS. WILLIAM M'LEAN

Old Caledon and Orangeville friends learned with real sorrow of the death last week of Mrs. William McLean. The end, which followed an illness of several weeks, came quietly and peacefully at the home of her son, Mr. Geo. H. McLean, Zina St., on Tuesday morning, Sept. 18th. The late Mrs. McLean, whose maiden name was Jane Harrison, was born in Brant County a short distance from the city of Brantford 84 years ago. When she was quite a young girl, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harrison, moved to Caledon, settling in the neighborhood of Alton. Sixty-one years ago the subject of our sketch was married to William McLean. The young couple settled on Lot 20, 1st Line, west, Caledon, where they farmed until the death of the husband on October 12th, 1891. Mrs. McLean and family then moved to Galt, where they lived for a year, before coming to Orangeville. Some ten years ago deceased sold her home here and moved to Toronto, where she made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Thomson. She came to Orangeville on a visit three months ago and while here was taken with what proved to be her last illness. While well advanced in years Mrs. McLean had always enjoyed good health until last February, when she contracted a severe case of the flu. From this illness she never fully recovered. Deceased was a woman of fine character, who enjoyed the esteem and love of her neighbors and friends. She was a devoted wife and mother, who found in the happiness of her home and family one of the chief joys of life. She was an exemplary member of St. Andrew's Church and a regular attendant at the Sunday services during the years she resided here. The surviving members of her family are two sons, James McLean, of Collingwood, and Geo. H. McLean, Orangeville, and two daughters, Mrs. J. L. Hogg, of East Orange, N. J., and Mrs. J. G. Thomson, Toronto. The funeral, which was attended by a large number of old friends of the family, was held from the home of Mr. Geo. H. McLean to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Thursday afternoon. Rev. F. W. Mahaffy was the officiating clergyman and the two sons, Geo. and Jas. McLean, a son-in-law, Mr. J. G. Thomson, Toronto, and three grandsons, Bert and Morley McLean and Carl Hanley, were the pallbearers. A number of beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem and sympathy of the friends of the departed woman.

HERBERT SMITH

The sudden and unexpected death of Mr. Herbert Smith, a well-known young Mono farmer, in Lord Dufferin Hospital, on Monday evening, Sept. 17th, was the cause of wide spread sorrow and a very general feeling of sympathy for the young wife. Mr. Smith, who was 28 years and 5 months of age, was taken suddenly ill on Friday night. The family doctor was summoned and when the patient failed to improve under the treatment prescribed he advised his removal to the hospital. He was accordingly brought to the hospital on Sunday and on Monday the doctors decided on an operation as the last chance of saving his life. The shock proved too great a strain on his system and he passed away a couple of hours after he was removed from the operating table. Obstruction of the bowels was the cause of his illness and death. Deceased, who was the second youngest son of Mrs. and the late William Smith, of Mono, was an industrious and likeable young chap, who was well thought of in his home neighborhood. He followed farming and was also an engineer. He was employed in Orangeville for several weeks about a year ago, driving the engine on the cement mixer while the Broadway pavement was being laid. Six months ago he married Miss Rose Banks, of Orangeville, for whom profound sympathy is felt in her trying loss. William, James, Percy and Charles Smith, all of Mono, and Mrs. Willis Denny, of Orangeville, are the surviving brothers and sister. The funeral, which was largely attended, was held from his late home to Greenwood Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 19th. Rev. Wm. Coutts, of Camilla, was the clergyman and Messrs. Wallace and Norman Brett, Jos. and Reginald Jackson, W. L. Ewing and Jackson Woods acted as pallbearers.

PRIZE LIST CORRECTIONS

Our attention has been called to a couple of errors in the Orangeville Fall Fair prize list as published in last week's Banner. The name J. W. Sanderson should have read Mrs. D. Sanderson. The name Geo. Holmes appeared in the list of successful exhibitors in the ladies' work department. The exhibitor was of course Mr. Holmes' daughter, Miss Mary Holmes.

No use of going to any other clothing store for the new overcoat you need; come to us and save TIME and MONEY. We can fit you out in fifteen minutes and give you the real goods.

CALEDON EAST

Next Sunday, Sept. 30th, will be Rally Day in the Methodist connection. Service will be held in the Methodist Church in this village in the evening at 7 o'clock and will take the form of a combined Rally Day and Sunday School anniversary, as both these events fall on the same day this year. The service will be more interesting on that account. The teachers and scholars will have a large part in the service and are preparing some new and special features for the occasion, also several new musical numbers. Another special feature will be the presence of Rev. C. J. Dobson, of Toronto, who was the first pastor of this church when it was built 43 years ago last spring. Many old friends will no doubt wish to take advantage of this opportunity to hear him again after so long an absence. The Rev. gentleman will deliver the anniversary sermon. All are welcome. A collection will be taken up in aid of the Sunday School fund.

Rally Day program in Mono Road Church next Sunday at 11 a.m. Special music by Sunday School and choir.

Services at Caesar's as follows:—Sunday—Sunday School Rally Day program at 3 p.m. Special music by Sunday School and choir. Monday—Y. P. Rally program at 8 p.m. Special music by Caledon East League.

—Ask to see Writing Portfolios at The Banner Office. They are very handy to carry on your vacation trip.

WEST MONO PARISH

Herald Angel Church, which has been closed for the last month undergoing repairs and decoration, will be reopened on Sunday next, Sept. 30th. Holy Communion will be observed at 8 o'clock a.m. and at 7 p.m. there will be a special evensong. Rev. J. W. McDonald, rector of St. Mark's, Orangeville, will be the special preacher at the latter service.

In St. Luke's Church Confirmation service will be held by Bishop Reeve, of Toronto, at 7 o'clock p.m.

An eight days Mission will be held in St. Matthew's Church, commencing on Oct. 23rd and ending Sunday, Oct. 28th, with Harvest Home services. Rev. S. H. Elliott Baker, who has had much experience in missionary work in the Old Country, will be the special Missioner.

ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

F. Edson White Jr., son of the president of Armour & Co., Chicago, and a grandson of the late Rev. M. L. Pearson, onetime pastor of Orangeville Methodist Church, was accidentally killed while shooting pigeons on his father's estate at Lake Forest, a short time ago. The boy was charged by a bull and was killed while using his gun to ward off the onslaught of the infuriated animal. Mrs. White, mother of the young man, was formerly Miss Lillian Pearson.

HEALING SOOTHING ANTISEPTIC

For Injuries & Skin Troubles

Zam-Buk

PRAIRIE BISON FOR GREY COUNTY

When Dr. Jamieson returned from the West last week, he brought with him the pleasing intelligence that he had been successful in persuading the Government at Ottawa to ship him two buffalo calves for his Wilder's Lake Park, and that they would arrive just as soon as the weather gets cool enough for shipment.

While Dr. Jamieson pays the express on these animals from the big national park at Wainwright, Alta., it is a peculiar thing that he does not own the buffalo, but must return them again if the Government calls for them. This, however, is not likely to happenn, but it shows how strictly the Government guards its rights in protecting the protected game under its guardianship.—Flesherton Advance.

THE PATRONAGE SYSTEM

(Dr. J. G. Shearer.)

One of the worst enemies of the true and honest functioning of democracy is the patronage system and its consequences. "To the victors belong the spoils" and "only loyal party friends can be appointed to office or be given contracts" are its principles.

The mere statement of the practice is sufficient to condemn it as unworthy of any intelligent nation or party. According to it if a contract is to be let only partizans of the Government need apply. A tenderer of another stripe may put in a lower tender, may be thoroughly trustworthy in character and financial standing but his tender will not be accepted. Contracts are let in the interests of the party in power, not of the people. If a civil servant is to be appointed the same principle or practice holds. Not merit or qualifications, but party loyalty gets the appointment. It was common also for the incoming government to dismiss many appointees of its predecessor to make way for plum-hunting followers of its own. Sometimes an outgoing Government would appoint its own partizans to offices by way of reward for party loyalty, thus giving warrant or occasion for dismissals later. In one or more cases a Governor has refused to sanction appointments of this kind.

This indefensible patronage system was the subject of hot debate for many years. The opposition party was filled with "righteous indignation" at the patronage of the Government of the day and clamored loudly for the abolition of the practice. But when each succeeding opposition came into power its followers, greedy for spoils, would not hear of the discontinuance of the system. It was only when in the new atmosphere the war created a Union Government was in power that it became possible by Act of Parliament to abolish the system and substitute therefore the letting of contracts to the lowest worthy tenderer in open competition, the buying of supplies by an independent purchasing commission and the control of appointments and promotions in the Civil Service by an independent commission. Though there has since been agitation in and out of Parliament to return to the old shameless system, no party has as yet been willing to take the responsibility of yielding to this outcry of office-seekers and their friends.

In some of the Provinces the practice still prevails to some extent.

In the Federal sphere, too, there are appointments that are not controlled by the Civil Service Commission. Perhaps the most notable of these is the appointment of Senators. These are made invariably on a party basis. The Union Government's appointees, of course, were mixed. Each new party Government coming into power finds the Senate predominantly of the opposite party stripe and suffers considerable inconvenience in consequence in getting legislation through Parliament, the Senate's consent being essential under the constitution. That, however, is not the most serious consequence of party appointments to so powerful a body. A considerable number of men of inferior quality receive appointments under such a system. Will any party Government ever have the courage to depart from this miserable system and name for the Senate men of outstanding position in the various walks of life, who will, in a spirit of service, give themselves to the solving of the nation's problems and promoting its highest interests regardless of party considerations or selfish or class economic interest or prejudice?

Giant of the Deep.

The American Museum of Natural History some time ago came into possession of what is believed to be the largest whale ever exhibited on land. It is a female finback, 68½ feet in length. Its body, in life, was 30 feet in circumference. It is estimated that at least fifty men could be inclosed within the interior of this gigantic animal. The full-grown right whale, which is the species usually hunted for its blubber and whalebone, averages from 45 to 50 feet in length. The whale whose skeleton adorns the museum was washed ashore dead, near Forked River, N.J. Scientific theory avers that the ancestors of the whales were terrestrial or land mammals, which gradually became aquatic in their way of living.

WORLD'S RICHEST MEN

FORD'S WEALTH COMES IN AT $225 PER MINUTE.

He Is Probably the Wealthiest Man In the History of the World—Some Families Have Also Amassed Enormous Fortunes In Course of Time.

Who are the ten richest men in the world? Henry Ford is easily the richest, while Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the United States Treasury, was said recently to be the fourth wealthiest. Who are the other eight?

They must possess private fortunes of over $100,000,000 to secure a place on such a list, and fortunes of such proportions are almost impossible to estimate with accuracy. Authoritative estimates, however, supply the following list of men credited with the possession of more individual wealth than any other group on earth:

Henry Ford	$500,000,000
John D. Rockefeller	490,000,000
Duke of Westminster	150,000,000
Andrew W. Mellon	150,000,000
Sir Basil Zaharoff	100,000,000
Hugo Stinnes	100,000,000
Percy Rockefeller	100,000,000
Baron H. Mitsui	100,000,000
Baron H. Iwasaki	100,000,000
Gaekwar of Baroda	100,000,000

J. B. Duke, the tobacco king; G. F. Baker, of the First National Bank of New York; and T. B. Walker, the Minneapolis timber landowner, might be added to the list, since they all have fortunes estimated at $100,000,000, while there are at least three other Indian rulers whose fortunes probably exceed this amount.

The Rothschilds, Guggenheims, Vanderbilts, Weyerhausers, and the Astors do not appear because their are family fortunes. The Rothschild wealth has been estimated at from $250,000,000 to $500,000,000, and that of the Astors at from $100,000,000 to $500,000,000.

Henry Ford is possibly the richest man in all history. He has a net business income of $120,000,000 a year, which, capitalized at 5 per cent., represents $2,200,000,000. He earns $225 per minute. Croesus may have been richer, since his famous gift to Delphi cost $10,000,000, and that, reduced to to-day's terms, might mean $200,000,000.

John D. Rockefeller gave away $500,000,000 to charity and to foundations before 1921. He is the head, however, of the biggest group of wealthy men ever produced by a single industry, and his private fortune must still rank him second.

The Duke of Westminster's wealth is in land. He owns 600 acres in Mayfair, Belgravia, and Pimlico. When the leases of Belgravia fall in he will be easily the richest man in England.

Sir Basil Zaharoff is Europe's mystery man, but it is no mystery that he is one of Europe's wealthiest men. He owns more than half of Monte Carlo, and his holdings in armament firms are even larger. He is in oil, finance, shipping; in fact, it is difficult to say what he is not interested in.

The Mitsuis and the Iwasakis are financiers, traders, and shippers. The Gaekwar of Baroda's wealth is almost impossible to estimate, but his diamonds alone are valued at $1,250,000, and he has a jewelled tapestry worth $1,500,000. Guns of gold weighing 400 pounds stand at his palace gate.

Affidavit Should Go With This.

Bird lovers are finding the good Samaritan acts of a certain pair of eagles near Beech park almost too human for the monarchs of the air, generally known to be flesh-eating, with a predilection for rabbits in particular, says a despatch from London, Ontario.

This particular pair of eagles, finding some bunnies scrambling aimlessly about in a field, took them up gently by the ears and carried them to a neighboring farm, depositing them carefully near the barn.

The next remarkable act of one of the eagles was to break a window in the barn. Through the hole the birds carried the rabbits, depositing them gently in the haymow, where the bunnies have made themselves quite contented.

Queen Establishes Rest Cure.

Queen Victoria of Sweden has begun the establishment of a rest cure for women as her investment of the $45,000 which she received on her sixtieth birthday last year, as a gift subscribed by the women of her country, and her popularity has been enhanced more than ever by this act.

The site of the new rest cure is the picturesque island of Oland, in the Baltic, just off the southwest coast of Sweden, where the queen's favorite summer villa, "Solliden," is situated. She has purchased three houses, which will be reconstructed for the new institution.

Modern Syria.

Syria has an area of 60,000 square miles, about the size of the state of Georgia, with a population of 3,000,000. It was made independent of Turkey, and placed under a French mandate by the allied powers in 1920. For convenience of administration, France divided the country into four provinces: Aleppo, Alsonito, Damascus, and Great Lebanon. The eastern part of the country is dry. Great Lebanon, however, is very fertile. The population is largely Mohammedan.

"When my little son was three months old he broke out in sores on his chest and arms. We did all we could to heal those terrible sores, but nothing did him much good. Finally I ventured on a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and kept on using it. At last we were rewarded by the steady healing of the sores, and finally he was completely relieved of them. He is now three years old, and has had no return of the trouble since."

Another mysterious barn fire has occurred with its consequent heavy loss. This time the scene of destruction was close to Alliston, having been on the farm of Mr. Herman Swaffield on the Adiala and Tosorontio townline. The fire occurred very early in the morning from an unknown origin and in addition to a lot of this season's crop, a team of brood Clyde mares, four and eleven years old, and a large flock of chickens perished.

MRS. MISENER'S ACHES AND PAINS

Vanished After Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"Branchton, Ont.—"When I wrote to you for help my action was mostly prompted by curiosity. I wondered if I, too, would benefit by your medicine. It was the most profitable action I have ever taken, I heartily assure you, for through its results I am relieved of most of my sufferings. I have taken six boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets and a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and I can honestly say I have never been so well before. I had suffered from pains and other troubles since I was fifteen years old, and during the 'Great War' period I worked on munitions for two years, and, in the heavy lifting which my work called for, I strained myself, causing pelvic inflammation from which I have suffered untold agony, and I often had to give up and go to bed. I had doctored for several years without getting permanent relief, when I started to take your medicines."—Mrs. GOLDWIN MISENER, Branchton, Ont.

MAN BROKE HIS NECK

Mr. John Baker, of Arran, Fell From Stone Crusher.—Died Instantly.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon to Tara cemetery of the late Mr. John Baker, who broke his neck in a fall from a stone-crusher on the County Line near Allenford on Saturday afternoon about 4.30.

Mr. Baker, with a couple of other men, was working on the crusher of the outfit belonging to Mr. D. Craig, which is on the County Line between Grey and Bruce, about three miles east of Allenford, Saturday afternoon. About 4.30 it started to rain. The other men got down the ladder to the ground all right, but when Mr. Baker started to descend the ladder broke and precipitated him to the ground, a distance of about ten feet. He alighted on his head and broke his neck. His companions rushed to him and help was sent for at once, but he died in a couple of minutes. A peculiarly sad coincidence is the fact that his brother, Mr. Adam Baker, broke his neck last July in a fall from a load of hay.

Mr. Baker was a single man, but leaves a mother and sister with whom he lived on a farm in Arran township, and whose sole support he was. He was in his fifty-seventh year, and had lived most of his life in Amabel township, where he was born. Besides his mother, Mrs. E. Baker, he leaves two sisters, Miss Barbara at home, and Mrs. Rob. Crawford, of Arran township; also two brothers, Frank, of Amabel, and George Baker, of Allenfod. He was a member of Allenford Presbyterian Church and took an earnest interest in its work. He was very highly thought of throughout Arran township, and in the vicinity of Allenford; and the news of his untimely demise came as a great shock to his many friends there.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK, OCT. 7-13

Comprehensive plans are being formulated for observing October 7th to 13th as Fire Prevention Week. In a number of cities and towns efforts are already under way to co-ordinate the activities of local interests by appointing a general campaign committee representing the various organizations in the community. This year the main emphasis is to be placed upon (1) Better fire protection in public institutions; (2) Fire prevention instructions in schools and colleges; (3) More thorough inspection of buildings by fire departments and extension of systems which may at present be in force; (4) Correction of deficiences in building and fire prevention ordinances. Preliminary plans should be made in every community for carrying out a definite programme. As in former years, a proclamation will be issued and a limited quantity of campaign literature will be prepared for general distribution through local channels. Applications for literature should be made to the Dominion Fire Commissioner not later than September 15th.

The Big Sister for Bill

By LE ROY WINSTON

(©, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

As the members of the Junior Boys' club of Harlow Street settlement were dispersing after their regular Tuesday afternoon meeting their leader, Mr. Gordon, noticed that one of the number remained. It was Bob Greeley, in whom Mr. Gordon was especially interested, as he was beyond doubt the only one of the boys of native American parents—the only one, in fact, who was not the product of overcrowded slums.

"Is there something I can do for you?" asked Mr. Gordon, seeing that the boy was waiting for him.

"Sure there is," said Bob, trying to hide his embarrassment. "You were telling us fellows today that you were going to get a big brother for each one of us—a college fellow or something to help us along. Well, now, honest, Mr. Gordon, I don't need a big brother. I've got one. But—but—"

"The idea is," explained Mr. Gordon, "that in having college men for big brothers they could help you in ways that your own brothers could not. They would have time and would possibly be better educated—"

"Not than my big brother," protested Bob. "But what I was going to say was this—" Then Bob became completely embarrassed and said something that sounded like "Couldn't y'manage to gimme a big sister instead?"

Mr. Gordon laughed. "So that is what you need most. It never occurred to us that any of you boys would rather have a big sister. Still a sister can be very helpful. All right, Bob, I'll get you a big sister. I'll have her come to call on you—Just the way the big brothers are going to."

"Thank you, Mr. Gordon," said Bob beaming, and then as he turned to beat his retreat: "You needn't say anything to any of the fellows about my wanting a sister. They mightn't understand."

Mr. Gordon, expert wood craftsman and friend of small boys, was a volunteer worker at the settlement. Rumor had it that he was a disillusioned millionaire—that he had "gone into" settlement work because of the death of his young bride. At all events, he seemed to get immense satisfaction out of his club work and was always generous in his contributions toward any good work furthered by the settlement. The swimming pool, the wonder of the youth of Harlow street, was his excessive gift.

If Mr. Gordon told Harlow street little of his personal affairs, he told his acquaintances and friends little of Harlow street. Most of them were only mildly amused at this hobby of his. His sister among them.

The night of Bob Greeley's request Mr. Gordon was in some perplexity. It had been an easy enough matter to get the required number of "big brothers." He simply put the proposition up to the younger men in his college fraternity in town. Gordon had pledged several thousand dollars for the new fraternity house, and as he had promised that he "would see about doubling the amount" the young men did not take long to decide to fall in line with his "big brother" proposition.

But how to get a big sister?

The more Gordon thought of this problem the more perplexed he became about it. Finally he decided to ask his sister Helen—though she had not given very sympathetic or understanding heed to the few accounts he had ever given of Harlow street doings.

Helen listened apparently with only half attention to what her brother told, but to his surprise she volunteered herself for the big sister needed.

"I didn't imagine you'd do that," protested Mr. Gordon. "I just thought you might know some girl in your set who would be interested in that sort of thing."

"I'm interested—dreadfully interested myself," Helen Gordon announced. "And you don't need to be preachy and tell me that I mustn't consider it a lark. I don't intend to. And I guess I can make as good a sister to little Bobby Greeley as anyone else. Tell me where he lives. I'll call tomorrow afternoon."

Helen insisted on calling alone and her brother did not discourage her, though he wished then that this little sister of his was of a less striking type. Even dressed somberly and as quietly as possible, her golden hair and vivid coloring could not but attract attention in the probably dingy neighborhood where Bobby Greeley lived.

Bobby greeted his big sister at the door and assured her that she looked just the way he had always thought a big sister ought to look, and within five minutes they had decided to call each other Bobby and Helen. Bobby's home consisted of three rooms, a living room, a kitchen and a bedroom, on the top floor of a shabby but insistently clean tenement. Then Bobby explained his predicament.

He and his brother Ned had been bred in a country town. Their father, a country doctor, had died when Bobby was a baby and Ned was half grown. Somehow or other their mother had managed to bring them up until a year ago she had died with the last request that Ned should become a doctor. He had at that time already managed by hard work to finish college. There were no funds left. Impelled by his mother's request and his own inclinations Ned had come to the city with his young brother. Somehow he managed outside of hours at the medical college to earn enough to pay for their expenses in the little tenement, and Bobby led a not unwholesome existence, attending public school, getting recreation at the Harlow street settlement, and doing his little-boy best to keep house for his overworked big brother.

Helen was at first shocked at the idea of the ten-year-old boy coming in from after school play to have to prepare supper for himself and his brother, but she ended by feeling that, after all, Bobby led as normal and happy an existence as any motherless boy could. Certainly he was better off than he would have been had his big brother consented to send him to a boys' home during the uphill years of his medical study.

"Now, if you really want to be my big sister," announced Bobby, looking approvingly at Helen, "you can start right in by helping me get supper. Ned said he was awful hungry for some muffins—the kind mother used to make—but, gosh, I couldn't make 'em. Now, do you suppose if I bought the things that you could mix 'em and cook 'em—maybe the next time you come?"

That was the beginning of the most interesting adventure of Helen's hitherto rather frivolous young life. Twice a week she visited Bobby and twice a week besides she took lessons in cooking and domestic science so as to be qualified to help and instruct Bobby in the task of making the little tenement rooms more homelike. Bobby would give her the money Ned allowed for the evening's meal and she would come back from market with beefsteak and mushrooms, when Bobby said Ned liked them, luscious fruit in season and out and delicacies such as Bobby had never before dreamed of.

"It's funny what you can get for a quarter," Bobby often used to say. "Ned says he doesn't understand. He said there was something funny about it, and he's acted dreadfully funny, just as if he thought you oughtn't to help me so much. Don't you suppose you could stay to dinner some time and explain that you really get the things for what I give you? He comes in just after you leave. Couldn't you wait and tell him?"

"Oh, dear no," assured Helen. "You see I'm just your big sister, Bobby, and—well, your brother mightn't like me as much as you do."

"Maybe not," sighed Bobby.

But for some reason or another Ned came home a half hour earlier than usual that night and discovered the radiant Helen still mixing drop cakes in the tiny kitchen. She and Bobby had given the house a good cleaning that day and she had left a bunch of daffodils on the living room table and had hung fresh muslin curtains at the windows.

Explanations did not take long, nor were elaborate ones needed, for when Ned's steady gray eyes looked into the depths of Helen's blue ones explanations in words did not seem necessary. Helen's seemed to say, "I admire you for your pluck and perseverance to go on studying under such difficult conditions. I have done what I have done for Bobby's sake—please don't thank me." And Ned's eyes said: "I shall not protest, because I know you have done what you have done from the goodness of a kind heart."

As a matter of fact Helen said: "I'm Bobby's big sister," and Ned said, "Lucky boy."

Helen stayed for supper and left as soon as she and Ned and Bobby had washed the dishes and tidied the kitchen. She definitely refused Ned's escortage home. Somehow after that on the nights when Helen came she was always a little delayed in her work or Ned managed to come in a little early. And she would stay to supper with the excuse that she wanted to help wash the dishes.

After several weeks of this she consented to allow Ned to go home with her.

"If you are Bobby's big sister then you are a brother to both of us," Ned said, as they were nearing her home.

"Do you wish—wish that you were my brother?" asked Helen.

"Well, not exactly—that is, I'd rather—"

And that was really as far as Ned had to go with his proposal.

MOVED JAPANESE TO WONDER

Visiter of This Country Mystified by the Peculiarities of the English Language.

During his tour of this country as a member of the Japanese educational research delegation, Marquis Sarti was moved to deny that the study of Japanese was more difficult than the study of English.

"When you have learned the Japanese language you have learned it," he argued, "while with English, it is different." By way of explanation he added:

"One day in one of your restaurants I asked for what you call poached eggs on toast, and imagine my consternation when the waiter cried through the service window, 'Two men on a raft.'

"Curious to see what would happen, I ventured to remind him that I wanted them well done and scrambled, but this bothered him not at all for he merely shouted 'shipwreck that order' and strange to relate, I got exactly what I had ordered."

Elusive.

"Instead of putting the Goddess of Liberty on the new dollar, wouldn't Mercury be more appropriate?" asks an exchange. As far as we are concerned, they might as well make them of mercury.—Boston Transcript.

Long Record of Good Work.

The American Sunday School Union, the oldest Sunday school organization in the country, has just completed its 106th year of service. Since its founding, the Christian Work tells us, the union has organized 138,000 Sunday schools, into which it has gathered 5,500,000 pupils. During 1922 it either organized or reorganized 1,800 schools, issued a dozen Sunday school periodicals, with a circulation of some 2,000,000, and published 200,000 books, booklets and other Sunday school requisites.

Farm Episode.

"Gabe, what are you doing in the farm yard?"

"Nuffin, boss."

"You didn't come over to molest my henhouse?"

"No, boss."

"I see. You came over to chop some wood for me."

"Dat's it."

And Gabe had to chop two hours before the foxy farmer would let him go.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

ADDRESSED U. F. O.

J. J. Morrison Spoke at Well-Attended Meeting of Camilla Farmers' Club Thursday Night.

Mr. J. J. Morrison, the General Secretary of the U. F. O. organization in this province, addressed a largely attended meeting of Camilla United Farmers in the Camilla Hall on Thursday night. Secretary Morrison, who spoke for about ninety minutes, confined his address mainly to an enunciation and explanation of the aims, principles and constitution of the United Farmers' movement. He did not discuss Provincial politics or refer in any way to the result of the recent political election. He had nothing at all to say about the new Conservative administration or the policy that Premier Ferguson and his cabinet intend to follow. What was perhaps even more noticeable was the studied manner in which the Secretary avoided any direct reference to Ex-Premier Drury, whom he did not once mention in the course of his address. He did refer to the broadening out policy advocated by the late Premier, explaining that "Broadening Out" was no part of the constitution of the United Farmers of Ontario and that when he opposed this proposed departure he was simply doing what he conceived to be his duty as Secretary and an officer of the U.F.O. Mr. Morrison emphasized the need for co-operation and a better understanding amongst the farmers of Ontario. From an economic standpoint the agricultural class need not expect any assistance from the manufacturers or other organized class interests. If they were going to do anything to better conditions on the farm they would have to do it themselves. In a word the farmers would find that it was up to themselves to work out their own salvation.

Mr. Jos. Kendrew, President of the Camilla Club, occupied the chair. Short addresses were made by Messrs. J. A. Marshall, W. A. Henry, Robert Reid, J. M. McNaughton and others, endorsing the remarks of the Secretary. Mr. Morrison spent Thursday night in town as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McNaughton, York St. The Provincial U. F. O. Secretary left here on Friday morning's train for Toronto.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE

On Friday evening a number of the people of the Mono Centre neighborhood met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis and agreeably surprised their daughter, Mrs. Clarence Haddock, with a miscellaneous shower. The gifts, which were of an unusually generous nature, spoke convincingly of the popularity of the bride and the general esteem in which she is held. During the evening Mr. Robert Holmes read the following address, while Misses Stella Stewart and Lizzie Miles made the presentation:

To Mrs. Clarence Haddock.

Dear Friend,—We, a few of your friends of St. Matthew's Church and community, have met here this evening to show our esteem for you and to extend to you our best wishes for a long and happy married life.

During your life amongst us we have appreciated you both as a worker in the church and also in the social life of the community. In both places you will leave a vacancy that will not be easily filled.

The time has come when you are about to leave this neighborhood and we ask you to receive these gifts in the hope that they may help to keep green the friendship that has sprung up between you and the people of this community.

We hope that Providence may prosper you and Mr. Haddock and give you both a long and useful life.

Signed on behalf of St. Matthew's Church and the surrounding community.

LIZZIE MILES.
STELLA STEWART.

Mr. Haddock made a very suitable reply, thanking those present for their gifts, their kindness and the kindly expressions of goodwill to Mrs. Haddock. Piano duets by Misses Henry and Misses Holmes and short congratulatory addresses by a number of the young men completed the programme, which was concluded by the crowd singing, "She's a Jolly Good Fellow." The remainder of the evening was happily spent in dancing and other amusements, the crowd dispersing about two o'clock with the feeling that they had spent a very enjoyable evening together.

—The speeding events should be a popular attraction at the Caledon Fall Fair this afternoon. The Society is offering $410 in purses.

DUFFERIN'S HONOR ROLL

Below is the list of names of the men of Dufferin who fell in the war, as handed to the contractor for inscription on the Memorial being erected at Orangeville, except that they are here arranged by municipalities for convenience, while on the monument they will be run alphabetically throughout.

It is intended to include all the fallen who were residents of the county at the time of enlistment, or who having been born and bred in the county can justly be said to have been Dufferin boys, although they may have lived elsewhere at time of joining up.

It is desired to make the list as complete and accurate as possible, and readers are requested to examine it carefully and report errors or omissions at once to Lt.-Col. J. A. V Preston, Orangeville (telephone 117w or 170).

ALTON

Miss Rose Morris has left for Toronto, where she has taken a position with the T. Eaton Co. Her many friends wish her success in her new work.

The services in the Methodist Church on Sunday, Sept. 30th, will be in charge of the Epworth League, Dr. Caldwell taking the anniversary services in a former charge.

Parents are asked to remember that this Friday, Sept. 28th, is visiting day at the Public School. Show an interest in teachers and pupils by attending on that date.

Miss Tena Hemsworth, of Brampton, is visiting her sister, Mrs. John Lovell.

Mrs. Judson Rozwell and babe are visiting Mrs. Walter McConnell.

No meeting of the Junior Women's Institute was held last week on account of no meeting place being available. The officers hope to have a special meeting to plan work on the layette they are to make, before the October meeting. Will members please pay fees.

Mr. and Mrs Wm. Dorrington celebrated their silver wedding in a happy manner on Friday night. About sixty of their friends were present and a very enjoyable time was spent in cards, music and dancing. Friends from outside the village included Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Algie and Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Algie, of Acton, Mrs. Wm. Milligan, Toronto, and Mrs. Fred Harper, Vancouver. The party was also made a farewell for Mrs. Dorrington's mother, Mrs. Wm. Algie Sr., who has been spending the summer in Alton and who is leaving for Montreal, where she will spend a month before returning to Worcester, Mass., for the Winter.

—Caledon Agricultural Society will hold its sixth Annual Dance in the Caledon Township Hall to-night.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil White, of Toronto, were visitors in town over the week-end.

—The High School students had a night out on Tuesday night. The initiation of the First Formers formed the principal item of the programme.

—Do not miss the demonstration in cutting and cooking lamb in the office of the Department of Agriculture, Orangeville, on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 2.

—Former Caledon people who now live in Toronto look forward to Caledon Fall Fair as one of the holidays of the year. No better place to meet oldtime friends.

—Wednesday night of last week a delightful party was held in the Arena Assembly Rooms for the Orangeville girls who left town this week for University and Normal School.

—Principal Hartmier, of the Public School, has just received his certificate as a duly qualified Cadet Instructor, Grade A., with rank of Lieutenant. Mr. Hartmier took the required course during the summer vacation.

—Edmund Stinson, the ten year old twin son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Stinson, 2nd line, west, Mono, has been quite seriously ill for the last three weeks. We understand that there is not any improvement in his condition.

—The increased cost of fine tea has tempted some to try cheap, inferior teas to their sorrow. It is real economy to use "SALADA" since it yields to the pound more cups of a satisfying infusion and besides has such a fresh, delicious flavor.

—This is the second day of Caledon Fall Fair.

—Monday night the Laurel friends of Miss Wilma Sawyer, an Orangeville bride-to-be, held a miscellaneous shower in her honour at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Sawyer, West Broadway. A delightful time was spent in dancing, music and other amusements.

—Mrs. Drummond Cooper, of Orangeville, is exhibiting a number of miniatures at the first annual exhibition of Canadian Paintings in the Carroll galleries, King St., Toronto. Mrs. Cooper's work is highly spoken of by leading art critics. We understand that her miniatures were selected for exhibition at the C.N.E.

—Provincial Constable Lloyd Mennie, of Guelph, has been transferred to Orangeville and will move here as soon as he secures a house. His place in Guelph will be taken by Provincial Constable F. Melville, of Palmerston, who has done considerable work in Orangeville and district.

—The splendid exhibit of flowers, vegetables, domestic products, etc., made by the women of the Maples Women's Institute was greatly praised and admired by all visitors to the Orangeville Fall Fair. The members of this Institute are deserving of all kinds of praise for the whole-hearted interest they have taken in the Fair for a number of years.

—Wm. Edwin Nodwell, son of Mrs W. H. Nodwell, First Ave., has passed his final exams at Queen's University and is now entitled to write B. A. after his name. Mr. Nodwell took his University work extra-murally, pursuing his studies for his degree while teaching in the Williamson Road school in Toronto. His success is all the more creditable on this account.

MONO MILLS

Anniversary services will be held in Mono Mills Anglican Church on Sunday next, Sept. 30th, in charge of Rev. Conwell, of Toronto. Services at 7 p.m.

Anniversary services in Mono Mills Presbyterian Church on Oct. 7th, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., and in Mono East Presbyterian Church on Sunday, Oct. 14th, in charge of Rev. Dr. McRae, of Mount Forest, commencing at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

Miss Edythe Duke visited friends in Toronto last week.

Mr. Robert Spears held a very successful sale on Tuesday, everything bringing good prices.

Mr. John Speers had the misfortune to lose his clover mill by fire while threshing sweet clover on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. John Atkinson, of Wycliffe College, spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Robt. Jackson, here.

HOSPITAL NOTES

FOUND—A gold plated oval vanity case, engraved with the initials "H. W. C." Owner may have the same by calling at the Hospital.

The Staff of Lord Dufferin Hospital is very grateful to the Maples Institute for vegetables and flowers and to Mrs. Jenkins for eggs.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The members of the Orangeville Women's Institute were entertained at the home of Mrs. Howard Cox, Zina St., on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Geo. Hepton's Paper, "Economy in the Home," was very instructive. Mrs. Johnston gave a reading and Mrs. Cox a piano selection, both of which were very much appreciated. The Institute is sending a barrel of canned fruit to the Lakeside Home Hospital for the sick children on Tuesday, Oct. 2nd. The barrel will be sent from Fairbairn's office on Mill St. All contributions will be thankfully received.

RAID AT ALTON

Monday forenoon Inspector Reevely, of Brampton, Inspector Robinson and Chief of Police Portland, of Orangeville, paid a visit to Alton in search of a whisky still, which they suspected has been operating in or near that village. They did not find a still, but in Alex. Sinclair's house at the east end of the village they seized two bottles of homebrew whisky and a barrel of raisin mash. They found the mash in an upstairs room. Two young men, named Thos. Coyne and W. H. Shipp, who have occupied the house for three weeks or a month, were arrested and taken to Brampton, where they were arraigned before Magistrate Crawford, who remanded them for a week. Meantime an analysis will be made of the whisky and mash. While the officers were in the house a couple of young men of the neighborhood called at the place, but made haste to depart again when they were confronted by the representatives of the law.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright, and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail, at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

NEW HARNESS SHOP

Mr. Walker Montgomery, lately of Newmarket, will open a harness shop in T. H. Coulter's premises on East Broadway about the first of October. Mr. Montgomery needs no introduction to Banner readers, as he was born and has spent the greater part of his life near Orangeville. He is a practical man, having learned the harness trade with H. Matthews, of Erin, a few years ago. He is a courteous, obliging young man who will be found quick to anticipate and anxious to satisfy the wants of his customers. Mr. Montgomery will do repair and custom work and will also carry a full line of harness and leather goods.

HOCKEY MEETING

A meeting will be held in the Public Library Auditorium on Friday night, Sept. 28th, at 8.30 o'clock, for the purpose of organizing a hockey team. Every citizen who is interested in this popular winter game is asked to attend.

BOYS' COUNCIL DINNER

The Orangeville Boys' Council and the local members of the Dufferin County Boys' Council were hosts at a very enjoyable dinner at the Grand Central Hotel on Sept. 18th. After all had done full justice to the sumptuous repast, Rev. C. W. De Mille, General Superintendent of the Ontario Religious Education Council, who was the guest of the boys, delivered an excellent address. A lively sing-song rounded out the mid-day entertainment.

Mrs. D. A. McLoughlin, of Montreal, has returned home after spending a month with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanna, Wellington St.

Mr. Fred Golden, of the Bank of Commerce staff, is spending two weeks' vacation at his brother's cottage in the Parry Sound district.

Mr. J. H. Robinson, of the Sterling Bank staff in St. Williams, is spending his vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Robinson.

Mrs. H. K. Amos, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Alex. Oliver, Third Ave., left for her home in Duluth, Minn., on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. J. C. and Miss Della Darraugh and Mr. J. J. Fleming, of Toronto, attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Jos. Summerville, of Adjala, on Monday.

Mrs. Wilmer Hillock and children, who have been visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Lena Youmans, and other relatives here, left for Calgary on Tuesday of last week.

Mr. Jos. and Miss Mary Anderson, Second Ave., and Miss Carrie Anderson, of Relessey, attended the Glassford-Bell wedding at Beeton on Wednesday of last week.

Miss Carrie Braiden, of the dispensing staff of the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, is holidaying at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Braiden, of Laurel.

Miss M. E. Barclay, Superintendent of Lord Dufferin Hospital, arrived home this week after a prolonged leave of absence. Miss Barclay is looking well after her vacation.

Misses Muriel Torrie, Betty Crozier, Faith Wise, Louise Simpson, Jean Currie and Olive Huston left on Monday for Toronto, where they will take the Normal School course.

Miss Kathleen Fleming, organist of St. Andrew's Church, arrived home on Tuesday of last week after a delightful two months' visit with her brother, Mr. P. H. Fleming, and Mrs. Fleming, of Raymond, Alta.

Mr. Arnott Bailey, of Toronto, sang a much appreciated solo in St Andrew's Church last Sunday evening. Mr. Bailey, who formerly sang in Deer Park Presbyterian Church, possesses a rich baritone voice.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dean, of Primrose, announce the engagement of their daughter, May Alma, to Mr. John A. Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Patterson, Fraxa Junction. The marriage will take place in October.

Miss Helen Irvine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Irvine, Zina St., and Miss Marion McNaughton, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McNaughton, York St., left for Toronto on Monday to commence University courses.

Mr. Frank and Miss Annie Harrison, Mrs. Chas. McKeown and Mrs. Alex. Steele, Toronto, Mr. Thos. Wilson and Mrs. Jas. Catherwood, of Erin, were among the friends from outside points, who were here for the funeral of the late Mrs. Wm. McLean.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Anderson, 1099 Richmond St., north, London, Ont., announce the engagement of their only daughter, Bertha Lillian, to James Leonard Edwards, Phm. B., of Toronto, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Edwards, of Marsville, Ont., the marriage to take place on October 9th.

Mr. Allan Marshall, clerk in Jeffers' drug store, left on Monday for Guelph, where he has taken a position in Liggett's drug store. Allan was Reeve of the Orangeville Boys' Council and will be greatly missed in the deliberations of that body as well as by his friends and associates in town.

Mr. E. A. Parson, the John St. florist, arrived home on Saturday night from his trip to his boyhood home in England, whither he went two months ago on a visit to his parents. Mr. Parson looks well after his holiday and reports a delightful visit in the land of his birth as well as a pleasant voyage while crossing the Atlantic.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Wilson, oldtime residents of the Primrose district, have been visiting Dufferin county friends for several weeks. Mr. Wilson, who left these parts some 35 years ago, was a successful business man in Winnipeg for 29 years. He retired a few years ago and he and Mrs. Wilson are now living in Whittier, California.

Mr. Jas. Cameron, a veteran newspaper man and many years foreman of the Shelburne Free Press, spent Monday in town, giving a number of oldtime friends a welcome call. Mr. Cameron was in Orangeville in the winter of 1861, a few months after the Sun, Orangeville's first newspaper, had been launched on its career by the late John Foley, father of the present editor. Mr. Cameron also recalls visiting this town in 1865, when there was only one frame house on Mill St.

HALBERT-SKELTON

At high noon, on Tuesday, Sept. 18th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Skelton, Second Ave., their elder daughter, Ruby May, was united in marriage to Lawrence Halbert, of Alliston. To the sweet familiar strains of Dendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Rhoda Little, the fair young bride, tastefully gowned in shell pink crepe de chine, trimmed with radium and pearls, wearing a beautiful bridal veil and carrying an exquisite bouquet of Ophelia roses, mingled with baby's breath and fern, escorted by her father and preceded by her little sister, Pearl, as flower girl, took her place beside the groom under the wedding arch. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. A. E. Thornley, minister of Knox Church, assisted by Revs. Alex. Halbert, of Port Carling, and R. G. Halbert, of New Lowell, both brothers of the groom. The former brother, during the signing of the register, sang a very suitable and beautiful solo entitled "The Flight of Ages." The home was beautifully decoraetd with pink and white, in harmony with the bridal dress. Fifty-five guests did justice to the sumptuous wedding repast. In addition to the bride's cake, there was one of almost equal proportions dedicated to the groom, opposite which, with happy faces, the bride and groom took their respective places. An impromptu toast to the bride and groom was proposed by the Rev. R. G. Halbert, which the groom briefly acknowledged and asked that his brother, Alex. Halbert, respond. Similar happy felicitations were indulged in by the guests at the second table, the speakers being Mrs. A. W. Tipling, T. Y. McKay and A. E. Colgan. The gift of the groom to the bride was a cabinet of silver, to the flower girl a gold wrist watch, and to the pianist a necklace of pearls. Amid showers of confetti, the bride, wearing a small cloche of radium plus and ostrich, and blue wrap, with bag to match, and the groom left for their honeymoon in the groom's car, which had been grotesquely decorated by the juvenile portion of the guests. The bride and groom will make their ufture home in Alliston.

LEAGUERS MEET HERE

Methodist Young People Hold Splendid Rally—Rev. C. W. De Mille Delivers Inspiring Address —Officers Elected.

The Young People's League of the Orangeville District Methodist churches held a very successful convention in the Methodist Church, Orangeville, on Tuesday, Sept. 18th, 1923. There were large delegations present from each of the fourteen Leagues in the District. Despite the fact that the weather was quite disagreeable both sessions were well attended. It is very encouraging to those who have the best interests of the young people at heart to know that there are so many flourishing Leagues in this district.

Rev. C. W. De Mille, B. A., General Superintendent of the Ontario Religious Education Council, was the special speaker at the Convention. Mr. De Mille is an earnest and entertaining speaker and his hearers were delighted with his addresses. The afternoon session took the form of a Round Table Conference and Mr. De Mille explained the new constitution of the Young People's League, which was adopted by the last General Conference of the Methodist Church. It will be noticed that the title, "Young People's League" takes the place of the former name, "Epworth League." The objects of the League are: (1) To bring young people into conscious fellowship with God through Christ; (2) To train them to live and serve effectively as members of the kingdom of God; (3) To provide an organization and program for the young people of the church, and to correlate the various organized groups. The executive body of the League consists of the Superintendent of the Circuit, the officers of the League, the ex-president of the League, the chairmen of the various standing committees and the presidents or chairmen of various organized young people's groups of the church. Membership in any organized young people's group within the church constitutes a person a member of the League.

The business committee which was appointed at the afternoon session was composed of the following: Miss Ellen B. Dance, Shelburne; Mrs. W. J. Gillespie, Orangeville; Miss McKeown, Sandhill; Mrs. E. Richardson, Laurel, and Rev. A. E. Owen, Shelburne.

The Leagues of the Orangeville District have undertaken to support of Dr. W. H. Birks, a medical missionary now stationed in China. The amount of money required annually for this purpose is $1500. A committee, composed of all the ministers present at the convention, together with an equal number of laymen, set an objective for each League in the District and if each society reaches the objective set the full amount of Dr. Birks' salary will be raised this year.

Supper was served to all the delegates who attended the afternoon session. At the supper table Rev. A. F. Bamford, of Honeywood, and Rev. R. J. McCarten, of Mono Road, spoke in appreciation of Mr. De Mille's kindness in coming to address the Convention. A vote of thanks was tendered the Orangeville Leaguers for their kindness in serving supper to the delegates.

The evening session was opened with a service of worship, after which the President, Wilson McConnell, extended a hearty welcome to the delegates and read the following appropriate and much appreciated message from Mr. F. T. Grafton, President of the Toronto Conference Young People's League: "Convey to the delegates assembled the greetings of the Conference League and Summer School Executives. We have just closed an inspiring convention at North Bay to-day. Trusting a bountiful blessing and spiritual inspiration for your convention."

Rev. A. E. Owen, in presenting the report of the Business Committee, stated that the following officers had been nominated for the ensuing year: Honorary President, Rev. H. L. Partridge, Orangeville, Chairman of the District; President, R. Wilson McConnell, Orangeville; 1st Vice-Pres., (Christian Fellowship Department), Elmer Dynes, Amaranth Station; 2nd Vice-Pres., (Missionary Department), Miss Ellen B. Dance, Shelburne; 3rd Vice-Pres., (Christian Citizenship Department), W. B. Cannon, Caledon East; 4th Vice-Pres., (Literary and Recreation Department), Miss Pearl Trimble, Laurel; 5th Vice-Pres., (Intermediate League), Mrs. Neelands, Caledon East; 6th Vice-Pres., (Junior League), Miss Bertha Lathwell, Orangeville; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Irene McCarthy, Orangeville; District Secretary of Religious Education, Rev. A. F. Bamford, Honeywood.

The Convention unanimously accepted the recommendation of the Business Committee and Rev. A. E Owen installed the officers.

In his evening address on "Our Greatest National Need," Mr. De Mille stressed the fact that he who would get the greatest riches must view life as an opportunity for service. Some people measure a man's worth by his social or financial standing, but he who would be greatest, let him be your minister. The problem of the race is ours. No longer can a man live in his own little sphere and overlook the presence of his neighbors. We are all members one of another. When the great awr broke out people in every corner of the globe were affected. Men were wont to ask what business it was of theirs if the fire brands of east Central Europe had cut loose and why should the fact that a prince had been murdered in Europe affect them. Our old earth has shrunk into such a small ball that when the recent earthquake shook Japan, the people of California asked what they could do to help their brown brothers across the sea. Underneath it all is the interest of folk in other people in distant parts of the world. We are living in a new era and as a result we are faced with new privileges and new responsibilities. Because we are all members one of another Canada must take her place with the other young nations. To be a good citizen it is essential for a man to do his own work well. There is no need of Canada considering herself a fit member of the family of nations unless she tills her soil and developes her national resurouces. Canada is a nation rich in resources. We have fisheries, water-power, forests, mines and grain fields that baffle description. We may have all these riches and yet be poor unless we have character. Our greatest national need is not for a new political party nor for a lower or higher tariff. Our greatest national need today is for a right citizenship. Not a better citizenship but a best citizenship—men and women who are in tune with their Father and with their fellow men. Not only a few, for a few cannot save the town, a hundred cannot save the city, nor a thousand cannot save the country. Rome and Greece had patriots but these nations went down because their people, as a people, were not right at heart. It will be no easy thing, it will be no light task to supply our greatest national need. It will mean the investment of life. We cannot live on the record of our fathers and our mothers. If we forget our duty for a generation our race will be lost. The responsibility lies on the young people from eighteen on.

In the lives of boys and girls there are at least four factors that tend to make them what they ought to be or what they ought not to be. First of all there is the home. Then there is the public school. Later the street life of the community plays a large part in deciding what kind of men and women the boys and girls are going to make. Next comes the play-life. "The play-life of Orangeville will decide what the next generation will be," declared the speaker. It is important that we should always play to win, but if we lose we should lose like gentlemen. We must also bear in mind that the thing we do that we are not paid for is the thing that decides the size of men and women we are. The church, too, has a great influence. Here we find the young people at practice. Only as the spirit of Jesus Christ is injected into the home, the public school, the street and the play life of boys and girls will these factors play their full part in the lives of the young people. Arrested development is always followed by decay, therefore, if we neglect religion and neglect God we grow weaker. An infusion of the spirit of God is essential for the growing of the best folk. The young people's work is a hard task and unless every last one of us make our contribution in this work it cannot be accomplished. In conclusion Mr. De Mille said "Your life requires that you invest it for the common good. This is our greatest national need. What are you going to do? The future of the land is in the hands of the young people. What will it be?"

Light refreshments were served at the close of the evening session and a social hour spent by the delegates before they went their several ways. A novel feature of this year's Convention was an exhibit of books, maps and literature from the Methodist Mission Rooms at Toronto. Another source of interest was two albums of snapshots and two large panoramic pictures taken at the eighth annual summer school of the Young People's League of Toronto Conference, held at Elgin House, Lake Joseph, Muskoka, July 2nd to 9th, 1923. Eight delegates from Orangeville District attended the Summer School this year, the largest delegation in the history of the District.

Testimonials From People He Knew, Convinced Sergeant Elvin, of the Salvation Army, That Dreco Was Well Worth Trying. Results Have Delighted Him.

Mr. J. R. Elvin, of 177 Mulock Street, Toronto, who, for twenty years has been a sergeant in the Salvation Army, is outspoken in his praise of Dreco, the new herbal remedy. Suffering himself, he read of Dreco's wonderful work, heard it spoken of in tones of the deepest gatitude by people he knew well. What more natural than that he should decide to try it himself.

"Although I have only taken a bottle and a half of Dreco, it has done me a world of good already," states Mr. Elvin. "Last winter I had an attack of lumbago, which left my system in a very badly run-down condition. Pains shot across my back, over the kidneys. My stomach would not digest my food properly, causing gas to rise after each mean, and I often had bilious attacks.

"After reading of the help people I knew were receiving from Dreco, I thought it might also benefit me and I have not been disappointed in any way. The pains in my back have greatly improved, my stomach is much better and I have had no gastric or bilious spells since I started taking this medicine.

"My bowels are regular; I get up feeling fine and refreshed in the mornings and my day's work is done much easier. I have recommended Dreco to many already and never hesitate to praise it."

Dreco's claims can be readily substantiated. Reliable people who have tried it are loud in their praises of this fine herbal remedy. They have found that it actually does tone and regulate the system and improve the general health. Dreco is made from herbs, roots, bak and leaves and contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Orangeville by R. Fairbairn, and is sold by a good druggist everywhere.

Cleopatra Washed Her Face This Way

She used Palm and Olive oils, the same rare oils which are blended in Palmolive. She knew that to have a fresh fine skin, thorough cleansing was necessary. The crude combination of Palm and Olive oils which was the best that even royalty could then obtain is now brought to perfection in Palmolive.

The girl of today, if she would be beautiful, follows Cleopatra's practice. Every day she cleanses the skin thoroughly with mild Palmolive Soap. Never does she permit cold cream, rouge and powder to accumulate and clog the pores of the skin. She knows that this starts irritation and blackheads, pimples and other blemishes result.

Palmolive with its mild creamy lather is lotion-like in its action. It freshens, revives and stimulates and leaves the skin delightfully fresh and rosy.

Thus a great luxury may be enjoyed at the price of ordinary soap. You can pay more, but you can't get a finer, milder cleanser.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first-class dealers.

Palm and olive oils, —nothing else—give nature's green color to Palmolive Soap.

When Gordon Hoey, of Adjala, was going home from Alliston his buggy was struck by a passing car just out of town. The buggy was considerably smashed and the horse became detached. The young man was, as he thought, just shaken up. Shortly after getting home Mr. Hoey realized that he had been hurt and on summoning a doctor it was discovered that his shoulder had been dislocated.

"Cookie" Wright, a well known Wiarton character, is safe in Owen Sound goal. About three months ago, Wright was fined $200 and costs, with the option of three months in jail under a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act charge. At the time of his trial, Cookie thought he could get together the cash, and he was given a week in order that he might have a chance to keep out of jail. When the week was up there was no sign of him and even after a warrant for his arrest was issued he could not be found either in Wiarton or Owen Sound. He was picked up in Wiarton by Provincial Constable Watson of Kitchener.

(1) Captain A. J. Hailey, R.N.R., commander of the "Empress of Canada," was born at Bradford in 1874. In 1900 he joined the Canadian Pacific and in 1910 received his first command. During the war he commanded hospital ships, notable the "Empress of India" and the "Manitoba." His appointment to the "Canada" dates back to the launching of the liner. His last accomplishment was the capturing of the Blue Ribbon of the Pacific for the fastest journey across.

(2) The "Empress of Russia" was built by the Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Co., Ltd., of Glasgow, has quadruple screws and driven by steam turbines, which develop a speed of 20 knots per hour. She is a product of English best engineering and has the utmost in accommodation and luxury.

(3) The "Empress of Canada," 21,500 ton liner, was the second liner to give aid and shelter to destitute of the Oriental turmoil. In addition to carrying about 300 passengers, she took 1,500 more on board where they received clothes and medical attention. She recently came to the limelight when she captured the Blue Ribbon of the Pacific, making the voyage from Yokohama and Vancouver in 8 days, 18 hours and 55 minutes. Her next winter program includes an elaborate cruise of the world, where she will take a limited number of globe trotters to no less than 18 foreign ports with many inland excursions included in the itinerary.

(4) The "Empress of Australia," often called the pride of the Pacific on account of her luxurious and comfortable reservations, rides with a length of 580 feet and is an oil-burning vessel of a registered tonnage of 22,000 tons.

(5) Captain Robinson, R.N.R., of the "Empress of Australia," whose heroic feats on the scene of the Oriental disaster, has prompted the Spanish ambassador at Tokyo to cable the King, recommending the bestowal of a decoration. Captain Robinson is one of the most popular skippers on the Pacific and has served on Canadian Pacific ships since 1895.

GRAPHIC tales of the Oriental disaster are daily being received on this continent. Many of them contain harrowing experiences of surviving inhabitants of Tokyo, Yokohama and mountain resorts nearby, and make true the age-old adage, "Great disasters have produced great men."

Canada's participation in rescue work in the Far East was the first foreign aid to reach that stricken country and to-day the world has learned of unaccountable feats of bravery, deeds of generosity and self-sacrifice on the parts of several Canadians, who at the time of the turmoil were engaged in missionary or mercantile fields.

To Captain Robinson of the "Empress of Australia," and Captain Kent, river pilot, the country stands indebted for the rescue and care of 4,000 lives. The report goes on to state that the "Australia" was making ready to sail for Vancouver, when the city of Yokohama was seen crumbling and smothered under the tidal wave. The sea became so agitated that other ships broke loose and rammed the "Australia" injuring her propellers. In spite of such handicaps, Captain Robinson sailed his big liner to safety, where later it became the home of over 4,000 destitute survivors.

The "Empress of Canada," which happened to be one day out from Yokohama when the first despatches were flashed across the broad Pacific, wasted no time in rushing to the scene of destruction. The day was employed in providing accommodation, foodstuffs and clothes to those refugees whose need was most urgent. No less than 1,500 refugees found shelter on the "Empress of Australia" and were conveyed to Shanghai where medical attention and care are being provided by the authorities.

With every available inch of her cargo space crammed with foodstuffs for the earthquake stricken thousands of Japan, the "Empress of Russia" sailed from Vancouver on September 6th. Owing to her superior speed, the "Empress of Russia," included in a fleet of three relief ships now under way, is expected to be the first to reach Japan on September 17th.

NEW LAMP BURNS 95 P. C. AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.-S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil.)

The inventor, F. N. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

Escaping from his parents while they were in Shelburne doing some buying, the two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hunter, of Horning's Mills, wandered away and until it was found some time later it gave its parents cause for considerable anxiety. Search parties were about to be organized when the child was located wandering aimlessly about, in a distracted state, at the easterly end of the village, near the Shelburne roller mills.

While tramping through the woods west of Dunedin and in the vicinity of Madill's, George Osborne, a resident of Dunedin, came upon a dead man lying near a river in the woods on the farm of Edward Weatherall west half lot 3, con. 10, Nottawasaga. The remains were a mere skeleton and proved to be that of James Laughlin, 70 years of age, an inmate of Grey County House of Refuge, who escaped from that institution about July 12th last.

R. J. Talbot, of Osprey, met with a mishap when he had his arm broken at the wrist and dislocated. He was riding horseback on one of the horses of a team when they got frightened and the bit breaking they ran away. In jumping off Mr. Talbot fell and met with the accident.

A fortnight ago Jack Densmore, son of Mrs. David Densmore, Grand Valley, was suddenly taken ill, and removed to Guelph Hospital. Here he remained in a rather serious condition, from ulcers of the stomach. Having lost considerable blood last week, blood transfusion was successfully accomplished, his brother Robert, giving a pint or more of the life-saving fluid. His condition is now improved.

You don't have to die to win

An advertisement to men in their "twenties" and "thirties"

$5,000 or $10,000 would come in mighty handy to you today, would it?

This is how much more valuable it will be to you at forty than at twenty.

Of course, you'll say, I'll have been successful and won't need it then. But stop! You may—and if you do, you'll need a more than you do to-day.

Your producing years will be waning and $10,000 will mean all the difference between a dependent and an independent old age.

A number of attractive special features are being added this year and citizens will find much to interest them by spending the afternoon with the students.

MASONIC VISIT

About fifty of the members of Harris Masonic Lodge, Orangeville, Lorne Lodge, Shelburne, and Scott Lodge, Grand Valley, paid a fraternal visit to Dufferin Lodge, Toronto, on Tuesday night. The brethren made the journey to the city on the regular evening train and returned home by "moonlight express" reaching here in good time for work yesterday morning. Officers of Harris Lodge gave an admirable exemplification of the work of the first degree. The fourth degree was however, the feature of the visit and was followed by the customary toast list, songs, speeches, selections in ventriloquism and an interesting demonstration of the working of the Bell Telephone system by Manager Frank Kennedy, of Toronto, and his staff of operators, who used a miniature switchboard to illustrate the working of the system. The local brethren report a royal time and returned home with a very high opinion of the hospitality of the officers and brethren of Dufferin Lodge.

—Markdale Fall Fair will be held on Oct. 9th and 10th instead of Oct. 2nd and 3rd, the dates advertised.

IN BANK HOLD-UP

Former Alton Ladies Have a Trying Experience in Toronto.

Mrs. H. G. Armbrust and her sister, Miss Cora Dowswell, former residents of Alton, were in the Oakwood-St. Clair branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia at the time of the successful hold-up last Thursday. Mrs. Armbrust gives the following account of the hold-up and her own experience with the robbers:

"My sister and baby Ruth and I were making a deposit in the bank when suddenly there was a commotion on both sides of us. I saw the girl employees of the bank with their hands up and I heard the manager fall. I started to run out of the building when the bandit who kept guard at the door cried out, "You stay where you are." I guess I was excited for I called twice to men going by. In the same quiet voice he ordered me to shut up or he'd blow my brains out. 'We don't want to harm anyone, so just keep still,' he said.

"I have seen that man's face in the paper," continued Mrs. Armbrust "He is dark, of medium build and stout. He is a good-looking and clean-shaven man.

"He doesn't look like a tough. The man behind the counter had a long black gun. The man who did the looting was taller than the others. The man inside was smaller and thin-faced. They were no chickens. They were well on in the '30's and looked like old hands.

"Three customers entered the bank while the hold-up was in progress and each in turn was ushered into the manager's office at the point of a gun, where the employees were huddled," she concluded.

"Rolly" Ball, clerk in Tamblyn's drug store, entered as the hold-up was in progress. Mrs. Armbrust promptly signalled for him to go out, but he did not grasp the situation. He too, was compelled to go into the room with the others.

THOMPSON-BRADLEY

Mr James Thompson and Mrs. Lavina Bradley, well-known residents of Orangeville, were happily wedded at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Fred Olsen, 41 North Markham St., Toronto, on Wednesday, Sept. 19th, Rev. Dr. Armstrong officiating. The newly wedded couple spent their honeymoon at Niagara Falls, Lewiston and Buffalo. They are now comfortably domiciled in the groom's home on West Broadway. A host of friends unite in tendering their congratulations and good wishes.

The sales were made by A. S. Wallace, real estate agent, Orangeville.

BURGLARS IN TOWN

J. D. TORRIE'S CLOTHING STORE ENTERED EARLY ON TUESDAY MORNING.

Thieves Made Getaway With Goods Valued at $5,000, But Were Arrested in Toronto Later in the Day.

The most daring burglary ever perpetrated in Orangeville was successfully pulled off early on Tuesday morning, when thieves entered J. D. Torrie's clothing store and made a successful getaway with goods valued at $5000. The burglars, who were fortunately arrested at their lodging house in Toronto later in the day, used an auto tire lever to force the front door of the store. Once in the premises they seem to have taken their time in appropriating what they wanted to carry away. They visited every part of the store and rummaged through drawers and other receptacles in a systematic manner, evidently in search of money or other valuables. The only coin of the realm secured was a few small bills and some silver, amounting to $9.00, that had been left in the till. The burglars carried off a whole cargo of goods. The haul included from 15 to 20 webs of cloth, each valued at from $200 to $300, 40 suit lengths, 7 men's overcoats, 5 men's suits, 5 boys' overcoats, a white sweater coat, five white sweaters, 9 boxes of 14½ size soft collars, a number of felt hats, a number of fancy socks, silk and wool, a box of belts, collar buttons and a number of miscellaneous articles. Subsequent developments in Toronto confirmed the suspicion that the thieves must have used a car to carry away their ill-gotten booty. The burglary was not discovered until eight o'clock, when Lloyd Davison, clerk in the store came down to open the premises for business. Mr. Torrie had gone to Toronto on business the night before, but Davison lost no time in apprising his son, Mr. D. J. Torrie, of the alarming occurrence. The latter got in touch with Chief Portland and Provincial Officer Mennie, who were hard at work half an hour later. One of the first things the officers did was to secure an inventory and description of the stolen goods. This was telegraphed to Police Headquarters in Toronto and proved of great service in helping the Toronto police to run down the thieves and recover the stolen goods.

Suspicion immediately attached itself to three young men, who were seen in town on Monday evening driving a seven passenger Cadillac touring car. The strangers visited Lott & Walker's garage on the north side of Broadway, where they had repairs made to one of the tires of their car. Walker, who did the work, did not like their actions and because of his suspicions took the number of the car—42306—which provided the officers with another valuable clue. The three men visited Sing's restaurant while in town but avoided the hotels and other places where they were likely to come under observation. It is rumored that the car was seen on the Prince of Wales Road late in the afternoon. It is likely that the trio, or two of them at any rate, spent the evening and the early part of the night lying low in the neighborhood of Orangeville. It is more than probable that the third man remained in town quietly making observations and gathering information that would help his pals when the time arrived to pull off the job they had planned.

Nightwatchman Dawson, who was on duty from ten p.m. until five a.m., says that he did not see the car or any suspicious looking strangers. He also avers that he tried the door of the store at 3.55 a.m. and found everything alright. Strange to say no person seems to have seen anything of the car or its occupants. Mrs. H. L. Modeland, whose bedroom is almost directly across the street, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Maxwell, also across the street, and some of the roomers in the Queen's Hotel, heard noises on the street, but none of them thought of anything untoward and did not trouble to look out. They are agreed though that they heard the noises about 2.30 a.m.

Shortly after noon on Tuesday Toronto detectives surrounded a house on D'Arcy Street and arrested two men named Leo Craig and Max Beaver. A search of the house disclosed goods, corresponding to those taken from Mr. Torrie's store, hidden in various rooms and cupboards. After a searching examination, Craig finally admitted that they had robbed the Orangeville store. According to Craig's admissions, two or three men stole a big Cadillac car in the city on Monday and motored to Orangeville. They loaded the stolen goods into the automobile and returned to the city, proceeding to the D'Arcy St. house, where they unloaded their booty and carried it into the house. The two prisoners gave their ages as 21 and 25 years.

The arrests and the recovery of the goods were made by Detective-Sergeants Robert Greenlee, Wilbur Dawn, Walter McConnell and William Nursey. It is said that the police received a tip that led to the arrest and recovery of the goods, from a lady living in the vicinity, who had her suspicions aroused when she saw the men unloading the goods and resolved to take a chance by notifying the police headquarters. Mr. Torrie, who remained in the city over Tuesday, visited police headquarters shortly after the raid and was able to identify his goods.

Max Shulman, the third man implicated in the burglary, made his escape from the D'Arcy St. house, but was arrested by the Toronto detectives later in the day. When apprehended Shulman was carrying a gold watch stolen from Torrie's store. The watch is the property of Rance Overland, the local horseman. When Overland was at Kincardine races some weeks ago he left the watch with Robt. Patterson, a Kincardine jeweller, for repairs. Patterson is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Torrie and when Mr. and Mrs. Torrie were visiting in Kincardine a short time afterwards he gave the former the watch to deliver to Overland. Mr. Torrie was keeping the watch in his store until he had an opportunity to return it to Overland.

We understand that the Toronto authorities are holding the three men on a charge of stealing the car, which it is said belongs to J. B. Campbell, Wellington St., west. After their trial on this charge they will be handed over to the authorities here.

MARKET LAMB FAIR

Nearly Two Hundred Lambs and Sheep on Exhibition on Tuesday.

The Market Lamb Fair held on the Exhibition Grounds here on Tuesday under the united auspices of the Dufferin Agricultural Society and the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture proved a splendid success. Altogether there were 177 lambs and sheep on exhibition. The entries were noteworthy not alone for their number but for their excellence, and furnished convincing proof of the importance and high standard of the sheep breeding industry in this district. A large crowd of farmers and other interested spectators attended the Fair and evinced the keenest interest in the entries and the judging. To Mr. J. W. Ledlow, of Camilla, went the honour of having the champion wether lamb of the show. The prize list follows:—

Section 1. Pen of Ten Market Lambs—R. Fife, T. Little, J.S. Meek, S. Kannawin, C. Crombie, G. M. Cruikshank, T. C. Bell, Jas. Buchanan T. J. Parks, W. J. Holmes.

Section 2, Pen of Five Market Lambs—J. W. Ledlow, W. J. Holmes, I. Sargent, G. M. Cruikshank, J. F. Parks, J. E. Hillock, T J Parks, J. Ellis.

Section 3, ram and three ewe lambs of his get, by grade ewes not eligible for registration—J. S. Meek I. Sargent, Robt. Rowan, T.J. Parks, John Ellis.

Section 4, Judging Competition—F. Buchanan, E. Dodds, John Oliver, N. Parks, L. C. Gier, E. H. Moore.

Champion Wether Lamb—J. W. Ledlow.

The judges were Messrs. E. G. Gordon, of the Canadian Packing Co., and Russell Kinnear, of Quinlan Heights. The officers of the Fair were President W. A. Donaldson and SecretaryTreasurer D. B. Brown, of the Dufferin Agricultural Society; James A. Telfer, Dominion Live Stock Branch, and H. A. Dorrance, Dufferin County Representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

The Fair was the first of its kind ever held in this district and Judges declared that it was the most successful Market Fair yet held anywhere in Canada. One of the objects of the Fair was to encourage the breeding of a uniform type of high-class market lambs. To further this object, Mr. Dorrance, who has been the prime mover in promoting and organizing the Fair, has made arrangements to supply a number of suitable rams for market breeding purposes.

As an auxiliary to the Fair a demonstration on cutting and cooking lamb was given in the Library Auditorium on Tuesday afternoon. This, too, was quite largely attended, over one hundred ladies being present. Miss Duncan, the demonstrator, gave an instructive demonstration and also imparted much helpful information about the cutting and preparation of lamb for table use.

CAMILLA

Anniversary services will be held in St. Andrew's Church here on Sunday, Oct. 21st. On Monday evening, Oct. 22nd, the Ladies' Aid Society will hold their annual Fowl Supper and Bazaar.

ESTEVAN LETTER

The Banner has received the following letter from Mr. H. A. Nash of Estevan, Sask., at one time general blacksmith at Camilla:—

Estevan, Sask., Sept. 26, 1923.

Dear Editor,—

I have no doubt but that some of your subscribers will be interested to hear something of what is going on around Estevan. We have had ideal weather for the last three weeks for threshing operations and I think I am safe in saying that had the weather kept good for another week threshing would have been about finished in this district. Some of your readers will remember Dalton. John and Herbie Wilson, who once lived near Camilla. They bought a threshing outfit this fall. They did their own threshing and then helped a number of others out and all are well satisfied with the result. Crops in the Estevan district will not yield very much profit to some of the farmers. Some farmers have told me that when they paid their twine and threshing bills they were in the hole. Wheat around here averages from ten to twenty bushels per acre. Owing to the low grade of the wheat and the low price realized, farmers, I am informed, will have a small margin for their labor. I have found business very good this summer, but am thinking that collections will be hard to get in this fall under the existing circumstances.

Yours sincerely,
H. A. NASH.

WHITTINGTON

Threshing is the order of the day in this section at the present time.

CALEDON FAIR

Beautiful Weather and a Successful Exhibition.

The Caledon Agricultural Society was favored with ideal autumn weather for its Fall Fair on Wednesday and Thursday of last week. Under the favoring conditions it is not surprising that the attendance was considerably better than a year ago, the gate receipts showing an improvement of nearly $75.00. Entries were also ahead of a year ago in a number of departments and were fully up to the average in the others. In the hall there was a fine exhibit in ladies' work and dairy and domestic products. There was also a good showing of vegetables. The slight falling off in grain and field roots was offset by the excellence of the articles shown. A class of exhibits that attracted much attention and comment was the workingman's dinner. The first prize was captured by Mrs. Jas. Torrance, of Caledon.

There was a fine showing of horses and sheep. The exhibit of cattle was also good. W. H. Black & Sons were large exhibitors in Herefords and carried off a goodly number of prizes. There was considerable competition in horses, particularly in the lighter classes, and in some cases the judges had no easy task picking the winners. George Thompson, of Mono, carried off the Royal Bank Challenge Cup for the best draft team on the grounds. R. Young, of Orangeville, captured the red ribbon for the best agricultural horse and M. Pinkney, of Erin, carried home the honors for the best harness carriage team. Arch McArthur, of Cataract, was awarded the prize for the best single horse in harness, carriage or roadster. S. Kannawin, Alton, won first for the best animal in the roadster class. Best lady driver went to Mrs. Norman McLachlan, Caledon, best gentleman's turnout to Arch McArthur and best road horse in the County of Peel to Fred Watts, of Cataract.

The speeding events were well contested, particularly the three minute trot, which furnished the crowd with some real excitement. The Overland entry, Dan Bingen, had a good chance for first money until he went off his feet in the final heat. The results were:—

Free For All

Bertha Walsh, Dr. Riddell, Orangeville	1	1	1
Dixie Hal, Dr. Riddell, Orangeville	3	2	2
Alfred Elk, John Bailey, Toronto	2	3	3

Time: 2.17 1-2, 2.16 1-4, 2.17½.

2.30 Class

Walter Bison, Dr. Stubbs, Caledon	5	4	4
Jennie Bison, Dr. Riddell, Orangeville	dr.
Miss Allerton, C. McDonald, Toronto	dr.

Time: 2.29 1-4, 2.29½, 2.29 3-4.

Three Minute Trot

Lady Dempsey, Jas. Lamont, Caledon	1	1	4	1
Dan Bingen, R. Overland, Orangeville	3	4	1	4
Hal Y., J. S. Weir, Caledon East	2	2	2	3
Jean Johnston, D. McArthur, Caledon	5	3	3	2
Star Hal, W. J. Lowe, Snelgrove	4	5	dr.

Time: 2.30½, 2.39 1-4, 2.40 3-4, 2.40

Officials—Starter, John Speers, Brampton; Timer, R. Robson, Brampton; Judges, Alex. McLeish and Dr. Wm. Stubbs, Caledon; Clerk of the Course, Dr. J. T. Thomas, Caledon.

One of the events of the day was the slow race. Five starters lined up before the judges, driving five of the slowest horses that were to be found in the township. Harness and carts matched the equines. One driver guided his steed with a pair of plow lines. Before they were sent away for the circuit of the half mile track, the drivers were compelled to change horses. Another rule prohibited the use of whips. Dr. Stubbs, who started on a sulkey and finished seated astride the back of his nag managed to finish last, thereby winning the race. The Dr. had a close call, Duncan McArthur's entry passing under the wire a mere head in front. Dr. C. Culliton, of Toronto, won the third prize.

The boys' bicycle race was well contested. The winners were Ben Nichols Jr., Norman Dinnick and Reuben Senior in the order named. Unfortunately Sam. Patterson Jr. was the only entrant for the radio outfit offered for the best exhibit of products of the farm. Mr. Patterson made an excellent exhibit, but as the rules called for several entries the best the judge could do was to award him second prize. The Daily Star's radio car was a disappointing attraction as the radio was not tuned to suit the atmospheric conditions and was silent all afternoon. On the whole the Fair was a big success and the officers and directors have good reason to be pleased with the fine exhibit and the large attendance at the show. The prize list follows:—

SEVEN YEARS OF TORTURE

Headaches and Indigestion Ended By "Fruit-a-tives"

The Marvellous Fruit Medicine

Like thousands and thousands of other sufferers, Mr. Albert Varner of Buckingham, P.Q., tried many remedies and went to doctors and specialists; but nothing did him any good.

Finally a friend advised him to try "Fruit-a-tives"—now he is well. As he says in a letter:

"For seven years, I suffered terribly from Headaches and Indigestion. I had belching gas, bitter stuff would come up in my mouth, often vomiting, and was terribly constipated. I took Fruit-a-tives and this grand fruit medicine made me well".

50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At dealers or sent by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa, Ont.

The total quantity of sea fish landed on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts during the month of July was 822,043 cwts., valued at $3,771,449 to the fishermen, compared with a catch of 873,382 cwts. valued at $2,596,736 in July, 1922.

Cattle in north Alberta's livestock herds now number more than 2,000,000. This industry and also the swine industry have increased amazingly in the northern part of the Province in the last few years.

Carrying large consignments from the Dominion Government and the British Columbia branch of the Canadian Red Cross, the Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of Russia was the first ship from the American continent to arrive with relief for the earthquake and famine stricken people of Japan.

Nearly $10,000 in fur royalties was collected in The Pas, Man., by the chief game warden last winter. This does not include the royalties collected from the Hudson Bay Company and Revillon Freres, which will more than double this amount. This does not include moneys secured through taxes, licenses and other sources of revenue.

Creamery butter made in Alberta took a total of 149 prizes out of 236 prizes offered, or 63 per cent., at exhibitions at Edmonton, Calgary, Regina, Brandon, Saskatoon and Vancouver this year. Out of 11 open championships offered, Alberta butter took 8. In the Calgary exhibition six provinces competed, in three others four provinces competed, and in two others three provinces competed.

British Columbia has reached the peak of the biggest tourist season in her history, and it is estimated that as a result of the enormous travel and the expenditure of transients while in the province this summer will be worth at least $30,000,000. The opening of the Banff-Windermere motor highway through Canada's rock garden was largely responsible for this increase in tourist traffic through the Pacific province.

Government assayers in the Province of Ontario during the first six months of 1923 report production of 384,[illegible] ounces gold and 65,444 ounces silver, of a total value of $7,244,081 reported by the Porcupine producers, and from the Kirkland Lake producers 69,691 ounces gold and 6,515 ounces silver, of a total value of $1,402,873, or from the two camps a total value of $8,646,954.

The Canadian Pacific Railway will contribute $25,000 for the relief of the sufferers in Japan and have also decided that supplies of Canadian food-stuffs and clothing donated, or purchased with money donated for relief work, will be transported free over the Company's rail and steamship lines. President E. W. Beatty made this announcement while making a tour over the Company's lines in the West with a party of directors. He added that this action had been taken because of the reports of the intense hardships due to the disaster, and notwithstanding the fact that the Company had lost heavily by the catastrophe.

The following editorial recently appeared in the Windsor "Border Cities Star". A recent cargo of silk, en route from China to New York, was shipped via Vancouver and the Canadian Pacific Railway and crossed the St. Lawrence to Ogdensburg, New York, instead of being sent across the United States from San Francisco. The incident offers something for Canadians to think about.

It proves what a splendid service the Canadian Pacific offers in its rail and steamship lines. In a country like Canada, transportation is all essential, and the way the Canadian Pacific has carried on in spite of the business difficulties which began with the war and are not yet smoothed out, is a credit to the nation which conceived it.

Again, the incident calls attention to Canada's splendid gateway to the East. Although China is in a chaotic political condition just now, the large Oriental nation offers wonderful trade chances in the future. No nation is better placed for getting its share of this business than Canada.

"Wonder what an idle Telephone thinks about?"

"WHY, oh, why do my people send out 'Special Offer' letters broadcast to a lot of dealers, when I could do so much better for them?

"Think of the time lost before they will have replies enough to know if the sale is a success!—of the letters that won't receive proper attention!—of the unnecessary expense in that big list!

"They'd do better to put me in charge of their 'Special Offer Campaigns.' I'm the boy that gets an immediate decision.

"In two hours, by Long Distance I've often sold 60% of a Special Sale stock to a few merchants—and a letter to a small list telling of that fact soon disposed of the remainder.

"I can prove that getting quick decisions on important policies by Long Distance is the most economical in the long run."

Here and There

Russia has more illiterates, and at the same time, more bookshops than any other country in Europe.

The largest consignment of silk from the Orient for many months, consisting of 5,500 bales, valued at $9,000,000, formed part of the cargo of the "Empress of Russia" recently.

A shipment of silk from China, consisting of ten carloads, valued at two million dollars, went forward from Vancouver to New York under special guard over the Canadian Pacific lines recently.

The first of a series of six new seaplanes being constructed for the Canadian Government has just been delivered. The new planes are to be used in forest patrol for the prevention of destruction by fire.

Following the disastrous earthquakes and fires which devastated large areas in Japan, the Canadian Pacific liners "Empress of Canada" and "Empress of Australia" were thrown open to the accommodation of thousands of refugees, while the officers and men of the vessels did splendid work in organizing and assisting rescue parties.

The rapid increase in the export butter trade of Saskatchewan during the past year or two, has been the outstanding feature of the Provincial dairy industry. Recently the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries made a shipment of 25,000 lbs. of butter to China.

For almost two decades the major portion of the world's supply of cobalt has been derived from the silver-cobalt-nickel arsenides of the Cobalt district, according to figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The cobalt production of Canada in 1922 was 560,930 pounds, which at $3.25 a pound, would be worth $1,822,370.

Canada's trade within the Empire is increasing. For the twelve months ended July, Canada exported to other parts of the Empire goods amounting to $452,[illegible]87,809. This is in comparison with $334,092,074, the figure for the corresponding twelve months previous. Imports from British Empire countries during the two twelve months' periods were: Ended July 1923, $195,811,120; ended July, 1922 $153,185,581.

A wheat crop of 372,514,000 bushels is forecasted in a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The report is based upon the condition of crops at the end of July, and indicates that the Prairie Provinces will produce 357,295,000 bushels of wheat if weather conditions continue favorable. Manitoba, it is expected, will have a total wheat yield of 44,468,000 bushels; Saskatchewan 211,051,000; and Alberta 101,776,000 bushels. Alberta is the only province to show an increased yield as compared with 1922.

A party of five journalists, representing the leading newspapers of Switzerland, who recently arrived at Quebec, are the guests in Canada of E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway. They will tour the Dominion in the interests of Swiss colonization. Stops will be made at different points where Swiss people are farming, and opportunity will be given to members of the party to converse with them and get first hand knowledge as to the desirability of Canada as a place for Swiss colonists.

In a letter on "Canada and Land Settlement," published by the Morning Post, Sir Geo. McLaren Brown, European manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, says that the agricultural salvation of Western Canada lies in mixed farming, which calls for smaller and more numerous agricultural holdings than wheat growing does, and results in closer settlement and better communication. The bigger and more densely settled the rural population, the more social amenities there are and greater advantages generally, he says.

PROTECTING THE PRINCE

Late Peter S. McLaren Piloted the Crib Which Carried Edward, the Prince of Wales.

The mild and humorous escapades in which Edward, the present Prince of Wales, is fond of indulging ,recall one told about his grandfather, Edward VII., when, as Prince of Wales, he made, in 1860, a tour of the then Province of Canada. Young, sprightly, and fond of adventure, like his grandson, he desired to become somewhat acquainted with both the lumber industry and the Ottawa River, down which the square timber was floated on its way to Quebec—in those days there was no saw-logging except for local purposes. At his own request, he was conveyed up the Ottawa Valley far enough to be taken down on a "crib" of timber, through the Long Sault rapids and past the famous "big kettle" whirlpool, out of which few ever came alive, if they happened to miss the channel.

The "lumber king" of the lower Ottawa at that time was Daniel McLaughlin, of Arnprior, who drove the Prince in his carriage to Almonte, then the temporary terminus of the Brockville & Ottawa Railway, now part of the C. P. R. Almonte is the centre of what was then an unadulterated Scotch settlement, and when the royal party arrived, the Prince made an impetuous start for the platform erected for him at the temporary railway terminus. The "canny" old village constable—a Scot, of course—overtook him, with the warning:

"Ye canna gang up there, my lad; that is for the Prince."

The Prince took the seizure in good part and laughed heartily as the constable rushed after him to bring him down; but by this time the shouts of laughter from the spectators brought the incident to a close, and the Prince was allowed to proceed, without further molestation, with his share of the program.

The above item is from the Toronto Globe. The editor of the Reporter desires to give it further prominence that will make it very local. The story comes fresh to my memory from the late Peter S. McLaren. At that time he was foreman for Dan McLaughlin, the lumber king, and it was McLaren's job to pilot the crib that carried the Prince safely, for he carried with him the future king of England. Of all the trips he made he admitted that it was the most trying. It was not until it was over that he felt the strain he was under. Young, vigorous and courageous, he knew no fear as a lumberman, and he had passed down safely before. He could do it again and did do it. The Prince spoke words of commendation for his skill and to the day of his death King Edward was the idol of Peter S. McLaren. There was romance in it, too, for the young foreman married a niece of Dan McLaughlin, and few more gracious or highly esteemed women have lived in Bruce than the late Mrs. McLaren.—Kincardine Reporter.

Nerves So Bad That She Would Sit and Cry

Mrs. Mary Hocking, Madoc, Ont., writes:—

"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a wonderful lot of good. I suffered from general weakness and was so run down and my heart and nerves were in such bad shape that I would sit down and cry and not know what I was crying about. I also used to have weak spells. Thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, however, I am real well now. I shall always keep a box of the Nerve Food in the house, and recommend them to my friends; they are a wonderful medicine."

(Mr. J. W. Vince, Druggist, of Madoc, Ont., says: "I have sold Mrs. Hocking your Nerve Food, and the medicine has done her much good.")

MOTOR ROAD MAPS

The 1923 road map of the Ontario Motor League is now on sale at The Banner Office. The map has been thoroughly revised and greatly improved in a number of respects. It shows in accurate red outline the Provincial Highway system of Ontario and also the best roads in Western Quebec, New York State and Eastern Michigan. The relative importance of all roads is indicated by three classes of lines—red, medium and thin black. The map sells at 50 cents, the same price as last year.

MRS. ANDERSON TELLS WOMEN

How Backache and Periodic Pains Yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Leslie, Sask.—"For about a year I suffered with a distressing downbearing pain before and during the periods and terrible headaches and backache. I hated to go to a doctor, and as I knew several women who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with good results, I finally decided to try it and took four bottles of it. I certainly do recommend it to every woman with troubles like mine. I feel fine now and hope to be able to keep a bottle on hand at all times, as I think I can't be without it in the house." — OSCAR A. ANDERSON, Box 71, Leslie, Sask.

Mrs. Kelsey Adds Her Testimony

Copenhagen, N. Y. — "I read your advertisement in the papers and my husband advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to get relief from pains and weakness. I was so weak that I could not walk at times. Now I can do my housework and help my husband out doors, too. I am willing for you to publish this letter if you think it will help others." — Mrs. HERBERT KELSEY, R.F.D., Copenhagen, N. Y.

Sick and ailing women everywhere in the Dominion should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before they give up hope of recovery. C

DUST CLOUD, THEN NOTHING

Canadian Officer's Vivid Account of the Disaster in Japan.

Major G. I. Carvell, M. C., of Ottawa, a veteran of the Princess Pats, who was on his way home from Siberia and was caught in Yokohama the day of the quake, told a reporter on board the Empress of Australia when it arrived in Vancouver Harbor. "As a British officer," he began, "I say solemnly that there was more harm done by God in Yokohama in three minutes than the combined armies of the Britons and Germans did to Ypres in three and a half years.

"When I left only two buildings remained standing in the city, the memorial hall and the telephone exchange. They were of concrete. Of course they were gutted. Everything else was absolutely flat.

"We had just gone on board. The ship started to rock. Nobody could walk on the decks. We all thought the boilers had burst. Then someone yelled 'Earthquake.'

"We could see a cloud of dust. After that nothing. We looked to Yokohama and the second quake came. The land moved—well, you know how a carpet moves when you take the end of it and give it a quick shake with your hand. In waves, just like that. Buildings toppled. At first we could not hear a sound for we were out at the end of the pier. Then came hundreds of explosions. The oil tanks. Within five minutes the flames had started. Yokohama was ablaze.

Saw Hotels Fall

"We saw the Oriental and the Grand hotels fall to the ground. Remember, we had left our pals there just an hour or less before.

"We had to lie there all night, for the Japs cut the lines of the tugs and fled. The harbor was aflame. The oil on the surface was burning. The safety of the Australia is due alone to Captain Robinson's coolness. He manoeuvred the ship and skirted the burning oil by a mere fifty yards.

"The British, American and French boats in the harbor all sent boats ashore at once. The quake was on Saturday. It was Monday before a single Japanese boat went ashore from one of their ships to the assistance of their friends.

"The whole thing was so gigantic that nothing really stands out. I asked a friends of mine who was through the San Francisco disaster, how it compared with this. He was ashore in Yokohama when the quake came, but escaped.

Rescued From Bath

"'I want to tell you, he replied, 'that there was no earthquake in San Francisco.'

"Here is a true story. A chap in the second floor of the Grand Hotel wakened up to see a woman come through the ceiling in a bath. The whole thing was tilted at an angle of 45 degrees and was only held by the pipes. She was slipping out, covered with soapsuds, where she had been actually bathing when the quake came.

"'Hold on a minute!' he shouted, and he climbed up and helped her down.

"He threw her out of the window, climbed out after her and carried her to the water. All the time she kept crying 'I've got no clothes.' He held her up thus for about seven hours."

To Commemorate Heroism.

The heroism of the good ship Empress of Australia and her great crew is to be commemorated in a tablet for which the passengers contributed some hundreds of dollars. Like the tablet on the Victory that marked the spot where the great Nelson fell, this will be set up in a prominent place on her deck and will bear the following record:

"Presented to the R.M.S. Empress of Australia by the passengers, to commemorate the heroic work performed by Commander S. Robinson, R.N.R., and all the officers and crew, in saving the lives of all on board, and rescuing the survivors of the earthquake and fire which devastated the district of Yokohama on September 1. 1923.

ON ADVENTURE BENT

Two Owen Sound Boys Stowaways on Coal Boat.

Two Owen Sound lads left here on Wednesday night in search of adventure as stowaways on an outgoing steamer. The boys are Murray Gordon, aged 15, son of Mr. Wm. Gordon, 2nd Ave. East, and Louis Trumbly, aged 15, son of Mr. Jos. Trumbly, 3rd Ave. East. They were discovered on board the next morning, having concealed themselves in the hold of the ship until she was clear of port, and will be sent back to Owen Sound as soon as she makes port.

The steamer came into Owen Sound harbour on Wednesday afternoon with a cargo of coal for Mr. Jas. Cole and Mr. A. J. Creighton. She completed unloading operations about 11 o'clock at night and cleared immediately for Calcite, Mich., where she will take a load of stone. The two lads were missed from their homes Wednesday night, and their parents conducted an earnest search for them, but without avail. Thursday morning Mr. Creighton received a wireless message from the Captain of the steamer saying that the two boys were on the boat, and that, although he should turn them over to the authorities, if he received instructions at once he would send them back to Owen Sound. The parents were immediately notified, and arrangements made to have the boys brought back. As it is a long way from Calcite—a large stone quarry town on the Straits of Mackinac—the boys will hardly get to Owen Sound before the beginning of next week.

Stowing away used to be a very popular pastime on the Lakes, but of late years stowaways have not been treated with the leniency they formerly were, and the practice has been somewhat discouraged. Time was when the C. P. R. steamers carried out two or three "cargo-passengers" a week, now it is only on rare occasions that anybody tries to steal a ride in the hold. On the ocean-going vessels, particularly those plying between European and American ports, the stowaway is not so uncommon. Occasionally one of these unfortunates will be found in the hold of an incoming vessel smothered or crushed to death by cargo which has shifted in a heavy sea. Very often they are discovered during the voyage, and in that case are put to work. But it is very seldom that Owen Sound has a stowaway to its credit. Largely for the reason, no doubt, that there are few boats to stow away on.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

SCHOOLDAY SCALP TROUBLES

CHILDREN at school and at play, frequently exchange caps and clothing, and in this way contract ringworm, scald-head, scalp sores, and other distressing skin humors. Harassed mothers will find the Zam-Buk treatment both preventive and curative in these prevalent troubles.

Shampoo a child's scalp with Zam-Buk Medicinal Soap to keep the skin and hair healthy. Where the red itchy spots, patches or eruptions, have already appeared apply Zam-Buk without delay. This powerful antiseptic balm soothes and purifies the tissue, kills off the disease parasites, and ensures speedy growth of new healthy skin.

Mrs. E. Webster, 519, Seigneurs Street, says:—"My little girl got scalp disease at school. Bad gatherings and sores formed all over her head, and we feared she would lose all her hair. It was pitiable to see her. Fortunately we tried Zam-Buk, and a few days treatment with this magical herbal balm effected splendid improvement. The sores soon began to heal and we continued the Zam-Buk treatment until the last trace of disease had gone."

Zam-Buk 50c. box, is equally good for ulcers, bad legs, piles, varicose sores, poisoned wounds, abscesses, boils, cold-sores, etc. FREE SAMPLE BOX of Zam-Buk is obtainable by sending 1c. stamp to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

S. S. CONVENTION

Annual Meeting of the Mono and Orangeville Association.

The Annual Convention of the Mono Township and Orangeville Sabbath School Association was held at Primrose, on Monday, Sept. 17th. The afternoon session was held in St. James' Anglican Church, while the evening meeting was held in the Methodist Church. Each of the sessions was well attended and the programs provided were of special benefit to all Sunday School officers and workers.

In the afternoon Rev. J. A. Matheson, of Mono Mills, gave a very inspiring address on the "Aims of a Live Sunday School." Rev. R. G. Davison, of Mono Mills, spoke very earnestly on "Home as the Most Sacred Circle of Society." Rev. J. Russell Harris, of Toronto, the Provincial Representative, led a very profitable and helpful Round Table Conference and also delivered an address on "The Marks of a Successful Leader of Boys." The Provincial Representative also spoke at the evening session, his subject being "Our Task in Religious Education." Both addresses were followed very closely.

The Primrose ladies entertained the delegates in a very hospitable manner, serving a bountiful supper between sessions. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

Pres., Mr. Wilson Duke; Vice-Pres., Mrs. Thos. Little; Sec.-Treas., Mrs. D. N. Potter; Supt. of Home Department, Mrs. Thos. Little; Adult Dept., Mrs. W. J. Bower; Teachers' Training Dept., Rev. F. W. Mahaffy; Girls' Dept., Miss Lillian Rayfield; Boys' Dept., Mr. A. Grigg; Missionary Dept., Miss B. Parker; Temperance Dept., Mr. J. A. Avison; Children's Dept., Mrs. S. Irwin.

Next year's Convention will be held in Burns' Church, Mono Centre.

ANDREWS-SAWYER

The home of Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Morris, 1214 Lansdowne Ave., Toronto, was the scene of a happy event at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening, Sept. 26th, when Alma Wilma Sawyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Sawyer, Orangeville, became the bride of Mr. Clifford Andrews of Toronto. The bride, who was attired in a suit of blue tricotine and grey hat and carried a bouquet of roses, was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Sawyer, of Orangeville. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Fred Andrews. Following the marriage the happy couple were tendered a reception in their apartments, 66 Lappin Ave., by a number of the girl friends of the bride. Later at night they left the city on a short honeymoon trip. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful sable neckpiece. Other gifts included a case of flat silver from her former employers, The Gutta Percha Rubber Co., and a generous shower of useful articles from the members of her Sunday School class. Orangeville friends join in congratulations.

SYMPTOMS OF ANAEMIA

An Inherited Tendency to Anaemia May be Overcome.

Some people have a tendency to become thin-blooded just as others have an inherited tendency to rheumatism, or to nervous disorders. The condition in which the blood becomes so thin that the whole body suffers comes on so gradually and stealthily that anyone with a natural disposition in that direction should watch the symptoms carefully. Bloodlessness, or anaemia, as the medical term is, can be corrected much more easily in the earlier stages than later. It begins with a tired feeling that rest does not overcome, the complexion becomes pale, and breathlessness on slight exertion, such as going upstairs, is noticed.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a home remedy that has been most successful in the treatment of diseases caused by thin blood. With pure air and wholesome food these blood making pills afford the correct treatment when the symptoms described are noticed.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail postpaid, at 50c. a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

—Mrs. J. A. Warburton, for many years a teacher in Elizabeth Street School, Toronto, where she became known as the "newsboys' teacher," was banquetted by former pupils in the old school on Tuesday night of last week. Mrs. Warburton, who is now living in Plymouth, England, spent the summer visiting in Toronto and Orangeville and holidaying in Muskoka in company with her sister, Miss R. Lalor, of the Orangeville Public School teaching staff. She sailed for England last Thursday.

PLEADED GUILTY

Harry Shipp and Thos. Coyne, the two men arrested at Alton a week ago Monday, as the result of a raid by Inspectors Robinson, of Orangeville, and Reevely, of Brampton, accompanied by Chief Portland, who found whisky and a barrel of mash on the premises, were tried by Magistrate Moore in Brampton on Monday. Shipp pleaded guilty to a charge of keeping liquor for sale and was fined $200 and costs. As he was not able to pay the fine he was lodged in Brampton gaol. Friends are making an effort to raise the money. The charge against Coyne was withdrawn.

DISTRICT MEETING

The annual autumn meeting of the Orangeville District of the Methodist Church was held in the Methodist Church in Shelburne on Tuesday of last week. Morning, afternoon and evening sessions were held and were attended by the various pastors of the district and a number of representative laymen. The President of the Toronto Conference, Rev. Geo. R. Turk, of Brampton, formerly of Owen Sound, delivered a fine address at the afternoon session.

GUARD THE BABY AGAINST COLDS

To guard the baby against colds nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are a mild laxative that will keep the little one's stomach and bowels working regularly. It is a recognized fact that where the stomach and bowels are in good order that colds will not exist; that the health of the little one will be good and that he will thrive and be happy and good-natured. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail, at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE TOWN COUNCIL

The Town Council held an uneventful sitting on Monday night. Accounts were passed as follows:—

Ed. Huskisson, $27.80, of which $3.00 is to be charged to Caledon township; Orangeville Hydro Commission, $33.50 and $322.00; D. A. Hogg, $10.50; Geo. King, $25.50; Geo. R. Hogben, $7.00; C. W. Hughson, $2.75.

A communication was read from T. W. Fuller stating that the Department of Public Works had approved of the application to rent part of the Opera House for $120 a year and that a lease would be forwarded in due time. The part referred to is the north downstairs room, which the Council is renting for an armoury, and storehouse for the instruments for the Peel-Dufferin regimental band.

Mr. Roland Island, of Cory, Pa., is visiting his nephews, Messrs Geo. Moffatt, First St., and Roland Moffatt, of Caledon; his niece, Mrs. Wm. Bennett, of Mono, and other relatives here. The visitor, who is 83 years of age, is still active and alert and is a very entertaining conversationalist, with a fund of interesting reminiscenses and information. He is accompanied by his niece, Mrs. Ellen Murdoch, of Pittsburg, Pa., a sister of the Messrs Moffatt and Mrs. Bennett.

OBTAINED HONORS

Miss Hortense Langford, a pupil of the Chesley High School last year, received the report of her Upper School exams and found she had obtained 15 marks in trigonometry and a credit in algebra and geometry. However, this was incorrect and when Miss Langford had her papers reread she obtained honours in all three subjects.—Chesley Enterprise.

The young lady referred to is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Langford, West Broadway.

STEPHEN MARSHALL

Stephen Marshall, a lifelong resident of Brampton and a man held in the highest esteem by the many who made his acquaintance, passed away in Toronto on Friday, Sept. 21st, after a lengthy illness. Mr. Marshall was in his 71st year and was born on the Marshall homestead close to Brampton, at present occupied by L. J. C. Bull. His father, the late William Marshall, was one of the early settlers of the district. Mr Marshall followed the occupation of carpenter from his youth and for a long time was engaged with the late Josiah Mason and later with W. B. McCulloch. He was a quiet, conscientious man, who made many friends. In politics he was a Liberal. He was an adherent of St. Paul's Methodist Church, Brampton. Previous to their marriage, his wife, who survives, was Miss Mary Banks, daughter of a Chinguacousy farmer. Also surviving are two sons, Ernest, of Kamsack, Sask., and William, of Gleichen, Alta., and one daughter, Mrs. Neil McKinnon, of Brampton. Samuel Marshall, of Vancouver, B. C., is a brother, and Mrs. Endacott, wife of Sheriff H. Endacott, of Orangeville, is the only surviving sister. The funeral was held to Brampton Cemetery on Sunday afternoon, September 23rd.

MRS. EDWARD JOHNSTON

Mrs. Margaret Johnston, wife of Mr. Edward Johnston, a well-known resident of Caledon, passed away at her residence in Caledon village on Tuesday, Sept. 25th, after an illness of five months from high blood pressure culminating in a stroke. Deceased, who was 57 years of age, had been in rather delicate health for a number of years. The late Mrs. Johnston was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Rayburn and was born in Caledon township, where she had lived practically all her life. She was a quiet industrious woman, who was held in general esteem as a neighbor and citizen. The bereaved husband and family of two sons, Ray and Ivan, have the sympathy of the community in their trying loss. Joseph and Robert and Miss Mary A. Rayburn, all of Caledon, are the surviving brothers and sister. The funeral, which was quite largely attended, was held from her late home to Caledon Cemetery early on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 27th. Mrs. Johnston was a staunch member of Knox Presbyterian Church, Caledon, and the funeral service was held in the church, the pastor, Rev. T. W. Mills, officiating. The pallbearers were three brothers of the husband, Messrs. John, James and George Johnston, of Laurel, Jos. Rayburn, Wm. Bates and Hector McLeish, brother, step-brother and brother-in-law of Mrs. Johnston.

EDWARD WARD

The funeral of the late Edward Ward, an oldtime resident of the Clairmont district, who was accidentally killed on the 7th inst., when a team he was driving on a binder became unmanageable and threw the deceased man under the table of the binder, where he was dragged to death, was held on Thursday, September 13th, from the Presbyterian Church at 2.30 p.m., Rev. Dr. Forbes conducting the impressive service.

The deceased was a highly respected resident of the Clairmont district, and was favorably known and very popular with all who knew him. His demise has cast a gloom over the entire community. A large crowd of sorrowing friends from his district attended the funeral, the entire neighborhood turning out to pay their last respects to the deceased. They ceased their threshing and harvesting operations at the height of the busy season to attend the funeral, which speaks well for the high esteem in which he was regarded by his many friends and neighbors. Mr. Ward was a bachelor of about 45 years of age and has brothers and sisters in Ontario, Alberta and Saskatchewan. He originally came from near Orangeville, Ontario, and settled on his place near Clairmont in 1911.

He was buried in the Flying Shot Cemetery and a large number of his friends followed the remains to their last resting place. Mr. J. B. Oliver had charge of the funeral arrangements.—Grande Prairie, Alta., Herald.

Deceased was an old East Garafraxa boy. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Ward, farmed on the 16th line, where the family were born and reared.

MRS. JOHN BRACKEN

After an illness of seven months and nineteen days there passed away at the home of her son, Richard Bracken, 4th line, east, Caledon, on her birthday, September 19th, at 10.20 a.m., an old and highly respected resident of the community in the person of Mrs. Margaret Bracken. Deceased was a daughter of the late William Cunnington, of Chinguacousy, and was born in that township on Sept. 19th, 1839. Many years ago, on February 5th, 1859 she became the bride of John Bracken, since deceased. The late Mrs. Bracken was an Anglican and a devoted member of St. James' Church, Caledon East. Her life furnished a splendid example of those two beautiful attributes of human character, Christian charity and love. She is survived by a family of three sons and two daughters, namely, Dr. William J. Bracken Weinfield, S. D., Richard Bracken Caledon East, James Bracken and Mrs. Henry Wilson, Star City, Sask. and Mrs. Ben Kilpatrick, Brampton. Seventeen grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren also survive. The funeral services were held in the home on Friday, Sept. 21st, at 2 p.m. by the Rev. A. R. Holden rector of St James Church, Caledon East, interment taking place in the Caledon East Cemetery. The pallbearers were six nephews, Messrs. Daniel, William L., Harry, George and William Cunnington and James Jenkins. The sermon by Mr. Holden was very touching, the minister speaking with deep feeling of the deceased's long illness and the passing from this earthly life to the greater life beyond.

It is enough; earth's struggles soon shall cease,
And Jesus call us to heaven's perfect peace.

WEST MONO MISSION

Harvest Thanksgiving services will be held in St. Luke's Church on Sunday, Oct. 7th, at 11 a.m and 7.30 p.m. Rev. S. C. Jarret, the rector, will preach and Mrs. Jas. Jenkins will sing. All are heartily invited. Bishop Reeve, of Toronto, will conduct a Confirmation Class in St. Luke's on Sunday, Oct. 14th, at 7.30 p.m. and will also conduct services in St. Matthew's Church at 11 a.m., and in Herald Angel Church at 3 p.m.

ORANGEVILLE, - - ONTARIO

MRS. JOS. SUMMERVILLE

Many Adjala and Mono friends learned with heartfelt sorrow of the death of Mrs. Joseph Summerville on Saturday, Sept. 22nd. The end, which marked the culmination of an illness of several months' duration, came very quietly and peacefully at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. L. Dodds, 3rd line, Mono.

The late Mrs. Summerville, whose maiden name was Mary A. Irwin, was a daughter of the late John A. Irwin, of the 2nd line, Adjala, where she was born in August, 1854. Her girlhood was spent in this vicinity. In 1876 she married Joseph Summerville, settling on lot 19, 2nd line, Adjala, where she lived until seven years ago, when she moved to Hockley village. Her husband died in 1895, twenty-eight years ago.

To mourn her loss she leaves a family of two sons and one daughter, John J. and J. W., of Adjala and Mrs. Dodds, of Mono. Six grandchildren also survive. By her passing comes the first break in a family of eleven. Her mother died in Orangeville only five months ago at the ripe old age of 93 years. The brothers and sisters are Alexander, Zaut, Man.; William, of Winnipeg; Robert, Stonewall, Man.; Dr. J. J., Balmoral, Man.; J. B., of Orangeville; Samuel and Lindsay, of Adjala; Mrs. Eliza Colwell, of Winnipeg; Mrs. J. C. Darraugh, of Toronto, and Miss Margaret, of Orangeville.

The late Mrs. Summerville was of a quiet, retiring nature and her life as a true Christian, was one of service in the community in which she lived. She endeared herself not only to old friends and neighbors, but also to those who had but slight acquaintanceship with her. The high esteem in which she was held was shown by the large attendance at the funeral, which was held from her home in Hockley to St. John's Church Cemetery on Monday, Sept. 24th. Services were conducted at the house and grave by Rev. A. C. McCollum, of Alliston, a former pastor, who spoke very feelingly of a life that was lived in close fellowship with her Maker. Rev. J. A. Matheson, of Mono Mills, assisted in the service. The many floral tributes bore silent testimony to the high esteem in which the departed woman was held. The remains were borne to their last resting place by six nephews, Henry, Wesley and Herbert Penelton, John and Robert Noble and Robert J. Summerville.

—Mrs. John Mills, Church St., is holding an Auction Sale of household effects on Thursday afternoon, Oct. 11th. See advt. or bills for particulars.

HOSPITAL NOTES

The ladies of Lord Dufferin Chapter I. O. D. E. are very grateful for the following donations to the Hospital:—Peel Lodge, A. F. & A. M., per Mr. John W. Phillips, Caledon East, $10.00, part proceeds of collection taken at Masonic service in Caledon East on Sept. 16th, 1923; $60.00 from Mono Mills Dramatic Club, through Mr. John A. Vance, to buy table, chair and dresser for one of the rooms of the hospital; Master Jack Grigg for so many lovely flowers for the sick; donations for the sick room from Mrs. J. M. Deagle; donations for the nursery from Mrs. Willoughby, Mrs. Deagle and Mrs. Watt.

We trust the farmers will not forget the hospital when bringing in their potatoes and vegetables.

The regular monthly meeting of the I. O. D. E. will be held at the home of Mrs. E. C. Clark, Oct. 12th, at 3 o'clock. A full attendance of the members is requested.

Owing to an oversight acknowledgement has not been made until now of a donation of $8.00 from the Orangeville Women's Institute. The Daughters are particularly grateful for this generous gift from the Institute women, more so in view of the fact that they have incurred a heavy expense during the last year in fitting up and equipping the Rest Room.

HOCKEYISTS ORGANIZE

A goodly number of hockey enthusiasts attended a meeting held in the Library Auditorium on Friday night for the purpose of reorganizing the Orangeville Hockey Club. Officers were elected as follows:—

Hon-Presidents—A. W. Dods, T. S. Little, Judge Fisher, Jas. Armstrong, Dr. R. W. Rooney.

Hon. Vice-Presidents—Principal E. Hackett, Principal A. L. Hartmier, E. C. Clark, Dr. T. H. Henry, Dr. Fallis and J. Z. Henry.

President—W. C. Hopkins.

Vice-Presidents—G. V. Jeffers, E. G. Bingham, Dr. G. H. Campbell.

Secretary—Fred Golden.

Treasurer—W. H. McGuire.

Manager—Bert Booth.

Committee—Raspin Scott, W. L. Ewing, Armour Robinson, E. H. Sproule, Chas. Gillespie, Albert Walker, W. C. Barber, Alex. Walker.

Delegates to O.H.A.—Bert Booth and Raspin Scott.

The boys will be able to jump into the game this year just as soon as there is ice. Last year practice did not begin until quite late on account of the incompleted state of the Arena. We are informed that prospects are bright for a fast O. H. A. team.

CAUGHT THE JEWS

License Inspector Robinson took a jaunt over to Tottenham on Saturday morning. Accompanied by County Constables Watson, of Beeton, and Bradley, of Tottenham, and armed with a search warrant the Inspector paid a visit to a house four miles south of Beeton, occupied by some Jews, who have been under suspicion for some time. A search of the premises was rewarded by the discovery of four bottles of whisky. The occupants, Harry Caurl and Chas. Harris, were taken into custody. Happening to overhear one of the prisoners remark to the other that Harry would be home shortly the officers decided to hang about and await developments. Two hours later Harry Greenglass drove in with an auto. When the officers searched the car they came on a cargo of one hundred bottles of whisky, which Greenglass was bringing home from Toronto. The three men are out on bail of $2000 each. They will come up for trial before Magistrate Jeffs in Tottenham on Saturday.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Dufferin Teachers' Institute will hold its forty-ninth annual meeting on Oct. 11th and 12th. On the 11th the teachers will meet in the Public Library in Grand Valley and on the 12th in the Normal School Library in Toronto. The visit to Toronto is an innovation, that is expected to prove of interest and benefit to the teachers of the county.

WE INVITE EVERY MAN AND WOMAN IN ORANGEVILLE

Every Person in this Section Who is Weak, Rundown, Sick or Nervous to Try This Great Medicine at Our Expense—Free Bottle Will be Given to All Who Come Early.

All Have the Same Chance to Get Well and Strong

This is an invitation you can't afford to ignore. We'll tell you why. We are going to give you a free bottle of medicine that will tone you up and put an end to all chances of indigestion, rheumatism, constipation, catarrh and kindred ills.

The medicine of which William Bronson said, "It is the only medicine that eased my stomach and stopped the gas, wiped away stomach troubles and put strength and vitality into my blood."

A highly efficient stomach medicine made from roots, herbs, barks, leaves and a few other good things for the nerves, stomach, kidneys and bowels.

You may be starving your blood in the midst of plenty. It isn't how much you eat that counts, but it's how you digest the food you eat.

You cannot get steam out of water without fire; you can't get brain power, nerve force, and red blood corpuscles out of food without digestion.

Thousands lack sufficient vital force and don't know why. They think they need a tonic, a vacation or a change of scenery, but they don't. It's old indigestion that's the matter with them and six days of Dreco will prove it. They don't get the strength out of their food. It's like running corn through the mill with the rollers too wide apart, the corn goes through but the mill doesn't grind.

DON'T THINK YOU MUST HAVE A PAIN TO HAVE INDIGESTION

Lack of flesh, too much fat, pimples, blotches, sallow complexion, lack of nerve force, impoverished blood, sleeplessness, headaches, backaches, sideaches, weak brain power, dizzy spells, spots floating before the eyes, may all be due to the faulty digestive process either in the stomach or the bowels.

Take Dreco with your other food for a week and find out how your digestive organs are working. If the Dreco helps you greatly, gives you more force, strength and brain power, you may set it down that your liver and bowels are not doing their duty.

Only yesterday your head may have felt dull and heavy, you had the "blues," were cross, nervous and irritable, everything seemed to go wrong and you couldn't tell why.

It's ten to one it was old dyspepsia slyly getting in his work, not enough to cause you pain, but just enough to dull your brain, rob you of your vitality, upset your liver and deplete your nerve force. Maybe you don't think so, but try a bottle of Dreco and see if it doesn't change "blues" to a bright, cheery red, make the old world laugh in a merry glee, and put new vigor in your life again.

Lewis A. Todd, the travelling salesman, had stomach trouble so bad he practically had to live on liquid foods. He couldn't even eat vegetables without suffering terrible pain. He took two bottles of Dreco and can now eat anything he wants and without any distress whatever—sounds like a miracle? Well, we have Mr. Todd's own signed statement to that effect.

C. L. Matlick, the B. & O. conductor, says he had rheumatism so bad that he had to use a cane to get around at all. On his fourth bottle of Dreco he said: "I am now feeling fine — have thrown away my cane." These are only two of hundreds, yes thousands.

TEST THIS MEDICINE FREE

Mr. Sufferer, have you ever heard of the wonderful medicine that talks, that really tells you itself what it can do — that's Dreco. Five minutes after you take it the medicine begins to unfold its virtues, and it will by actual demonstration, unfold to you more in regard to its merits in ten minutes than we could probably make you believe it we wrote you ten books as large as the dictionary.

"Words cannot tell you how glad we are for Dreco," declared Mrs. Treasa Copley. "The first bottle fixed me up," said Walter F. Dixon. "Am a changed man now," states Rev. Joseph L. Butler.

You may know something of these people, or know somebody who knows them. We'll send you their full addresses if you want them, so that you can find out about Dreco and the wonders it has wrought.

Probably you are now thinking whether all this can be true; stop it. Come at once to the Druggist listed below. Here you will receive absolutely free, a good-sized bottle of Dreco. This offer is open to every man and woman in this vicinity. There are no ifs, ands or buts attached to it, except that you come early before the generous supply of free bottles has been used. You don't have to buy anything if you don't want to. All we ask is that you step in and test this wonderful medicine, and see for yourself what it can do for you. So please come as early as possible.

DR. TOLD NURSE TO TAKE DRECO

Crippled Up By Rheumatism So She Had to Hold on to Banisters—Feet Swollen, Limbs, Ankles, Elbows Full of Pain.

"I am writing to say a few words in praise of your wonderful medicine, Dreco. I have often been asked to endorse this or that medicine, but always refused, but Dreco is different," said Mrs. D. S. Simpkins of 1442 Law Avenue, Evansville, Indiana.

"I have suffered greatly from rheumatism and been treated by excellent physicians, finally tried a change of climate, but always my relief was temporary. While nursing, I've had doctors pity me, saying I should be the one in bed with a nurse to attend me. My feet were so swollen and painful I could hardly keep my shoes on, my ankles and limbs were so sore and stiff I had a limp in my walk. I often had dark circles under my eyes and that tired look in them.

"Constipation was a source of great annoyance and I couldn't secure relief from it. I was often nauseated and had a repulsion at the sight of food.

"To-day my feelings are entirely changed. I have taken two bottles of Dreco and I am so much better the doctor told me to keep on taking it. Every ache and pain is gone, the constipation is completely relieved. I am no longer nauseated, but eat and relish every meal. Instead of being a sore, crippled creature, limping around, I am happy, and can nurse cases to-day which I was forced to refuse before. I give all the credit for my grand relief to Dreco, and unhesitatingly recommend it to everyone who suffers as I did." Free samples given

Go to-day to R Fairbairn's Drug Store, Orangeville, and they will give you a generous size sample bottle of Dreco and will explain the merits of this great remedy. Dreco is sold by a good druggist in every town.

90TH BIRTHDAY

The home of Mrs. Sarah Hall, Grand Valley, was the scene of a pleasant and rather unusual event in the form of a birthday celebration, being the 90th birthday of Mrs. Jane Hillis, mother of Mrs. Hall and relict of the late James Hillis, of East Garafraxa. Mr. Andrew McClure, of Norval, the only surviving brother of Mrs. Hillis, accompanied by two carloads of relations from her old home in the township of Chinguacousy, were joined by a number of grandchildren and great-grandchildren from Garafraxa and one niece from Florida. Mrs. Hillis was a daughter of the late Thos. McClure, who settled in the County of Peel over one hundred years ago. Mrs. Hillis was married in October, 1851, and settled on the farm now occupied by Mr. Truman Hall, (a grandson) March 10th, 1852, where her daughters were born, Mrs. Sarah Hall and the late Mrs. Eliza Scaife. Her husband died in 1887. She made her home on the old farm with her daughter, Mrs. Hall, until coming to Grand Valley a few years ago.

Mrs. Hillis, considering her advanced age, is strong in body and mind, her memory is remarkably clear in reference to events of her girlhood daysand she can relate many interesting events of pioneer days. In the townships of Chniguacousy and East Garafraxa there were no county or provincial or even township roads in those days. Neither bridges to cross the rivers and creeks, only canoes made out of a large log dug out. Then the work was all done with oxen and the jumper not a bit like what the girls of to-day call a jumper. When it was almost impossible to keep a pig or two on account of the bears carrying them away; and the raising of sheep was much more difficut on account of the wolves. Raising poultry also had its drawbacks on account of the number of foxes. To make matters worse the pioneers of those days didn't have the buildings to protect their stock. But as she remarks: "The children were always at home in the evening, which was pleasantly spent in front of the fireplace or around the table lit by a candle or small oil lamp."

The party left about seven o'clock by motor after much hand shaking and best wsihes for more years of contentment and good health.—Star & Vidette.

A FOX CHASE

On Thursday morning Chas. Moore found that one of his black foxes had taken French leave during the night. About 9 o'clock she was discovered playing among a flock of hens, but not noticing them. Neighbors, hastily summoned by phone, surrounded her and she was soon back in her pen. But on Saturday morning she was gone again and no trace has been seen of her since, though hounds have been employed on her track and traps set for her. Her mate was still playing around outside the pen when discovered. The first exit was made apparently through an opening where the wires were laced. The second day, however, the wire was broken further down. He left the pens, went up and caught and killed a white leghorn rooster, then left it and tackled a young duck and tried to drag it to the pens. When it got away from him, as it was not dead, he discovered he was being surrounded and made a bolt for freedom. A chase ensued, in which he took the road, followed it as far as Mr. James Stinson's, where he was stopped. Ernie Stinson, Lawson Lockhart and Herb Stygall followed him back, but he disappeared and could not be found for a couple of hours, when he was again surrounded and took to the road. He met a car at Mr. Thos. Bannon's turn. Here he was found dead in the middle of the road, and was thought to have died from fright, as there were no marks on him.—Flesherton Advance.

Mr. D. McKillop, a Flesherton tinsmith, while putting up some eavestroughing, undertook to fly to the ground, some 18 or 20 feet below, off a ladder, but his wings failed to function and he came down rather hard. Still, he lit on his feet and there were no serious effects.

Stimulate Your Skin

The skin with its network of tiny pores and glands should never be allowed to become sluggish and inactive. Dirt, cold cream, rouge and powder will clog the pores, enlarge them and produce blackheads and blemishes unless the skin is cleansed thoroughly with soap and water at least once every day.

This simple method of beautifying was Cleopatra's secret. She knew that to have a fresh fine skin thorough cleansing was necessary. She used Palm and Olive oils, the same rare oils which are blended in Palmolive.

If you use a fine mild soap, there is no danger of irritation. Palmolive with its creamy lather, is lotion-like in its action. It freshens, revives and stimulates and leaves the skin delightfully fresh and rosy.

You can buy Palmolive Soap at all first-class dealers.

Palm and Olive Oils —nothing else—give nature's green color to Palmolive Soap.

An advertisement to men in their "twenties" and "thirties"

$5,000 or $10,000 would come in mighty handy to you to-day, wouldn't it?

Think, then, how much more valuable it will be to you at forty-five or fifty.

Of course, you'll say, I'll have been successful and won't need it then. But stop! You may—and if you do, you'll need it more then than you do to-day.

Your producing years will be waning and $10,000 will mean all the difference between a dependent and an independent old age.

EDWARD RENO

EXPERT ILLUSIONIST

—in the—

THE OPERA HOUSE, ORANGEVILLE

—is—

FRIDAY, OCT. 19th, 1923

at 8 O'CLOCK P. M.

For thirty-five years Edward Reno has been a magician and in that time he has travelled all over the world, including India, Syria and Egypt. His name is by no means new to lyceum committees. In fact he has appeared in many places for return engagements, presenting a new program each time.

Constantly Inventing New Things

Reno is constantly inventing new things in magic and illusions, also a fertile mind he picked up many things not known to many professionals. Magic, like everything else, has progressed with rapid strides during the past few years. Never was there a better demand for up-to-date illusions and sleight of hand than now.

Dove Rises Phoenix-Like From Ashes.

Reno has the usual light paraphernalia, but performs his tricks while in ordinary evening dress, and so adroitly as to escape detection in every case. In this respect he is a wonder. He does things that seem absolutely impossible of execution without the aid of supernatural agency.

One of his performances that never fails to amaze his audiences is known as the "dove trick." He burns a piece of common paper, and a dove rises phoenix-like from the ashes. He apparently tears the dove in two, and to find that he has two doves in his hands. He throws a glass of water to the air, and it changes into a dove and flies away.

Running Fire of Comment

But the least enjoyable feature of Reno's performance is the running fire of comment with which he enlivens everything he does. These remarks are full of fun and wit, with flash after flash of good-natured satire aimed at himself or his work. He is a man of fine presence and engaging stage presence, with a keen mentality and an appreciation of the success he has achieved in his profession.

The performance of two hours in length he is able to spring one surprise after another on his audience, keeping all in a state of breathless suspense and delight until they forget the flight of time. The fact that many of these tricks are inventions of his own adds interest to the entertainment.

Extracts of committee letters and press comments are available on request, and will be sent on request.

RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

May Obtain Relief by Enriching the Blood Supply.

In the days of our fathers and grandfathers, rheumatism was thought to be the unavoidable penalty of middle life and old age. Almost every elderly person had rheumatism, as well as many young people. It was thought that rheumatism was the mere effect of exposure to cold and damp, and it was treated with liniments and hot applications, which sometimes gave temporary relief, but did not remove the trouble. In these days there were many cripples. Now, medical science understands that rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and that with good, rich, red blood any man or woman of any age can defy rheumatism. There are many elderly people who have never felt a twinge of rheumatism, and many who have conquered it by simply keeping their blood rich and pure. The blood enriching qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is becoming every year more widely known, and the more general use of these pills has robbed rheumatism of its terrors. At the first sign of poor blood, which is shown by loss of appetite, dull skin and dim eyes, protect yourself against further ravages of disease by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They have helped thousands—if you give them a fair trial they will not disappoint you.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

PRESBYTERIAL UNION

A Union of the Young People's Societies of the Presbytery of Orangeville was formed at a representative meeting in Knox Church, Shelburne, on Wednesday last. Afternoon and evening sessions were held and were attended by about one hundred delegates from the Societies of the Presbytery. Rev. J. Russell Harris, representing the Ontario Religious Education Council and Rev. Bruce, a returned missionary from China, were the principal speakers. Rev. A. W. Hare, of Hillsburg, presided at both sessions. Officers of the Presbyterial Union, as the new Society will be called, were elected as follows:—

President—Jack Marshall, Orangeville.

Vice-President — Miss McDonald, Inglewood.

Secretary — Gordon Hayes, Orangeville.

Treasurer—Paul Thornley, Shelburne.

The delegates and other visitors were entertained to a bountiful supper by the ladies and young people of Knox Church. The Young Pople's Society of St. Andrew's Church was largely represented at the meeting.

STIFF SENTENCES

Craig and Beaver, Two of the Men Implicated in the Terrie Burglary, Given Five and Three Years at Kingston.

Justice was meted out in short order in the cases of Leon Craig and Max Beaver, two of the men implicated in the burglary of J. D. Terrie's clothing store on Tuesday morning, Oct. 3nd. The men were arrested in Toronto on the day of the theft and on Thursday were tried for the theft of the Cadillac car in which they carried away the stolen goods. For this offence Craig was given two years in Kingston penitentiary and Beaver two terms of two years each in the Reformatory. Friday night the two men were brought to Orangeville and lodged in the county gaol here. Saturday afternoon they appeared before Magistrate Falconer and Mayor Jeffers, elected to be tried summarily and pleaded guilty to the charge of theft. The Magistrates sentenced Craig to five years and Beaver to three years, both terms in Kingston penitentiary. Beaver was given the shorter term on account of his youth. He declared in court that he would not be 16 years old until next February. Craig is 21 years of age. The prisoners did not take their sentences with very good grace, and Craig did some ugly talking as he was led back to the cells. Magistrate Falconer commented on the seriousness of the crime, and the necessity of making the sentences heavy, and stated that there were altogethr too many young men who thought they could make their way through the world without working for an honest livelihood. The prisoners, who were handcuffed together, were guarded by Chief Portland and Provincial Officer Mennie two stalwart representatives of the law.

Creig and Beaver left here on Monday morning for Kingston in charge of Sheriff Endacott and Provincial Officer Mennie. The prompt manner in which the matter has been cleaned up has caused general satisfaction in town. It is believed that the prisoners had planned to dispose of the goods to Jew tailors in Toronto, who make a practice of buying and disposing of stolen property. Craig is credited with stating that if the officers had been a couple of hours later they would not have found any of the goods and he would have been $3000 better off. There is doubt as to the hour at which the burglary was pulled off. The burglars assert that it was 12.44 a.m. when they pulled up in front of Torrie's store, but the nightwatchman's time clock shows that he was patrolling Broadway at that time. A little later, however, the clock shows that Dawson started on his trip down the North Broadway lane and the thieves probably set about their task as soon as he entered the lane.

Max Shulman, the third man under arrest here, was remanded until Friday. It is not thought that he was implicated in the theft, although he was wearing one of Torrie's suits and carrying a watch stolen from the store when he was arrested. The stolen goods, he asserts, were given him in his room in the D'Arcy St. house by Craig and his associates. The police are still looking for Jacob Pearl, the third man mixed up in the actual burglary. It is expected that the sentences imposed on Craig and Beaver by the Magistrates here and the Toronto sentences will run concurrently.

STROOD FRAMPTON

Strood Frampton, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Frampton, North Broadway, passed away on Sunday after an illness of about one year from an incurable malady. For the first six months the attending physician had hope of a recovery, but the patient had the misfortune to contract a cold that caused a serious setback and aggravated the disease which had marked him for its victim. Deceased, who was born in Buffalo on October 30th, 1901, was barely 22 years of age. He had resided in Orangeville for the greater part of his life. He was a bright, likeable young man, whose genial good nature and cheerfulness had won him many warm friends among the young people of the town. Profound sympathy is felt for the bereaved parents and family in the great trial that has overtaken them. Besides his father and mother, he leaves to mourn his loss two brothers, Norman and Fred, and one sister, Ruth. The funeral, which was private, was held from the parents' home to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Monday afternoon, Rev. W. G. Brown, pastor of the Baptist Church, conducting the services at the house and grave. The pallbearers were his brothers Norman and five young men friends, Edward Wild, Robert Allen, Almer McKim, John Emack and Norris Hughes. The flowers included a wreath from the Baptist Church and a number of sprays from friends.

MRS. GEO. NELSON

After a lengthy illness caused by a serious accident about ten years ago and continued sickness in the home during the past year, Mrs. George Nelson passed away at her home at Mono Road on Monday, Oct. 1st. The deceased, whose maiden name was Margaret Anne Speers, was a daughter of the late Alexander Speers, of Caledon. Thirty-six years ago, she was united in marriage to George Nelson, of Caledon in which township the family have always resided. Mrs. Nelson was a woman of fine character and noble purpose and her life, until her sickness, was one of devotion to her family and sacrifice for their welfare. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, two daughters, Mrs. J. R. Campbell, of Terra Cotta, Miss Olive, a teacher, and two sons, Alexander and Russell, of Mono Road. Besides her family she is survived by four brothers and one sister, all residing in Caledon. The funeral was held from her late residence to Caledon East Public Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon, October 3rd. Rev. Mr. Lockhart, Caledon East, and Rev. Mr. Matheson were the officiating ministers. The floral tributes were: Gates ajar, the family; pillow, the brothers; pillow, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Speers, Toronto; wreath, Mrs. Warnock and Mrs. Hannah; spray, Mr. and Mrs. John Speers, Toronto; spray, Misses Margaret and Madeline Speers; spray, Mrs. Laycock and Mrs. Clarridge; spray, Miss Pearl Innis. The sympathy of the neighborhood goes out to the husband and family in their time of trial.

MRS. THOS. MACADAM

Mrs. Thos. MacAdam, at one time a well-known resident of Orangeville, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Aiken, West Broadway, on Wednesday, Oct. 3rd, at an advanced age. Deceased, whose maiden name was Susie Harris, was the wife of Thomas MacAdam, who ran a successful business on Broadway some forty years ago. About thirty years ago Mr. MacAdam disposed of his interests here and moved to Vancouver, where he and his wife resided until twelve years ago, when they removed to southern California. Nearly a year ago Mrs. Aiken visited her parents in their California home and in view of their advanced years and growing infirmity prevailed upon them to come to Orangeville and spend the remainder of their days in her care. Although frail, Mrs. MacAdam had been comparatively well all summer and the end came rather unexpectedly. The funeral was held from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Aiken to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Friday afternoon, Rev. J. W. McDonald, rector of St. Mark's Church, conducting the services at the house and grave.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to tender our sincere thanks to our friends and neighbors for the kindness and sympathy shown us in so many ways during the illness and since the death of our son and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. V. R. McCallum, of Toronto, are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shaw.

Mrs. Thos. Meek attended a meeting of the Women's Institute in Tottenham on Friday evening last and spoke on "Branch Responsibility."

Mrs. L. Butler and children, of Toronto, are holidaying with Mrs L. H. Lemon.

Mr. Thos. Reynolds has been appointed School Attendance Officer for the village of Alton. We look for a more regular attendance from now on at our Public School. Inspector Galbraith visited the school and reports favorably, both on condition of school and work of the teachers.

ELBA

On Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 26th, members of Elba Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Wm. N. Fines. President Mrs. Summerville in the chair and forty-three present. After business was transacted a lengthy program was given, including music by Mrs. A. T. Lindsay, address by Rev. Owen, "The Philosopher's Stone." The speaker described many ways in which the cone could be used. Other numbers were a solo by Miss Ruby Henry, recitation by Miss Mereta Fines and an address by Miss White, editor of the women's section of the Canadian Farmer, which was of great interest and value to the members. There was also a salad demonstration by Mrs. Fines and Mrs. Lindsay. The next meeting is at the home of Mrs. A. T. Lindsay, Wednesday, Oct. 24th. All ladies are cordially invited to attend.

MARSVILLE

Mr. Duncan Laughlin, of the townline near Orton, had a clearing sale Saturday of his property and household effects. Mr. Hayward, of Toronto, bought the house and lot and gets immediate possession. Mr. Laughlin intends to live in Fergus.

The Marsville Branch of the Women's Institute held its regular monthly meeting last Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Holly Simpson. The meeting, as usual, proved interesting and profitable. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Warnock.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Watson, of Parkhill, spent a few days last week with friends in this vicinity. Mr. Watson formerly lived on the 13th Line, north of Marsville, and left here thirty-six years ago. He moved from here to the Torrance farm near Mimosa, where he lived for eight years. He retired from farming and resided in Whitby for several years, and is now a resident of Parkhill.

Mr. Wm. Woods has sold the Redman farm on the 11th line to Mervin Rennick, of Mimosa.

The schools in this vicinity will be closed on Thursday and Friday owing to the teachers attending the convention in Grand Valley and Toronto.

There's Danger IN THE SIMPLE CUT

Your injury may be just a simple scratch, a cut, bruise, burn or scald; but it needs prompt treatment with zam-buk. Neglect and delay leaves broken tissues open to dangerous germ infection and ulceration, blood-poison or even chronic eczema.

Keep zam-buk always handy! This powerful herbal antiseptic applied to broken, chapped, burnt or lacerated skin is instantly effective. It ends all smarting pain and inflammation, makes tissues germ free and germ proof and ensures rapid perfect healing.

Mrs. Valmor Savaria, Morean St., Montreal, writes—"I cut my finger to the bone while working an electric machine. The wound went the wrong way and became badly festered.

"It was surprising how quickly zam-buk stopped the pain. I persevered with the balm, and the wound which for weeks had defied all other treatment was healed perfectly. I shall never forget how zam-buk saved my finger."

In a hundred other emergencies of skin disease or injury, you will find zam-buk invaluable. All chemists 50c box.

GILSON FURNACE

"Makes Many Warm Friends"

A New and Better Heating System at a Sensational Price

Costs Less to Buy

The Gilson is the lowest priced efficient heating system on the market. You pay less for the furnace—less for the installation—no expense for pipes.

Costs Less to Use

You can heat every room in your house with the Gilson Pipeless Furnace on less fuel than it takes to run your stoves. Your family will no longer shudder at the thought of getting undressed in a cold bedroom. And this cast-iron furnace uses surprisingly little fuel. Users say it saves from 25 to 40 per cent. With fuel at present prices, think what that means!

Installed in a Morning

I can install this modern heating system in your home in less than a day—any home, old or new. No walls to tear up. No mutilated partitions. No muss or fuss. Just one register on the main floor. I'll start first thing in the morning and by afternoon your Gilson will be ready to protect you against winter's cold.

Guaranteed to heat your whole house

All you need is enough cellar excavation to accommodate the furnace. I not only give you my personal guarantee of satisfaction but also Gilson's of Guelph will stand back of me. This proven heating plant also leaves the cellar fine and cool—you can store vegetables alongside it, if need be, without harm.

The Most Phenomenal Success in the Heating Business in Canada

Only placed on the market a year ago, the Gilson furnace has had an astounding success. It has taken the trade by storm. Over 400 of the best hardware men and tinsmiths in Ontario alone—men who KNOW furnaces—have taken on the Gilson because it appeals to them as the best heating plant made.

Here are Some of the Reasons Why:—

(1) A real cast-iron furnace—fire pot, feed section and radiator are heavier in construction than in any other furnace I know of.

(2) Burns coal or wood. A splendid furnace for soft coal. Big roomy door makes it ideal for burning wood.

(3) GUARANTEED FOR TWENTY-FIVE YEARS—The broadest and longest guarantee given with any furnace. Two-piece fire pot, straight-walled to prevent ashes lodging against the side and deadening the heat radiation.

(4) Triangular duplex grates, easy to shake, and big roomy ashpit.

WOMEN FROM FORTY TO FIFTY

Will Be Interested in Mrs. Thompson's Recovery by Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Winnipeg, Man.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me good in every way. I was very weak and run-down and had certain troubles that women of my age are likely to have. I did not like to go to the doctor so I took the Vegetable Compound and am still taking it right along. I recommend it to my friends and to any one I know who is not feeling well."—Mrs. THOMPSON, 308 Lizzie St., Winnipeg, Man.

When women who are between the ages of forty-five and fifty-five are beset with such annoying symptoms as nervousness, irritability, melancholia and heat flashes, which produce headaches, dizziness, or a sense of suffocation, they should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is especially adapted to help women through this crisis. It is prepared from roots and herbs and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from roots and herbs, has for forty years proved its value in such cases. Women everywhere bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who suffer should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for a free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women."

equal that closing session, when serious and earnest boys and girls came from every part of the big church, took their places in the front seats and told of their enlistment under the Banner of the Cross of the Lord Jesus Christ, for "life-service," to be sent as the church may deem best according to their gifts and talents. Preceded by a quiet that was of the spirit, and that must have been equal of the apostles, awaiting the descent of the Spirit in that Upper Room, the congregation was uplifted on the flood of a great thought of the imminence of God and His Kingdom, as the atmosphere filled with the surge of the desire of these young people, to work for Him and to serve Him until the end of life.

Hands clasped in farewell, brief parting words, and the convention was over.

It was a fitting close to the wonderful convention starting on Friday morning, and continuing through five business sessions and through special Sunday services, culminating in the Sunday evening service.

For two years the young people will work and strive to carry on as they learned during this momentous three days. Then another convention, and it will prove a hard thing to accomplish—to have a better convention than the one just closed.

During the progress of the convention very hearty votes of thanks were passed to the people of Brampton, who had thrown open their homes to the delegates; to the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's; to Mrs. Fulton for her services; to Mr. Body and Mr. Skitch for the part played in the singing; to the Dale Estate for their kindness; to the managers of St. Paul's for their hospitality; to the past officers of the Conference League, and to the young people's leaders, Revs. Doyle and Langford.

At the close of the Friday afternoon session, the delegates were entertained at tea by the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's Church, and were ushered into the big schoolroom to a feast of good things in the shape of a substantial supper of meats, salads relishes, pies and cakes, with other things on the side that young people enjoy. The tables were aglow with masses of autumn flowers, the ladies proved to be equally good as hostesses and waiters, and to use a rural correspondent's phrase, a "real good time was had by all!" The same hospitality was extended on Saturday at noon, when the menu included hot roast beef, hot potatoes, tomatoes, and other toothsome relishes, followed by real pies made of autumn fruits, especially the desirable pumpkin. Supper was served again on Saturday.

The following was the oration on "The Task of the Young People," delivered by Wilson McConnell in the contest for the Conquergood Challenge Cup:

The task of the young people is a question that we must consider not as the prehistoric man, not as the Ancient Greek, nor as the Roman patriot, but as the Canadian youth of 1923. To-day there are opportunities for success and dangers of failure that did not exist when the cavemen inhabited the earth, that did not exist when Greece was at the height of her power, or when Rome ruled the known world. To-day we are living in a new era and as a result we are faced with new privileges and new responsibilities. More than at any other time in the history of the world the future of civilization depends upon what sort of men and women the young people of our day are going to be. To them all doors are open. Here we find the doorway to the kingdom of business, there we see the doorway to the empire of science, yonder the doorway to the world of politics and here the doorway to the realm of moral and religious leadership. And the young people are entering in at all these doorways. We find them in large numbers on the lower rungs of the ladders that they believe will ultimately lead them to success in business, in science, in politics and in moral and religious leadership. Surely we are living in a great age. It is indeed a young people's age abounding in opportunities and carrying with it great responsibilities. Want then is the task of the young people? Surely our task is to serve. To serve our God and to serve our fellowmen. Oh, how important it is that when we are compelled to choose whom we will serve that we decide to serve Jesus Christ by accepting Him as our personal Saviour. Then we must lay our all upon the altar and say, "Lord, here am I, send me." We must trust God and we must obey Him. Jesus Christ has told us that He came to us saying "to preach the gospel of the kingdom of God." We are called upon to obey the great command "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." We are His ambassadors because:

"Christ has no hands but our hands
To do His work to-day;
He has no feet but our feet
To lead them in His way.
He has no tongue but our tongue
To tell men how He died,
He has no arms but our arms
To take them to his side;
We are the only Bible
The careless world will reach."

This is the task of the young people. And it is important that we pray not for a task equal to our strength, but it is important that we pray for strength sufficient for our task.

If we would get the greatest riches out of life we must view life as an opportunity to serve rather than an opportunity to be served. He who would be the greatest among you let

Civilization has broken down in Civilization has broken down in places and in every instance it must be mended. It is going to take a long time. The young people of today are going to be in the thick of the fight, therefore we must get ready. It is highly necessary that we train our minds in the most thorough fashion by getting the most we can out of everything we go in for. Let us play the game of life in such way that will illustrate to the world that we do take life seriously and that we are playing to win by playing on the square. We should aim high. The late General Booth once said, "Aim at the sun and though you only hit the moon, you have accomplished something!" The thing you do that you are not paid for is the thing that determines the size of the man or woman you are.

The young people of Canada are a part of the young life of the present age, and as such we must bear our heavy share in making our country what she is to become. We will guide the destiny of the Church, and of all agencies that guard human life and tend to build up a better morality. The spirit that animates the young people to-day is the spirit that will dominate the world tomorrow. We as Methodists can serve by making the fullest and best contribution that lies within our power to the new united Church.

It is vitally important that we be good citizens. We must each find our place and when we have found it, we must fill it to the best of our ability. To be a good citizen it is essential for a man to do his own work well. We each have our task to perform in this world and if we do not perform our task it is never satisfactorily done. We are called upon to serve our fellowmen by supplying the needs of our nation. What is our great national need today? Is it for a new political party? Is it for a lower or higher tariff? No. Our great national need to-day is for a right citizenship—men and women who are in tune with their Father and with their fellowmen. We cannot live on the records of our fathers and mothers, worthy though those records may be. Let the young people of this generation neglect their task and our race will be lost. The older people cannot perform our task. The responsibility lies on us. Our lives require that we invest them for the common good. The future of our fair land lies in the hands of the young people. We must perform our task willingly by laying our all upon the altar and saying, "Lord, here am I send me." When we have done this we will be rendering our fullest service. Then and not until then will we be performing our task—the building up of a great Christian nation, thus serving our God and our fellow men.

NEW LAMP BURNS 95 P. C. AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil.)

The inventor, F. N. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

"I Had Terrible Backache From Kidney Disease"

Mrs. M. A. McNeill, Canaan Sta., N.B., writes:

"I was troubled for years with terrible backache, resulting from kidney disease. At times in each month I remained in bed, the pain was more than I could stand, and to walk was almost impossible. I used about $50.00 worth of other medicines, but with little results. Now I am completely better, after using only five boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

"It has been a year now since Tanlac helped me back to good health and I have never had a sick day since," is the high tribute paid the famous treatment, recently, by Mrs. Corine Leblanc, highly, esteemed resident of 126 Stirling Ave., Ottawa.

"My stomach had troubled me for four years and I seemed to be right on the verge of a nervous breakdown. I scarcely ate enough to keep soul and body together, and I would not want to go through what I suffered from pain, shortness of breath and nervousness again for fifty thousand dollars.

"Since taking Tanlac I eat more heartily than I ever did, get eight and nine hours' peaceful sleep every night and am enjoying wonderful health. I give Tanlac all the credit for my recovery."

BIENNIAL CONVENTION

Toronto Conference Young People's League Hold Inspiring Convention at Brampton.—Many Delegates Attend.

The sixteenth bi-ennial convention of the Toronto Conference Young People's League was held in St. Paul's Methodist Church, Brampton, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 28th, 29th and 30th. There were over 100 registered delegates in attndance and the sessions were remarkable for the live interest shown by the young people and the business-like way in which they dealt with the questions which came up for discussion. Mr. F. T. Grafton, of Toronto, and formerly of Barrie, President of the Conference League, presided. The Convention opened on Friday morning and wound up on Sunday night.

Rev. G. N. Grey, pastor of St. Paul's Church, conducted the opening exercises of the convention on Friday morning. Rev. Frank Langford, General Secretary of Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies of the Methodist Church in Canada, then delivered the keynote address. Choosing as his theme—Brotherhood—Mr. Langford charged his audience first of all, to get clearly the idea that God is the Father of all men. The meaning of that statement is, that God loves, cares for and helps all men, regardless of race, color, creed, conduct. When men get the same idea towards their fellows as God has, the brotherhood of man will be an accomplished fact, and the Kingdom of Heaven will be realized. To know Christianity, men must know Jesus, and to know the program of the Christian Church, the program of Jesus must be studied. The eternal something that was at the heart of Jesus has never lost its grip of the world. Mr. Langford spoke on conditions as he had found them during the strike at Sydney, C. B., and called it a ghastly situation. There are lots of such situations in the world, he declared, that have to be straightened out, and it will take an understanding of the Fatherhood of God to do it. Men and women, young and old, must accept the Cross, not caring that it is hard to bear, not trying to dodge it, not counting the cost in the riches, spiritual and eternal, that are to be gained, and the joy and peace that follow, making life a great and joyful thing.

In the course of a lengthy address at the afternoon session, F. T. Grafton, the retiring President, spoke of the gratification he felt at having had such an able and willingexecutive during the past two years to support him in his work. He went into a detailed account of the efforts of the Conference League to establish Summer Schools and Winter Schools speaking particularly of the need for a Summer School in the north country. This section was well represented at the Elgin House School last July and the Summer School Board feel that a school should be established further north. Speaking of a recent tour through Northern Ontario Mr. Grafton said that he had found some remarkable signs of promise. "The north turns out well," he declared emphatically. "But there is something against which we have to fight. There is a strong political move on foot, to separate the north of Ontario from the south and make a separate province of it. This is largely a religious move backed up by certain political influences.

"Our desire it not to keep that north country for Methodism, or to secure it for any other denomination. We do not want to keep it for Protestantism. The hierarchy is anxious to get it. They want it for their own church, for financial purposes and for political reasons.

"However I find men in the north with the vision of an undivided Ontario, men who have been trained in such work as brings us together today, and I feel that it is Providential to have them there. They are in readiness to uphold our work, and it is time for us to take a firm stand. Our work is destined to move forward, and it is moving forward especially in the north."

Encouraging reports were received from the various districts in the Conference. Orangeville District reported 16 Leagues with a total of 485 members.

After the naming of committees on resolutions, summer schools and district work, J. R. Empringham, secretary-treasurer, gave a statement of the funds, the total receipts of the Conference League being $172.-14, with expenditures of $162.77, while there is a balance on hand of $320 from the summer schools, and the deficit of the winter school is wiped out.

One of the very bright spots of the session was the address by Dr. Fallis, of the Methodist Book Room, who told of the founding of the book room nearly a century ago, so that the people of Ontario might have something to read. "Today," he said, "it is necessary that we continue to exist to provide an antidote for much of the printed matter that is being broadcasted.

"Materialism," Dr. Fallis continued, "is not more of a menace today, but we sense it more. We hear so much more, and so much quicker, of what is happening in the world. The church should be just that much more vigilant." Speaking of a letter received from a man, who protested against the style of the Christian Guardian, Dr. Fallis said "Lord, have mercy on us if we have to bring the Guardian down to the level of the Onward. There are people in Canadian Methodism who read and who stand by the utterances of the Guardian, and in any circuit where the Guardian is read, the minister may project any campaign into that field, and be successful with it."

Dr. Stephenson, well-beloved of both clergy and laity of the Methodist Church, brought his kindly and genial contribution to the session, as he told of the many opportunities afforded Leaguers and Sunday Schools in the pictures to be had from the Art Department of the Book Room. He has views of missions in the Far East, also of missionaries, and outlined a plan for sending these out to churches, whereby the young people may become familiar with the people whose names are on their lips during the study hours.

Rev. F. Langford told of the 2000 young people's societies with which he keeps in touch, the 4000 Sunday Schools with 40,000 teachers and officers. Since last May 200 new Sunday Schools have come into being, and these have been supplied for three months with lesson helps, papers, and similar helps to carrying on, free of charge. The delegates were to take back home with them news of the help that is always forthcoming for those who need it.

A question that arose here, and cropped up more than once during the remainder of the sessions, was: "What are we as Methodists going to do when union comes into force? We have an organization that starts with the Leagues in the churches, holds conventions in districts, has a conference similar to that of the church, and hopes to have a Provincial Conference. What shall we do with the Presbyterian and Congregational young people who have no such organization progressing from the single society to that which governs all the societies?"

The Nominating Committee was composed of Miss Carol Snyder, of North Bay; C. R. Conquergood, Toronto; Rev. W. L. L. Lawrence, Toronto; Rev. E. Pugsley, Elmvale; and R. Wilson McConnell, Orangeville.

A statement of the missionary givings of the various young people's societies in the Toronto Conference by districts, is as follows: Toronto East, $3733.54; Central, $2522.10; West, $5264.65; Brampton, $1428.-28; Orangeville, $1123.15; Uxbridge $785.45; Bradford, $798.31; Alliston, $329.99; Collingwood, $1131.-59; Bracebridge, $42.40; Parry Sound, $10; Sudbury, $117; Sault Ste. Marie, $492.16; North Bay, $216.89; New Liskeard, $5; total, $20,183.88.

Considerable interest was manifest not only by the delegates but by the citizens of Brampton in the oratorical contest for the Conquergood Challenge Cup, which was held on Friday evening.

Singing of a lively character, with J. T. Body, of the Methodist Book room, wielding the baton, and sweet young voices ringing out the well known melodies, brought the moment when Rev. G. R. Turk, president of the Toronto Conference, opened the session with devotional exercises. Mayor H. W. Dawson then extended a civic welcome to the delegates on behalf of the town. Mayor Dawson besought of the delegates, that they remember what the forefathers of Ontario wrought for the present generation, and to be willing to sacrifice less valuable things to be able to maintain what the old people held dear. The men who are making good in the church as they first made good in the Young People's Society, are the men wanted in the world to-day, to bear an active part in civic and national life.

Then the president introduced to the audience the names of four competitors: Cecil Dynes, of Toronto East; Ernest Lovermore, of Toronto Central; Miss Rose Maw, of Toronto West, and Wilson McConnell of Orangeville. The four orators spoke in the order named. It would be impossible to tell about those addresses. It was youth speaking and speaking from the heart of things that pertain to the soul. It was earnest young endeavor trying to reach out to touch, if might be, a chord in some other heart, and tenderly and warmly did every other heart in the big audience vibrate in response to the touch. The judges, Rev. G. R. Turk and Rev. G. N. Grey, of Brampton, and Mr. S. P. Shantz, of Toronto, gave their decision in favor of Miss Maw. The subject of the orations was "The Task of the Young People."

During the interval in which the audience was kept waiting for the verdict of the judges, short and snappy speeches were made by J. R. Empringham, J. G. Unwin, Rev. R. T. Richards, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference League, who said that he believes the world need is the interpretation of the principles of the League and their application to the need of the world, S. Charters, M. P., who pointed the young people from the beauty of fading earthly roses to the beauty of the Rose of Sharon, A. H. Milner and Dr. O. T. Walker.

At the Saturday morning session reports were heard from the Resolutions, District and Summer School Committees. The principal resolution brought in provided for material assistance to be given by the Conference League as a body to the work of raising funds for the Japanese Relief. Another pledged whole-hearted loyalty to and support of Revs. Manson Doyle and Frank Langford, while another spoke of the desire for more intensive Bible study as a help in presenting Christ to others.

The Resolutions Committee endorsed a summer school in the north, and proposed a separate board of management to co-operate with the Elgin House Board. Another suggestion was a series of winter schools central to the rural sections.

One of the resolutions brought in by the committee on districts was to the effect that leagues should co-operate with pastors in evangelistic work. Some time was spent in discussing the formation of a Provincial summer school or convention to take in all the conferences in the Province.

In an address to delegates, Rev. R. T. Richards gave "Canada's Challenge to the Young." He urged first of all the conservation of physical life, next, the development of the intellectual life, and lastly, the recognition that the spiritual values are far greater than the material. Rev. Mr. Turk also gave a short address on "Peace, peace, I give unto you." His appeal to the young people was that they earnestly seek the Holy Spirit, and through connection with God through the Holy Spirit, enjoy the eternal peace.

The following officers were elected by the delegates and will hold office for two years:

Honorary President—Rev. G. R. Turk, Brampton, President of the Toronto Conference.

Past President—Fred T. Grafton, Toronto.

President—John R. Empringham Toronto.

First Vice-President—Joseph G. Unwin, Toronto.

Second Vice-President — Rev. E. Crossley Hunter, North Bay.

Third Vice-President—Otto Wiggins, Inglewood.

Fourth Vice-President — Miss Carol Snyder, North Bay.

Fifth Vice-President — Rev. A. E. Black, Toronto.

Sixth Vice-President—Miss Lillian Wright, Toronto.

Secretary—L. A. Davenport, Toronto.

Treasurer—R. Wilson McConnell Orangeville.

The session closed with a vote of thanks to the past officers of the organization, and a short address by the newly elected president.

In the afternoon, the delegates were the guests of the Leagues of St. Paul's and Grace churches on a hike and visit to Dale Estate greenhouses.

When the delights of the many sights and scents to be garnered at this fairyland of flowers were increased by the gift to each delegate of a rose to wear away, the most talkative among the young ladies had to smile her thanks for lack of words. The kindness of the Dale Estate was keenly appreciated by the conference, for the platform of St. Paul's was kept a glowing bower of flowers, through the kindness of the management, hundreds of lovely roses smiling a welcome from Flower Town to the visitors.

The Saturday evening session took the form of an interdenominational young people's rally. Rev. W. A. McTaggart, of St. Columbia Presbyterian Church, Toronto, was the speaker.

Mr. McTaggart told of the apprenticeship he had had as a youthful rural teacher in a district where for years he was not only a live worker in the Epworth League, but the Bible Class teacher as well. The outstanding thought in his address, sent forth with passionate earnestness, with a desire that every young person present should catch the meaning of life's important things was that no work for Christ is of any value unless personal regeneration has taken place on the part of the worker, and that the worker have a burning desire to secure personal regeneration in others. The work of service that does not speak of Jesus, that does not make the recipients acquainted with the life and commands of Jesus, is of no lasting value. The healing system that denies the existence of sin or disease does not put its finger on the real sickness of mankind. The Sunday School is the place where youth receives its impressions, but the League and the Endeavor meetings are the places where youth learns to express itself and to become of use in the world. India and China, the speaker said, have codes of ethics, but there is no dynamic force like the urge of the teachings of Jesus to make them use these ethics. Young people must first give expression to their personal faith in the Lord Jesus, then they must surround themselves with the proper atmosphere through prayer.

The closing session of the convention was held in St. Paul's Church on Sunday night. It was a fitting culmination to the beauty and depth of inspiration which characterized the entire convention.

Mr. C. R. Conquergood led the singing and Mr. J. R. Empringham conducted the service. Short addresses were delivered by Mr. Conquergood and by Mr. F. T. Grafton, the retiring president, who told of the power that will be bestowed upon Christians who love Jesus, and who wait in anticipation in the upper room of their souls. Like a great organ chord was the close of his address, when he painted the picture of the Sea of Galilee, supplying food for the myriads of citizens upon its shores and in the surrounding country, draining through the River Jordan, lovely stream of Bible lore, into the dead sea. Nothing emanates from the Dead Sea. It supplies no needs. It is a dread thing upon which to gaze. It means nothing to man. And thus the analogy was plain. The human being that receives the fulness and riches of the fair stream of God's gifts and gives nothing out in return is a dead, dead thing.

Then came the testimonies of the young people. Nothing was ever seen in the town of Brampton to

DUFFERIN COUNTY LAMBS AT TORONTO

Following the Market Lamb Fair held at Orangeville last week, 116 lambs were shipped to the Union Stock Yards, Toronto, where they were sold on Wednesday last. This was a very attractive consignment, and were very much admired by those who saw them at the Yards. The bulk of the lot were grade Oxfords and of excellent type, but owing to being somewhat heavier than the best weight asked for, were somewhat handicapped in selling. In the face of a very bad market, however, the champion wether, consigned by John W. Ledlow, Camilla, sold to J. Fortune, a small butcher in Toronto, for $15.00 per cwt., and the ballance sold for $11.75 per cwt. Swift & Co. were the purchasers of the lambs and the buyer commented very favorably on the quality of the stock offered. This shipment will do much to advertise the locality as a sheep raising section, and should show the producer the kind of lamb that is required to bring the top price on the market. Quality counts in present day production, and producers should look to this end of their production.

—Prof. Yohan Massih, of the Theological Seminary at Indore, India, will speak in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday morning next. The visitor is a noted writer and is described as a brilliant speaker.

—Miss Margaret Porter, daughter of Mr. W. C. Porter, of Powassan, was successfully operated on for appendicitis by Dr. S. T. White of Shelburne, in Lord Dufferin Hospital a few days ago. The patient is making an excellent recovery.

—All roads will lead to Brampton on Saturday—the second day of Brampton Fall Fair.

—Our attention has been called to an error in the Caledon Fall Fair Prize List published in The Banner last week. In the extra special layer cake class, Miss Edith Green was the winner of the first prize. The second prize was awarded to Mrs. Harold Watson.

—In our report of the death of Mr. Herbert Smith, West Mono, a couple of weeks ago, we inadvertently omitted to state that the young man's mother, Mrs. Wm. Smith Sr., is still living. The funeral was in charge of the brethren of Prince of Wales L. O. L. 320, of which the departed man was a valued member.

—Andrew Ewing, a Mono farmer, got into an awkward predicament, when he pulled his team up sharply to avoid a collision with a dray at the Mill St. corner on Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Ewing was on his way to the station with a load of potatoes and the sudden halt proved too great a strain for the reach, which snapped, causing the tongue of the wagon to break as the horses swerved quickly to one side. The startled team became quite restive but with the assistance of bystanders Mr. Ewing managed to unhitch them. The potatoes were subsequently transferred to another wagon.

HOSPITAL NOTES

A regular meeting of the Daughters of the Empire will be held at the home of Mrs. E. C. Clark on Friday, Oct. 12th, at 3 o'clock. A full attendance of the members is requested.

HOME WORK

We want reliable families to operate our high-speed automatic knitting machines at home; whole or spare time knitting for the trade; good wages. For all particulars send stamped, addressed envelope to the Canadian Wholesale Distributing Co., Dept. S., Orillia, Ont. ... 15-3t

SOFT BALL LEAGUE

At an enthusiastic meeting last Friday evening a town soft ball league was formed. The league consists of four teams, the High School, the mill, the clerks and the business men. It was decided to play all games on Thursday night of each week, a double-header each evening. The League opens to-night (Thursday) when the High School and business men meet at 7 p.m., and the clerks and the mill at 8.30. All interested come out and see the fun. Games at the Arena.

ST. MARK'S CHURCH

The annual Harvest Thanksgiving services will be held in St. Mark's Church on Sunday, Oct. 14th, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. The special preacher will be the Rev. Canon H. C. Dixon rector of Trinity East, and Chaplain to the Bishop of Toronto. Canon Dixon's name will be a familiar one to Orangemen and also to many ex soldiers, hundreds of whom he met on their return from overseas.

Decorations and thankofferings worthy of the occasion are being asked for from the members of the congregation.

MOVING TO TORONTO

Owing to indifferent health Dr. J. A. Macleod is giving up his medical practice in Orangeville and moving to Toronto. The Dr. has found the demands of a country practice too exacting in his condition of health and has decided to devote himself to city work, which will not require the long drives or the amount of night work that a country practice entails. Dr. and Mrs. Macleod have been useful and public-spirited citizens since coming to Orangeville a few years ago and their removal from town will be generally regretted.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS AN EXCELLENT REMEDY

When the baby is ill—when he is constipated, has indigestion, colds, colic or simple fever or any of the other many minor ills of little ones—the mother will find Baby's Own Tablets an excellent remedy. They regulate the stomach and bowels, thus banishing the cause of most of the ills of childhood. Concerning them Mrs. E. D. Duguay, Thunder River, Que., says:—"My baby was a great sufferer from colic and cried continually. I began giving him Baby's Own Tablets and the relief was wonderful. I now always keep a supply of the Tablets on the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CALEDON HUNT CLUB

The Eighth Annual Dinner of the Caledon Hunt Club was held in the Sutton House, Caledon, on Monday evening, Oct. 1st. A large number of the local nimrods gathered to renew past friendships and to vie with each other in telling the biggest "bear story." After ample justice had been done to the very excellent luncheon provided by the hostess, Mrs. Sutton, the evening was happily spent in speeches, music, songs etc. Mr. John C. Warnock, a veteran hunter and pioneer member of the Club, acted as toastmaster. Excellent addresses were given by Dr. William Stubbs, Caledon, Messrs. R. Jackson Potter, James E. Gibson and Mr. Bush, of Erin, and Dr. W. F. R. Stubbs, N. Harrison, C. K. Overland, R. J. Speers and A. F. Nicholson, of Caledon. The hunters are quite enthusiastic over their approaching trip to the northern wilds in November. The Banner wishes the boys a pleasant holiday, a deer chase and bon voyage.

BORN

DYNES—In Dundalk, on October 2nd, 1928, to Prof. O. W. and Mrs. Dynes, Knoxville, Tenn. a son.

IN MEMORIAM

In ever loving memory of Pte. Jos. S. Halbert, of the 2nd Canadian Motor Machine Gun Bgde., who was killed in action on Oct. 9th, 1918.

He gave his life for King and Country.

MOTHER and BROTHER

Mrs. (Rev.) F. W. Mahaffy visited with Toronto friends last and this week.

Mrs. J. C. Warnock, of Caledon visited Mrs. C. W. Rutledge, of Markdale, last week.

Mrs. D. Warren and daughter, Anna, of Timmins, have been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. M. Snell.

Miss Phair, of Orangeville, who has been in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, for the last three weeks, is improving.

Mrs. Albert Young and her sister, Miss McCartney, of Rosseau Ont., were visitors with Mrs. J. J. White over the week-end.

Mr. John A. Clark, of Toronto, has been visiting at the home of Mr. Robt. Clark and other Alton relatives during the past week.

Mr. D. B. Brown, Secretary-Treasurer of the Dufferin Agricultural Society, left for the West on a business trip last Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne May and daughter, Lorna, of Toronto, visited with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac May, The Maples, over the week-end.

Dr. Harvey MacAdam, of Worcester, Mass., and Mrs. MacAdam were here last week attending the funeral of the former's mother, the late Mrs. Thos. MacAdam.

Mrs. R. Fairbairn and son, Donald, are visiting friends at Niagara Falls, N. Y., for a couple of weeks. Mr. Fairbairn spent part of last week at the Falls, returning home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Clarke and family, of Markdale, were visitors at Caledon Fall Fair. Mrs. Clarke and children remained for a few days visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Torrance.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Hogg, Orangeville, announce the engagement of their elder daughter, Gladis, to Mr. J. Varley Bell, of Toronto. The marriage will take place at the bride's home about the middle of October.

Alan, son of Sheriff and Mrs. H. Endacott, left for Montreal on Monday morning after a pleasant visit of two weeks with his parents here. Mr. Endacott had the company of his father, Sheriff Endacott, and Provincial Officer Mennie as far as Kingston.

MRS. HUGH CAIRNS

Friends of the family here will be genuinely sorry to learn of the death on Thursday, October 4th, of Margaret Kannawin, beloved wife of Mr. Hugh Cairns, of Cleveland, Ohio. Deceased, who was a sufferer from heart trouble, had not been in good health for some time. Besides her husband there are left to mourn her loss a family of two sons and four daughters, all living in Cleveland. Mrs. Cairns is also survived by three brothers and two sisters, namely John Kannawin, of Orangeville, Robert Kannawin, of Cleveland, Ohio, Mrs. W. Rowan, of Toronto, Miss Eliza and Mr. Sam Kannawin, of Alton. The funeral was held from her late residence, Euclid Heights, Cleveland, on Monday.

ST. ANDREW'S Y. P. S.

St. Andrew's Church Young People's Society reorganized on Monday night of last week with the following officers:—

President, Jack Marshall; 1st Vice-President, Miss Leila Hamilton; 2nd Vice-President, Miss Mary Hanley; 3rd Vice-President, W. Edwards; Secretary, Miss Irene Sproule; Treasurer, Miss Ogston; Conveners of Committees—Conservation, Rev. F. W. Mahaffy; Literary, Mr. G. B. Hayes; Social, Miss Mary Hughes; Missionary, Miss Muir; Citizenship, Elgin Hall; Pianiste, Miss Myrtle Gardiner; Assistant Pianiste, Miss Muriel Ellis.

The first meeting of the season was held on Monday night and took the form of a social evening, which was largely attended by the young people of the church. Contests and music were features of the program, which was followed by refreshments. An excellent time is reported.

JEWS WERE FINED

The Jew whisky peddlers, who were arrested at a house south of Beeton by Inspector Robinson, of Orangeville, and County Constables Watson, of Beeton, and Bradley, of Tottenham, a week ago Saturday, were tried before Magistrate Jeffs in Tottenham on Saturday. Greenglass, who was arrested just after he arrived from Toronto, with an auto load of liquor, was fined $400 and costs. Harry Caurl was let down with a fine of $200 and costs and the third member of the trio, taken into custody by the officers, was acquitted. The accused were defended by Hartley Dewart, K. C., of Toronto. The fines were paid a few minutes after the Court adjourned.

WRIGHT–FIRTH

A very pretty wedding took place in Christ Church, Brampton, on Monday afternoon by the Rev. R. W. Allin, when Miss Kate Firth, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Firth, Durham, was married to Captain J. F. Wright, of the Canadian Mercantile Marine. The bride, who was given away by her brother, Capt. A. Firth, Brampton, was attired in a dress of pearl grey crepe trimmed with rose and gold, black picture hat, and carried a bouquet of Richmond rosebuds. After the ceremony the immediate relatives of the contracting couple sat down to the wedding dejeuner served at the home of the bride's brother. Captain and Mrs. Wright left on their wedding tour in the early evening, the bride travelling in a suit of navy blue with coat of chiffon, hat to match, and sable furs. They will reside in Durham this winter.

BAIRD–GORLEY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gorley, Manitowaning, Ont., was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding, when their only daughter, Mae Jean, was united in marriage to Mr. Harry Presley Baird, B. A. Sc., graduate of Toronto University, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Baird, 230 Symington Avenue, Toronto. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. Pelletier. The bride, who was given away by her father looked charming in ivory canton crepe, tulle veil and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of pink carnations and fern. The bridesmaid Miss Hazel Connell, wore a pretty gown of French blue canton crepe gray hat and shoes and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas and fern. The groom was supported by Mr. Harry Gorley, brother of the bride. The bride's mother wore a beautiful gown of navy duchess satin. After the wedding repast the young couple left for a honeymoon trip to Cleveland and Pittsburg. The bride wore a navy blue tricotine suit with hat to match and a brown Australian fox fur. Mr. and Mrs Baird will live in Detroit, Mich.

LEADER–STINSON

A quiet, but pretty, wedding took place in Century Methodist Church, Hamilton, on Wednesday, Sept. 12th, when Miss Effie Elizabeth Irene Stinson, only daughter of Mr. W. J. Stinson, Second Street, Orangeville, became the bride of David Ernest Leader, H. P. F., of Hamilton, second son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Leader, of Whittington. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R. J. Whiting, of 51 Robinson St., Hamilton. The bride looked charming in a gown of dove flat crepe with steel trimmings and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly gifts. The groom's gift was a silver tea service. Later in the day the young couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for a short honeymoon trip to Toronto Niagara and other points, the bride travelling in a navy blue poiret twill suit with taupe blouse and hat to match. The young couple will reside at 226 Locke St., Hamilton.

BOUGHT MARKHAM MILLS

Mr. E. A. Anthistle, of Aurora, a son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Smith, of Alton, has purchased the Markham Cereal Mills from W. B. Browne & Co., of Toronto, and took over the business on October 1st. Mr. Anthistle is an experienced miller, who will be thoroughly at home in the management of his new business. He intends to push the sale of a breakfast food known as "Wheatgold," and will also conduct a general chopping business.

No use of going to any other clothing store for the new overcoat you need; come to us and save TIME and MONEY. We can fit you out in fifteen minutes and give you the real goods.

It is a highly luxurious feeling to slide into one of our warm, well-lined overcoats. Do so and you will be so prosperous that you can also afford one of our handsome, stylish, well-made new suits.

We have been selling clothing for a good many years, but we never have had anything to compare with the immense stock of Coats we have this year. We spent a great deal of time in picking out these Coats, but when you see them, you will agree with us that we have a right to be justly proud of our selection. We have dozens and dozens to choose from, and for style, quality and price we defy competition.

Be sure to see these Men's and Boys' Coats before buying.

Remember our Guaranteed Serges to order, Botany wool and Indigo dye.

Markdale Well-digger to pay $1,050.

The action against Milton S. Bellerby, well-driller, of Markdale, for $1,600 damages as a result of an auto smash-up, down for trial at Barrie Fall Assizes, was settled by agreement reached after considerable evidence had been heard. Mr. Bellerby is to pay $1,050, including costs amounting to about $250. The case has attracted considerable attention in Simcoe County and at Markdale.

The case was the first one to come up at the Fall Assizes, which opened yesterday before Justice Mott. Bellerby was sued for injuries received by Miss Mary Jane McKinney, when his car struck the buggy in which the plaintiff and her brother, Robt. McKinney, were riding. The mishap took place on the 8th line of Nottawasaga township, near Duntroon, on Sunday, Nov. 19, 1922. Bellerby was going to Collingwood and struck the left hind wheel of the buggy in endeavoring to pass. Miss McKinney was thrown out and severely injured. Her claim included a hospital bill, damages to clothes and general damages.

The trial lasted from two until five o'clock yesterday afternoon, during which time the two McKinneys and Bellerby were heard. It was decided to agree on a settlement and after a conference between J. F. P. Birnie, of Owen Sound, representing the defendant, and W. A. Boys, Barrie, for the plaintiff, damages were arranged at $1,050, including costs. Bellerby will be allowed to make payment in instalments.—Ex.

To have stood in the front line in front of the City Hall, Toronto, and there to have gazed into the face of one of the finest men that the world ever knew is the privilege that one resident of Peel enjoyed and privilege that he will treasure as long as memory lasts. "I was wonderful to gaze into Lloyd George's face," this gentleman told the Conservator. "With his long white hair falling on his white scarf, his face stood out as significant of his wonderful and impressive personality. To look at him without even hearing him speak is to absorb a great deal of the magnetism that has made him what he is—felt to be by all—the greatest man living to-day."—The Conservator.

During the past few weeks two rather serious accidents happened to residents of Fergus, caused, altogether by what are known as "Road Hogs." While a party of ladies were motoring from Guelph near Scarlan's a motor came up behind their sedan and knocked them into the ditch, the car failing upon its side. Fortunately there was a rise beyond the ditch or the party might have been killed. The other car never stopped to render assistance. The driver, being the smallest of the party, crawled out through the windshield and succeeded in relieving the party, the glass in the sedan not even being broken. The other case the motors met, but the one was crowded off the road in a narrow place near an embankment, but fortunately the car was stopped just before topsiding over, and had to be pulled back by a truck that saw the mishap.—News-Record.

EDWARD RENO

EXPERT ILLUSIONIST

—in—

THE OPERA HOUSE, ORANGEVILLE

—on—

FRIDAY, OCT. 19th, 1923

at 8 O'CLOCK P. M.

For thirty-five years Edward Reno has been a magician and in that time he has travelled all over the world, including India, Syria and Egypt. His name is by no means new to lyceum committees. In fact he has appeared in many places for return engagements, presenting a new program each time.

Constantly Inventing New Things

Reno is constantly inventing new things in magic and illusions, also in foreign lands he picked up many things not known to many professionals. Magic, like everything else, has progressed with rapid strides during the past few years. Never was there a better demand for up-to-date illusions and sleight of hand than now.

Dove Rises Phoenix-Like From Ashes.

Reno has the usual light paraphernalia, but performs his tricks while in ordinary evening dress, and so adroitly as to escape detection in every case. In this respect he is a wonder. He does things that seem absolutely impossible of execution without the aid of supernatural agency.

One of his performances that never fails to amaze his audiences is known as the "dove trick." He burns a piece of common paper, and a dove rises phoenix-like from the ashes. He apparently tears the dove in two, only to find that he has two doves in his hands. He throws a glass of water into the air, and it changes into a dove and flies away.

Running Fire of Comment

Not the least enjoyable feature of Reno's performance is the running fire of comment with which he enlivens everything he does. These fragmentary remarks are full of fun and wit, with flash after flash of good-tempered satire aimed at himself or his work. He is a man of fine personality and engaging stage presence, with a keen mentality and an artistic appreciation of the success he has achieved in his profession.

In a performance of two hours in length he is able to spring one surprise after another on his audience, keeping all in a state of breathless wonder and delight until they forget the flight of time. The fact that many of these tricks are inventions of his own adds interest to the entertainment.

Committee Letters and Press Comments

Hundreds of committee letters and press comments are available on Reno's work, and will be sent on request.

ADMISSION—50 CENTS

WEST MONO PARISH

The services were well attended at all the three churches of the above mission Sunday last, when the Right Rev. Bishop Reeves, D.D., of Toronto, preached to the various congregations. At Glencross there was an overflow meeting, many being unable to get inside to witness the beautiful service of confirmation. This service was very impressive and telling. Thirteen men and five women were presented to the Bishop. Bishop Reeves gave a very helpful address to the candidates and lucidly explained to the vast congregation the necessity of the sacred right of confirmation. He was assisted by the Rev. S. C. Jarrett, B. S. P., who, at the conclusion of the service, sang Gounods "There is a Green Hill Far Away."

St. Matthew's Church mission will open on Monday, October 22nd, and will close on Sunday, October 28th. On this date the Harvest Home services will be conducted. There will be services for children and services for adults. Holy Communion will be held each morning at 8 o'clock and the evening service will commence at 7.30 o'clock each evening during the week. Rev. Elliott-Baker, D. D., will be the special preacher. Dr. Elliott-Baker is assistant to Canon Brain at the Church of St. Michael and All Angels, St. Clair Ave., Toronto. One of the unique distinctions that mark the career of this man is that he preached in the Royal Chapel at Windsor before a distinguished audience, which included King George and Queen Mary. Dr. Elliott-Baker, who was chaplain of a Montreal battalion during the Great War, may be classed among the foremost clergymen of the Anglican Church.

PLOWING MATCH

Possibly the first plowing match held in the County of Dufferin was the event staged at Laurel, on Wednesday last, under the auspices of the Laurel Plowmen's Association. The affair was held on the farm of Stanley Allen, Laurel, where ideal conditions prevailed. A fairly large number of plowmen competed, and the work done was of a very high order. A large crowd of some 400 spectators watched the work of the various competitors, and listened with considerable interest to the discussion of the various awards made by Jas. McLean, of Richmond Hill, who acted as judge. The Silver Cup, donated for the best plowed land, was won by Ralph Hamilton, Shelburne. This was the youngest competitor in the match, and his performance was of a very high order. Two Fordson tractors competed in the tractor class and both operators did most excellent work, the work done by the outfit owned by R. W. Brett, Shelburne, being of very high order. Considerable interest was taken in the match, and special encouragement for next year's match was given by the announcement, from R. W. Brett, of a very generous contribution. The following is a list of the prize winners in the various classes:

Class 1, sod, open, single plows—1 Wm. Gray, Laurel; 2 Elmer Bryan, Laurel; 3 Ed. Lang, Laurel. Best Crown, W. Gray; Best Finish, E. Bryan.

Class 2, stubble, open, single plows—1 John Brown, Laurel; 2 Edwin Richardson, Grand Valley. Best Crown, J. Brown; Best Finish, E. Richardson.

Class 3, sod, single plows, boys 20 years and under—1 Leslie Gray, Laurel; 2 Bert Allen, Laurel; 3 David Moir, Orangeville. Best Crown, L. Gray; Best Finish, L. Gray

Class 4, stubble, single plows, boys 18 years and under—1 Ralph Hamilton.

Class 5, sod, tractors—1 R. W. Brett, Shelburne; 2 Ross Bennington, Laurel.

Best Plowed Land, Silver Cup donated by the Canadian Bank of Commerce—Ralph Hamilton.

Best Plow Team—Wm. Gray.

BRAMPTON FAIR

A large crowd attended Brampton Fair last Saturday. It is estimated that there were twelve thousand people on the grounds. All classes with the exception of poultry, were better filled than last year. One of the big features of the Fair was the fine showing of horses, all classes being well filled. Horsemen were there from far and near and the trotting races were followed with keen interest by the spectators. The hurdle jumping in fropt of the grand stand was one of the big attractions of the afternoon.

HOSPITAL NOTES

We trust the farmers will not forget the Hospital when brinfing in their potatoes and vegetables.

Capt. Robert Foote, well-known Great Lakes sailor, died at Fergus.

PAIN IN THE JOINTS

Is An Indication That the Blood is Thin and Watery.

The first sign of rheumatism is frequently a pain and swelling of one of the joints. If this is not treated through the blood, which is the seat of the disease, the poison spreads, affecting other joints and tissues—sometimes rheumatism attacks the heart and is fatal.

A remedy that has corrected many cases of rheumatism is Dr. William's Pink Pills. These pills enrich and purify the blood so that the poisonous rheumatic matter is driven out of the system as nature intended. Miss Gertie Denne, Washago, Ont., was attacked with rheumatism and found relief through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:—"About a year ago I was attacked by rheumatism and for two weeks was confined to my bed. The trouble was so painful, affecting the joints of my limbs so that I could not stand alone. Mother had a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house and thought they might help me. I began taking them, and when I had taken these pills I got a further supply, with the result that the rheumatism vanished and I was a well girl. I may add that my mother and two of my sisters have also used the pills for various ailments with equal success, and now we are never without them in the house."

If you are suffering from any condition due to poor, watery blood, or weak nerves, begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now, and note how your strength and health will improve. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH

Professor Yohan Masih and Principal Taylor, of Indore College, India, appeared before a large congregation in St. Andrew's last Sabbatn morning and greatly delighted them with their messages.

Professor Yohan Masih (whose Anglocised name is "John Messiah") is the son of a convert from Hinduism. His reputation as a teacher and a Christian, British subject is widespread. He is a self-made man, acquiring his education through long patient study. He has written some excellent text books, and he is in great demand in Canada as a speaker on missions. Orangeville was fortunate in having him.

His first words were words of gratitude to Canadian people who had sent missionaries of Jesus Christ to India, and his zeal for Jesus was manifest throughout his address. It was a reassuring message. India's unrest was not merely political, it was religious yearning, and there were more yearning for the Christian religion than dared confess it. It often meant renouncing wife and family to embrace Christianity and yet there were Pentecosts every month, thousands being baptized in the Christian faith. Nearly four million and a half of the population of India is Christian. Yohan Masih is excellent fruit of Christianity and his tour of Canada will awaken thousands to the value of missions.

Principal Taylor is a pleasing personality, and quite won the hearts of the people by his moderate agreeable, yet effective presentation of th need of more missionaries, as well as more money to support the work. His own seminary is now closed owing to the heavy deficit in the budget. When one listens to these distinguished visitors and considers their influence on the intellectual and spiritual life of India he cannot escape the conviction that something is wrong with the church if it fails to support such worthy ambassadors of Christ.

It might be added that if Yohan Masih had any criticism to offer of the British Government it was the lack of sympathy upon the part of officials to the desire for prohibition of alcohol which he believes is very strong in India. Also he is assured the caste system is crumbling, as the political leaders believe they will never be ready for self-government until the people are more united in national life. And when the caste system goes the religion of Hinduism will gradually pass away.

BOYS' BYE-ELECTION

Some time ago Allan Marshall, Reeve of the Boys' Council, tendered his resignation to that body on account of his removal from town. The Council accepted the resignation and arranged for a bye-election for the office of Reeve. The nomination meeting was held in the Auditorium of the Public Library on Tuesday night of this week, Murray McKitrick, Clerk of the Boys' Council, presiding. When the nominations were closed five boys had been nominated. They were James Marshall, Russell McGillivray, Eldred Whelan, Morley McLean and Fred Wansbrough. The boys were each asked to speak for a short time, and did so. James Marshall, who is already a member of the Council, said that he would not be a contestant for the office. Fred Wansbrough also decided not to stand. Morley McLean and Russell McGillivray will contest the Reeveship. The voting will take place at the Town Hall between the hours of 1 and 5 o'clock in afternoon on Saturday next, October 20th. According to the constitution the following are eligible to vote: "All boys who have reached the age of 12 years and have not reached the age of 22 years, and who reside in, or attend a school or other place of learning, or are employed in the town of Orangeville."

MRS. JAMES HILLYARD

Death came to Mrs. James Hillyard, of Centre Road, Caledon, on Wednesday afternoon of last week after an illness of several months, an illness which was borne with that quiet patience, with that Christian submission which were at all times prominent in a life of service to her family, to her community, and to her church. The deceased, whose maiden name was Sarah Morrison, was born at Lucknow 68 years ago. After her marriage to Mr. James Hillyard, who died a few years ago, she resided continuously in Caledon, where she was well and widely known for her willingness to aid those in need of help and for her constant effort for the well being of her family. Last January she was taken ill and has been confined to her bed almost continuously during the intervening months. Grateful to the members of the family, appreciative of the efforts of physicians and the concern of many friends, she felt that the end could not be long delayed and calmly awaited the summons, firm in the faith that her transition was but the passing from death into life. Mrs. Hillyard was a member of, and faithful worker in, the Methodist Church. She is survived by her two sons, Jas. and Homer, and one daughter, all of whom were with her when death came. To them all genuine sympathy is extended. The funeral took place on Friday afternoon to Caledon Cemetery.

The season's shipment of wheat on the lakes is 175,000,000 bushels.

MRS. H. F. TUCK

Rachel Hester Herrington, wife of Mr. Herbert Fellows Tuck and daughter of the late Justice D. W. Herrington, Santa Clara, Cal., U. S. A., passed away after a lingering illness on Friday morning last, October 12th. She is survived by her husband, and her daughter, Alda Lisle, of this town, and two brothers and a sister residing in California. The funeral, which was private, was held from her late residence on Zina Street to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Sunday afternoon. The pallbearers were nephews and relatives of the deceased. Rev. J. W. McDonald, rector of St. Mark's Anglican Church, conducted the services at the house and grave.

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

THE LARGEST TRAVELLING CARAVAN EXHIBIT

Of Its Kind Ever Put on The Road in Canada.

One Day Only, Wed'y, Oct. 24 '23

The Demonstration will be held on Mr. Hirons' Farm, First St., east of Agricultural Grounds.

SPECIAL FEATURES

Plowing Match and Demonstration with FORDSON TRACTORS will be held in field adjoining the Park Grounds at 2 p.m., by Mr. Jas. Kennedy, of Agincourt, using an OLIVER PLOW, and Mr. Chas. Clubine, using a COCKSHUTT PLOW, both of whom are former PROVINCIAL CHAMPION WALKING PLOWMEN.

THE CARAVAN

This is practically the "FORD EXHIBIT" as it appeared at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto, PUT ON WHEELS to make a tour of the Province for the purpose of demonstrating the variety of uses for FORD CARS, TRUCKS and TRACTORS. Also many new kinds of FARM MACHINERY in action with FORDSON TRACTORS, as well as various types of Bodies, all mounted on FORD TRUCKS, and Special Equipment for Road Grading, Farming and Industrial purposes, mounted, on TRACTORS.

MOVING PICTURES

Several interesting Films will be shown in a large tent on the Grounds during the afternoon and evening. One of the Feature Films will show how FORDSON TRACTORS are made, right from the ram material taken from the mines, to the finished article. This is a good opportunity to see the FORD FACTORIES and INDUSTRIES. This picture alone is well worth coming to see.

JOHN KEEFER WRITES

John Keefer, an oldtime Amaranth farmer, writes as follows to his friend, Thomas Reid:

Rosedale, B. C., Sept. 29, 1923

My Dear Tom,—

A lot of water has run under the bridge since I heard from you last, but I will give you another chance. I am in fairly good health, but can feel now the effects of that fall so many years ago. I am here with my son, Jack. He is on a 50-acre farm here; has three grown up girls and a boy 14 years old, who goes to school and will try for the High School next summer. Jack has put in all his harvest and gone to work in a sawmill some 60 miles from here. The boy and myself can do the winter work on the place while he is away. He will get 40c an hour and can put in 9 hours a day as the mill has electric lights, and we will lose no time with wet weather as he will be under cover all the time. One of his girls will start teaching school this winter. She is going through Normal School now. George is still in the logging camp, getting $6.50 per day. Hugh is on the farm they have bought at Suze Nanks, Manitoulin Island. He has been having some trouble with wild beasts at his sheep and has killed two mountain lions. As he got $40 bounty for the scalps and the hides are worth $20 more he could let all his sheep go at that price. The lions do not bother his cattle unless a young calf or so, and if it happens near the herd the old cattle would trample the lion to death. This part here is a pretty old settlement, but a bear was killed on the next farm to this three days ago, and we hear a coyote barking in the mountains at the back of our farm, and people around here are afraid to keep sheep as two or three coyotes could do a bad job with a flock in a night. This part of the Fraser Valley is bounded with the mountains across the Fraser on one side, and a huge mountain, "Mt. Cheani," on the other, and back of that again a big range of mountains with Mt. Baker, the largest mountain in B. C., sticking up among them all. These mountains are covered with snow on their tops. There is a reservoir half way up Mt. Cheani and water is piped to Chilliwack, 7 miles away. We here in the valley drive a pipe down about6 or 8 feet and tap a bed of gravel full of water running from the mountain to the Fraser. The pipe has a pump on it and then a foot or so above the pipe is full of small holes that the water gets in. So you see we can dig a well with a sledge hammer. Jack does not own this farm and is trying to buy it. 50 acres of land is dear here. One farm was sold the other day for $300 an acre. Jack has an option on this at $100 an acre. It is a new farm and what cleaning and building has been done he has done himself for the rent of the place. You have heard all about the earthquake in Japan. George, in his last letter, tells me it reached there and all the fish in the lake died and things are so rotten and bad they will not be able to can any salmon this fall. There are many millions of fine salmon floating belly up and stinking bad. The seismograph at Victoria University felt the shock also. I think I told you in a former letter something of this kind happened last year or so ago but this is far worse. Vancouver sent more than $1,000,000 to Japan besides clothing and blankets and provisions. The last steamer from Japan was full of people who had escaped with their lives, wounded and all in rags—a very hard sight. The Japanese in Vancouver took care of them and the white people helped. The steamer that brought them out had a hard fight of it to keep from getting burned too, for some large oil tanks exploded and the harbor was full of oil all on fire. Some Vancouver people were in Japan at the time and many were killed or burned to death. Take it all in all, it is the worst thing that has happened to this old world in some hundreds of years. It is believed over one million people perished in Yokohama, Tokio and other Japanese cities. I tried to save you a paper but people who do not take any paper carried them all off. Do write soon and give me news of your people. Poor Jessie is in a very bad way in the hospital with two nurses fighting for her life. She was operated on for appendicitis and it turned out to be gall stones and the doctors took out 42. We are in hopes now she has got rid of the cause of all her sickness. She will be a new woman. For over 4 years she has been ill and little or no relief. She can keep food in her stomach now, so there is some hope for her. Good-bye old man, good luck to you and yours,

Your old chum,
JOHN KEEFER.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

A terrible tragedy took place near Mount Zion a week ago Monday by which a well known citizen of Osprey lost his life. That morning Mr. Albert Arnott, who lived on the old Arnott homestead near Wareham, undertook to take a vicious bull to Proton Station for shipment to Toronto. Mr. Arnott held a stick attached to a ring in the animal's nose, while Fred Tyler, the hired man, walked on the other side holding a rope attached to the animal's head and brought through the ring in its nose. The beast appeared to be driving all right until, just after turning from the Centre Line to the east back line, about a mile from Mount Zion, Mr. Arnott took out his watch to look at the time. At that moment the brute made a lunge and knocked the victim down, the stick attached to the ring breaking at the same time. Tyler was unable to do anything with the rope and the prostrate man's body was terribly broken up by the huge animal's head. The bull was dehorned, but his force and bulk sufficed to crush the life out of his victim almost instantly. Tyler ran for assistance and a crowd was soon gathered. A rifle was brought into use and the brute was shot five times as it stood over the prostrate and mangled body, before it fell.

Mr. Arnott was only 47 years of age, and was one of the most highly respected citizens of Osprey township. He leaves a wife and three children—a boy and a girl and an adopted daughter. There are two brothers, Samuel and Henry, and two sisters, Mrs. James Menzie, of the Centre Line, and Mrs. William Inkster, of Flesherton. To these much sympathy is extended in the terrible tragedy which has befallen them. Mrs. Arnott's maiden name was Barrow, and her parental home was at Brampton.

MONO MILLS

A double birthday party was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson G. Duke on Wednesday afternoon, October 10th. The party was in honor of Mr. Thos. Duke, of Vancouver, B. C., a brother, and Mrs. F. A. Forster, of Oakville, Mrs. Duke's mother. At 6 p.m. forty guests sat down to a sumptuous repast, at the close of which there were toasts and speeches for Mr. Duke and Mrs. Forster, wishing them health and many more happy returns of their birthday. The evening was spent in music and games. Guests from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. George Campell, Mr. Jas. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Snell and daughter, Dorothea, and Mrs. Rusk, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Forster, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Luman and family and Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Fish and son, Norman, of Oakville, and Mrs. Wm. Falconer, of Brampton. Mr. Thomas Duke has returned to Vancouver, leaving Toronto last Saturday evening. Mr. Duke left these parts about fifty years ago and it pleased him greatly to spend his birthday at the old home. Mr. Duke has lived in Vancouver for thirty-four years. He has taken The Banner all these years and says it is like getting a letter from home every week.

Anniversary services will be held in Adjala Presbyterian Church next Sunday, Oct. 21st, at 11 a.m. and 7. p.m. Preacher, Rev. Armstrong, of Erin. Mono Mills and Mono East services cancelled.

Anniversary services will be held in Mitchell's Methodist Church on Sunday next, Oct. 21st, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Preacher, Rev. Mr. Banford, of Honeywood.

Mr. Gavin J. Lemon has disposed of his farm on the 5th line, east, Caledon, to a Mr. Taylor, of Toronto, getting in payment town property in the vicinity of Weston.

LARRY O'BRIEN GIVES A TREAT

A most enjoyable concert was given on Saturday evening, October 6, to the citizens of Caledon by the Shamrock and Thistle Revue Company, under the personal direction of the talented Captain Larry O'Brien, who, war-scarred and decorated with battle-field decorations, proved to the people of Caledon that he is every inch a man, both on the street and in the halls of amusement.

It was his first public appearance here and on account of short notice in advertising the crowd that had assembled did not quite fill the hall, but experience is the great teacher and it can be assured that when he and his Company see fit to appear again in Caledon, a packed house will greet them.

He, personally, surprised all who witnessed, at being able to play the part of so many characters and musical instruments, as each solo, whether comic, sentimental, musical or otherwise, showed high proficiency and was received with an abundant show of approval.

The beautiful dancing numbers by the nimble and light-footed Highland and Spanish champion, interpreted great master work with rare and graceful expression, which also quite captivated the audience.

Harry Dunlop's opening songs took the listeners by storm so that not a dull moment passed during the entire concert. We repeat that when Larry O'Brien wants to return we will see that a full town hall will open his eyes and in the meantime we wish him well as we consider him "Caledon's adopted son."

CRIPPLES AT SCHOOL

One of the phenomena in the educational development of recent years is the provision of special classes and special schools for little people of special needs. We have been witnessing the setting up of auxiliary classes for mentally retarded children, outdoor classes for the tuberculous, sight-saving classes for those whose eyes are weakened, and we have for many years had schools for the blind, and schools for the deaf and dumb. Is anything being done for the crippled child? Or do crippled children fit satisfactorily into the life and work of the ordinary school?

Those who have had long and intimate experience with crippled children are of the opinion that a crippled child who is able to do so profits by attending an ordinary school. But it is also acknowledged by these experts that a large proportion of crippled children are not really able to attend an ordinary school. They need the special care which only a specialized school or class can give them. The advantages of the special school or class are obvious. In the first place transportation to and from school is provided for the pupils. In the second place they are given remedial exercises at stated intervals during class hours as prescribed by the doctor. Then, too, they are under the supervision of a teacher who is specially trained to conduct the studies of physically handicapped children. Hours are set aside for rest. Hot lunches are prepared for the children under the direction of a dietitian who knows the needs of the pupils. Class-room equipment is specially suited to the requirements of the cripple—seats and desk tops are adjustable, aisles are made wide so as to permit a comfortable disposal of little braced limbs without interferring with the progress of anyone who wishes to walk up or down the aisle. A school built expressly for the use of crippled children have not only class rooms, a dining-room and a kitchen but a surgical dressing room as well so that children may report for dressings without unnecessary loss of time. The close co-ordination of school work and remedial activities under the joint direction of teacher and doctor is an advantage which of itself is enough to justify the establishing of special classes for cripples. Intellectual growth in such a school is not attained at the expense of physical growth. Both are achieved together.

There is another advantage, however, which ought not to be overlooked or minimized. The school for cripples may give to those children who need it a chance to fit themselves for the task of earning a livelihood. An experiment of this sort has been tried in Montreal and has been very satisfactory in its results. Boys and girls who attend the Montreal School for Crippled Children may elect to take a commercial course, with shorthand, typewriting and bookkeeping. The hours of classwork are short enough to prevent undue fatigue, but pupils receive a greater amount of individual instruction than is possible in the ordinary business school, therefore it is not surprising that graduates of this school have been able to take down-town positions and compete successfully with graduates of other schools. This phase of the special school is, of coure, a great boon to those crippled who come from homes of the poor and lower middle classes.

Unfortunately the special educational opportunities now offered in Canada to the crippled child are almost negligible. For the most part we let the cripple either drag himself to and from the public school or get along at home as best he can, with results that are frequently deplorable. This lack of policy is to be regretted. The remedy lies probably within the reach of the ordinary citizen. Groups of men and women in other countries have been able by concerted effort to make adequate provision for the education of cripples in their own community and governments have been persuaded subsequently to take over the responsibility for carryinp on the activities thus inaugurated. There is every probability that Canadian citizens will devote themselfes to meetinp this need and that ultimately the provision of special classes for cripples by our Boards of Education will become a matter of course.

MOTHER OF LARGE FAMILY

Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Other Mothers

Hemford, N. S.—"I am the mother of four children and I was so weak after my last baby came that I could not do my work and suffered for months until a friend induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Since taking the Vegetable Compound my weakness has left me and the pain in my back has gone. I tell all my friends who are troubled with female weakness to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for I think it is the best medicine ever sold. You may advertise my letter."—Mrs. GEORGE I. CROUSE, Hemford, N. S.

My First Child

Glen Allen, Alabama.—"I have been greatly benefited by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for bearing-down feelings and pains. I was troubled in this way for nearly four years following the birth of my first child, and at times could hardly stand on my feet. A neighbor recommended the Vegetable Compound to me after I had taken doctor's medicines without much benefit. It has relieved my pains and gives me strength. I recommend it and give you permission to use my testimonial letter."—Mrs. IDA RYE, Glen Allen, Alabama.

Women who suffer should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for a free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women." C

CONDITIONS HORRIBLE

Grand Jury Criticises Beeton House of Refuge in Presentment at Barrie Fall Assizes.

Scathing criticism of the conditions at the House of Refuge in Beeton featured the presentment the Grand Jury made to Mr. Justice Mowat at the Barrie Fall Assizes. The presentment read in part:—

"We visited the House of Refuge at Beeton, and after having found the other public institutions in such good condition it was with surprise and regret that we found this place in a deplorable condition.

"The building is badly in need of repairs, but what is infinitely worse the inmates are in dire need of care and attention. We found the women's apartments and lavatories in a passable condition, but the male quarters and lavatories on the ground floor in a filthy and disgusting state.

"The condition of some of the female inmates in the basement is indescribable and horrible. One woman, an inmate for eight years, has been ill for five years and for the past two weeks has been consigned to the basement, and yesterday was lying there in a state such as no human being should be subjected to."

It is but fair to add that the jury stated emphatically that they did not consider the superintendent at all responsible for the existing state of affairs as he has been for some months a very sick man and had repeatedly "asked to be relieved of his duties."

Five year old William was standing in the kitchen with his eye on a dish of cakes, when his mother came in and found him.

"What are you doing here, William?" said she.

"I was just thinking, mother," replied the youngster.

"Thinking? Well, I hope you haven't touched those cakes.."

"That's what I was thinking about," came the ready answer. "I was wondering whether they were good enough to be whipped for."

FIELD OF JUVENILE WRITING

Writers May Expect Steady Pecuniary Return For Their Work.

For an unexplained reason, the public chooses to assume that the man who writes for children is not taking himself or his vocation seriously. It imagines either that he is a dabbler in literature, or else that he is charitably disposed toward improving the youthful mind. For it is thought that the task brings no adequate return in money or in reputation. Presumably, this belief is less common among writers themselves, those who have attempted the writing of juveniles having discovered with amazing alacrity the difficulties of the undertaking. But, even though it is admitted that here is a legitimate field for effort, insistence is laid upon the fact that, in any case, the game is not worth the candle.

Hence, to those who had held this view, a paper contributed by Clarence Budington Kelland to a recent number of the Saturday Evening Post, will bring a start of puzzled surprise. It seems that the shoe is firmly upon the other foot. In fact, it is evident that the writer for children is the one who, more than all others, may confidently expect a steady pecuniary return for his work, as well as a constantly growing personal following. Mr. Kelland proves his point by citing the cases of men like William Heyliger and Ralph Henry Barbour, to say nothing of such writers of children's classics as Scott, Dickens, Defoe, Stevenson, Mark Twain. We are told that Charles Carleton Coffin, who, in 1876, wrote "The Boys of '76" and carried on his series through eight volumes, is still selling at a rate which necessitates the publication of new editions every few years, more than 200,000 copies in all having been sold. How many novels can compete with that? Though no juvenile is likely to experience the sensational career of a best seller, on the crest of the wave for perhaps a few months, yet if it has genuine worth it will be in demand for years. Consult any bookseller's catalogue and you will find that boys nowadays are reading many of the same books which you read at their age.

Beyond all this, it is discovered that there lies a peculiar satisfaction in writing for children, and an inspiriting opportunity. For in so doing you are not striving to tempt a jaded literary appetite, dulled to the taste of nice flavors; on the contrary, you are appealing to fresh readers, full of zest and enthusiasm, who express their pleasure in vociferous and unexpected loyalties. Then, too, once you have written a really admirable juvenile, you have added something to adult enjoyment as well; for the tastes of the boy and of the man are not precisely poles apart, after all.—Christian Science Monitor.

The "Holy Carpet."

Moslems are shocked by King Hussein's refusal to let the medical escort of the "Holy Carpet" pilgrimage pass through Hedjaz. The sending of a medical escort to Mecca is a customary practice rendered necessary by lack of sanitary protection but King Hussein has taken the stand that it now constitutes an infringement of the independence of the Hedjaz, at the same time he offered no protest against the sending of soldiers to protect the caravan. The decision recalls the caravan from Jeddah on the Red Sea and means a loss of $300,000 to the Hedjaz, the subsidy usually paid by Egypt, whose Government has taken a firm stand, consulting the greatest religious dignitaries who declare that Hussein's action is contrary to the precepts of God and the prophet. Hussein's action is said to be one of spite, according to the Egyptian Press, because he was bitterly attacked after the signing of the Anglo-Arab treaty as a tool of Great Britain. His decision is likely to create feeling against him throughout Islam.

Sunshine Cure for Tuberculosis.

More extensive use of heliotherapy, or sun baths, in the treatment of tuberculosis is being urged by French medical men. Dr. Armand Delille reported lately that a number of tubercular cases and also sufferers from peritonitis have been cured by sun baths in various sanitoriums in Southern France. The sun cure is further praised by Dr. Maurice Benoit, who has declared it to be beneficial to cancer. He reported on experiments with mice, where retarding effects have been achieved through the use of actinic rays and white light. Statistics are said to show that cancer is unknown in the tropics and prevalent in colder countries, in proportion to their lack of clear sunshine.

Fashions That Tire.

If a man of six feet three inches is told to walk with a boy of four feet, and to keep pace with him, who will tire first? Prof. J. B. Johnson says the man would tire sooner than the boy. It was all a question, he added, of tiring the muscles by working them in an abnormal manner. For example, when women wore hobble-skirts they did not get their natural stride, and so became tired much more quickly. At the same time Prof. Johnson says there is a tendency to wear high heeled shoes. The bones of the foot form a natural arch, and the high heels throw more work on the muscles of the foot. To counter-balance this the women walked with bent knees, and shuffled about in a bent manner.

NEW LAMP BURNS 95 P. C. AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil.)

The inventor, F. N. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

CHARTERS–BURTON

Very quietly at St. Agnes (Anglican) Church, Long Branch, Friday afternoon, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom, the marriage took place of Jean Donalda, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Burton, of Brampton, and the late Gideon Burton, of Woodbridge, to Mr. Reginald Moore Charters, son of S. Charters, M.P., and Mrs. Charters, Brapton, the ceremony was performed by the brother of the groom, Rev. (Capt.) H. P. Charters, and the bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Dr. F. Vanderlip, Brampton. She was unattended and wore a lovely frock of Persian crepe, trimmed with brown velvet, a smart hat of dark brown carried a white prayer-book. Immepanne with touches of irridescent metallic braid, and draped veil, and Mrs. Charters left by car for their honeymoon trip, the bride wearing a heavy wrap of French marvello with sable trimmings. Mr. and Mrs. Charters will reside in Brampton.

Healing

by the Zam-Buk method is far in advance of anything else yet obtainable. Try Zam-Buk on any pimple, cut or cold-sore and you will be astonished at its swift, effective healing.

Zam-Buk is a super-balm scientifically prepared from the richest herbal oils and extracts. The wonderful action of herbal Zam-Buk is second only to its powerful antiseptic and germicidal influence.

Soothing

When you apply Zam-Buk there is never the danger of poison or disease being 'locked in' the wound or sore as with fatty salves and ointments. On the contrary, Zam-Buk prevents your sore or injury from taking "bad ways," it kills off poisonous germs and grows fine healthy new skin. Thus Zam-Buk provides you with a handy ever-ready healer and powerful natural

Antiseptic

Zam-Buk is unequalled as the soothing, swift and safe remedy for Cuts, Burns, Scalds, Chaps, Chilblains, Cold Sores, Eczema, Ringworm, Piles, Ulcers, Poisoned Wounds, etc.

O. Y. B. A. LODGE

Steps are being taken to organize an Orange Young Britons Lodge in town just as soon as the necessary warrant can be secured. The preliminary move was made on Wednesday night of last week, when Bros. Hicks and Myers, of the Shelburne Lodge, met a number of interested Orangemen and prospective Young Britons at a meeting in L. O. L. 635 Hall. Bro. Alex. Macdonald occupied the chair. Addresses were given by Bros. Hicks and Myers, the former explaining in some length the procedure necessary to secure a warrant and organize the lodge. Mr. L. P. Singer was appointed secretary of the meeting. Twelve signatures were secured to the application for a warrant, which has since been forwarded to the proper Grand Lodge officer. Mr. Singer was selected for initiation by the Shelburne Lodge, as another preliminary to the proper organization of the new lodge. As soon as the warrant is received another meeting will be called, at which it is expected that the organization work will be completed and a full set of officers elected.

FIVE YEARS' AGONY ENDED

When He Took "Fruit-a-tives" For Rheumatism

The Medicine Made From Fruit

There can be no doubt that "Fruit-a-tives" is the long sought remedy for Rheumatism and Lumbago. From all over Canada come letters testifying to this fact.

Mr. John E. Guilderson of Parrsboro, N.S. writes: "I suffered badly with Rheumatism for five years—tried different medicines—was treated by doctors in Amherst—and here at home—but the Rheumatism came back.

In 1918, I saw an advertisement for "Fruit-a-tives" and took a box and got relief, so I took them for about six months and the Rheumatism was all gone and I have never felt it since".

HAVE A PROGRAMME

Whatever you have to do, have a programme. If you are a student, have a schedule for your day, with a certain amount of time set aside for study, with a definite period for exercise and recreation. If you have certain duties to attend to about the house, do not do them in a haphazard fashion when you happen to think of it. Even for that, have a definite programme and abide by it.

A great many people seem to work very hard and get nothing done. They hurry and hustle and at the end of the day they can point out very little in the way of accomplishment. The reason is generally that they work without a programme, and work done in this fashion is bound to be wasteful and disappointing. Have a programme and live up to it. You will save your time and energy and yourself many disappointments.

SPEED REDUCED TO FIGURES.

Meaning of the Expression "Doing Sixty Miles an Hour."

"Going at the rate of sixty miles an hour" is an expression dear to many writers, both of fiction and of fact. Just what does this mean from the prosaic standpoint of science? What if an automobile proceeding at the rate of 60 miles an hour should come to a sudden stop, such as, for instance, by striking a heavy bridge abutment? A fair idea of the completeness of the wreck my be had by imagining the machine falling from a height of 120 feet or from the top of a ten-story office building. An object falling from a height of 120 feet would have the same velocity at the instant of striking the ground as the motorcar would have when travelling 60 miles an hour.

The energy possessed by a 2,400-pound automobile travelling at the rate of 60 miles an hour is 296,000 foot pounds, which is the same as that of a body weighing 1,000 pounds at the instant of striking the ground from a drop of 296 feet.

Were a resistance of 6,000 pounds applied to the automobile it would come to rest in a distance of 44 feet in one second of time, and in coming to rest would be doing work at an average rate of over 257 horsepower.

The "Soul" of a Machine.

In every big railway junction, station, or terminus you will find that there are some locomotives which all the drivers like, and a few which are intensely unpopular. And the same idea holds good with the cars in a large garage.

It is not that the popular ones are more costly or carefully made, or the others cheap and nasty. Quite the contrary. Of two engines or two cars built in the same shop, and at the same time, one may be sweet and kindly, and always ready for its work, while the other is a "beast," and never leaves the garage without something going wrong.

You will find that machinery of every sort, especially locomotive engines, have similar curious variations. More than that, it is quite usual among mechanical experts to hear them say that a machine produced by one firm may be distinguished from a duplicate produced by another firm, without the aid of the nameplate.

Ask one of these men how he perceives the difference, he will simply shrug his shoulders and tell you that he does not know.

The occultist will tell you that each machine has its own "elemental," but perhaps this may be more simply explained by saying that it possesses and carries with it something of the personality of its creator.

Germs Are Fastidious.

You may think that one germ is very like another. You are wrong. There are germs and germs, just as there are people and people, and while some germs will devour anything, more or less, others are as particular as the most fastidious human epicures.

No germ is more particular in its food than the whooping cough germ. He is described as a most dainty feeder, though admittedly his diet does not sound very nice. The blood of a human being or a rabbit always attracts him, but his piece de resistance is this dish with an addition of glycerine and potato. Such is the ideal whooping-cough germ's mash.

Other germs have a much larger variety of diet. The whooping-cough germ would rather starve than depart from its narrow tastes.

And yet it is a small atom to be so fastidious. Five whooping cough germs—resembling minute rods—may be placed end to end, and they will only measure one-twenty-five thousandth part of an inch.

Romance Gone From Gold Fields.

Gold stampedes have lost their romantic trappings. An honest-to-goodness stampede after real gold has just taken place in Batavia and Kameelboom district, South Africa.

There were no six-guns, such as distinguished the mushing for precious metal in the western States and Australia. Boots, spurs, liquor, gambling paraphernalia have gone by the boards.

None of those once necessary adjuncts to the proper staking of a claim remain essential. Stampeders of 1923 travelled in automobiles and motorcycles.

Within two hours of the time the first stake was planted the field had been entirely covered. The show was over and nobody was killed.

The new field is confidently expected to produce gold, but the least observing can see that it will never produce a Bret Harte.

The Modern Girl.

He had duly proposed and been accepted and the engagement sealed with a kiss, a number of them, in fact. Then, as they sat on the sofa, he ventured to discuss more prosaic matters.

"One little question, dearest."

"Yes?" she replied expectantly.

"Can you cook?" he asked earnestly.

"Why, no."

"Then how will we eat?"

"Oh, George, aren't you going to continue to bring me bonbons?"

The Alternatives.

1. To be boss in his home and be hated.

2. To be bossed in his home and be despised.—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

Old Truth Brought Home.

Prof. Mem-O-Rea Finds Bodies of Drowned Men at Lion's Head.

Clairvoyant Makes a Most Unusual Use of Loaves of Bread.

(Intended for last week.)

Citizens of Orangeville and surrounding district, who saw and heard Prof. Mem-O-Rea, when he was filling engagements in the Gem Theatre and at Alton some two months ago will be interested in the following despatch clipped from Monday, Oct. 8th, Globe:

Lion's Head, Oct. 7 — During a performance in a Wiarton theatre on Friday night, a clairvoyant named Professor Mem-O-Rea, claiming to be the seventh son of a seventh son was asked by a member of the audience where the bodies of Captain William Corson and Robert Parker missing Lion's Head fishermen could be found. The clairvoyant believed he could locate the bodies by a unique method, and volunteered to come to Lion's Head next day. The lake was too rough on Saturday, but he came again to-day, and the body of Parker was recovered within half an hour.

Removing the centres from nine loaves of bread, the clairvoyant filled the loaves with lime, and placed them in a circle on the water where he thought the bodies would be located. It was claimed that when a loaf passed over a body a sort of electric current would be formed and indicated by the trembling of the bread.

Very soon one of the loaves showed evidence of disturbance. Grappling irons were used and the body of Robert Parker brought to the surface. The body of Captain Corson was also located, but could not be raised.

A Government aeroplane and large parties of Lion's Head residents had searched the waters for weeks for trace of the missing fishermen, who, on September 24th were engaged in raising their nets when the boat capsized, throwing both into the water.

The clairvoyant claims this is the 119th body he has located by this means.

PARTRIDGE–M'CURRY

The marriage took place at the Presbyterian Manse, Brampton, on October 9th, of Mr. Richard Partridge, Superintendent of the Peel-Halton House of Refuge, and Mrs. Ellen McCurry. Rev. M. McArthur was the officiating clergyman. The Banner joins with the legion of friends in wishing the worthy couple the best of happiness and success.

WEST–WARBURTON

St. Monica's Church, East Toronto, was the scene of a pretty wedding when Nellie, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Warburton, Danforth avenue, became the bride of Mr. Frank West, youngest son of Mrs. West and the late R. F. West, Glebeholme Boulevard. The Rev. Mr. Cox officiated and Mr. Powell played the wedding music. The bride was attired in grey crepe with silver trimmings and hat to match, her bouquet being of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid Miss Ethel Warburton, was in golden brown canton crepe with hat to match and carried bronze chrysanthemums with maidenhair fern. Mr. W. Murray acted as best man and the ushers were Messrs. W. Ballard and E. Warburton. The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold wrist watch, to the bridesmaid a white gold ring, and to the best man gold cuff links. After the ceremony a reception was held at 2517A Danforth Avenue, which was decorated with asters and autumn leaves Later in the evening the happy couple left to spend their honeymoon in Detroit and upon their return will reside at 636 College Street.

WHEATSTONE–TORRANCE

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at St. Andrew's Church, Vancouver, B. C., on Sept. 10th, when Evelyn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Torrance, became the bride of Mr. Ernest Allan Wheatstone, son of Mr. A. Wheatstone, of Edmonton, Alta. Rev. Dr. V. S. Henderson was the officiating clergyman. The bride wore her two-piece travelling suit of navy blue tricotine, heavily embroidered with silk floss with crepe de chine blouse of henna. Her hat was fawn with a curling ostrich feather. A white ermine fur and a bouquet of bride's cream roses completed her toilette. Miss Leila Mock was bridesmaid, in a grey charmeuse satin dress, having panels of radium lace and a picture hat to match. Her bouquet was of pale pink carnations. Mr. Norval Torrance, brother of the bride, supported the groom. After the ceremony a luncheon was served to immediate friends. The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold pierced brooch with a diamond. To the bridesmaid a string of pearls, and to the best man a blood stone ring Mr. and Mrs. Wheatstone left for a trip to Seattle and Tocoma. They will make their home in Vancouver.

The bride is a neice of Mrs. H. Gilmore of this town.

EDWARDS–ANDERSON

"Trevithon Lodge," the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Watson, Hyde Park was the scene of a pretty autumn wedding on Tuesday afternoon when their niece, Edith Lillian, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H Anderson, Richmond Street, London, was united in marriage to Mr James Leonard Edwards, of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Edwards, of Marsville. Rev. A. S. H. Cree, of London, officiated.

The bride entered the spacious drawing room with her father, who gave her in marriage, as the bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played by Miss Florence Watson, cousin of the bride. The bride wore a simple sleeveless gown of castor accordion plaited georgette, and French hat of panne velvet to match, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and valley lilies. Her only ornament was a white-gold wrist watch, the gift of the groom.

Miss Marjorie Edwards, of Toronto, sister of the groom, as brides maid, was prettily gowned in peach georgette with picture hat of black velvet, and carried a bouquet of pink roses. William Wright, of Toronto, acted as best man.

After the ceremony the newly wedded couple led the way to the dining-room, where a dainty wedding luncheon was served. Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Edwards left by motor for Buffalo and Rochester. the bride travelling in a suit of brown marvella with beaver trimmings and hat and shoes to match.

On their return they will reside in Toronto. The only out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Edwards, parents of the groom. The occasion also marked the 26th wedding anniversary of the bride's parents.—London Free Press.

"Very well, you may tell the class," replied the teacher

"An ace," was the unexpected reply.

Here and There

In order to handle the grain this fall the Fort William, Ont. force of 360 elevator men will be increased to 700. From 120 to 150 grain trimmers will be employed.

For the five months to August, 1923, Canadian newsprint exports were valued at $35,303,043 against $27,257,382 for the same period in 1922. Pulp exports in the same period were valued at $20,008,461 against $16,075,583.

Grain loading on Canadian Pacific lines during the month of September totalled 26,376 cars or 38,245,200 bushels. This at the beginning of the loading season which was two weeks late this year on account of the retarded harvest.

This has been the greatest season for automobile tourists Montreal has ever experienced, according to the Secretary of the Automobile Club of Canada. Cars, he stated, had come into the city over the King Edward Highway at the rate of two hundred a day, an unusual number from California, Florida, Carolina and Virginia being noticeable.

There was nearly $160,000,000 increase in the total trade of Canada for the first five months of the current fiscal year, according to a return made by the Department of Customs and Excise. The total trade of the Dominion, according to the return, for the five months ending with August, was $785,000,000, as against $626,000,000 during the same period a year ago. Imports during the period were about $393,000,000, as against $303,000,000 a year ago, while exports of Canadian produce rose from $316,000,000 approximately to $386,000,000.

There is a heavy demand for bushmen, according to the Government Labor Bureau at Montreal. The big lumber companies have been engaging men for the bush, and the prospects are that the demand will be sufficient to make fall and winter conditions good. Wages paid this year by the lumber companies are higher than last year, the rates paid being $40 and $45 a month, whereas a year ago the schedule was down to $26 a month.

With the completion of the harbor works now in progress, Montreal will be in a much better position in 1924 to handle a record flow of grain than ever before. Windmill Point elevator will be increased by 1,250,000 bushels storage capacity, making its total capacity 3,250,000. Four additional shipping berths are being provided at this elevator and will be in commission early next month, and the elevator's loading capacity will be increased from 50,000 to 90,000 bushels an hour.

Reports to the Canadian Pacific Railway, show that there arrived at Winnipeg from the British Isles this year for the purpose of working on the harvest, 11,883 men. Special efforts are being made to find occupation for as many as possible to cover the winter period, and it is stated that it is now probable that a considerable number of these harvesters from Great Britain and the Irish Free State will remain in the Dominion.

Addressing a recent meeting of the Vancouver Board of Trade, President E. W. Beatty, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, announced that the company proposed immediately to add two large modern steamers to its coast fleet in order to take care of increasing tourist traffic over the company's coastal lines. He also announced the early completion of a new pier at this harbor at a cost of several millions, which has been made necessary by the steady development of Canada's trans-Pacific trade.

GEMMELL—In Camilla, on Oct. 6th, 1923, to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gemmell, a son.

YOUNG—In Amaranth, on Oct. 16th, 1923, to Mr. and Mrs. Beattie Young, a son.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Albert Church, who departed this life, October 20th, 1922.

One long year since Albert died,
He suffered here but now he is blessed
With perfect peace, heavenly rest.

The depths of sorrow we cannot tell
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep,
His memory we shall always keep.

His smiling face, to us so dear,
His gentle footsteps no more we hear,
His willing hands and face so sweet
In heaven some day we hope to meet.

Ever remembered by Sister Annie and Robert.

The Dominion will deal with Winnipeg's claim for unemployment relief.

COMEDY

"High Power"

LADIES' AID CONCERT

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church have secured the services of the Kellys, of Guelph, who will be assisted by Master Harry Kelly, a wonderful boy soprano, and Miss Morton, also a very fine soprano soloist, to put on a high class musical program in the Opera House here on Friday evening, October 26th, 1923. The program will start at 8.15. The admission will be 50 cents and 35 cents (war tax extra). All seats are reserved. The plan of the Hall will open at The Banner Office on Saturday morning.

LACROSSE DANCE

The Dufferin Juvenile Lacrosse Club will hold a dance in the Assembly Hall of the Orangeville Arena on Thursday (to-night), October 18. The Bluebird 8-piece orchestra, of Toronto, will supply the music. Dancing from 8.30 to 1 o'clock. Refreshments will be served.

PUBLIC MEETING

A public meeting will be held in the Town Hall, Shelburne, on Thursday evening, October 25th, under the auspices of the U. F. O. Wm. Irvine, M. P., Calgary, and R. J. Woods, will discuss Canada's Banking System. Depositors and all interested in the Home Bank collapse, will find this an instructive meeting. 16-2t.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day is warm and bright, and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

RENO IS COMING

Edward Reno, the famous illusionist, will appear in the Orangeville Opera House on Friday evening, October 19th, at 8 o'clock. The admission price is 50 cents, and the plan of the Hall is now open at The Banner Office. The proceeds of the entertainment will be donated to the Orangeville High School pupils, to be used for their recreational activities during the winter. All parents of students and friends of the School should attend the entertainment and thus show their interest in the school.

WILL PRACTICE HERE

Dr. J. W. Leach, of Rocklyn, will take over Dr. J. A. Macleod's medical practise early in November. Dr. Leach will occupy the premises now occupied by Dr. Macleod.

FOWL SUPPER AND ENTERTAINMENT

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church, Camilla, are holding their Annual Fowl Supper and Entertainment on Monday evening, October 22nd. After the Supper there will be a varied program of music, songs and a play entitled, "The Silver Salt Cellars." Rev. Kendall and others will speak. The Women's Mission Society are holding a Bazaar. Supper will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock. Admission 50 and 25 cents. Everybody welcome.

W. M. S.

A meeting of the Executive of the Orangeville Presbyterial W. M. S. was held in St. Andrew's Church, Orangeville, on Thursday, Oct. 11th. There was a good attendance and the reports indicate that the interest in this branch of the church work is being well sustained throughout the Presbytery. Two sessions were occupied with business and the annual bale was packed and consigned to Birtle W. M. S. School, Man. The next meeting will be held in the second week in January, 1924.

—Mr. Michael Robinson, grain merchant, Orangeville, bought 400 bushels of alsike clover seed from John McCormick, 3rd line, east, Caledon, last week. Mr. Robinson paid in the neighborhood of $2400 for it.

Many towns in Canada and the U. S. A. observed last week as Fire Prevention Week. Special efforts are made to have all rubbish and fire traps cleaned up. Citizens are also warned about the dangers of inflamable materials used around the home and shops. Orangeville might well fall in line with this idea.

The millionaire was discussing with his gardeners the plans of his new grounds.

"On these terraces," he said, brushing aside his tie, because it had a diamond stud. "We'll have five thousand weeping willows."

"Have you any preference as to how they shall be arranged?" asked the head gardener.

"There is only one way in which to plant weeping willows," said the merry plutocrat, "and that is in tiers."

Three gardeners fainted away and a little dog hid it head in a drain.

PERSONAL MENTION

W. M. S. CONVENTION

The Annual Convention of the Orangeville District Women's Missionary Society was held in the Methodist Church, Shelburne, on Friday last. At the morning session encouraging reports were given by representatives of the different Auxiliaries, Mission Circles and Mission Bands in the District. The majority of these showed an increase in membership and also in givings over last year. The morning program included an excellent papare on "Missionary Meetings I have Seen" by Mrs. Brown, of Horning's Mills. In the course of her address Mrs. Brown told of meetings that were far from interesting and pictured as the ideal meeting the one where officers and members are on hand in time and alive and active along all lines of missionary work. Mrs. Geo. Beswick, of Orangeville, was the next speaker. In the course of her inspiring talk on "The Work of the W. M. S.," Mrs. Beswick clearly defined the relationship of the W. M. S. to the General Missionary Society, pointing out that they are allies working for one end—the evangelization of humanity. The W. M. S. is working earnestly and prayerfully in far-away China, in stricken Japan, and also among the strangers within our gates right here in Canada. The W. M. S. may be described as a band of enthusiastic women who are following the Master's great command, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

Mrs. Ogden Lanceley, President of the Toronto Branch of the W. M. S., was the speaker at the afternoon session. The speaker gave a vivid word-picture of the work at home and abroad that is being done by the W. M. S. She told of Kindergardens, Girls' Homes, Mothers' Clubs, Bible Study Classes, and Colleges that have been established here and there in the Orient and also in the homeland. Prominent natives who live near the mission stations in China and Japan are asking for Christian instruction for their wives and children. The keynote of the address was service and more service. An appeal was made to those present for their money, their time, their prayers and themselves. Mrs. Lanceley gave her hearers a vision of the stupendous task facing the W. M. S. A letter from Miss Steele, a missionary in China, was read. A Consecration service closed the Convention. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

District Superintendent—Miss J. E. Sleightholm, Shelburne.

Assistant Superintendent—Mrs. J. C. Broderick.

Secretary-Treasurer—Mrs. Fallis.

Hon. Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer, becomes secretary-treasurer of a Stratford company.

The Defence Department staff was cut down by over 200.

Much staking has been done in Algoma's new iron fields.

BUMBLE BEES AS BUILDERS.

Some Burrowing Bees Make Nests In Thatched Roofs.

Most people probably group all wild bees under the heading of "bumbles," and make no further distinction; but in the country alone there are dozens of different kinds, each of which has its own particular ways.

If you examine a handful of clippings from a rose bush you are almost certain to find that one or two of them have been made into tubes. An insect has eaten away the pith in the middle, leaving a hole that will just about admit a knitting needle. Tiny as these holes are, they are the burrows of a bee, a queer little fellow, almost black in color and no larger than a house-fly.

The mother bee gnaws a hole through the bark of the rose twig, and digs down until she comes to the soft central pith. Then she tunnels, often for several inches. At the far end of her burrow she builds a cell, laying in it a single egg, and filling it almost to the top with yellow pollen to serve as food for the grub which will shortly be born. Other cells follow until the tunnel is full; then she seeks a fresh twig and begins works anew.

Some burrowing bees make their nests in the straws of thatched roofs, while others dig holes in the ground below flat stones, which act as shelters from the rain. But perhaps the queerest place ever chosen was the macaroni lying in a grocer's warehouse! The bees found tunnels ready for them, and thousands of them had made nurseries of the hollow sticks before their presence was discovered by the grocer.

A cousin of theirs does not burrow, but goes in search of empty snail shells, in each of which it places a group of pollen-filled cells.

Using their powerful jaws, most of the earth diggers can excavate even the hardest and most stony soil. Some have a preference for gravel paths, in which they dig holes sometimes a foot deep.

Another bee is called the spokeshaver, owing to the fact that it uses its jaws just as the wheelwright uses the tool of that name. It burrows into the softest parts of dead or dying trees, making a long tunnel about a quarter of an inch in diameter. It lines its burrow with fine down from the seams of various plants. It alights on some plant with a woolly stalk, then opens its jaws and lays them on the stem. Next it runs quickly up the stalk, shaving off a long down-covered strip, which curls up like a shaving.

The mason bee makes its holes in old walls; you will usually find a wall containing crevices that has not a colony of these little yellow insects, who may be seen busily popping in and out of their tunnels.

The carpenter bee, black in color with purplish wings, drills into sound wood. When she has made a tunnel several inches in length she lays an egg and places a supply of food beside it. Then she chews into tiny fragments some of the chips she has made whilst burrowing, and makes a hard cement. With this she builds a partition across the tube, completely walling in the egg. Another egg and another partition follow until the tube is filled. Then she seals it up.

What is going to happen when the grubs that hatch from the eggs turn into young bees? You might imagine that the lowest egg, being the first laid, would produce a bee before the others, and that the insect would have to eat its way through all the other cells, probably destroying their occupants.

But the bee knows what she is about. The upper cells all produce male bees, which come to maturity at the same time. The occupants of the lower cells are not ready to emerge until ten days later, for they are females, which take longer to develop.

ORANGEVILLE, ONTARIO

An Interesting Bit of Railway History.

THERE has been considerable speculation as to what the first railway train to be run in Canada really looked like. People have exercised their imagination considerably in drawing what they thought it looked like but the most authentic and reliable picture that has been preserved is the one reproduced above. The original is the property of Mrs. A. J. Wight, of St. Johns, Que., who has kindly permitted it to be photographed and reproduced. It was drawn from careful sketches of the original engine and cars, and can be depended upon as giving an exact outline of Canada's first train.

Interest centres in the engine which was named "The Dorchester." It is described as follows in Wishaw's "Railways of Great Britain and Ireland":—Cylinders, 9 in. in diameter, 14 in. stroke. Drive wheels, two pair coupled, 48 ins. diameter. Length of boiler, 78 ins., and 37 ins. in diameter. Length of fire-box 18¼ ins., width 43 ins., depth 28 ins. Total weight of machine in working order, 12,544 lbs. The cost of the engine was $1,500.

The Dorchester was built in Stephenson's works, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and came to her destination via New York City, the Hudson River, Lake Champlain and the Richelieu River, being transported on a barge. In after years she was rebuilt, fitted out with a funnel, a cab, a bogey truck and a cow-catcher. She finished her days in the service of the Lanorale and Industry R.R., running between Lanorale and Joliette, Que., and when this railroad was absorbed by another the Dorchester was ruthlessly broken up for scrap.

With this engine the first railway in Canada, the Champlain and St. Lawrence Railway, running between St. Johns and Laprairie, Que., a distance of 14½ miles, began operations on July 21st, 1836, when it was formally opened by His Excellency the Earl of Gosford. Owing to an accident to the engine a few days prior to the opening, it was thought safest to attach only two cars to it for the opening run. In these the more distinguished guests rode while the balance of the 300 persons who participated in the function were transported from Laprairie to St. Johns in cars drawn by horses. The rate of speed was low, but did not disappoint those who had depended upon the terms of the prospectus of the railway which promised to transport passengers at "the unprecedented speed of 10, 12 and even 15 miles per hour." On the day following the opening the engine covered the distance between its two terminal points in thirty minutes.

The road had a five feet six inch gauge, the rails were of wood with iron strips laid on top of them, and the rolling stock of the railway consisted of one engine, four passenger cars and twenty freight cars, with a capacity of about ten tons each. The cost of each passenger car was about £1,000 and the cost of the road itself was estimated at £33,500.

Commenting on the significance of the opening of this Canadian railway, the "Montreal Courier," of July 23, 1836, a copy of which is preserved among the files of the Mechanics' Institute of Montreal, said:—

"The completion of this new and admirable mode of communication between the above water (the St. Lawrence and the Richelieu) is the first event of the kind that falls to be recorded in the annals of this province, and judging from the onward march of the spirit among us, it may be considered only the first of a series of railways that will be the necessary auxiliaries to our noble lakes and rivers in fostering the vast commerce of which this province is destined to be the seat."

As one reads this prophecy, looks upon the crude train pictured above, and then considers the size, power, speed, luxury and convenience of railway facilities over Canada's forty thousand miles of railway to-day he realizes with what rapid strides railway developments in Canada have proceeded since that memorable day, July 21st, 1836, when the first railway in Canada was officially opened.

"Mother Williams" of Broadway

OF course you have visited New York, and if you have been to New York you have been to Times Square; but while you were there did you notice the neat little old lady who was acting as sales agent for the "Billboard" outside the Putnam Building? If not you are not in the show business because everyone in the show business knows "Mother Williams." Likewise the police, for it is known to all of them that "Mother Williams" is on speaking terms with Commissioner Richard Enright, and more than one "cop" indebted to the old lady—she is seventy-two years old—for her intercession with the commissioner on their behalf.

The candles she burns at the "Church of Mother Divine" for her proteges are innumerable. Many a heartsick girl has been stopped by "Mother Williams" and sent on her way with enough money to tide her over until the long-sought-for-engagement was secured, and the same is applicable to actors, for on more than one occasion she has been seen to "slip them change." Nor has she cause to regret it, for with her it is always "just a little loan until you sign up." Today she probably knows and is known by more producers and actors than any other woman in the country, for few, if any on Broadway, ever pass without a word of greeting for "Mother Williams" and a "God bless you" from her.

Her kind old Irish heart will respond to every tale of suffering for "Mother Williams" knows. Mary Bridget Ann Williams was born in Toronto seventy-two years ago, the daughter of a prominent real estate man. At the age of eight she lost her mother, after whose decease she accompanied her father on a tour of Europe that included a stay in Ireland and a four year visit to London. Returning to Montreal, Miss Williams later became a well-known and successful teacher of music, and it is with great pride that she points to several of the present day celebrities who received their fundamental training at her hands.

In 1887 Miss Williams found herself alone in the world. The following year she went to New York where she supported herself by her music until advancing age made it impossible to continue as a teacher. From then on, until she became a sales agent for the "Billboard" and was taken under the wing of its proprietor, she did as best she could, but always smiling, and giving, perhaps, more to the world than she received from it.

Recently she took a little journey under the protection of the Canadian Pacific Railway. For two weeks she visited her old friends in Montreal whence she had travelled with the primary object of caring for her father's grave. From there she went to Toronto where her mother's last resting place was ministered to. A wonderful, cheery old lady, is a wonder that they call her "Mother Williams" on Broadway?

Knox Says Rheumatism Of 20 Years Is Gone

"Six years ago Tanlac helped me over a case of rheumatism that had caused me intense suffering for twenty years, and I have never had an ache or a pain, or missed a days' work since," is the remarkable statement of George A. Knox, 38 Quebec St., Kingston, Ontario.

"My misery was almost unbearable. Every joint in my body ached and the pains in my legs, arms and back nearly set me wild. My feet would swell until I couldn't get my shoes on and finally I became almost a skeleton and got right down in bed, helpless. I couldn't sleep and my nerves were a wreck.

"Seven bottles of Tanlac increased my weight twenty-one pounds and left me feeling fine. My recovery seemed miraculous and was the talk of the neighborhood. Tanlac would be cheap at any price."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

Here and There

A grant of $25,700 to the Salvation Army to aid Canadian emigration work in Great Britain has been authorized by a Canadian Order in Council.

According to information received by the Canadian Pacific Railway at Winnipeg, sixty-three bushels of wheat to the acre has been harvested on the farm of T. M. Ballantyne, three miles north of Lacombe, Alberta. The wheat graded No. 1 and weighed 64 pounds to the bushel.

Weighing 3,170 pounds, a steer, said to be the largest ever received in Winnipeg, arrived at the union stockyards from Wainwright, Alberta. It was sold for $250, the highest selling price of any steer in Winnipeg since the war.

The Canadian Pacific S.S. "Bruton," which arrived in Liverpool on September 5th, put up what is considered to be a record in the speedy discharge of cargo when she sailed the following day, Sept. 6th, at 7 p.m., having discharged over 2,000 tons of cargo.

It is announced that the Canadian Pacific Railway will increase the size of its irrigation headgates at Kimball, in southern Alberta, by 50 per cent in anticipation of an increase in area of 40,000 acres in the Lethbridge district. Water will be turned into the ditches of the Lethbridge Northern project, it is expected, some time this fall.

Buffalo steak will be abundant in Canada this fall. A herd of 2,000 surplus Buffalo wandering on the range in the National Park at Wainwright will be slaughtered by an Order-in-Council, and the meat and skins sold. For several years the Government has paid special attention to the preservation of the buffalo and the work has been so successful that the National Parks are now overstocked.

At a dinner given in his honor by the Vancouver Board of Trade, E. W. Beatty, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, announced that the Company proposed immediately to add two large modern steamers to its coast fleet in order to take care of its increasing tourist traffic over the Company's Pacific Coastal lines. He also announced the early completion of a new pier at Vancouver at a cost of several millions.

There have been large increases in the number of pure bred animals in Canada during the decade between the last two censuses. The increase in the number of pure bred horses between 1911 and 1921 was 44 per cent; of cattle, 139 per cent, of sheep, 75 per cent, and of swine, nearly 44 per cent. The number of pure bred horses in the Dominion in 1921 was 47,782; cattle, 296,656; sheep, 93,643, and of swine, 81,143.

A conservative estimate of the amount of money spent in Quebec by tourists reaches $2,358,750. From the beginning of May until the first of September, 15,000 motor tourists had called for information at the offices of the Quebec Auto Club. Taking an average of four people to each car, this meant that at least 60,000 people had come to the city by automobiles. Of this number there were approximately 3,000 camping parties, or 12,000 people.

At the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, recently, Colonel J. S. Dennis, Chief Commissioner of Colonization of the Canadian Pacific Railway, outlined in a detailed speech existing conditions in Canada and prospects for the future. He emphatically stated that there was no cause for discouragement, but, on the contrary, every prospect of a renewal of rapid development, including an increase in our population and the development of our latent natural resources in such a way as to insure, in the comparatively near future, that we should be out of the woods, and progressing rapidly to a large population and favorable business and financial conditions.

THE MAPLES

The last meeting of The Maples Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Jacob Hoare on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 20th. The program consisted of two choruses by the members of the Institute, a duet by Misses Eva and Lily Hoare and a much appreciated solo by Miss C. G. Simpson. A white elephant sale was also held. The roll call was answered by a pickle recipe.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Robinson on Thursday afternoon, October 18th, at 2.30 o'clock. The program will consist of choruses by the members of the Institute, readings by Mrs. Wm. Morrow, and a solo by Mrs. R. E. Brown. The roll call will be answered by "Little Things That Make Life Beautiful." Meeting will be taken by Mrs. W. E. Prust. All members are urged to be present.

SOUTH BROADWAY ORANGEVILLE

DUNN'S HILL CUT

Contractor Huber, who has had a large gang of men and teams at work for several months makng the cut in Dunn's hill on the Orangeville to Beeton highway a couple of miles east of Hockley village, is making satisfactory progress with the work. The grading has now reached a stage, where any person viewing the work can get a fairly good idea of the improvement that will be effected when the road is completed. The new road will be straight, the familiar and dangerous deviation being no longer used, and will have a grade of eight per cent from the base to the crest of the hill. This means a rise of eight feet in every hundred feet.. There is a lot of work yet to be done before the contract is completed.

SHOWER FOR BRIDE

(Intended for last week.)

On Wednesday evening of last week the friends and neighbors of Miss Alma Dean, a popular bride-to-be, numbering about one hundred, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Lindsay and tendered her a miscellaneous shower, showing the high esteem in which she is held in the community. Just at the appointed time the Misses Jean Phoenix and Mary Creary drew forward an express wagon heavily loaded with the various kitchen utensils and other articles too numerous to mention, conveying the best wishes of all. The bride was led into the dining room blindfolded and was seated in an easy chair under a white bell and pink crepe paper forming an arch. When she unwrapped the gifts all joind in singing "For she's a jolly good fellow." Then she made a suitable reply, thanking one and all for their thoughtfulnes, also the girls who had helped to make the shower successful. A short program was given, including instrumental music by Miss Patterson, violin selections by Mr. Patterson, and speeches by some of the leading men of the neighborhood. Lunch was served by the hostess and all did ample justice to the good things that were provided. Dancing and other amusements continued until the wee sma' hours of the morning. Music was provided for the dancing by Messrs. Patterson, Dean, Woods, Bell and Noble.

GENEROUS

Only a Newspaper Man Would Do This.

Somebody "swiped" the first prize Rhode Island Red hen which was owned by ye editor. How this could be done unnoticed is a conundrum. We did notice a colored gentleman on the grounds, but as he was busy playing the banjo all afternoon no suspicion attaches to him. If the thief will come around we will present him with a good cockerel to complete the pair.—Flesherton Advance.

PRESENTED WITH CHAIR

(Intended for last week)

Before they left Melville for their future home in Garafraxa, the neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. John Tucker gathered at their home and presented them with a handsome rocker. Mr. Edward Delaney discharged the duties of chairman and after addressing the assemblage in a few well-chosen words, called upon Miss J. Dawson to read the following address:

To Mr. and Mrs. John Tucker and Family.

Dear Friends,—

Your neighbors and well-wishers in this locality have learned with regret of your intended departure from our midst. They feel that they cannot permit you to leave without telling how much they appreciated you during your short stay in this community. That you will be missed goes without saying as you have always given a kindly and helping hand to whoever needed it, and proved yourselves friends whose society we prize. While we are sorry over your departure our sincere good wishes will go with you in whatever sphere of usefulness you may be called to in the future. We unite in wishing you all possible happiness and prosperity. It is also our wish that you accept the rocking chair as a small token of the kindly sentiments we entertain toward you all.

Signed on behalf of your neighbors and friends,

MRS. COVEY.
MRS. STUBBS.

Listen!

Have you heard about Peps? Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles.

Peps contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally enter and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

In a word, while no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, these Peps fumes get there direct, and at once commence healing.

FREE TRIAL Cut out this article, write across it the name and date of this paper, and mail it (with 1c. stamp to pay return postage) to Peps Co., Toronto. A free trial packet will then be sent you. All druggists and stores sell Peps, 50c. box.

NEW LAMP BURNS 95 P. C. AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, F. N. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

The origin of the bagpipes was being discussed by the representatives of different nations eagerly disclaiming responsibility for the atrocity. Finally an Irishman said: "Well, I'll tell you the truth about it. The Irish invented it, and sold it to the Scotch for a joke; and the Scotch ain't seen the joke yet."

Teeswater has been paying $5 per 10 hour day for man and team drawing crushed stone on the streets. The good workers drew seven loads and the lazy boys pulled five, and in order to equalize things the council proposed to pay 75 cents per load, but there was talk of a strike, so a compromise was effected and every teamster will have to draw six loads for $5.

The remains of the late Charles Howard were buried in Collingwood recently. The deceased had been travelling out of Seattle, Wash., and was in Edmonton on business. While staying there the hotel at which he was a guest was destroyed by fire and Mr. Howard and seven others lost their lives. Deceased was a former resident of Collingwood and his family still reside there.

One day recently the two year old baby girl of Mr. and Mrs. John Leishman, of Acton, fell out of the upstairs door to the ground beneath, a drop of thirteen feet, and escaped injury. FIVE MINUTES OVERTIME

Our minister ran overtime at church on Sunday—five minutes. He preached twenty-eight minutes. That made an hour and five minutes service, which is too much! So some people say, and if our preacher does not watch out they will be handing him his hat and asking what's his hurry. An hour and five minutes is an outrageously long time. We were wondering how these folks stood it to sit three hours at the opera house the other night and two hours at the movies, and we never heard of a dance one hour long, or a sixty-minute party. People seem to want to get their money's worth when they go to shows and things. Well, perhaps that's why they want one hour at church—that's all they've paid for. We never thought of that.

TO BE TRIED ON CATTLE STEALING

Everett Farmer Accused of Theft of Six Head at Lisle.

Albert Peacock, of Everett, will be tried at the December Sessions on a charge of cattle stealing. The preliminary hearing took place at Alliston before Magistrate Jeffs, with J. R. Cotter, K. C., as Crown Prosecutor and Ralph McLean defending. Peacock pleaded not guilty.

The first witness was Edgar Gollinger, of the Lisle neighborhood, who related that he and his father missed some cattle from the pasture in which they both kept their stock during the past summer. After enquiring around the neighborhood, they concluded the cattle had been stolen, because they had not shown any breechy tendencies all summer, and having plenty of food and water would not be likely to jump fences, and then there were no broken fences along the pasture. After hunting some days, they went over to Lou Swinton's farm in Mono and enquired for stray cattle. At first they were satisfied their cattle were not over there, but when Mr. Swinton said he had recently bought cattle from a party named Peacock, Edgar Gollinger decided to have a look at them, and in the herd picked out his own heifer and the five bullocks belonging to his father. On going to the home of Albert Peacock, Mr. Swinton and Mr. Gollinger were told by Mrs. Peacock that she had purchased the cattle from a man named Hall whom she had kept over night and who was driving the cattle. They had been sold to Mr. Swinton for $205. When Mr. Swinton appeared at the Peacock home and told Mrs. Peacock the cattle had been stolen from the Gollingers, she returned the money, and when Mr. Gollinger, the elder, went to see her, she expressed regret at the incident, but maintained that she had purchased the cattle from the man Hall for $170.

Manuel Gollinger corroborated his son's evidence, and on being asked by Mr. McLean if he had been surprised to find that Albert Peacock had sold the cattle, he said he was shocked, as he never suspected that Peacock would be mixed up in such a thing.

John Perdue, who buys cattle for Louis Swinton, told of his purchase of these cattle. He had asked Mrs. Peacock if she had any cattle for sale, to which she replied in the affirmative and sent him out to the field to get her son to show him the cattle. The outcome was that he purchased the cattle from Mrs. Peacock for $205, and paid her $5 to close the bargain.

J. J. Williams told of his conversation with Mrs. Peacock when he went to serve the summons. Mrs. Peacock related to him that she had purchased the cattle from the man Hall for $170. The young man had not made any comments to him.

When the magistrate intimated that he was not particular about hearing any more evidence, Mr. McLean submitted that no case had been made out, pointing out that his client had not been a party to the sale of the cattle and that Mr. Gollinger Sr. had not yet identified the cattle which he said had been stolen from him.

Magistrate Jeffs, finding sufficient evidence to warrant a committal, sent the accused up for trial on Dec. 2nd, but allowed him out on bail, suitable sureties having been given.

Peacock lives with his widowed mother and sister and all have been respectable residents of their community.—Barrie Examiner.

GOD SAVE THE KING

PUBLISHERS WILL MEET

A meeting of the Wellington County Press Association will be held at Harriston on Friday, October 26th. This is the semi-annual gathering of the newspaper men of the county and is usually attended by a number of publishers from adjoining counties as well. Business of interest to the craft is discussed and opportunity is also given for a social hour together. The giving of the best possible service under existing circumstances is the ideal kept in mind in the discussions at these periodical conferences.

INJURED BY FREIGHT

While crossing the C. P. R. tracks at West Wellington St. in Brampton on Saturday, Miss Davidson, a lady living in or near Weston, was struck and injured by a freight train running south. Fortunately the injured woman had the good luck to escape with a cut instep and a dislocated ankle. The accident is due to the fact that Miss Davidson is somewhat deaf and did not hear the approaching train.

WOODBRIDGE FAIR

Quite a number of people from Orangeville and vicinity attended Woodbridge Fair on Saturday. It is estimated that fully ten thousand people attended the Fair, which was one of the most successful the Society has ever held. The show of livestock and other farm products was exceptionally good. There was a very fine showing of cattle and sheep. The trotting events were keenly contested and aroused general interest. In the 2.30 trot the first money was won by Bond Todd, one of Rance Overland's string. Overland's Jack Canuck finished second in the 2.14 pace. The best time made in this event was 2.14¾.

LARGE CROPS IN WEST

Wheat 105; Oats 205; Barley 70 Bushels to the Acre.

One hundred and five bushels of wheat on a one acre patch on the farm of the Provincial School of Agriculture at Olds last week. This is believed to be the record wheat yield for one acre in the history of agriculture in Alberta. Mr. Grisdale, director of the School, believes.

The variety of wheat which gave such a stupendous yield was Marquis. It was grown only on this small patch. It graded No. 1 Northern.

Two hundred and five bushels of oats was threshed off one acre on the farm during the same week. Mr. Grisdale told an Albertan reporter over the long distance telephone from Olds.

On 27 acres of barley an average yield of 70 bushels to the acre was threshed, while on another 10 acres a different variety of barley yielded 80 bushels to the acre.

The remainder of the wheat which is grown on the farm of the School of Agriculture has not yet been threshed, but it is expected that the average yield will be exceptionally high, Mr. Grisdale said.

Weather and other conditions this year have been exceptionally good in the Olds district. Practically all the farmers are reaping good crops of all grains, and particularly wheat, it was declared.—From the Calgary Albertan.

CRATE FEEDING CHICKENS

On the subject of crate feeding of chickens, a timely topic at this season of the year, the Department of Agriculture suggests:

Oats finely ground with hulls sifted out may form the greater part of any feeding ration; or two parts finely ground oats, one part finely ground buckwheat, one part fine ground corn, one part low grade flour, made to the consistency of pancake batter, with buttermilk or skim milk, is a very satisfactory ration. These rations produce a firm, white flesh of superior quality. Grit or fine gravel should be given twice a week.

THE WONDERFUL HEROINE

Word has just been received of a most wonderful picture which is being given as a premium to all who subscribe to the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. This beautiful painting, entitled "The Wonderful Heroine," in the most delicate colors, is in keeping with the suubject. In size the picture is 18 by 24 inches, on rich, heavy paper.

When one considers that two dollars secures the Family Herald and Weekly Star for a whole year (52 issues of 72 pages each) including this beautiful and inspiring picture one wonders how it is done. It is really a marvel. Each subscriber, new or renewal, will receive the picture provided he acts quickly.

The amazing life story of "The Wonderful Heroine" has been printed in booklet form and our readers may obtain a copy free by sending a postal card for it addressed to the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal. No charge of any kind is made for this wonderful story.

CHICKEN FATTENING

Mr. W. B. Fairbairn, produce merchant, has constructed and is now operating a chicken finishing plant. At the present time the plant has a capacity of 600 birds and will be enlarged as required. The idea is to fatten and properly finish chickens that are sold by farmers before they are really in shape for the market. Mr. Fairbairn plans to finish all birds that come into his hands before they are properly fattened. One of his aims is not to sell any chicken until it will dress at least six pounds. While the finishing plant is a new departure in Orangeville, it is a system that is in successful operation at other Ontario points.

COMMUNITY HALLOWE'EN FROLICS

This interesting event is being arranged by the Orangeville Arena Co., who cordially request the active assistance and co-operation of every citizen in order to make it a success. The object of the frolic is to give every one who cares to join in it, a really good time and eliminate all the objectionable features which usually characterize Hallowe'en gatherings, when unrestrained. Prizes will be awarded for a great many of the events and the prize-winners will be decided by popular vote of all present. At a trifling outlay or perhaps at no cost whatever, parents can provide their children with an evening full of harmless fun that will be under proper supervision at all times.

Come along and help the kiddies have a good time and incidentally set back Time's clock a few years for yourself—catch the younger spirit. Admission to all children free. Admission to adults to help defray expenses, 10 cents.

THANKSGIVING SUPPER

The Ladies' Aid of the Orangeville Methodist Church will hold their Annual Thanksgiving Supper in the school room of the church on Monday evening, November 12th. Supper will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock and will be followed by an excellent programme. Admission to Supper and Programme has been fixed at 80 cents.

CHILDREN COME TO CANADA ON MAGIC CARPET

DICK ANDERSON STUDIES COMPASS

KECTH HERZ

DESPITE the fact that the Canadian Pacific is the greatest transportation system in the world, it finds it wise and profitable to give individual attention to any little children who may be consigned to its care.

The war broke up families and left orphans in all European countries. Many of these are now being transported to friends and relatives in the United States and Canada. In most cases there is little money, the actual passage being all that can be raised, so there is no question of a companion for the child.

Here is where the great Canadian Pacific becomes nurse, companion, chaperon or guardian for the youthful travellers, transporting them from their homes to the port of embarkation, looking after their comfort and welfare on board ship and, finally, delivering them safe and sound to their destinations in Canada or America. These children, as a rule, are cheerful kiddies who soon work their way into the hearts of their fellow travellers who are generally eager to smooth the paths before the childish feet.

Above are shown some of the little folks who have recently crossed the Atlantic alone. Keeth Herz, an 11-year-old boy, travelled from his home in Usciug on the Russian-Austrian border, to Milwaukee. The company's agent at Warsaw accompanied him to Antwerp, whence he sailed on the S.S. Metagama. A very interesting passenger came over on an August run of the S.S. "Melita," a little 6½-year-old Armenian refugee, who is to become the adopted son of western Canadian farmers, a marvellous change from poverty to plenty. Dick Anderson, the boy being shown the working of the compass by Captain Landy of the S.S. "Melita," was the youngest member of a party of boys sent from England to the Dr. Barnado's Home in North Toronto, Ontario, where waifs from London are given education, a comfortable living and become worthy Canadian citizens.

A Scotch lassie, Rita Tiffey of Dundee, Scotland, boasts of many trophies won by her nimble 9-year-old heels. She owns 4 silver cups and 21 medals won at dancing, and gave much pleasure to all passengers on a recent voyage of the S.S. "Montclare," by executing 16 different dances on her way out to Canada.

AUTO FATALITY

Brampton Man Killed When Car Overturned While Descending Caledon Mountains.

Fred Walwork, a Brampton man, 38 years of age, was killed on Sunday night, when his car overturned while going down the Caledon mountain. The accident occurred on the Toronto to Owen Sound provincial highway at a point about two miles south of the village of Caledon. The road makes a "U" shaped turn to ease the grade, while making the descent of the mountain, which is quite steep, where the ridge crosses the highway. When making one of the rather sharp turns, the steering wheel failed to work properly, causing the car to upset. Walwork had his skull fractured and died instantly. With the unfortunate man in the car were his wife, step-daughter and three children. All escaped serious injury except the step-daughter, who had one of her arms badly hurt.

The family had spent the day visiting with friends at Horning's Mills and were returning to Brampton when the fatality occurred. Deceased had only been living in Brampton for a short time, having removed to that town from the neighborhood of Shelburne about three months ago. He had been employed on construction work on the Provincial Highway nearly all summer.

Dr. R. Burns, of Claude, was called to the scene of the accident. Dr. Burns got into touch with Dr. A. F. Reynar, of Palgrave, Coroner for the County of Peel. After learning of the attendant circumstances the Coroner decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

Ford

Order Books for Present Model Ford Closed Cars Will Close November 1st

Ford Motor Company
OF CANADA, LIMITED
Automobile and Truck Manufacturers

Ford, Ontario.

October 12th, 1923.

TO ALL CANADIAN FORD DEALERS

When this organization decided, September 20th, to bring out the four-door Sedan and redesigned Coupe models, we had on hand approximately 4600 present type bodies.

To ascertain how the buying public would react on Ford car prices heretofore unprecedented, we reduced each closed model $100. in price—the Coupe to $595., the Sedan to $685. both F.O.B. Ford, Ontario (Government Taxes extra).

The response has been such that we have on hand now only 496 of these models to dispose of. This demand is evidence that the public appreciates values, and we take this opportunity of thanking you, and through you, the public in appreciation of their action.

In view of our appreciation, and in order that you may play entirely fair with the Ford buying public, we think it advisable to inform you that at the present rate it is a matter of days before all these jobs will be completely disposed of to dealers. In any event, we will not be able to entertain orders from dealers on or after November 1st. On that date we will close our books. We reserve the right to do this earlier, if necessary.

If you have any orders you wish to deliver to the public after November 1st, it will be necessary for you to place them with us before November 1st.

All orders should, therefore, be taken by you with no obligation to deliver except as prior orders permit.

We must protect ourselves in the same way - we can deliver your orders placed with us only as prior orders permit and as long as the above number of cars last.

Yours very truly,
FORD MOTOR COMPANY OF CANADA, Limited,

RSP-13

Sales Manager.

The information in this letter should be known to every prospective Ford buyer. It opens up an opportunity for the family without a closed car to get one at prices which will probably not be as low again.

This is an opportunity for the man with a large car to relieve the larger car and decrease its depreciation, especially during the coming winter months.

THE CAUSE OF SICKNESS

Almost Always Due to Weak and Impoverished Blood.

Apart from accident or illness due to infection, almost all ill-health arises from one or two reasons. The mistake that people make is in not realizing that both of these have the same cause at the root, namely poor blood. Either bloodlessness or some other trouble of the nerves will be found to be the reason for almost every ailment. If you are pale, suffering from headaches, or breathlessness, with palpitation of the heart, poor appetite and weak digestion, the cause is almost always poor blood. If you have nervous headaches, neuralgia, sciatica and other nerve pains, the cause is exhausted nerves. But run-down nerves are also a result of poor blood, so that the two chief causes of illness are one and the same.

If your health is poor; if you are pale, nervous or dyspeptic, you should give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. These pills act directly on the blood, and by enriching it give new strength to worn out nerves. Men and women alike greatly benefit through the use of this medicine. If you are weak or ailing, give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and you will be pleased with the beneficial results that will speedily follow.

If your dealer does not keep these pills you can get them by mail, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ALTON

Mrs. Beatty, of Toronto, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Robert Dodds.

Miss Margaret Delaney spent the weekend with Miss Margaret Meek.

Mrs. Harper, of Vancouver, is visiting her nephew, Mr. Geo. Ward.

Mrs. Wm. Milligan is the guest of Mrs. Wm. Dorrington.

Miss Grace McKinley spent the week-end at her home near Owen Sound.

Mrs. Geo. Cameron is visiting relatives in Shelburne.

Mr. Benjamin Ward and Miss Emma Hall have returned to Toronto after spending a week with Mr. Geo. Ward. Though ninety-four years of age, Mr. Ward is still very active and returned to his home by motor.

Miss Maude Grosskurth renewed acquaintances in Cheltenham over the week-end.

The Senior Women's Institute is co-operating with the Town Fathers in an effort to finish the basement of the Town Hall. To meet the expense that this work will incur the Institute will put on a series of socials and concerts in the Hall during the winter. The first social will be held on Friday evening, Oct. 26th. This will take the form of a pumpkin pie social. This sounds good so come and bring your friends. A short musical program will be given and the remainder of the evening spent in games.

Thanksgiving services will be held in the Presbyterian Church on Nov. 11th. The Methodist Church will hold its anniversary services on Sunday, Nov. 4th. Dr. Caldwell will preach at both services, special music being prepared by the choir. The following Monday supper and a good concert will be given in the church. Watch for further announcements.

The Junior Women's Institute are holding a dance in the Town Hall on November 9th. Services of a splendid orchestra are being secured and every effort is being made to have a fine evening.

Much sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Sangster because of the illness of their daughter, Kathleen, who is at present in the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto.

The subject of Dr. Caldwell's sermon on Sunday, October 28th, will be "The Windows and Doors of Heaven."

A motor load of friends from their last church at Mount Albert spent a few days with Dr. and Mrs. Caldwell. They were delighted with the scenery of mount and river here and also with the factories of the village and the fine farms in this district. A clean and pretty little town was the unanimous verdict of the visitors.

Why should Alton not have an annual day for tree planting and arbor making. Here is an opportunity to add to the attractiveness of our village.

Origin of Familiar Phrases.

The expression, "a pig in a poke," originated in Northampton Market, when some wags put a cat in a bag or poke, and sold it as a pig to a countryman. When the buyer opened the bag, out jumped the cat. This also gave rise to the expression, "letting the cat out of the bag."

"Kicking the bucket" is a phrase that owes its conception to the days of the great gold rush to California and Australia in 1849-51. Many unfortunate seekers after gold, losing their all in an unavailing effort to find the precious "dust," committed suicide. The suicide tied a rope to a beam in his hut. Then, standing on an upturned bucket, he would adjust the other end of the rope round his neck. When all was ready he simply kicked the bucket from under his feet.

"Worth a Jew's eye" probably came from the fact that King John extorted large sums of money from Jews under threats of mutilation. All the teeth of one Jew in Bristol were extracted to satisfy the King's rapacity.

From a corruption of the Anglo-Saxon we get the phrase, "as mad as a hatter." It has nothing to do with a "hatter," really. The word "mad" in Anglo-Saxon meant furious, angry, or even venomous, and "atter" meant an "adder or viper." Thus the whole expression really means "as venomous as an adder."

CLARABELLE DAVIDSON

Miss Clarabelle Davidson, a daughter of the late Joseph Davidson, of Orangeville, passed away in Brookline, Mass., on Thursday, Oct. 18th, at the age of 42 years. Deceased, who was quite a gifted elocutionist, had been away from Orangeville for a number of years. She had made her home in Boston for several years. The remains were brought to Orangeville for burial, the funeral taking place to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Monday. The pallbearers were Messrs. A. McPherson, Orangeville; Thos. McPherson, Caledon; R. J. Walker, Laurel, and Adam Walker, Grand Valley.

MRS. HENRY M'MAHON

In the death of Mrs. Henry McMahon, Palgrave has lost a well-known resident. Her death occurred at the home of her brother, 601 St. Clarens' Ave., Toronto, on Monday last. Mrs. McMahon had been with relatives in the city for a month prior to her death.

Mrs. McMahon, whose maiden en name was May Maude McFadden, was in her 49th year, and had been a resident of Palgrave practically all her life. Her husband died a few years ago. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Carroll Dardeau, of Toronto, Mabel and Pearl, at home, and four sons, Campbell, of Toronto, Russell, of Hamilton, John and Roy, at home. The funeral took place from her late residence in Palgrave on Thursday afternoon to Laurel Hill Cemetery.—Enterprise.

ROBERT MOFFATT

There passed away at Dafter, Mich., on October 2nd, a former resident of Mono, in the person of Robert Moffatt, who died after a short illness. The late Mr. Moffatt was a member of an old and well-known Mono township family, having first seen the light of day at Glencross 67 years ago. For a long time he was at Rosemont, but removed to Michigan 30 years ago. He filled an important place in Dafter and Chippewa county and was very highly esteemed by all who knew him and his passing is very much regretted by the people of his own town and county. He is survived by a widow, three brothers and five sisters, Messrs. George Moffatt, of Orangeville; Roland Moffatt, of Caledon, and Thomas Moffatt, of Merlin, Ont.; Mrs. Ellen Murdock, of Pittsburg, Pa.; Mrs. Mary Hatch, of Cory, Pa.; Mrs. Sarah Braiden, of Olean, N. Y.; Mrs. William Bennett, of Mono, and Miss Harriett Moffatt, of Toronto. Old friends of deceased here will sympathize with the bereaved widow, brothers and sisters.

MONO MILLS

On Sunday, October 28th, at Mono Mills and Mono East, sacramental services will be held in the Presbyterian churches, morning and afternoon. Regular services in Adjala in the evening. Rev. J. A. Matheson will be the minister.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The regular monthly meeting of Orangeville Women's Institute will be held at the home of Mrs. Geo. McLean, Zina St., on Tuesday, Oct. 30th. Program: Address, Rev. F. W. Mahaffy; music; report of District Directors' meeting; question drawer. A good attendance desired.

To Secure Repeat Orders

Re-ordering goods by Long Distance is one of the most popular uses made of it.

One enterprising Ontario merchant says "We distribute our product to a considerable number of surrounding towns. To increase sales we send a circular to all our customers requesting them to use Long Distance when re-ordering. The plan has worked very well."

Such orders come in on Station-to-Station calls, which makes it inexpensive. Try it.

DID NOT SELL CAR

Harry Shipp has forwarded The Banner the following self-explanatory communication from Brampton:

The Orangeville Banner.

Dear Sirs,—In your last week's issue of The Banner, I learn you published an article concerning myself, which I consider a libel against my name, by some person or persons unknown at present to me. You state that I have sold my car and stock to pay my fine. Tell the idle gossipers of the town that no such thing has occurred. My car is still in my possession and also my stock. I am not in a position to sell any of them, thanks to myself. It's time the idle gossipers and scandalmongers of Orangeville would mind their own business. I will take any action in court against such persons, who are doing this kind of work, and have notified my lawyer on the subject. I trust you will kindly correct this affair through your paper. My stock is still at Alton, where it will remain until I remove it at my own pleasure. What I can't do in Orangeville I can do in some other town in Canada, and I trust that in the next town I shall meet better business people than some I have had to deal with in Orangeville. Thanking you kindly for this and past favors, I remain

Yours faithfully,
HENRY SHIPP.

(While we are publishing Mr. Shipp's letter as a matter of courtesy and fairness, we wish to make it clear that we do not endorse or approve of his remarks about Orangeville or its citizens. Talk of this sort comes with very poor grace from a lawbreaker, who is under penalty for his offence. The item stating that Shipp had sold his car and stock to pay his fine was published in one of the Brampton papers and copied by The Banner. It was evidently incorrect. Any injustice it may have done Shipp will, we hope, be remedied by the part of his letter bearing on the alleged sale. —Ed.)

A BAD FIRE

Shelburne experienced its first real fire in many moons on Thursday evening of last week, when the combined garage and store-house of John Guchardia, fruit dealer, was totally destroyed. The building was situated at the rear of the store on Main Street and while the conflagration lasted it was a most spectacular and intensely hot blaze, everything being very dry, owing to the lack of rain. The fire was first noticed by Mrs. Guchardi, who had occasion to go to the backyard to feed the dog. At that time, about 7.30 o'clock, the roof at the south end of the building was totally enveloped in flames. The fire alarm was sounded immediately. Meanwhile Mr. Guchardi centred his attention on removing his McLaughlin automobile, which was stored in the doomed building, the entire roof of which was by this time enveloped in flames. He got the car out to safety, but the rest of the contents were consumed, including a new soda water fountain which he had only stored in the building about a week previously. Adjoining outbuildings of T. S. Harris, funeral director, took fire at different places, but his hearses, horses and waggons were taken out to safety. His McLaughlin car took fire while it was being taken out through the small passageway between the buildings, the top and rear of the body being badly burned and the enamel blistered. The fire brigade soon had two streams of water playing on the blaze, which was quickly subdued. Mr. Guchardia places his loss at $1,000, with no insurance.—Free Press.

You can't always tell, says an exchange, what will happen. For instance, there is a story of a man who determined to commit suicide. He went to a store and bought a rope, a can of coal oil, a box of matches, a dose of arsenic, and a revolver. He went down to the river and pushed the boat from the shore and rowed to where a limb hung over; saturating his clothing with the coal oil, lighted a match and set fire to his clothing, took the dose of arsenic, put the muzzle of the revolver to his temple, pushed the boat from under him, and pulled the trigger. But the bullet glanced and cut the rope above him and he fell kerflop into the river; the water put the fire out, and he got strangled and coughed up the arsenic. He rose and waded out, and declared himself a candidate for the Legislature on the reform ticket.

HELP FOR YOUNG WOMEN

Mrs. Holmberg Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Viking, Alta.—"From the time I was 15 years old I would get such sick feelings in the lower part of my abdomen, followed by cramps and vomiting. This kept me from my work (I help my parents on the farm) as I usually had to go to bed for the rest of the day. Or at times I would have to walk the floor. I suffered in this way until a friend induced me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have had very satisfactory results so far and am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends. I surely am glad I tried it for I feel like a different person now that I don't have these troubles."—ODELIA HOLMBERG, Box 93, Viking, Alta.

Letters like this establish the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. They tell of the relief from such pains and ailments after taking it.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills in this country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials prove this fact.

If you doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for Mrs. Pinkham's private text-book and learn more about it. C

OUR DAIRY OUTPUT

While the production of cheese has decreased in Canada during the present century, the making of creamery butter and of condensed milk products has greatly increased. In 1900 the production of cheese in this country was 220,833,269 pounds; in 1922 it was 134,530,053 pounds. In the first year of the century, 36,066,739 pounds of creamery butter was produced; last year the production amounted to 146,863,517 pounds. In 1900 the condensed milk products amounted in value to $269,520; last year they reached $6,839,232. The butter output of the Prairi eProvinces in the last dozen years has increased enormously. From being importers those provinces have become exporters, and their products have received a good reception in the British market. As regards cheese, if Canada would regain the place she formerly held in those markets, it is plain that she must adopt progressive measures such as that inaugurated on April 1st of the present year, when the official grading of factory cheese and butter intended for export commenced. In the three Prairie Provinces and in Nova Scotia, government grading of cream has also been instituted with good results, so far as butter-making is concerned.

ROD AND GUN

"The Great Western Stampede," by C. E. Gordon, a vivid story of the time when Calgary took on the appearance of old frontier days, is only one of the many interesting articles in the November issue of ROD AND GUN IN CANADA. Those who are interested in hunting, will enjoy the good moose hunting story by A. A. Merrill, "Bud Makes Good" the account of the perilous adventure on the lonely Gannet rock "Duck Hunting on the Gannet Rock," by Bonnycastle Dale, and the thrilling capture of "My Nineteenth Black Bear" by Theodore J. Stocks, who has hunted in the western mountains for fifteen years. A description of the strange island "Bare Island" by C. H. Gibbons is also of particular interest. The November issue contains a dozen good stories and articles for the sportsman, while all the regular departments, "Guns and Ammunition," "Along the Trapline," "Outdoor Talk," "Fishing Notes," and "Kennel," are full of interest and information. F. V. Williams, J. W. Winson, and Martin Hunter, well-known to readers of ROD AND GUN IN CANADA, have all contributed good articles which will be enjoyed. From cover to cover, this issue is packed with interest for everyone keen on any chase of hunting and fishing or outdoor life.

AN ENDLESS TASK

Little Kathleen was looking most discouraged.

"Mother," she said, "it's no good my going to school any more."

"Why, dear, what is the matter?" inquired mother.

"Well, I shall never learn spelling," answered Kathleen, "because teacher keeps on changing the words. As soon as I have learned a few she finds some fresh ones for me."

SCOTLAND HAS ITS LOURDES.

Thousands of Scots Pilgrims to Shrine In Hope of Cures.

Thousands of people from all parts of Scotland — and not a few from over the border—are making the little village of Carfin, three miles from Motherwell, a centre of pilgrimage these days. Over a year ago, opposite the Roman Catholic chapel at Carfin, was opened the Notre Dame de Lourdes Institute. The building, much of the work of which was voluntary, has proved a centre of attraction to the youth of the village. Adjoining the institute, and in the grounds of the parish, which is dedicated to St. Xavier, there has been installed a reproduction of the miraculous grotto of Lourdes in France. Rev. Father Taylor has charge of the mission at Carfin, and with such surroundings it is only in the nature of things that the holy days and picturesque festivals of the church could take on an impressiveness and attract large gatherings.

On the occasion of the Feast of Corpus Christi, it was computed that 50,000 people from all parts of Scotland visited Carfin. More recently busy scenes were again enacted in the little village. Motor cars containing pilgrims from outlying districts began to arrive early in the morning, and continued throughout the day. Stories of marvellous cures effected as a result of a visit to the "grotto" has helped to swell the crowds visiting the village. In private dwellings arrangements have been made to supply the material wants of the visitors and many of the villagers are reaping quite a harvest as a result.

But the pilgrimage is not only confined to the seventh day of the week. The village almost any day is alive with pilgrims from the city, as well as the surrounding districts. They are making the "grotto" a centre of religious devotion. Amongst the pilgrims cured as a result of a visit to the "grotto" there is an old lady, who was able to dispense with her crutches. Another woman suffering from deafness, is averred to have been completely cured.

Divining Metals.

A very delicate piece of apparatus which can be used for divining the presence of metals under the ground has recently been invented. It shows to the scientist the way in which gravity varies from point to point, at or near the earth's surface.

The instrument has been so arranged that it can easily be taken from place to place, set up on the ground without masonry foundations, and used without any shelter except that of a small tent. A mass of heavy ore, even if buried in the ground, affects the pull of gravity on the instrument if this is placed near it, and affects two plumb bobs differently. One of these is at a lower level than the other. The two are connected and the system is hung up by a long, fine metal wire. The whole arrangement forms what is known as a torsion balance.

The twist in the wire measures the irregularity in the action of gravity caused by the ore bed, by a neighboring hill, a cave beneath the surface, and so forth. By a careful study of the readings of the instrument it is possible to find the best position for sinking a mine shaft to tap the ore bed.

Where Miles Grow Longer.

When you are told that it is a mile from X to Y, do you really know how far it is? asks a London writer.

To begin with, it all depends on what country you are in and what a mile means to your informant. He may be thinking of a geographical or nautical mile, which is 6,085 feet in length, whereas the ordinary English mile is only 5,280 feet.

If you are directed by a Scotsman, you should remember that the Scottish mile is 5,928 feet in length. An Irishman might have measured the distance in Irish miles, which contain 6,720 feet.

If you were told by a German that it was a mile from X to Y, you would find it a very long journey, as the German mile is 24,318 feet long.

The French kilometre is a little less than two-thirds of the English mile. The Brazilians have a unit of measure, known as a millia, which is one and one-fourth as long as the English mile; while the Japanese ri is two and a-half times as long as the English mile.

"Before I Die."

To endow "before I die some sort of green place where little street urchins could play cricket, all accessories provided," was one of the dreams of Herbert Jenkins, London publisher. He began life at fifteen in a bookseller's shop. He and another boy used to sit up half the night devouring books. That boy was the poet, John Masefield. Walking to save a penny omnibus fare, refusing an invitation to a river picnic because of a sixpenny railroad fare, lunching on a bun—this is the picture of his early twenties, as he many times described it. In 1911, when he was about 36, his "Life of George Borrow" first brought him into public view. He has just died after building up a great publishing business.

Bavaria's State Power Plant.

Bavarian engineers are building a two-and-a-half-mile tunnel under the Alps, to divert part of the Isar river into the Walchen Lake for an enormous hydro-electric plant. When completed the work, which is well under way, will furnish, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine, enough electrical power for all the Bavarian railways, industrial plants and city lights.

Metal Cutting.

Double-ended shearers for metal cutting are among the time-saving mechanisms of the day. When one end is closed the other is open, and vice versa, the secondary cutting heads bearing the same relation to the primary ones that the handles of an ordinary scissors bear to the blades.

NIGHT IN THE PRISON CELL.

Picturesque Description of Hours Spent In Vain Regrets.

The day is done. The sun has departed beyond the western wall, the buzzards have ceased their leisurely wheeling in the sky and all nature has gone to rest. We have finished our daily tasks, eaten our evening meal and have returned to our constricted cells. The bolts are shot home and we are safely housed and protected against the temptations of the great world.

The long evening drags wearily away, punctuated now by desultory reading and now by aimless smoking and listless converse. The warning bell has sounded, we have crawled each into his narrow bunk, the lights are out and night is here.

For some, sleep and oblivion, blessed release from the iron in the soul; for others, wakefulness and the weary retraveling of life's pathway; first, one lightheartedly turns homeward, but the vision is evocative of sad and weary faces of dear ones struggling against adverse fate.

One worries over the ailing little one, over the sorrow of the faithful old mother with her accumulation of years mourning for her absent boy, her waning strength inadequate for such burden-bearing; over the heroic, faithful devotion of the dear wife; over the chagrin and wounded feelings of the children under the jibes of their school mates; over the vicarious punishment of all one's dear ones.

Then one's mind traverses and rehearses the pettiness of the day just closed, as they come trooping in review with vain regrets for unimproved opportunities for kindliness, with poignant regrets for the grasped opportunities of hasty and impatient speech, all these in photographic clearness present themselves to the mental vision.

The jangling nerves are in open rebellion. Again to the treadmill amid the surging waves of thought and again we are wading through the deeps of the past. Slowly, how slowly, the hours drag by; the guard makes his quiet round with felt-clad feet, the hum of the human throng slowly falls away from the consciousness and exhausted nature brings to the tired brain sweet oblivion, and to the weary eyelids sleep. —Good Words.

Real Slavery.

Civilized people often call themselves "slaves," but they have no conception of what real slavery is. They probably imagine, also, that slavery in the old sense is wiped out. It is not. We are at this moment trying to put down slavery on the Okavango river, in Southwest Africa, and the chiefs have been notified that we do not tolerate their system.

More than half the people in this primitive district are slaves. The proportion is kept up by the fact that the children of all slaves are slaves themselves, having no chance of release. Every kraal owner, chief, and headman has his slaves, who may legally be beaten if they rebel, and who spend their whole lives without any vestige of independence.

They are each temporarily allotted a field, but part of the produce has to be given to their masters, who, of course, have full command of all their services. When the slaves die, the field, and anything else they may possess, goes not to their children, but to their masters.

You may buy a slave on the Okavango river, the currency for this purpose being cattle.

Counterfeiters Foiled.

To foil forgers a new type of banknote has been designed for issue by the Bank of Ireland, which, it is claimed, cannot be counterfeited. The secret lies in the selection of certain shades of green and blue which fail to register when photographed, thus rendering it impossible for forgers to duplicate the engraving exactly. The new notes are available in the denomination of one pound sterling. The central design consists of a large oval bearing the word "One," surrounded by a sunrise effect made up entirely of tiny letters spelling "one pound." The reverse keeps the same coloring, but the design is a star, with a picturesque representation of "Erin," the most ancient name for Ireland, and rays composed of the words, "Bank of Ireland."

Already In the Sere and Yellow.

Some one has said that an old man is simply a man twenty years older than ourselves. This little joke from Punch is evidently founded on the observation, which, if you will consider it, is an acute one:

"And how's dad?" asked the visitor of a small friend of about eight years.

"Pretty well, thank you, considering," replied the boy.

"Considering what?" inquired the visitor, puzzled.

"Well, he's getting a bit old, you know," replied the boy. "He'll be thirty to-morrow."—Youth's Companion.

Dunsinane Hill.

Dunsinane Hill, a mountain in Perthshire, Scotland, is famous from its association with Shakespeare's tragedy of Macbeth. It is 1,012 feet in height, and on its summit may be seen the ruins of a castle, said to have been Macbeth's fortress. There, according to the play, was fought the battle that resulted in the overthrow and death of the tyrant. "Macbeth shall never vanquished be until Great Birnam wood to high Dunsinane hill shall come against him."—Macbeth IV., 1.

The Addict.

Among Jimmie Malden's favorite stories is the one concerning the two men who were getting acquainted through the medium of casual conversation.

"Do you play golf?" inquired one of them.

"No," said the other, "but I can't give it up."—New York Herald.

"My Heart Would Palpitate, I Had Weak Spells"

Mrs. L. Whiting, 202 King St. West, Brockville, Ont., writes:—

"I took very sick with my nerves and stomach, and seemed to be all run down. At times my heart would flutter and palpitate so and I would take such weak spells in the pit of my stomach that I sometimes thought I would never get better. I had almost given up hope when a friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I did not stop until I had taken twenty-five boxes. It has done wonders for me and I want to recommend it to everyone."

A PHILANTHROPIST

A wealthy philanthropist has given a million dollars to the University of Kentucky to be spent on studying how to make the Southern mountains produce a good living for the people who inhabit them. The problem is to discover the crops and the methods best suited to the hill lands. Through experiments that will begin at once the men in charge will test in the hill regions the commercial possibilities of raising various kinds of stock and the suitability of different grasses and crops. With proper methods and more knowledge the isolated mountaineer may be able to make a better living than he has made hitherto.

WRATHY BOX-HOLDERS

Recently the officials of the township of Eramosa decided that they would make a special effort to collect some of the township taxes in arrears, and their method was to circularize those who were behind in their payments. The Clerk had the circulars printed and they were put up in a package and given to the rural mail carrier to deliver to Bob Scott, the collector. The carrier, thinking he was doing Mr. Scott a great favor, dropped one of the circulars in each letter box on his route, and then phoned and informed him that he had a few left and wanted to know what to do with them. There were some pretty wrathy farmers in Eramosa township when they took their mail out of their boxes, but after an explanation had been made the whole thing was accepted as a good joke.

LOVE-MAKING LOST ART

ENGLISH WRITER SAYS IT IS NOT FASHIONABLE.

Not One Boy or Girl In a Thousand Knows How to Kiss — Would Rather Go to Theatres and Dances —Make Love by Gifts In Kind Because They Don't Know How to Make It Beautifully.

"I was much taken with one little reform made by the Utopians in 'Men Like Gods.' All over the hillsides among the greenery, Mr. Wells tells us, are little arbors, secluded and beautiful, where people may rest and read, and lovers may love in privacy. Hurry on, Utopia!" writes Leonora Syles in the London Daily News.

"Any one who has ever tried to make love or have love made to in London or any great city, knows the misery of it. In the parks and on the commons, lovers are as thick as flies; hard, back-breaking seats to sit on, or grass where one is separated by perhaps two yards from the next pair of lovers. What a good thing the language of love is mostly inarticulate and that there is a camaraderie between lovers. But what a pity that there should be no privacy for the most beautiful moments of young life! No sooner have they melted into each other's arms than steps are heard approaching and they sit up straight and he smooths his tie and she puts her hat right, and they talk loudly about the Cup Tie or Mr. Bates at the office. No sooner has he firmly focussed a hypnotic gaze on his beloved's eyes and thought how adorably her lips are waiting to be kissed than the man comes along with his beastly demand for tuppences for the chairs they sit on.

"And, instead of sitting out under stars, in the immemorial custom of lovers, they have to go to a stuffy cinema, where they can, at any rate, hold hands in the rosy darkness; or, if they are rich, they can take a box and sit far back—not bad if the orchestra plays the right music! I knew two lovers who did this toward the end of the war, they had got into the hypnotic state, when holding each other's hands had set them floating off on a sea of ecstasy all regardless of a patriotic film that was being shown. Suddenly a bombardment was switched on to the screen with big bangs behind and rumble of drums, as the orchestra nearly burst itself. There was a piercing shriek from the box. The girl had come to life, seeing red lights and hearing bangs. She thought an air raid was on.

"But love-making is going out. It isn't fashionable now. The days when the young man was in heaven if allowed to come to tea on Sunday and help his girl wash up in the scullery afterwards (with a clumsy attempt at a kiss, usually rewarded by a half-hearted smack with the dish cloth, for which more kisses made reparation) are over. Once it was heaven to go to church and touch hands as they shared a hymn book and sang at each other about divine love, when all the time they meant the love of Tom for Polly. And the tragedy when the dear old thing at the other side of the aisle tripped across with an extra hymn book so helpfully! Once it was heaven, in a slightly higher social class, to sit and hold a skein of wool while She wound it—that was in the earlier days. Later, when He was accepted to the family, what bliss to be tactfully left alone while an elder sister or a governess played the piano with her back to them so thoughtfully!

"Nowadays lovers don't care for these small coins of love; they go to theatres and dances, cinemas and restaurants, fried fish shops or 'Monkey Parades,' according to their social status. They show off their own and each other's clothes and paces; they make love by gifts in kind because they don't know how to make it beautifully. There is not one girl or boy in a thousand to-day who knows how to kiss or cuddle. They simply have nowhere to practice it; they have never experienced the delights of it.

"It is a pity that the young people of to-day are not more meek and lowly in their love-making; it is a pity that they do not tear off their robes of sophistication. They are so much 'on the make,' most of them the girls particularly; they insist that the young man shall give them what they call a 'good time,' and so they wear out their fiance's nerves and pockets, and start bad precedents for marriage. When the four walls of a little home close about a young married couple, they cannot afford cinemas and dances every night — even every week; but they can afford the homely, perennial thrill of kisses, and they can afford the joy of looking at the stars hand in hand. And they find that it sharpens their wits; it is by no means so easy to make love naturally as it is to pay for a theatre ticket or a box of chocolates. But it is the sort of love-making that never becomes either too dear or too cheap. And it is the sort that improves with practice."

A White-Nosed Bear.

The New York Zoological Society has a remarkable black bear, with a white muzzle, that came from Anticosti Island as a present from Senator Menier of France. According to the Zoological Bulletin the animal is an interesting exponent of bear philosophy. From the day when it was captured it has never shown anger at human beings, and the second day after it was caught it ate from its captor's hand.

U. S. Telephone System.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company now operate 14,050,565 telephones and more than 20,000,000 miles of wire. The average number of calls made daily is 28,000,000.

HEN BURNED BARN

A fine large barn on the farm of Archie McCurdy, lot 11, con. 4, Eldersile, was totally destroyed by fire, together with 40 tons of hay, 1,000 bushels of grain, some machinery and all his poultry. In removing some machinery from the burning building before assistance arrived, Mr. McCurdy had a narrow escape from being burned to death. His clothing caught fire, but he succeeded in extinguishing the flames by rolling on the grass. The fire was caused by the explosion of a lantern. Mr. McCurdy left the lantern on a beam while he was getting hay out of the mow. A hen resented the idea of being disturbed, flew against the lantern, knocking it down against the mow, and in a few minutes the whole building was in flame.

CORRECTING A FAULT

A certain manufacturer, while speaking of a young man in his employ, said:

"That fellow would be a world beater if it were not for the jealous streak he has in him. I would give a great deal if I could cure him."

"That's easy," said his friend.

A few days later a printed card bearing the following quotation was hung where the young man could not fail to see it.

"Allow me to assure you that suspicion and jealousy never did help any man in any situation. There may sometimes be attempts to keep a young man down, and they will succeed, too, if he allows his mind to be directed from its true channel to brood over his attempted injury. Cast about and see if this feeling has not injured every person you know that has ever fallen into it."

BABY HEROINE

Baby Muriel McKee, two and a half years old, is the little heroine of Meadowvale this week. On Tuesday by toddling across the road and bringing her grandmother, Mrs. William McKee, to the rescue, she was the immediate means of saving the life of little Ross Jackson, two years and nine months old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Jackson. The children had been playing about a cistern on the Jackson property, when a board gave way, and the little boy slipped into the water. Strangely enough, the board seems to have slid with him, and he lay on the board, paddling with his hands, and apparently to badly frightened, even to call out. When wee Muriel saw what had become of her chum, she went across the road as fast as her little legs would carry her, and told her grandmother, with whom she had been spending the week, that "Ross is in the watah!" Her persistent cries took Mrs. McKee across the road, where by leaning on the edge of the cistern, she managed to get a grip on the boy, and with a pole got him out of the water. Ross was very blue from his wetting and fright, but was quite conscious when carried into the house, where first aid was applied. Little Muriel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent McKee, of Toronto, and deserves the medal of the Humane Society for her level-headed action at a time of such imminent danger.—Conservator.

HUSKY PUPS BORN AT CHATEAU FRONTENAC

1 and 2—"Over the Top." 3—"Makwathie." 4—"Negik" was born in April and is considered the most promising of the litter. It will be seen that wolf blood runs strong in his veins.

THE Hudson Bay dog team which has been such a popular feature in connection with the winter sports activities inaugurated by the Chateau Frontenac at Quebec three years ago, shows promise of future teams of exceptional merit. Two very fine litters have been produced. On the morning of April 15th, the Indian who is taking care of them was delighted to find that Wobska, a beautiful white female husky, had presented as her contribution to Quebec winter sports, three pups which very much resemble wolf whelps. One very fine pup developed rapidly and was named Negik. Wobska was jealous of the attention showed the family of her team mate and, not to be outdone, presented the Indian with a litter of eight. Great hopes are entertained for the future of this litter as wolf blood runs strongly in the veins of Makwathie, the sire, a splendid beast of some 100 lbs. with shaggy grey coat, long vulpine muzzle, pointed ears and pale amber eyes glinting through narrow slits. Makwathie was born in the wilderness north of Lake Superior.

The Indian is already making plans for the training of this last litter and expects to have them partly broken in before the first snow. This is usually done by taking a trained leader and placing her in harness with the pups. At first, traces are attached to a light birch log and the initial try out usually results in a wild scramble, the pups going in various directions with the leader turning around with a puzzled look as much as to say "what's it all about." The tangle is straightened out to the accompaniment of a chorus of yelps but gradually the young ones come to understand what is expected of them, and as the team becomes more proficient the weight of the log is increased. By the time a sleigh can be used they are able to draw heavy loads. In the North Country they can draw with ease on a broken trail a hundred pounds per dog.

PRINCE OF WALES ROAD - ORANGEVILLE

BURGLARY AT FERGUS

Thieves Arrested in Milton Early on Sunday Morning.

Thieves in their effort to help C. S. Ewing, of Fergus, general merchant, in his removal sale, which he advertised Friday, entered his store at night and stole nearly a thousand dollars worth of merchandise, consisting of furs, overcoats, suits, blankets, etc. Entrance was made from the basement, and things were carefully picked over, the robbers being in no hurry. This is the first robbery in Fergus of any importance in years. It looks like the work of an organized gang, as they left untouched thirty thousand dollars of other goods.

The affair has all the earmarks of the recent burglary at Orangeville, when a quartette of Toronto crooks burglarized J. D. Torrie's clothing store of $5,000 worth of goods. The police later, on information received, recovered the goods and arrested the thieves in a house on D'Arcy street.

About two o'clock Sunday morning, George Buck, of Milton, was returning home from the residence of his father, when he was held up at the rear of his father's house, by a man with a flashlight and a revolver, and ordered to go back where he came from and to keep quiet. Buck did so, and when he reached his father's house told his father and brother, Bert, what had happned. The telephone office is man-hunt began. Constable Chapthe night oprator was told to telephone Constable Chapman and several merchants.

When Chief Chapman arrived the man-hunt began Constable Chapman and George Buck carried two loaded .38 calibre revolvers and John Buck and his son, Bert, two loaded shotguns. Failing to find the robber and two men believed to be acting with him in the rear of any of the stores or on any of the back streets, the posse came along the main street when they noticed a car standing beside Clements' garage. Going over they looked into the car and there sat the man who a few minutes before had held up George Buck. The revolver was was found in the car beside the found in the car beside the jail.

The car was searched and was found to be loaded with dry goods clothing and furs, tallying with the description of the goods stolen from Ewing's store in Fergus on Friday night. Chief Chapman telephoned the constable at Fergus and he and Mr. Ewing motored to Milton. Mr. Ewing identified the dry goods as his and they were placed in Chief Chapman's big car and taken to Fergus, while the Fergus constable and George Buck took the captured man, who gave his name as James Albert Chadwick, aged 37, of Sprucedale, to Fergus.

MURRAY-WIGGINS

The marriage took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Wiggins, 337 St. John's Road, West Toronto, on Wednesday, Oct. 17th, with Rev. J. H. Brown officiating, of their yeungest daughter, Beatrice, to Mr. Robert Moore Murray, of Detroit, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Murray, County Tyrone, Ireland. The house was beautifully decorated with autumn leaves and flowers. The bride was given away by her father under a lovely white arch and wore a becoming dress of white canton crepe with white tulle veil, caught with pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley. Miss Ida Reid was bridesmaid and wore a pale green georgette dress and silver bandeaux. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. Mr. Herbert Caldwell was best man. The groom's gift to the bride was a rope of pearls to the bridesmaid a pair of sterling silver dangle earrings, and to the best man a gold knife. A dainty luncheon was served to about fifty guests, after which Mr. and Mrs. Murray left for their home in Detroit, the bride travelling in a navy blue dress and wrap with hat to match.

ROBBERY AT FORD

Cash and Bonds Secured by Daring Safe Blowers.

Two safes of the Imperial Oil Company in Ford City, blown open Sunday night by expert yeggmen, thought to be from Detroit, netted the thieves $1,000 in cash, Canada Victory Bonds valued at almost $1,000, eight insurance policies, 34 shares of valuable oil stocks in Imperial Oil, Mutual Oil and Pierce Oil Companies, one Imperial Oil tank wagon ticket, an Ontario commercial travellers' certificate for an unstated amount and cheques of the Imperial Oil Company, the value of which has not yet been ascertained.

Entrance to the one storey brick office of the Company was effected sometime during the night by breaking a pane of glass on the south side of the building and unlocking the bolt from the inside. The two safes, the larger in the general office, and the smaller in the office of J. H. McGuire, local manager of the Company, were completely rifled, after the combinations were blown by explosives set off by fuses. A door separating the two offices had been forced by the burglars.

Ford police state that the robbery was the work of experts. The burglary was pulled off with very little noise, as residents in the vicinity heard nothing of the explosions. Gloves were evidently worn by the cracksmen, who are said to have left no clue behind whereby they could be identified. There was no evidence of fingerprints to be found by the police. The smaller safe contained chiefly the personal property of the manager. Mr. J. H. McGuire, and his sons, D.H. & J.M. McGuire. It was completely cleaned out of the following: two $50 Victory Bonds registered, and due the end of this month, property of J. M. McGuire; two $50 registered Victory Bonds, due 1927, property of D. H. McGuire; two registered $50 Victory Bonds, due 1924, also the property of D. H. McGuire; two $100 Victory Bonds of J. H. McGuire, due date not stated; 20-share oil stock certificate No. 674 in Mutual Oil Company; two Mutual Life policies; two London Life policies and one Traveller's Insurance policy; one Imperial Oil Life Insurance policy; one New York Life policy; one Travellers' Accident policy; one Trasal Oil certificate for five shares; one Mutual Oil certificate for 25 shares, and one Pierce Oil certificate for four shares, all the property of Manager McGuire.

Mr. J. H. McGuire is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McGuire, of Relessy. Mr. Jack McGuire, of Relessey, is a brother, and Mrs. T. J. Robinson, Zina St., a sister.

BELL-HOGG

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Hogg, Mill St., Orangeville, at 3 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, October 17th, when their daughter, Gladis Brownlee was united in marriage to Mr. J. Varley Bell, of Toronto, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Walford Bell. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Henry Harper, of Toronto, assisted by Rev. H. L. Partridge, of Orangeville. Miss Madeline Flood, of Toronto, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Victor McMillan, Toronto, supported the groom. The wedding music was played by the bride's sister, Mrs. Fred Rickard, of Hamilton. After a dainty wedding breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Bell left on their wedding trip, travelling by motor. On their return they will reside at 11 Oriole Gardens, Toronto.

WHAT TWO DOLLARS WILL BUY

In each of its many departments, catering to all classes and all ages, the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, has continued to improve each year over the last until now it would seem perfection were reached. Yet for the coming season that remarkable farm and family journal again promises—and the promise will surely be fulfilled—still further improvements in all departments. It is a profound mystery to the publishers the world over how the Family Herald and Weekly Star can continue to publish a 72-page weekly paper containing such a wealth and variety of reading matter for a subscription price of only $2.00 per year.

If this were not enough, we hear that, added to the amazing value of the paper itself, each subscriber this season who remits in time will receive free a most beautiful picture in colors of a lovely and heroic woman, whose remarkable life story has been published in booklet form and can be obtained without charge from the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal.

CARD OF THANKS

The officeers and members of the Juvenile Lacrosse Club wish to tender the young people of Orangeville and district their hearty thanks for the generous manner in which they patronized their dance in the Arena last Thursday night. Their thanks are also extended in a very special manner to the girls, who provided "eats" in such a liberal manner.

HALLOWE'EN NOTICE

NOTICE is hereby given that any party, or parties, injuring property or violating any of the town by-laws on Hallowe'en night, will be prosecuted according to law.

FINED $200

Inland Revenue Officer E. Floody, of Toronto, License Inspector Robinson and Provincial Officer Mennie paid a surprise visit to Dan Sullivan's place in Albion township early on Tuesday morning. Sullivan has two houses on his property, one of them occupied by a young man named Roy Bible. Here the officers found about forty gallons of mash and parts of a still. The remainder of the distilling outfit was found in the house of a neighbor named Morris. Bible was placed under arrest and taken before Magistrate Crawford, of Brampton. He pleaded guilty and was forthwith fined $200 and costs. A charge has been preferred against Morris, who will likely be tried on Friday.

EDWARD RENO

Noted Magician Gave Fine Performance in Opera House on Friday Night.

Those who were fortunate enough to be at the Opera House on Friday evening last enjoyed a treat, which has seldom been equalled in Orangeville. To say that Reno is an expert illusionist is stating the case mildly. When one man can hold the undivided attention of an audience for two hours and keep them up to a high pitch of expectancy he must be considered an entertainer of very extraordinary merit.

Reno's performance was of a very high standard and the ease with which he went through his many marvellous tricks added to the wonder and mystification of his audience. There was not a dull moment during the entire evening. Some of his tricks were extraordinary. One in particular deserving special mention was when he placed the lid of a roasting pan over a small fire, and a minute afterwards upon raising the lid a dove flew out in full view of the astonished spectators. In all Reno performed between sixty-five and seventy tricks and from the remarks passed by his audience when leaving the building, it is safe to say that if he should ever return to Orangeville he will have no difficulty in filling the hall. An enjoyable feature of the programme was the wit and humour displayed by the artist, and the good-natured remarks he passed with reference to his tricks.

Owing to the fact that Reno was an unknown quantity here the attendance was rather small, but a return visit would assure a capacity house.

BAPTISTS CALL PASTOR

On his offer to continue on as student pastor, Mr. W. G. Brown was extended a unanimous call for one year by the Orangeville Baptist Church. The call was extended to Mr. Brown last Sunday night, subject of course to arrangements with the Baptist Home Mission Board. Mr. Brown thanked the church for this expression of their confidence and satisfaction with his work and accepted the responsibility.

The Orangeville Baptist Church expects (D.V.) to hold Thanksgiving services on November 12th, having a fellowship meeting at 4 p.m., and a special address at 8 p.m. by Pastor Albert Hughes, of Toronto. Madame L. H. Jones will sing.

BOYS' COUNCIL

An election was held on Saturday to fill the office of Reeve of the Orangeville Boys' Council. There were two candidates for the position—Russell McGillivray and Morley McLean. The former was elected polling 43 votes to 21 recorded for his opponent. There was not a great deal of interest taken in the contest and the vote was thereof light. The office became vacant a few weeks ago owing to the removal to Guelph of Mr. Alan Marshall who was elected Reeve at the regular election last spring.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. H. L. Modeland and her sister, Miss Delia Hulse, are visiting Toronto friends this week.

Mr. Hutch Keith left for Toronto to-day after spending a week's holidays with friends in town.

Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Morris and son, Whittier, of Toronto, were visitors in town on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Harshaw and their son, Mr. Norman Harshaw, of Toronto, were in town yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Black, of Toronto, visited Mr. and Mrs. Manassal Ferns, East Garafraxa, over Sunday.

Mr. Ed. Byfield, of Toronto, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. W. H. McGuire, and Mr. McGuire, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Arnott visited Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Haslam, of Markdale, recently, and took in the sights at the Markdale Fall Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Gray, of Rochester, visited friends in Orangeville and East Garafraxa last week. The visitors motored here and home again.

Mrs. R. McNichol and daughter Mrs. A. Island, of Toronto, who have been visiting Miss E. Stephenson, Bythia St., and other friends in town, returned home on Tuesday evening, accompanied by Miss Stephenson, who will visit in Toronto for a while.

Mrs. R. H. Robinson and Miss L. Bell, who spent the summer visiting with relatives in Massachussetts and elsewhere in the Eastern States, arrived home last week. They are looking well after their prolonged sojourn in Uncle Sam's domain and report a very enjoyable time while away.

Mr. D. B. Brown, Secretary-Treasurer of the Dufferin Agricultural Society, arrived home Tuesday of last week after a short business trip to points in the West. Mr. Brown reports excellent crops in the districts he visited, but says that owing to the low price of wheat the profits of the grain growers will not be large. Conditions, however, showed a marked improvement over any year since the war.

BARBER SHOP CHANGES

Messrs. Henry & Beadley, proprietors of the barber shop on South Broadway near the Post Office, have sold out their business to Messrs. Ernest and Gilmore Beatty, who took over the shop and business the first of this week. The purchasers are Orangeville boys and practical men. Ernest Beatty has been with Hugh Greenis for several years and Gilmore has been working at the barbering in Hespeler and Kitchener since he returned from overseas. We understand that the late proprietors are moving to Lindsay.

WHO IS "THE WONDERFUL HEROINE?"

The amazing life story of "The Wonderful Heroine" in the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, is creating intense interest in every part of Canada. "The Wonderful Heroine" is a young and lovely woman of tragic history whose picture in colors is being given free to subscribers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star. A subscription of two dollars is little enough to pay for a whole year's subscription to this greatest of all farm and family journals, and with a magnificent picture thrown in, the value is superlative.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS ALWAYS KEPT ON HAND

Mrs. Ernest E. Adkins, Bretton, Sask., writes—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets with great success for four years and always keep a box on hand." Thousands of other mothers have used the Tablets for their little ones and they will use nothing else. Experience shows them that the Tablets are the same thing—once they have got the ideal medicine. They are a mild laxative, through its action they never fail to relieve the minor ailments of little ones. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WORST AMONG EVIL SPIRITS.

Asmodeus Is Said to Have Usurped Throne of Solomon for a Time.

In Jewish demonology Asmodeus was an evil spirit who was said to have possessed what to-day would be called an X-ray eye. Asmodeus is sometimes jocularly spoken of as destroying matrimonial happiness. In the apocryphal book of Tobias, the Detroit News states, he is represented as loving Sara, the daughter of Raguel and Edna, and causing the death of seven husbands on the bridal night. Tobias, instructed by the angel Raphael, burned the heart and liver of a fish that he caught in the Tigris, and the smell drove the demon into Egypt, where Raphael bound him, leaving Tobias and Sara in peace.

According to the testament of Solomon, Asmodeus brought to Solomon's service the magic worm Shamir, whose touch split stones; he then for a time usurped the throne of Solomon, performing many of the evil deeds attributed to Solomon. Le Sage has made Asmodeus the title character of his "Le Diable Boiteux" ("The Limping Devil, or Devil on Two Sticks"). Asmodeus being fabled as having become lame by breaking his leg. He is released from prison, a bottle, by Don Cleofas, a young Spanish scholar whom Asmodeus carries in his flight over Madrid, giving him the power of seeing through the roofs and walls of the houses.

THE TOWN COUNCIL

Increased Fees for Hawkers, Pedlars and Transient Traders.

Local Hydro Electric Commission Calls Attention to Unsatisfactory Condition of Street Wiring.

Accounts passed by the Town Council at its last regular meeting on Monday evening, October 15th, were:—

C. B. Matthews, 90c and $16.51; Roy Hulse, $5.50; Hughes & Norris, $57.00.

The Clerk read the following communication from Dr. G.H. Campbell, Secretary of the Orangeville Hydro Electric Association, relative to the unsatisfactory condition of the electric wiring on the streets of the town. The letter read:

Orangeville, Oct. 15, 1923.
To the Mayor and Council,
Town of Orangeville.

As we have on several previous occasions pointed out to your predecessors in office, the electric wiring of the streets of Orangeville is a menace to the lives and property of our citizens. Our Hydro system has endeavoured to keep our wires, poles, etc., in a safe and presentable condition and has asked the Cataract Electric Company to co-operate with us in this matter, but up to the present time they have failed to do so. We believe only very recently, through one of the latter company's wires coming in contact with our street lighting system, 38 lamps, costing $53.80, were destroyed and the town kept in darkness for the night.

As we operate on a cost service basis this loss is ultimately borne by the taxpayers of the municipality. As it is your duty to protect them from losses of this kind we are asking you to take some steps to rectify these conditions. Assuring you of our willingness to co-operate with you at any time, in any effort to give our citizens better and cheaper service, we remain,

Sincerely yours,
Orangeville Hydro-Electric Assn.
G. H. CAMPBELL,
Secretary.

The Clerk was instructed to write the Cataract Electric Company respecting the communication.

A by-law was put through prohibiting traction engines from travelling over the paved section of Broadway.

A by-law was also passed increasing the fees for licenses for hawkers, pedlars and transient traders. The new fees are as follows:

Hawker, pedlar, petty chapman or other person carrying on a petty trade and selling on foot, with or without a pack—$25.00.

Hawker, pedlar, petty chapman or other person using a pushcart—$25.

Hawker, pedlar, petty chapman or other person using one horse or other animal—$50.00.

Hawker, pedlar, petty chapman or other person using two horses or other animals—$100.00.

Hawker, pedlar, petty chapman or other person who goes from place to place to take orders for coal oil or other oil, which is to be delivered afterwards from a tank car moved on a railway line, or who goes from place to place, or to a particular place to make sales or deliveries of coal oil, or other oil, from such car—$100.00.

Hawker, pedlar, petty chapman or other person carrying on trade in any way not hereinbefore provided for—$150.00.

Transient traders—$250.00 with the proviso that the license fee shall be credited to the person paying it on account of taxes thereafter payable by him to the town of Orangeville.

The penalty for violation of the by-law is a $50 fine or imprisonment for 20 days.

It looks like good-bye to merry go-rounds in future so far as Orangeville is concerned. A by-law was passed fixing $25.00 a day as the license for these concerns. The merry-go-round that held forth here last summer paid $1 a day. The new license will make it impossible for these amusements to operate at a profit. This being the case they will likely give the town a wide berth.

A by-law was passed leasing the lots and three ground floor rooms on the northeast side of the Opera House to the Department of Public Works for $120 a year. The lease runs for five years. The rooms will be used as headquarters of three platoons of D.Company of the Peel and Dufferin Regiment.

The Fidelity and Casualty Company, of New York, reported on a recent inspection of the boiler in the Fire Hall.

Nightwatchman Thos. Dawson addressed the Council respecting his movements on the morning of October 4th, the date on which J. D. Torrie's store was burglarized.

The Deputy-Reeve and Councillors Arnott and Matthews were appointed a Committee to confer with the nightwatchman re patrolling the streets and trying the doors.

CHILD WELFARE CLINIC

A Child Welfare Clinic will be held in the Auditorium of the Public Library, Orangeville, on Thursday and Friday, November 1st and 2nd, from 1.30 to 5 p.m.

Dr. W. J. Bell, of the Provincial Board of Health, in co-operation with the local doctors, will be in charge.

Mothers are invited to bring their children under 6 years of age and older, if desired, to the Clinic. They will be weighed and measured and Dr. Bell will give advice and instructions as to the feeding and care of the babies and will examine the children and diagnose any condition and point out any defects which might interfere with the child's best development.

The aim of the Clinic is to keep the babies well and to give every child a chance to grow up normally, without any unnecessary handicaps due to improper feeding or unremedied defects.

Any babies requiring treatment will be referred to their own family doctor.

Visitors interested in the health of the public will be cordially welcome.

THE MAPLES

Last Friday night nearly one hundred friends and neighbors met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hoare, who are removing from the community to their new home in Orangeville. During the evening Mr. Nelson Black, in a few well-chosen words, explained the cause of the gathering. Mrs. John Ferns, on behalf of the people of the neighborhood, presented Mrs. Hoare with a beautiful glass bowl and Mr. Black presented Mr. Hoare with a gold watch. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hoare were taken by surprise, but responded fittingly. The community and especially the people of the Methodist Church feel very keenly the loss of Mr. and Mrs. Hoare, who have always been public-spirited citizens and active workers in the church. Lunch was served at midnight. A very pleasant time was spent in games and music.

THE DANGEROUS DRUG ADDICT

(By J. G. Snearer.)

Nine thousand five hundred Canadians—many of them under twenty-five years of age—means on the one hand that the illicit traffic in opium, morphine, heroin, cocaine, etc., is extensive, and on the other that a mighty appeal to heart and conscience is made to all Caandians to come to the help of these poor slaves. Their plight is pitiable in the extreme. The use of these drugs dethrones the will, deadens th conscience and so effects the whole nervous system as to render its victims more helpless far than the victims of tuberculosis or typhoid fever. They are diseased as well as depraved. Imprisonment is the only door we open to them now. It closes behind them for a season. But in due course they come out unhealed and unhelped to return to their hopeless bondage. The prison is the place to put the traffickers. The hospital is what the addicts need—a hospital where medical science will heal the disease and spiritual influence will restore moral vigor and religious faith and hope and power.

And no government or city in Canada has undertaken to supply the need.

A pitiful case of a young nurse from rural Ontario recently appealed to us for direction where to go for treatment. No door was open. We were helpless. She was left perforce without hope. Surely thought not so to be.

Yet it is not likely to be changed until large numbers of citizens bring pressure to bear on the Provincial Governments to supply provision in special or general hospitals for closely supervised care And treatment to which hospitals or ward-magistrates can commit addicts brought before them and into which addicts without commitment may come of their own choice and be brought by friends or physicians. If every reader of this little article would write at once to his or her own Government urging action something would result. Why not? Do it now!

The Federal Department of Health supported by the Dominion, Provincial and Municipal Police and the secret service men have accomplished much in suppressing or reducing the volume of the traffic wholesale and retail.

The reduction in importation is shown in the following table:

1919—Cocaine 12,333 oz; morphine 30,087 oz.; opium 34,263 lbs.

1923—Cocaine 3,330 oz.; morphine 10,498 oz.; opium 1,373 lbs.

The number of convictions by the Federal Police and Secret Service in 1922 were 845. In 1923 the number was 692. In the first six months of the year that will end March 31st, 1923, it is 174. There is a steady decline. Of the 174, 91 are in British Columbia, and of these 82 were Chinese. Forty-three are in Quebec, of which 20 are Chinese.

The international traffic is getting increasingly difficult for the traffickers. Switzerland has just ratified the Treaty for its suppression. Much of the drugs heretofore have come from that country. One of these days the world ring will be caught and the back of the wretched traffic will be broken. The outlook is hope-inspiring. A better day is dawning.

COAL FIELDS OF NOVA SCOTIA OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

F. W. Gray, of British Empire Steel Corporation, Addresses Newspapermen on Recent Tour.

It is not necessary to inform this audience, which is drawn from all parts of canada and has arrived at this eastermost point after travellin over a great part of the country, that as Canadians we have a rich and vast heritage, and that the future of this country is so promising as to need no emphasis and to call for no exaggeration on our part.

Nevertheless, Canada suffers under one serious limitation, one that, but for the resources of Nova Scotia would, in the long run, be fatal to our hopes of national development, and would some day force the absorption of Canada and the United States.

I refer to the shortage of coal deposits in Eastern Canada. Between the coalfield of Nova Scotia and the fringe of the great coal field of Alberta, there intervenes a distance of 1,800 miles, or as far as from England to the Caucasus, that is entirely without coal resources.

The coalfield of Nova Scotia, 70 per cent. of the reserves of which are concentrated around this city, is a lone and singular occurrence in the Dominion. With the exception of some inferior coal in Chili and the coalfield of Vancouver Island, it is the only coal deposit on either the Atlantis or the Pacific shores on the American continent. The nearest coal deposit in the United States is 800 miles away. These conditions give to the Nova Scotia field extraordinary economic and national independence, to Eastern Canada.

In the West there is a large concentration of coal resources which some day will cause Alberta to exceed the East as an industrial centre, and will bring population and wealth to the West in such degree that it will become a predominating factor in the political economy of the Dominion.

The coalfield of Nova Scotia, if its resources are properly used, will enable the East to hold its own, and will prove a main factor in holding East and West together in the indissoluble pond that the Fathers of Confederation planned for.

Those who saw Sydney Harbor in the war years, filled with vessels of war, troop ships and transports, and saw the armed convoys leaving Sydney weekly, with the regularity of train service, gained illumination of the importance of the combined coal and steel industries to Canada. Had the neutrality of the United States during the years 1914 to 1917 been other than a benevolent one, Canada could not, without the coal of Nova Scotia, have provided men or ships, and could not have manufactured muitions or exported grain and war supplies.

From the Island of Cape Breton not less than 6000 men went to the front, almost entirely volunteers and in very large part composed of miners. As a result of this, the production of coal has been very much reduced.

Readers of newspapers, particularly those published outside of Nova Scotia, may be pardoned if they have an idea that social conditions are very disturbed in the mining districts of the province It is probably true, as it is in all urban centres at this time, that sinister forces, originating outside Canada, are being exerted against society as it exists under British institutions, but it is scarcely necessary to state that a population with a war record like that of Cape Breton Island cannot, in the nature of things, contain any dangerous elements of disloyalty, and is, as it always was and will be, intrinsically sound at heart and able to deal with its own social problems in the manner approved of by our racial and national traditions.

The coalfield situated around Sydney is unique, 70 per cent. of the reserve in the coal seams is situated under the sea. Coal is now being mined at distances exceeding two and one-quarter miles to sea, and 70 per cent. of all the coal being mined in this district is won from under the sea. Our engineers are making technical history, and their projects are of a character that will make Cape Breton renowned in the annals of mining engineering.

A crying need of the provinces of Ontario and Quebec, from which a large part of this audience comes, is an assured supply of suitable fuel for domestic heating at a moderate price. The small householder cannot long for much relief in the price of anthracite, if any. Indeed, as the years go by, it will become dearer and inceasingly hard to obtain.

There is made here in Sydney from Sydney coal a by-product, coke. This is a fuel that has all the desirable qualities of anthracite but in greater degree; 8 tons of it is equal to 10 tons of the best quality commercial anthracite. By the erection of coke ovens in Montreal and other cities of Quebec and Ontario, it is possible to provide the householder with a fuel that will cost him less than anthracite, will give him greater heat—with less labor, and will relieve Canada of the necessity to import anthracite. If this were done, the mines of Nova Scotia would have an annual market for coal that would be absolutely dependable and steady; the quantity of coal mined in Nova Scotia would increase, and it would be unnecessary to send money out of the country for imported anthracite.

The manufacture of domestic coke from Nova Scotia bituminous coal in the large cities of Ontario and Quebec is one way in which Nova Scotia can help those provinces, and in turn receive very considerable assistance herself, and in combination add greatly to the wealth of the Dominion.

WOMAN SHOOTS PRIEST AT ALTAR

Wrought up to the point of murder over a fancied wrong to her husband, a Greek Catholic priest in Ramey, Pa., a wrong which enforced him to abandon a parish in Chicago and go to Ramey, Mrs. Emily Strutnsky, 44 years old, shot and killed the Rev. Basil Stestuk, 36 years old, as she knelt before him at the Altar of St. Nichol's Greek Catholic Church to make a confession. Three hundred horrified worshippers witnessed the tragedy.

She knelt before the priest at the side of the altar, in full view of the congregation, as though to give a confession. Instead she drew a heavy calibred revolver from the folds of her dress and fired two shots into the face of the priest standing before her. The priest started to escape and she fired three more shots, two of the bullets entering his head, one in his hip and one pierced his heart.

She said her husband had over $100,000 with which he built St. Nichol's Greek Cathedral. Then came rumors that the Rev. Father Stestuk, hitherto considered a good friend of her husband, was warning his congregation not to attend the new church. The woman alleged that Father Stestuk told his congregation that Strutnsky had collected over $100,000 and then had appropriated part of it to his own use.

Mrs. Dyer Fell Off to 72 Lps.; Gains 33 on Tanlac

"For nearly seven years," recently said Mrs. Katie Dyer, of 27 Railway St., Hamilton, Ont., "I had suffered from a complication of troubles peculiar to women, and finally my strength all left me and I broke down completely.

"When I began taking Tanlac I only weighed seventy-two pounds, and had been so weak and nervous for nearly two months that I had to be assisted from my bed to my chair. Many times I could not even retain broth and toast on my stomach and restful sleep would not come to me.

"Neither myself or my friends thought I would ever get well, but I am now feeling as fine as I ever did in my life and am weighing one hundred and five pounds, which makes me heavier than I ever was before. I can never praise Tanlac enough."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

MRS. ANN BROWN

One of the earliest settlers of Garafraxa passed away in Grand Valley on Wednesday of last week in the death of Mrs. Ann Brown, relict of the late James Brown, in her 80th year. Born in County Armagh, Ireland, she came to Canada with her parents when about 8 years old, and spent a year around Tottenham, then moving to the 10th line, Garafraxa, a section which attracted many from Simcoe county. Here she spent her girlhood and early in life married the late James Brown, who predeceased her 39 years last June. With the double responsibility of managing a partly cleared farm and a large family dependent on her, she proved the true worth of a trusty pioneer. How well she accomplished all is best known to her own family and her intimate acquaintances. She was a life-long member of the Methodist Church and since her removal to town some ten years ago was regular in her attendance. The following children survive:—Mrs. John Gamble, Minburn, Alta.; Mary Ann, at home; Mrs. Mottart, of Amaranth; Mrs. Robert Gillespie, of West Garafraxa; Mrs. Robert J. Greenwood, of Verwood, Sask.; and John G., of East Garafraxa. Following a service in the Methodist Church the remains were laid to rest in McKee's Cemetery, East Garafraxa, many old friends accompanying the cortege. —Star & Vidette.

DOGS ARE THOROUGHLY HONEST

Richmond Hill Liberal says: One day Mr. Cowie, in driving his milk wagon up Bensen Avenue, observed that his dog was carrying a parcel very carefully in his mouth. He called the dog to him and found it was a lady's purse containing between thirteen and fourteen dollars. Mr. Cowie at once advertised the purse and soon found the owner. Those who lose money or articles need not despair. With Charlie's dog and the village newspaper you are tolerably sure of finding your own.

NEW LAMP BURNS 95 P. C. AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil.)

The inventor, F. N. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

ALLISTON HARD HIT

Nearly $400,000 on Deposit in Local Branch of Home Bank.

The neighboring town of Alliston was hard hit by the Home Bank failure. The Alliston branch of the bank was one of the best in the province and the amount of money on deposit, nearly $400,000, was exceeded in only a few of the large city branches. The following extracts from an article in the Herald will give our readers an idea how seriously the failure has affected Alliston and the surrounding district:—

"The latest figures of balances in the various branches, and the ones probably given out by the liquidator are for the branches of the bank in this district, as follows:

Alliston	$368,152
Everett	112,412
Angus	61,949
Shelburne	102,070

Rosemont balance appears to be included with that debited to the Alliston branch. These figures give a total for Alliston, Everett, Rosemont and Angus of 42 thousand dollars in excess of half a million. It cannot be denied the Home Bank failure has revealed a degree of wealth in this district, which, in the middle of last August, the great majority of the people of the district would have vigorously denied existed. Now that it is tied up and cannot be used by its owners, the condition of affairs arising out of the loss, be it temporary or permanent of half a million dollars has demonstrated what it means for a comparatively small community with no great individual wealth and no poverty to be suddenly deprived of such a large portion of its financial resources.

Alliston district is the only one in all Canada to be so affected. In no other district were four branches of the Home Bank so closely located as were those of Alliston, Everett, Rosemont and Angus. The village of Sunderland is hard hit, 102 thousand being tied up there. But outside Sunderland there was not another branch of the same bank within many miles.

Alliston branch of the Home Bank was the most prosperous of all the branches outside of Hamilton, Montreal, Fernie and Winnipeg. The balance lying to depositors' credit here is larger than in London, Ottawa, Lindsay, Calgary, or any branch other than those named. In the city of Ottawa, where so many pitiable cases of poverty are reported as a result of the failure of the Home Bank, the branch was located in the very heart of the business district, yet its balance to the credit of depositors was only $179,851. Shelburne branch did well for the short time it had been established there."

BECOMES IMMIGRATION AIDE

W. J. Black, Deputy Minister of Immigration, has resigned his position and is leaving the service to accept an appointment as chief immigration aide to Sir Henry Thornton in London, Eng. Mr. Black's resignation is purely voluntary and is understood to be directly contrary to the wishes of Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of the Department. Mr. Black, who is a former Mulmur township boy, was head of the Manitoba Agricultural College for a number of years. In 1912 he was appointed Commissioner of Agriculture by the Borden Government. He became chief organizer for the Conservative party in 1921 and was appointed Deputy Minister of Immigration shortly before the last Federal election.

EDITORIAL NOTES

This year Fire Prevention Week passed almost unnoticed, despite the fact that proclamations enjoining its observance were issued by the Federal and Provincial Governments. One of our cotems describes it as a fine demonstration of the success (?) that attends inadequate publicity. Proclamations are of little use unless they are supplemented by a publicity campaign in the press for the purpose of directing public attention to their subject matter and purpose.

Daylight saving is getting its knocks from a new angle. A New York health expert declares that it prevents school children from obtaining their proper rest and is therefore interfering with their progress at school. It is difficult to get the children to bed until after it becomes dark no matter what the time may be. Consequently the necessity of arising an hour earlier in the morning to get breakfast and to school in time means that they are deprived of an hour's sleep and rest. Dr. Hastings, of Toronto, does not agree with the New York expert and is inclined to attribute much of the indifferent progress in school to lack of parental control in the home. It is reasonable to suppose that if the child is allowed to do pretty much as it wishes at home it will be more difficult to make it conform to the discipline of the school room. Without discipline and order in the school the pupils are not likely to make marked progress with their studies. It is greatly to be regretted that there are not a few parents who are inclined to shift the responsibility for the training and education of their children to the teachers of the public and Sabbath schools. This is a grave mistake. There must be training and discipline in the home if the child is to learn the very necessary lessons of obedience and respect for its elders and those in authority in the schools and elsewhere.

MODERATOR OF SYNOD

Rev. J. A. Matheson, B. A., B. D., of Mono Mills, was elected moderator of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston at the semi-annual meeting held in St. James' Square Presbyterian Church, Toronto, a short time ago. Mr. Matheson was elected by the unanimous vote of the Synod, the only other nominee, Rev. J. H. Turnbull, pastor of High Park Presbyterian Church, Toronto, withdrawing in his favor. Rev. Matheson, who was stationed at Priceville for a number of years before he was called to Mono Mills, has been Clerk of the Orangeville Presbytery for a number of years. He is well versed in churuch law and procedure, is a man of ripe scholarship and will discharge the duties of the exalted office to which he has been called with dignity and judgment. His selection has been a matter of satisfaction to his congregations at Mono Mills and also to the members of the Orangeville Presbytery in whose estimation he holds a high place. The Banner extends its hearty congratulations and good wishes to the new Moderator.

FIRE ALARM

The Fire Brigade was called to Mr. D. A. Hogg's residence on Mill Street on Saturday morning. Fortunately their services were not required. A fire, kindled in the fireplace, carried some burning paper up the chimney. The paper dropped on the roof and ignited the shingles. The blaze was noticed almost immediately after it started and had been extinguished with a pail of water when the brigade reached the scene.

WEDDED SIXTY-THREE YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. James Graham, of Inglewood, Celebrated Anniversary of Their Marriage Last Thursday.

"Married at Emery, York County on October 25th, 1860, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Crosson, Margaret Farleigh, Toronto, to James Graham, of Emery, by Rev. William Philp."

To celebrate the 63rd anniversary of this event, a reception was held Thursday at the home of the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. James Graham, Inglewood, when relatives and friends from far and near assembled to offer gifts and congratulations. Letters and telegrams were received from a distance, among them being one from D. J. McKinnon, first inspector of Peel County, which carried a message from Mrs. (Rev.) Alex. and Mr. McFaul, 87 years of age, former friends of Mr. and Mrs. Graham.

During the afternoon addresses were made by Rev. Harry Pawson, representing the Methodist Church; Edward Trout and W. J. Jamieson, for the community. David Graham brother of the groom, was present at the marriage, and attended him on Thursday, while Mrs. Edward Trout was matron of honor. Tea was served from a buffet, centred by a cake bearing the figures "63" in pink candles, and presided over by Mrs. Fred and Mrs. T. H. Graham, Misses Maebelle and Jean Graham, Mrs. George Scott receiving the guests.

A Resident 76 Years

Mr. Graham, 87 years of age, is wonderfully hale and hearty, and told the story of a long and useful life. He was born in County Tyrone, Ireland, and lived for 7 years in Scotland before coming to Canada, receiving his primary education at Polloshaws, near Glasgow. His parents came to Woodbridge in 1847, his father passing away in two months of ship-fever. His mother had five sons and four daughters, of whom only the two mentioned survive.

James Graham attended Victoria College and taught school at Duncan, Emery and Mulholland (now Armour Heights)—being in charge of the last named school 60 years ago. The messages received Thursday included one from a former pupil, Wellington Mulholland.

Was First Postmaster

Coming to Inglewood in 1860 he took charge of a 200-acre farm belonging to his brother, David, who was running the woollen mills. He built the first store and was the first postmaster of the village.

During his earlier residence in the village, he was well known as a successful grain buyer. Always connected with the active work of the Methodist Church, he was greatly admired as a local preacher. For over 30 years he acted as organizer for the I.O.G.T. in Canada and the United States, and is past grand chief of the Order in Ontario. Until he dislocated his shoulder a year ago, he has been actively engaged in the executive work at the woollen mills, now conducted by his nephew T. H. Graham, and the latter's sons.

Bride Born in Toronto.

Mrs. Graham is a native of Toronto, where she was educated. She looked very charming on Thursday in a black gown with touches of white and a huge bouquet of violets.

One son, Fred, in the west, and one daughter, Mrs. E. S. H. Wynne of Vancouver, whose husband is Dominion President of the Workmen's Compensation Board, sent hearty congratulations to their parents. There are six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

YOUNG PEOPLE DEBATE

"Resolved that Public Speaking has been of more power in influencing the world than the Written Word" formed the subject of an interesting and well-handled debate at the weekly meeting of St. Andrew's Church Young People's Society on Monday night. The debaters were Elgin Hall and Miss Kathleen Hughes for the affirmative and Percy Byers and Miss Edith Young for the negative. The judges decided that the debaters were tied in respect to arguments and subject matter, but considered that the affirmative had a slight advantage in style and delivery and therefore awarded them the decision. There were about sixty young people out for the meeting. In the absence of the President, Mr. Jack Marshall Mr. Gordon Hayes, last year's president, occupied the chair.

ORANGEVILLE MEMORIAL

The Orangeville War Memorial is expected to be completed early next week, and will be unveiled on the afternoon of Monday, November 12 which will be the official Armistice Day, as well as Thanksgiving Day this year. The memorial consists of a bronze statue of special design, on a granite pedestal, of a total height of about 19 feet, with the arms of the County of Dufferin in bronze, and a suitable inscription on the front of the die, and the names of all the fallen soldiers of the county, 144 in number, inscribed in leaded letters on the other three sides. Special invitations to the unveiling ceremony are being sent to the next of kin of the heroic dead and the public generally are invited to attend. Further particulars of the programme will be announced next week.

THE FORD CARAVAN

The Ford Caravan, which has been making a tour of the province of Ontario since it was on exhibition at the Canadian National Exhibition, visited Orangeville on Wednesday of last week. The Caravan, which consisted of some twenty-two motor propelled vehicles and farm machines, arrived in town about the middle of the forenoon and took up its position on the centre of Broadway, where it attracted general attention and interest for the remainder of the day. The different units were grouped at intervals along the business part of the street and made quite a formidable looking array. The exhibit included the well-known Fordson tractors, light and heavy delivery trucks, some equipped with lifting attachments, buses of various sizes and styles, a threshing separator, Ford trucks and a reel wagon for fire purposes. Not only was there a very complete display of Ford models, but also a complete line of trucks equipped for almost every conceivable use from rapid parcel delivery to strenuous fire fighting. Mr. J. E. Smith, local Ford agent, had made arrangements for a tractor plowing demonstration on Mr. J. C. Hirons' farm in the North Ward. The continued rain made it necessary to cancel this part of the programme. Plans had also been made to hold a continuous moving picture show in a light-proof tent, but the rain interfered with this as well. The pictures, however, were shown in the Opera House which Mr. Smith engaged for the afternoon and night as soon as he found it would be impossible to carry out the plans first made. Fair sized audiences saw and enjoyed the pictures, which were not only interesting, but highly educational. One reel depicted a Western harvesting scene, showing the economic value of the Fordson tractor in seeding, harvesting, threshing and other farm operations on the prairie. Another portrayed in graphic manner the construction of the Fordson tractor beginning with the mining of the iron and ending with the finished machine. Other reels gave a series of fine pictures of mountain trail scenes and scenery in the Canadian Rockies, whale hunting off the coast of British Columbia, the banana industry in the island of Jamaica and vessel traffic on the Detroit River. It was interesting and decidedly surprising to learn that the freight tonnage on the Detroit River exceeds the tonnage through either the Suez or Panama canals.

The exhibit was in charge of Wallace Murdock, B. S. A., who was assisted by upwards of twenty experts in the uses and methods of handling the different vehicles and implements shown. The Caravan had already travelleed east as far as Kingston and Gananoque, and north through Barrie, Midland, Collingwood, Owen Sound and elsewhere. It visited Shelburne on Tuesday of last week and went from Orangeville to Grand Valley for Thursday and on to Fergus for Friday. We understand that the tour was brought to an end last week.

GIVEN A SURPRISE

Mr. and Mrs. R. Partridge, Brampton, Recipients of Presentation and Address.

On Thursday evening last a party consisting of Messrs. Dr. R. G. Edwards, Robert Crawford, W. C. Bartlett, George Young, J.A. Hocking and S. McCandless, paid a visit to their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Partridge, at the Peel-Halton House of Refuge. The purpose of the visit was to tender to Mr. and Mrs. Partridge felicitations on their recent marriage, and to present a tangible expression of their kindly regards for the superintendent and matron of the House. After some time spent in social pastimes, J. A. Hocking read an address.

To Mr. and Mrs. Partridge:

We, your personal friends, have called to pay you a visit and to let you know our appreciation of your worth in the very important position you are filling.

Since the Home for Old People was established, we can safely say less complaints have been heard from either inmates or officers in respect to the manner in which the Home has been conducted.

This was specially true of the time during which your time and mind were occupied with the illness of your esteemed wife. Notwithstanding the trouble through which you were passing, the committee observed that there was not the slightest change in the manner in which the work was carried on, and the committee have always reported everything in first-class condition and moreover pride themselves in having such first-class and efficient officers.

It was pleasing to the electors of Peel County, who knew the present matron, to realize that Mr. Partridge was so successful in procuring her to take the place of her, whose ability as a matron was marked, but whose useful life was so early cut short.

And now, we are sure, they will be doubly pleased to know that he has made the one who so efficiently filled the vacant place, his companion, not only for life, but in the work he does so well, and in which she will so ably support him.

Not only will the committee be delighted to feel that no vacancy will occur in the future, but that the posts of matron and superintendent will be filled by a man and woman respected and esteemed for their character and faithfulness.

We, your personal friends, have much pleasure in presenting you Mrs. Partridge, with this set of silverware, as a mark of appreciation of your worth in the work among Peel and Halton's old people. We ask you to accept it in the spirit in which it is offered, and not as any remuneration for your splendid services.

And to you, Mr. Partridge, we present this pipe, that you may be able to smoke the pipe of peace.

Wishing you many long and happy years together, and spent, if Providence permit, in your present offices.

W. C. Bartlett, S. McCandless,
R. G. Edwards, M. D., J. A. Hocking, George Moore, Robert Crawford.

At the conclusion of the address Robert Crawford presented Mrs. Partridge with a set of silver table ware, in the form of knives, forks and spoons, and to Mr. Partridge he gave a handsome meerschaum pipe, with silver mountings. Mr. Partridge replied very happily to their unexpected and generous remembrance from his old friends. Supper was served, after which the guests left, with warm wishes for the continued happiness and prosperity of their host and hostess.—Conservator.

THANKSGIVING SUPPER

The Ladies' Aid of the Orangeville Methodist Church will hold their Annual Thanksgiving Supper in the school room of the church on Monday evening, November 12th. ADJALA

Communion services will be held in the Adjala Presbyterian Church next Sunday, November 4th, at 11 a.m. The offering will be in behalf of missions.

NORTH ERIN

The Ladies' Aid of our Presbyterian Church have good reason to be pleased and satisfied with the outcome of their recent bazaar and chicken pie supper. The affair, which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rowan, was a real success. The proceeds were over $72.00 and a most enjoyable time was spent by everyone. The anniversary services on the preceding Sunday were also a fine success, attracting an unusually large congregation. Rev. A. E. Thornley, of Shelburne, preached in most acceptable manner.

CAMILLA

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's Church are being heartily congratulated on all hands upon the unqualified success of their Supper and Bazaar on Monday night of last week. The affair attracted a splendid crowd, the edifice being thronged to the doors. The ladies entertained their guests in their usual bountiful manner. The Supper and Bazaar were followed by an enjoyable entertainment in the body of the church, the programme being furnished by local talent. The proceeds of the evening amounted to the handsome sum of $182.45. As the expenses were comparatively light the ladies stand to make a substantial profit from thir enterprise.

CALEDON

Rev. Dr. Caldwell, the pastor, will preach in the Methodist Church at 2.30 p.m. as announced last Sunday

CAUSE OF BACKACHES

Every muscle in the body needs a supply of rich, red blood, in proportion to the work it does. The muscles of the back are under a heavy strain and have but little rest. When the blood is thin they lack nourishment and rebel. The result is a sensation of pain in these muscles.

Many people are frightened into believing that backaches are due to kidney trouble, but the best medical authorities agree that backache is very seldom due to kidney trouble. In fact not more than one backache in a hundred has anything to do with the kidneys. The whole trouble is due to thin or impure blood, and those who are troubled with pains in the back or loins, either frequent or occasional, should look to the condition of the blood. It will be found in most cases that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, by building up the blood and feeding the starved nerves and muscles will banish the pains and make you feel better in every other way. How much better it is to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for your blood than to give way to unreasonable alarm about your kidneys. If you really suspect your kidneys any doctor can make a test in ten minutes, that will set your fears at rest, or tell you the worst.

All dealers in medicine sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, or you can get them by mail, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ALTON

The girls of the Alton Junior Women's Institute have issued invitations for a dance in the Town Hall on Friday night. May's orcestra from Brampton will provide the music.

Thanksgiving services will be held in the Methodist Church here on Sunday next, Nov. 4th, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Rev. Dr. Caldwell, pastor of the church, will preach at both services. On Monday evening, Nov. 5th, a Hot Dinner will be served in the basement of the church from 6 to 8 p.m., and will be followed by a programme in the body of the church. An important feature of the programme will be a Radio Concert on an instrument furnished and operated by the Canadian Independent Telephone Co., of Toronto. The Alton Male Quartette and other local talent will provide vocal and instrumental numbers that will add to the charm and variety of the entertainment. Dinner will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock. Admission, 50c.; children under twelve, 25 cents.

Mrs. C. B. Perige and daughter, Betty, who have been visiting the former's parents here, have returned to Detroit in company with Mr. Perige.

Mrs. Clara Dodds, of Guelph, is visiting Mrs. E. D. Barber.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Palmer, Guelph, visited the former's parents over the week-end.

Visiting day at our Public School is proving quite popular. It is held the last Friday of each month. Some twenty odd parents and friends attended on October 26th and listened to a splendid program given by the children.

On Saturday evening last, Miss M. Meek entertained the members of her Sunday School Class and some of their little friends at a Hallowe'en party. The little folks derived much pleasure from the games, etc., that helped to make the evening a success.

We are pleased to see Robert Clark out again after being confined to bed on accouunt of a serious illness.

Anniversary services will be held in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday, Nov. 11th, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Rev. Dr. Armstrong, a former minister of the church and now of Guelph, will preach at both services.

Next Sunday, Nov. 4th, Rev. Geo. A. Little, one of the editors of the Presbyterian Publications, Toronto will speak in the Presbyterian Church on the missionary situation and its requirements.

There lives in our midst a rival of the famous "Red" Newman of the Dumbells. We understand that the Dumbell songs were not supposed to be sung in public by anyone except members of that company. Charles, however, has dared to break this rule and sings lustily "I'm a Daddy."

A PRESENTATION

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson, West Broadway, on Wednesday night of last week, when a number of the ladies of the Methodist Church surprised Mrs. Thompson by presenting her with a handsome reading lamp in token of their appreciation of her interest in the work of the church and her services to the Ladies' Aid Society, of which she has been treasurer for a number of years. Mrs. D. A. Hogg set forth the reasons for the gathering and the appreciation of Mrs. Thompson's services in a happy informal address. Mrs. Liddy made the presentation. Mrs. Thompson, while taken entirely by surprise, made a fitting reply. Mr. Thompson also voiced his pleasure at the honor done his wife and expressed their thanks to the ladies for their kindness. A very enjoyable social evening followed the presentation.

LAUREL

The W. M. S. of the Laurel Presbyterian Church are planning to hold their annual Thanksgiving Dinner on Tuesday evening, Nov. 13th. Dinner will be served from 6 to 8 o'clock and will be followed by a varied programme. Admission, 50c. and 25c.

MRS. WM. CORNELIUS

East Garafraxa lost one of its eldest residents recently through the death of Mrs. William Cornelius, who passed away at her late home, lot 13, con. 16, on Saturday, Oct. 13th, in her 82nd year. Deceased, whose maiden name was Emma Lathwell, was a sister of Mr. J. R. Lathwell, Orangeville. She was born in Dunstable, Bedfordshire, England, and came to Canada with her parents when a girl of 15 years. Prior to her marriage to Mr. Cornelius she resided in Amaranth township. She had dived for 56 years on the farm on which her dath occurred. A kindly, hospitable woman and the possessor of warm sympathies, that were readily enlisted in behalf of any worthy cause, she was held in genuine respect in the community in which her life was spent. Devoted to her home and the welfare of her family, in whom she found one of the great interests of her long and useful life, she was an ideal wife and mother, whose memory will always be affectionately cherished by the members of her family circle. Widespread sympathy is felt for the aged husband in the loss of the loved and trusted partner of his joys, sorrows, successes and disappointments during the more than half century that they spent together, and also for the sons and daughters. The late Mrs. Cornelius was a staunch member of the Waldemar Presbyterian Church and an examplary Christian woman, who took a keen interest in the affairs of her church. Besides her husband she is survived by the following sons and daughters: Mr. J. A. Cornelius, East Garafraxa, ex-Warden of the County of Dufferin; William and Joseph Cornelius, farmers in East Garafraxa; Fred Cornelius, of Meaford; Mrs. W. A. Dynes, Amaranth; Mrs. Geo. Lightle, Mrs. Robt. Thompson and Mrs. Albert Reid, all of East Garafraxa.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held from her late home to Greenwood Cemetery on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 16th. Services were conducted at the house and grave by Rev. S. Lundie, of Grand Valley, assisted by Rev. A. F. Webster, of Laurel, and Rev. A. W. Roffe, of Gravenhurst. The pallbearers were the four sons and two grandsons, Elmer Dynes and Alvin Cornelius. Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Gray, Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. T.J. Beggs, of Oakville; Mr. W. Lathwell, of Meaford; Mrs. F. Wright, Orangeville, and Mrs. W. E. Braden, Toronto, were some of the friends present from a distannce. The floral tributes included a pillow from the family, spray from the grandchildren, wreath from the Lathwell family, spray from Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Gray, a wreath from Waldemar Presbyterian Church and a spray from the Waldemar Presbyterian Suunday School.

MRS. HENRY LEADER

Mrs. Rebecca Leader, widow of the late Henry Leader, of East Garafraxa, passed peacefully away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Hall, of Alton, on Sunday afternoon at the ripe age of 80 years. Although in rather delicate health and a sufferer from asthma for many years, Mrs. Leader was active and able to go about until the last. The end, which came suddenly and quite unexpectedly, was due to a general breakdown of the physical system, the inevitable result of advancing years. The late Mrs. Leader, whose maiden name was Rebecca Freeman, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Freeman. She was born and lived in Halton county until her marriage to Henry Leader, a young East Garafraxa farmer. The newly wedded couple settled on lot 1, 16th line, East Garafraxa, where they reared a family of thirteen children, twelve of whom are still living. After the death of her husband nearly thirty years ago, Mrs. Leader moved to Orangeville, where she resided until two years ago, when she went to Alton to spend the remainder of her days with her daughter, Mrs. Hall. She was a kindly woman and a devoted wife and mother, whose memory will be tenderly preserved in the affections of her sons and daughters. The members of the family are: Mrs. Hall, Alton; John H., Hillsburg; William and Freeman farmers in East Garafraxa; Mrs. Geo. Carson, Orton; Wesley, Alton; Mrs. Wm. Campbell in Saskatchewan; Mrs. David Baker, Fergus George, Mrs. Ellen Filby, Mrs. E. C. Connop and Mrs. T. G. Wells, Orangeville. A daughter, Mrs. Simpson, died some years ago. Mrs. Leader is also survived by two brothers, Asher Freeman, Georgetown and William Freeman, in Muskoka and a married sister in Georgetown.

The funeral was held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Wells William St., to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Tuesday afternoon Rev. H. L. Partridge conducting the services at the house and grave. The pallbearers were four sons, John, William, George and Wesley, a brother, Asher Freeman, and a son-in-law, George Hall. A number of beautiful floral tributes bore testimony to the affection of the family and other friends of the departed woman.

CALEDON EAST

The Quarterly Service for Mono Road, Caesar's and Caledon East churches will be held in the Caledon East Methodist Church next Sunday morning at 11 a.m. Owing to the Quarterly Service in the morning there will be no service in the evening, but there will be church service at Caesar's at 3 p.m. and also at Mono Road at 7 p.m.

MRS. ELIZABETH RINTOUL

Mrs. Elizabeth Reid Rintoul, widow of the late David K. Rintoul, of Whittington, old and highly respected residents of the township of Amaranth, passed away at the residence of her son-in-law, Robert Anderson East Grand Forks, Minn., on Friday October 19th. The late Mrs. Rintoul was born in Hamilton, Scotland, in 1834. In 1884 she and her husband came out to this country and settled on a farm near Whittington, where she resided until four years ago, when she went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Anderson, of East Grand Forks, Minn. The late Mrs. Rintoul was a fine neighbor and a consistent Christian woman. In religion she was a Presbyterian, being a member of St. Andrew's Church, Camilla. She is survived by her son, Wm. R. Rintoul of Whittington, her daughter, Mrs Anderson, and a sister residing near Glasgow. The remains were brought to Orangeville for interment, the funeral taking place from Hulse'r Undertaking Parlors to the family plot in the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 24th. Rev. William Coutts, of Camilla, conducted the services. The pallbearers were her five nephews William, Alex. and David Rintoul of Crombie's, Jos. Kinsley and John S. Wallace, of Laurel, and her son-in-law, Robert Anderson, of East Grand Forks.

Pumice Stone.

Pumice is an effusive igneous rock, having a spongy texture and composed largely of glass in fine particles. Because of the latter, the stone is especially fine for polishing wood, metals, ivory and other articles. Pumice stone frequently is made up of parallel fibers or threads with intervening spaces to form a delicate structure. It is produced by the expansion of the occluded moisture of lavas when they reach the surface of the earth, and is most abundantly developed in lavas of rhyolitic composition. It may, however, be exceptionally produced in connection with any effusive rock, and is hence classified in respect to its chemical composition into rhyolite pumice, trachyte pumice, and the like. Most of the commercial product comes from the Lipari islands, north of Sicily.

The True Difference.

The poet and the historian differ not by writing in verse or prose. The work of Herodotus might be put into verse, and it would still be a species of history, with meter no less than without it. The true difference is that one relates what has happened, the other what may happen. Poetry, therefore, is a more philosophical and a higher thing than history; for poetry tends to express the universal, history the particular. By the universal I mean how a person of a certain type will on occasion speak or act, according to the law of probability or necessity, and it is this universality at which poetry aims in the names she attaches to the personages. The particular is—for example—what Alcibiades did or suffered.—Aristotle.

Hospitality as a Right.

In the Near East hospitality has ever been regarded as a sacred duty, and the "inn," which is a contraction of the word "within," was at first erected for poor pilgrims at the expense of the benevolent.

The pilgrim traveler sought hospitality as a right, and it was because the routes became crowded that the earliest "inns" were established, those in or near the towns called Khans and in the waste spaces named caravanserais.

As far as can be determined, the first hotel of the western world was Kriger's tavern, erected at the lower end of Manhattan island in 1642.

PRIMROSE

(Intended for last week.)

Mr. and Mrs. James Dean held a reception at their home on Wednesday evening, October 17th, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Patterson who arrived home on the evening train from their honeymoon trip. Shortly after their arrival the happy couple took their places in the drawing room, which was tastefully decorated in pink and white, with autumn leaves and white bells. The bride was becomingly attired in champagne baronette satin, with corsage bouquet of carnations and maidenhair fern. After receiving hearty congratulations and good wishes from guests to the number of one hundred and fifty, a very dainty lunch was served by the hostess. The evening was then spent in dancing card playing and other amusements until the wee, sma' hours of the morning. The bride was the recipient of many costly and useful gifts, showing the high esteem in which the young couple are held. Friends from Toronto, Owen Sound Everett, Orangeville and other places were present. Music was rendered by local talent and all spent a very enjoyable evening.

ST. ANDREW'S ANNIVERSARY

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Orangeville, will hold its annual Anniversary Services on Sunday, Nov. 18th, morning and evening. The Church has been fortunuate in securing the services of Major the Rev A. L. Burch, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Scarboro, for the services Major Burch is a former pastor of St. Andrew's Church and his many Orangeville friends will welcome this opportunity of hearing and meeting him. On Monday night, Nov. 19th the congregation will hold an old-fashioned Tea Meeting in the school room of the church.

Shampoo This Way with Olive Oil and you will have hair with gleam and softness of silk

Olive oil for the shampoo, say leading hair specalists. Olive oil for the shampoo, agree women who have learned the secret—who are admired for their lovely hair

And this, specialists tell you, is why:

Olive oil cleanses thoroughly but gently. It never leaves hair dry and brittle—robbed of the delicate gloss and sheen that means beauty.

It washes away all dirt and oil. Dissolves and removes clogging dandruff. It leaves hair fluffy and soft. But never dry, never dull. Pliant and shimmering as new silk, instead.

And this means beautiful, attractive hair—without which no beauty of face or dress is quite sufficient.

Olive oil treatment in its finest, most convenient form, is PALMOLIVE SHAMPOO. Thousands and thousands of women use it today. They find it most economical—for a treatment that costs a great deal when given by specialists.

You may have a 15c trial bottle free, by sending the coupon. Or you can get full-sized bottles at your dealer's. A single shampoo will amaze you.

THEY WERE SURPRISED

Acton has two professional men, a lawyer and an auctieneer, who got the surprise of their lives the other day when they found themselves covered with revolvers and ranked as bank bandits. They drove from Acton to Orton, transacted certain business there and hurried into the branch of the Union Bank there to have a cheque cashed just prior to the hour of closing. The lawyer, in his usual somewhat peremptory business tone, said to the teller, as he approached the cage, "I want $550.00." Immediately the lawyer and the auctioneer were covered by the revolvers of the teller and manager, under the impression that they were the subjects of a bank bandits' raid. Confused explanations were promptly made by the visitors and profuse apologies offered by the bank officials, and the desired business transacted. The professional men are still puzzling their brains in the effort to discover why men of their acknowledged prominence and good honest appearance could possibly be taken for a pair of murderous bandits who are going about the country.—Acton Free Press.

Guard Your Throat!

ONCE let 'cold germs' find the weak spot in your throat and troubles come thick and fast.

The tickling soreness at the back of the mouth, hoarseness, difficulty in swallowing and irritating dry cough are all evidence of germ attack.

The one speedy effective way to banish these troublesome symptoms is the Peps breatheable way. Simply take a Peps, peel off the protective silver-jacket and let the tablet slowly dissolve on the tongue, when the volatile healing medicines will mix naturally with the breath.

The germ-destroying Peps fumes as they circulate through the air passages are soothing and comforting. Pain and irritation is charmed away. Any inflammation or soreness of the delicate membrane lining the way from mouth to lungs is speedily ended. You can lose the cough, hoarseness and swallowing difficulty.

Always carry a few of these silver-wrapped Peps tablets about with you as a remedy and safeguard against coughs, colds, chills and bronchitis, or other throat and chest weakness.

Be sure and get a box of Peps To-Day!

BEAT UP CHINK

Owen Sound Restaurant Keeper Badly Maltreated by a Number of Young Men.

Fong Say, one of the Chinamen who operate a restaurant on 10th street east, was nearly killed outright early on Wednesday morning, when he was brutally beaten by a number of young men in his restaurant. He was bruised all over the back, shoulder, and sides, and a cut several inches in length in his scalp was probably the most serious injury. Wednesday morning, in police court, three young men, Wallace King, William Forsyth and Robert Hutton, were charged with the assault, with intent to do bodily harm, but before they were allowed to enter a plea, were remandd to jail until Monday next, in order that the case may be prepared against them. Whether the three young men are responsible for the Chinaman's condition will not be known until the evidence is produced at the trial but it is stated that when one of them was taken to the restaurant, after the fracas, he was identified as one of those who were concerned in the maltreatment of the Oriental.

There were few witnesses of the affair except Chinamen, and they are so excited over the affair that they can talk about it in little other than Chinese. An interpreter will probably have to be secured before the trial can take place on Monday.

It is stated, however, that the young men who were responsible for the serious condition of the Chinaman were not entirely sober at the time. Whether the blame for the fight rests on them or on the Chinaman cannot be learned. The results were very evident. Broken dishes, in amount, nearly sufficient to start a small eating place, were strewn about the floor at the back of the restaurant. When the police arrived, the Chinaman was lying on the floor in an unconscious condition, his head in a small pool of blood, from the cut.

Dr. Gaviller was called and when he arrived about half an hour later, the Chinaman was still on the floor unconscious. To all appearances he was dead. The police officers greatly feared they had a case of murder with which to deal.

Examination by Dr. Gaviller and Dr. Middlebro showed that the man's head had been cut by a blow with a club or some other such object. He was bruised all over the body. On his back were half a dozen large bruises, while his sides, shoulders and arms showed the effects of the beating he had received. On Wednesday morning his condition was still very serious, although his life was not despaired of.

Deputy Chief of Police John Thompson, P. C. McNabb, and Provincial Constable Jones were at the restaurant a short time after the conclusion of the fight, but everyone but the Chinamen had disappeared. Before morning they had arrested the three young men, two of whom were in bed when they arrived at their homes. With very little to work on the officers succeeded in rounding up three of the young men, who they believe, had some part in the affair.

In police court the boys appeared to be taking the affair very lightly. The police are determined that the affair will be probed to the bottom, so that those who are guilty of the assault, whether it be the three young men now in custody or not will be punished.—Owen Sound Sun-Times.

Toys From Rubbish.

One of the most remarkable boys in Britain lives at Teddington, near London.

He is David Walton, aged thirteen, and he is described as a mechanical genius of great promise. He has never played with bought toys, but has made his own ever since he was able to hold a penknife. One of his recent feats was to construct a working model steam-engine at a total cost of sixpence. He used a cocoa tin as a boiler.

But his most wonderful achievement was a full-sized gramophone, which he made out of odds and ends of rubbish in a single evening. He used an empty margarine box as a cabinet. The only thing that gave him any trouble was the sound-box, for which he used a tooth-paste tin!

He engraves blocks and prints his school magazine; while he is the recognised expert in his neighborhood for the repair of engines and so on. He has never been given any toys, and his Christmas and birthday presents always take the form of tools, which he puts to very good use.

Men in Their Prime.

From 28 to 49 for the average man. Long ago a man was considered at his strongest and most beautiful between 20 and 30, at his best as a leader or manager from 30 to 40, as an experienced man of business from 40 to 50, and as a councillor or judge of other men's troubles from 50 to 60. Roughly these divisions are to some extent still correct. Modern life, however, with its increased opportunities for travel and education, has so speeded up conditions that young men of business and politics have by the twenties often acquired enough experience to allow them to rise to their prime early in life. At the other end of life, altered social conditions and better medical attention have allowed physical efficiency to be retained far longer.

Lost In Transaction.

It is just a hundred years since the British infantryman, by order of the Duke of York, discarded the breeches, gaiters, and shoes that had constituted half his uniform, and appeared in the blue-grey trousers and half-boots of the new dispensation. As usual, the private soldier was no gainer by the change. Hitherto he had been provided with a waistcoat by a grateful nation, but, with the advent of trousers, then more expensive than breeches, the waistcoat became one of the "necessaries" the private had to "find" out of his shilling a day.

Marrying Ages.

In Britain the age at which parties may legally bind themselves in marriage is fourteen in the case of boys and twelve in that of girls.

In Germany a man must be at least eighteen years of age before he may marry. In Portugal a boy of fourteen is considered marriageable, and a girl of twelve.

In Greece a youth must have seen at least fourteen summers and the girl twelve. In France the man must be eighteen and the woman sixteen, and in Belgium the same ages.

In Spain the intended husband must have passed his fourteenth year and the wife her twelfth. In Switzerland boys from the age of fourteen and girls from the age of twelve are allowed to marry.

In Turkey any youth and maiden who can walk properly and can understand the necessary religious service are allowed to be united for life.

Bamboo Reinforces Concrete.

Bamboo, which has been chemically treated, is used as a reinforcement for concrete in Japan, according to the magazine Concrete. Henry G. Hitchcock, American consul at Nagasaki, states that the chemicals used in treating the bamboo are apparently known only to the few who have made use of them.

"Bamboo is occasionally used without chemicals to protect it from decay, in the construction of concrete ditches, small culverts and the like in districts where there is a great deal of sulphur in the soil and sulphur gas in the air," says the writer. "This is done because it is believed that bamboo is not so quickly destroyed by the sulphur as ordinary reinforcing would be."

Potato Appropriately Honored.

The lowly potato has at last been given just recognition. Poets may sing the praises of pomegranates and tropical fruits, but the potato now has a monument erected in its honor. The granite tablet, erected by farmers on a piece of land in the Harts Mountains, bears the inscription, "Here was made the first experiment in growing potatoes in 1747." The experiment was tried just 175 years ago. At that time few people consented to eat the food. The cultivation of potatoes had started in Bohemia more than a century before the experiment was tried in Prussia.

Her Only Flight Through Air.

Little Nellie's mother was entertaining a famous aviator. After he had finished a thrilling story, little daughter sighed deeply and said:

"I've clear forgot how it feels to sail through the air."

"Why, Nellie," said her mother in a shocked voice, "you were never in the air in your life."

"Gracious, mamma! Have you forgotten that the stork brought me?"—Everybody's Magazine.

Too Ready to Agree.

She—Can it be that you really love me? I know I am not beautiful.

He—But I care nothing for beauty.

She—Oh, indeed! So you do not hesitate to insult me already! Please consider our engagement at an end.

VETERAN BUILDING VANISHES

Ancient Landmark of the Leslie Gardens Neighborhood in Toronto Pulled Down.

The substantial 2½ storey brick building that stood so long at the corner of Jones avenue and Queen street, which has been recently torn down to make way for modern stores, was erected in 1862 by the late George Leslie for an agricultural warehouse and seed store in connection with the Toronto Nurseries, of which he was then the energetic proprietor.

The building was built by Ardagh & Livingstone, then prominent contractors, after designs of W. Kauffman, architect, who designed the store at Curzon and Queen street, also the store for James Morin, corner of Leslie and Queen streets, now the Duke of York Hotel, and built by the same contractors.

Richard Ardagh was then the chief of the volunteer fire brigade of Toronto and afterwards chief of the permanent brigade. At the time of building this structure the architect had plans ready for a handsome family residence for Mr. Leslie which was to have been erected in the centre of the present Leslie Park on the west side of Jones avenue.

A Busy Centre Then

Jones avenue was not opened for a great many years after this date and at that time the building was put up it was surrounded with lawns hedges, greenhouses, rose borders and specimen fruit orchards of dwarf trees.

As times were not favorable to the erection of further building the warehouse was transformed into a dwelling house with offices in front. The Ashport Postoffice was changed to the name of the Leslie Postoffice and its location moved into the Leslie Building, with George Leslie Jr. as postmaster.

This building was the centre of much of the activities of the neighborhood; the gossips of the district calling for their mail distributing the news daily. The business of the nursery was then at its height, the nurseries being the largest in the province or in all Canada for that matter at that time.

Mr. Leslie, being a magistrate, he often held court in the office, settling disputes between the residents of the vicinity, and the writer being generally present, heard a great many amusing cases arising out of neighbors' disputes. Order was kept by the redoubtable Wm. Higgins, the high constable of York, with all the dignity pertaining to his office.

Grand Old Man

Geo. Leslie Sr. lived to a great age, dying here at 87 years, active to the last, and was certainly a remarkable man in many respects, and left his mark in the district.

The property came into possession of the Gooderham people, who changed the house into several dwellings by adding several rooms on the east side.

The old place witnessed the annexation of that part of York township to the city, becoming "St. Matthew's Ward." The passing of the several stage coaches and busses by the tramway, followed by the street railway which first ran to the Woodbine and afterwards to the Beaches. The Montreal Telegraph Co. had an office, the operator being the late Col. J. K. Leslie. He, with Geo. Leslie Jr., formed the firm of Geo. Leslie & Sons, who in their time played an important part in the story of fruit in the province. Most of the old orchards now in the country were supplied from this nursery while Geo. Leslie was an expert in identifying doubtful varieties of all kinds of fruit and giving them their proper names. In addition to many other excellencies, he was a writer on horticultural subjects in those days and a penman without a peer, an accomplishment which is fast becoming a lost art in these typewriter days.

Worthies of the Period.

The old house in the Leslie occupation had a balcony on the second storey while a broad platform ran across the office front with steps down to the sidewalk in front on Queen street.

Here would often be seen the old familiar figures of prominent characters of those days, such as Alexander Muir, Rev. Dr. Wrig, Rev. Father D'Reilly, Thos. Hastings Sr. —Toronto Telegram.

H. J. Daley, President of the defunct Home Bank, is troubled with insomnia. Some of the shareholders of, and depositors in this wrecked financial institution have lost a lot of sleep at nights too.

The $10,000 of bonds issued by the Thomson Motor Supplies, Ltd., and guaranteed by the Corporation of Acton, were put on the market a few weeks ago. They were all sold within a week to local investors.

Brian McCool, son of Inspector McCool, of North Bruce, returned from Nipigon, where he was acting as a fire ranger, bringing with him a beautiful brook trout, mounted on birch bark, and set in a rustic frame of elm with the bark left on. The mounting was done by an Indian of Nipigon district, and the fish, which was a fine specimen and measured 24 inches long and weighed 4 1-2 pounds, was landed by Brian in Lake Nipigon.

Severe Kidney Trouble

Mrs. F. Rinehart, Campbellville, Ont., writes:

"I had trouble with my kidneys and very frequent urination. This was followed by pains which at times were very severe. The doctor said I had inflammation of the bladder and that an operation might be necessary. To this I refused, and began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. From the first few doses I felt the benefit. The pains left, urination was corrected, and I have had no recurrence of these ailments."

WANT A RAISE

School Inspectors Ask Increase From $3,000 to $4,000 — Minister Promises Some Relief For Them.

"We do not want to have too much of our time taken up making ends meet. We are not financiers and prefer to confine ourselves to educational work," said A. E. Jordan, York County School Inspector, in asking Premier Ferguson last week for an increase of from $3,000 to $4,000 for inspectors. A deputation of about thirty inspectors represented the 115 inspectors of the Province.

"Although I cannot tell you definitely what I can do towards meeting your views, I will promise that I will meet them to some extent," said the Premier, who added that in his mind the most important work of the inspectors is to develop in the student a love and appreciation of learning, thereby developing personality and individuality. "More of the personal element is needed, and this can be accomplished by inspectors in co-operation with the teachers," he said.

Mr. Jordan argued that inspectors at $3,000 are paid less than the principals of the Public Schools they supervise. Besides routine work they have to pass upon school-sites, plans, etc., and have to go through twelve years' training.

Here and There

The world's record for grain trains was shattered by the Canadian Pacific Railway on October 5th, with a monster train of 125 car loads of wheat, over a mile long, which operated between Stoughton and Arcola. The contents of the cars, 185,000 bushels, weighed 5,566 tons.

All grain loading records in Alberta were completely smashed by the Canadian Pacific on October 10th when the Company loaded 753 cars, representing at least 1,065,200 bushels. If these cars were placed together they would make up a freight train about six miles in length, and a baker's dozen of these trains would extend from Calgary to Banff, a distance of 82 miles.

A record in western railroad construction was established on the Canadian Pacific Lanigan-Melfort line recently, when the last mile of track between Lanigan and Pleasantdale was completed in one day. D. A. Livingstone, engineer in charge, reports that seventy per cent of his crew of 25 were British harvesters.

Federal and Provincial Departments of Agriculture co-operated in the purchase in the British Isles of a large stock of horses, swine and sheep, including sheep owned by His Majesty the King, which arrived here recently. This is the second shipment of cattle to Canada through the co-operation of the agricultural departments with sheep and swine breeders throughout the Dominion.

T. E. Doherty, the Canadian Commissioner in the International Institute of Agriculture, estimates Canada's exportable wheat surplus this year at 300 million bushels, as against 150 millions from the United States, 110 from Argentina, 50 from Australia, and 15 from Russia. Canada, in fact, may be expected to supply nearly half the wheat exports of the whole world—300 out of 675 million bushels.

E. W. Beatty, K.C., President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, speaking at important centres on his recent extensive tour through the Canadian West, sounded a note of optimism, declaring that the general improvement in Canadian business conditions rendered an accompanying growing pessimism entirely unjustifiable. Stressing the need for a vigorous, intensive immigration policy by the government, he put forward as suggestions that the department of immigration and colonization should issue a general invitation through Great Britain, the United States and certain European countries, for settlers, and that greater advantage should be taken of the favorable policies towards emigration to Canada adopted by the governments of Great Britain and other countries.

Most extraordinary yields of grain are reported from the Provincial School of Agriculture at Olds, Alberta. On a one-acre patch 105 bushels of Marquis wheat were threshed, which is believed to be a record for this crop, exceeding the 82 bushel yield of Seager Wheeler, which was previously considered unsurpassable. From an acre seeded to oats, 205 bushels were threshed. Barley similarly yielded exceptionally. On a field of 27 acres an average of 70 bushels to the acre was secured, whilst on another, 10 acres of a different variety, a yield of 80 bushels to the acre was recorded.

Eighty per cent of Canada's national debt is owned by Canadians. Bank deposits in this country at the close of the last fiscal year, March 31st, 1923, totalled $1,218,000,000, an increase in ten years of $720,000,000. The year's trade records show Canada's foreign trade to be $1,000,000,000, an increase of $221,000,00 over last year, and Canada's exports to exceed her imports by $107,000,000, forty-two per cent of these exports being finished products.

Romances of Married Life

The centenary of the birth of a Victorian poet who immortalized his wife in the most widely read poem of its time, "The Angel in the House," occurred on July 23rd.

Love had been the theme of poetry from time immemorial, but it had not always been the love of husband and wife. In fact, until Coventry Patmore set himself to write a great poem on married lovers, the romance of matrimony, no poet of much importance in the world had ever taken that for his theme.

Coventry Patmore was always annoyed when people identified Honoria Churchill and Felix Vaughan, the fictitious characters of the poem, with Emily Augusta Andrews and himself, for Honoria was the daughter of a dean and lived in a deanery—in a cathedral city, whilst Emily Andrews, who became Emily Patmore, was the daughter of a Congregational minister and lived at Wandsworth.

That seemed sufficient. Yet the poem has the following inscription: "This poem is inscribed to the memory of her by whom and for whom I became a poet," and it is quite certain that one of the most idyllic marriages a poet ever made was the true source of "The Angel in the House."

By common consent Patmore's Emily was an "angel," both "in the house" and out of it. Millais, then a young man, but destined to become president of the Royal Academy, painted her portrait. Thomas Woolner, the finest sculptor of his day, made a medallion of her lovely head, and Robert Browning wrote a poem about her, and, best of all, her husband, out of the experience of her daily love and service, wrote a poem which became a "best seller," running into a quarter of a million copies.

Tennyson, who had his own taste in feminine charm, was captivated by Patmore's wife, and Ruskin and Carlyle were among her outspoken admirers. She died after fifteen perfect years of married life.

The Pre-Raphaelite room at the Tate Gallery is dotted all over with the face and features of Elizabeth Eleanor Siddall, who, being exceedingly beautiful, was constantly painted and drawn by Dante Gabriel Rossetti, who eventually married her. She was a favorite model of many other painters, and it is she who is floating down the stream among scattered flowers in Millais' famous picture "Ophelia."

She enjoyed only two years of married life, and the poet-painter was so inconsolable at her loss that he had all his manuscript poems, which he said she had inspired, buried in her grave, and it was not for many years, and then at the continued solicitation of his friends, that he would consent to their recovery.

Burns has immortalized Jean Armour, his wife, in several of his wonderful songs, and chiefly the most natural and beautiful of all his love lyrics, written, not before, but after marriage:—

Of a' the airts the wind can blaw
I dearly like the west,
For there the bonnie lassie lives,
The lassie I lo'e best.

It was at a time when he was temporarily at a distance from his wife, and the west wind came from her to him. She had, too, a good singing voice, and thus Burns says:—

There's not a bonnie bird that sings
But minds me o' my Jean.

Milton also immortalized his second wife, who appears to have won all his love. Their married life lasted only a year. To Katherine Woodcock the great sonnet was written which resembles the famous one of Petrarch to his dead Laura.

Methought I saw my late espoused saint
Brought to me like Alcestis from the grave.

It was probably this great sonnet of dreaming of the return of a dead wife which Millais had in mind when he painted his great picture "Speak! Speak!"

The Smallest Fish.

Probably the smallest fish in the world are to be found in the mountain lake, Buhl, in the island of Luson, Philippines. This fish, which the natives call the "amarapah," is the most minute vertebrae animal known to science. It weighs only half a grain, and half an inch is its maximum length. The natives catch it with a net of exceedingly fine mesh—scarcely more than a coarse cloth, which is used as a sieve. In this manner great quantities of the tiny fishes are captured, and being dried in a mass in the sun without any other cooking, are seasoned with pepper and other spices and pressed into flat round cakes. Inasmuch as a single cake contains from 2,000 to 4,000 fishes, the smallness of the latter will be realized.

A New Chemical.

Treating wool or woollen goods with a newly discovered chemical called "eulan," which is both colorless and odorless, makes the goods higher offensive to moths. The chemical is the discovery of a German chemist, who based his experiments on the observed fact that moths avoid cloth colored with certain dyes, such, for example, as eosin.

Tay Alias Tea.

This advertisement appeared in the London Public Adviser just fifteen years after Montreal was founded: "That excellent and by all Physitians approved China Drink, called by the Chinese Tcha, by other nations Tay, alias Tee, is sold at the Sultanese Head, a cophee-house in Sweetings Rents, by the Royal Exchange, London."

Roast Turkey!

For tender, meltingly delicious and wondrous flavored turkey, you must roast it in an SMP Crystal Ware or Pearl Ware roaster. This roaster roasts as if by magic. It bastes the roast or fowl—the fat dripping down from above. The delicate juices and rare flavor are cooked right in. Nothing is lost. There is no wasteful shrinkage.

When you buy expensive roasts of meat, turkey, or other fowl or fish, you want them perfectly cooked. For from $2.00 to $4.00 you can purchase a splendid SMP Roaster that will positively guarantee the roasting. To ensure the perfect cooking of an expensive 15-lb. turkey, surely it would pay you to use the proper utensil—an SMP roaster costing only one-quarter the price of the fowl! A roaster that fully guarantees perfect roasting!

After the hardest roasting, an SMP Roaster cleans as easily and simply as a china dish. No scouring or hard cleaning. There are styles and sizes to suit every size of roast, fish or fowl. Finished in Pearl Ware, two-coated pearly-grey enameled ware, or Crystal Ware, three-coated snowy-white enameled ware. You can inspect them at any good hardware store.

AMERICAN GRAIN BLOCKS ELEVATORS

Government Authorities make Blunders—Explanation of Congestion by Prominent Shipping Man

When the attention of Mr. J. W. Norcross, Vice-President of the Canada Steamship Lines, Ltd., on his return from New York, was directed to the article appearing in a Montreal paper last Friday to the effect that a blockade of the grain facilities of the Port of Montreal was to be expected, Mr. Norcross said that due to the fact that a considerable portion of the grain handling facilities of the port were occupied by American grain, which was not moving, that the movement of the Canadian crop would, undoubtedly, be severely handicapped.

Going somewhat into details Mr. Norcross said that the latest figures covering the stocks of grain in Montreal harbor showed that something in excess of 50 per cent of the facilities of the port were occupied by American grain held here for speculative or storage purposes, and he considered that this was inflicting a very serious injury upon the movement of the Canadian crop.

The rate of freight charged by Transportation Companies on the movement of grain depended, to a large extent, upon the despatch or time for loading and unloading which could be secured by steamers participating in the movement. This would be more plainly apparent when it was understood that steamers carrying grain had been unable to secure a demurrage clause in their charter parties, and it was, therefore, necessary for them to charge freight rates which would take care of any delays that they might experience at either loading or unloading ports. These conditions are not accepted voluntarily by the Water Transportation Companies, but on the other hand, they had been forced to accept it due to the fact that the grain shippers have stated that unless they know the ultimate cost of their grain when it reaches the ocean shipping port it is practically impossible for them to make sales.

The Lake Transportation Companies now find themselves in the precarious position of making a freight rate for the movement of grain during the latter part of October and the month of November when they will be forced to operate under conditions of which they can have no accurate knowledge, and with the possibility of the Port of Montreal being blockaded on the movement of grain. It must be expected that the Steamship Companies should be reimbursed at a rate of freight which will compensate them for these delays which are expected to occur.

The argument of the proposed suspension of the Coasting Laws is that by participation of American steamers in the movement of grain between Canadian ports that the supply of tonnage would be increased and that the freight would be lowered. This view is incorrect. Mr. Norcross raised the question why should American boats be expected to move grain between Canadian ports under this proposed suspension of the Coasting Laws when they have failed to move grain under the existing regulations, which, of course, would still apply under this proposed suspension.

Careful consideration should also be given to the fact that with the influx of an additional volume of shipping to the Canadian route a corresponding additional volume of grain would be poured into the route which would naturally increase the present congestion at the Port of Montreal, and thereby affect the despatch which steamers would secure at Montreal and Georgian Bay ports. With this additional volume of grain it is expected that the delays to steamers would materially increase and this would automatically increase the freight rate to take care of these delays.

Mr. Norcross drew attention to a despatch just received from Cleveland to the effect that the fifteen steamers operated by the Cleveland Cliffs Company of Cleveland had been withdrawn from the Canadian grain trade and further stated that this would have a decided effect on the volume of grain which would be loaded at Fort William and Port Arthur in American bottoms.

A review of the conditions surrounding the movement of the Canadian crop the time it reaches the country elevators until it is placed aboard the ocean steamers en route to an English or European market, indicates very clearly the lack of any comprehensive scheme to market a commodity which is the most important that the Dominion of Canada produces.

The problem will not be solved without the most careful and intensive study of transportation experts and hasty remedies which are suggested to meet the requirements of the immediate present, or to satisfy the desires of some particular section of the community, should be given the necessary careful consideration before they are adopted.

The legislation recently enacted under the name of "Inland Water Freight Rates Act, 1922," is a striking example of the serious blunders which may be made by Government authorities even though they have the very best of intentions, when they are advised by the so-called experts, with little, if any, knowledge of the subject under discussion.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear father and husband, Robinson Dynes who Entered into Rest on October 23rd, 1922.

Gone, dear father, much we miss you
As it dawns another year;
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are always near.

Do not ask us if we miss you,
There is such a vacant place;
Can we forget that foot-step,
And that dear familiar face

Sadly missed by Wife and Family

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my mother, Mrs. Esther Keys, who departed this life on November 2nd, aged 80 years.

No one knows how much I miss her,
No one knows the bitter pain
I have suffered since I lost her;
Life has never been the same.

In my heart her memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true;
Not a day, dear mother,
That I do not think of you.

Lovingly remembered by her daughter, Alta.

LOCAL NEWS

—The hunters will leave for the north next week.

—Farmers have been favored this year with ideal weather for harvesting their root crop.

—Mr. Fred L. McMullin, teller in the Bank of Commerce, Wallaceburg, has been transferred to the Dundas Branch.

—The Farmers' Advocate announces a reduction in its subscription rate. The new rate is $1.00 a year. The rate heretofore was $1.50 a year.

—Rev. W. A. Egan, parish priest in Collingwood for the last eight years and previously in Orangeville, has been transferred to St. Mary's Church in Dixis, a Toronto suburb.

—The Bell Telephone Co. has been given permission to place a public telephone booth in the Orangeville post office. It is expected that this will prove a real convenience to the public.

—While threshing was in progress on the farm of James Graham, of Achil, a few days ago, the barn caught fire and was completely destroyed, together with the grain and hay crop.

—The potato crop is out of the ground and safely stored away. A fairly good yield is reported in most cases. The potatoes are an excellent sample this year and there is no sign of rot.

—Mr. Arch McCabe has sold his 100 acre farm, half of lot 12, 3rd line, Amaranth, to William Cockerill, of Shelburne, who will get possession on March 1st. The sale was made by Mr. R. P. Wilson, representative of the Willoughby Farm Agency.

—The Thornton Smith Co., of Toronto, have been awarded the contract of repainting the Orangeville post office. The contract is for the interior and exterior of the building and also includes provision for a new flagstaff and new steps at the entrances.

—An advertiser, who ran a Want advt. in The Banner a few weeks ago, writes us, "We appreciate very much the way that our ad. in your paper has brought such wonderful enquiries and we hope that in the future we may do some more advertising with your good selves."

—Mrs. W. Fairbairn's services were much in demand as judge on ladies' work, fine art and domestic science at the Fall Fairs this year. Mrs. Fairbairn officiated as judge at a number of Western Ontario fairs and was asked to go to other places as well, but found it impossible to spare the time.

—A dirty bit of business occurred in Grand Valley on a recent Sunday night, when Orville Patten had three tires and rims removed from his car, the battery destroyed and the tools stolen. While driving home from church, Mr. Patten had car trouble and left his auto on the roadside until the following morning. When he returned in the morning he found it stripped of almost everything that could be removed.

—Miss Annie Ellis was in great demand as a judge of ladies' work at the fall fairs this year. She commenced on Sept. 13th and finished on October 11th, judging at the following fairs: New Hamburg, Mildmay, Pinkerton, Ripley, Milverton, Feversham, Port Elgin and Erin.

—In a letter to The Banner, Mr. Albert Crane, of Edgerton, Alta., reports good crops in his district this year. Wheat, he says, is averaging 30 to 40 bushels per acre.

GUARD THE BABY AGAINST COLDS

To guard the baby against colds nothing can equal Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are a mild laxative that will keep the little one's stomach and bowels working regularly. It is a recognized fact that where the stomach and bowels are in good order that colds will not exist; that the health of the little one will be good and that he will thrive and be happy and good natured. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail, at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"A WONDERFUL WOMAN"

A remarkable picture of a wonderful woman whose life story provides chapter after chapter of astounding heroism, extraordinary self-sacrifice and almost miraculous achievements, is, we hear, to be given free to each subscriber of the Family Hrald and Weekly Star of Montreal. The life story of "The Wonderful Heroine" can also be obtained, cost free, by sending a post card to the Family Herald and Weekly Star.

DEER HUNTING

Mr. W. A. Mewhinney, local game and fisheries overseer, has received a communication from the Game and Fisheries Warden in Toronto advising him that an Order in Council has recently been passed prohibiting the hunting or killing of deer in the Counties of Simcoe, Dufferin, Grey and Wellington for a further period of three years from the 4th day of November next. The prohibition has been in force for a number of years.

LADIES' AID CONCERT

A fair sized crowd attended the concert given in the Opera House on Friday night under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Church. An excellent programme was furnished by Kelly Family, of Guelph, wide-known as acceptable musical entertainers. Mr. Charles Kelly, who has been before the concert going public of Ontario for thirty years or longer, was heard in a number of guitar selections and also entertained his hearers with a couple of well-rendered readings. Miss Hattie Kelly contributed a piano number and appeared in duets with Mr. Chas. Kelly, one of the artists performing on the guitar and the other on the mandolin. Her rich, full contralto voice was much appreciated in her duets with Miss Morton and her audience would have liked very much to hear her in solo work. Miss Pearl Morton is a gifted young soprano of much promise. Harry Kelly, a boy singer with a wonderfully sweet and expressive voice, was heard with genuine pleasure and was heartily encored after each apparance. The ladies of St. Andrew's deserve congratulations on the quality of the programme they provided and it is a matter of regret that the audience was not larger. Mayor Jeffers occupied the chair.

W. M. S. THANK-OFFERING

St. Andrew's Church W. M. S. held their annual Thank-offering meeting in the School Room of the church on Thursday night. The meeting was well attended and those present heard a fine address by Miss Rennie, of Stratford, who gave a number of reasons why Christian women should be active members of the W. M. S. The speaker stressed the opportunity and need for consecrated Christian service, pointing out that to be truly successful and of value to humanity the life of every man and woman must be a life of service. Mrs. Mahaffy occupied the chair and at the close of the meeting Miss Rennie was tendered the thanks of her audience upon motion of Mrs. Grigg, seconded by Mrs. J. E. Smith. Misses Madeline Leggett and Jessie Campbell contributed an appreciated vocal duet. A liberal Thank-offering was received for the mission work of the Society.

CALLED SUDDENLY

Rev. J. H. Turnbull, Former Mono Township Boy, Passed Away on Tuesday.

Rev. J. H. Turnbull, D.D., pastor of High Park Presbyterian Church, Roncesvalles avenue, died suddenly about 9.30 Tuesday night at his home, 198 Westminster avenue. He has been ill only since Monday morning. He was on the golf links when he suffered a seizure, and was taken to his home. Early in the summer Dr. Turnbull had been troubled with attacks of neuritis and his usual vacation was extended somewhat, it being felt that a rest from his arduous pastoral duties would benefit him in health. He was able, however, to be in his pulpit twice last Sunday.

An eloquent and forceful preacher, with a clear delivery, Rev. Dr. Turnbull was one of the foremost ministers of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Strong physically, he was a splendid organizer and hard worker in his church.

A native of Mono township and for several years a resident of Orangeville, Rev. Dr. Turnbull graduated from Queen's University in 1898. Following his ordination his first pastorate was at Bowmanville, removing from there to Bank Street Church, Ottawa. He was later called to Chalmers' Church, Ottawa, from which charge he came to High Park Church in this city some five years ago. His Ottawa pastorates together lasted 15 years. Two years ago he received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from his alma mater.

Rev. Dr. Turnbull was one of the central figures in the historic Church Union debate at the Presbyterian General Assembly in Fort William this year. He was the first member of the Assembly recognized by the Moderator at the opening of the epochal discussion. His remarks were warmly received, and were a real contribution to the discussion. Rev. Dr. Turnbull was nominated for Moderator of the Synod of Toronto and Kingston at its last session, but withdrew his name.

Mrs. Turnbull, who survives her husband, was also a graduate of Queen's University in 1898. At the time of her graduation she was Miss Elizabeth Murray, a niece of Prof. Clarke Murray, of Queen's. Two daughters and one son survive. Three sisters, Misses Margaret Martha and Sarah Turnbull, of Ottawa, also survive. Mr. Turnbull died this year, at an advanced age.

The funeral will be held to-day (Thursday) and will be in charge of the Presbytery of Toronto.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

A large congregation enjoyed a splendid address in the Baptist Church last Sunday morning from Rev. W. J. H. Brown, pastor of Annette St. Baptist Church, Toronto, and Moderator of the Toronto Baptist Association. Mr. Brown, who is the father of the present pastor here, spoke on the subject of the Holy Spirit. At the evening service the visiting minister baptized eight candidates, most of whom will be received into membership at the communion service next Sunday evening.

CLOTHING THIEVES

Jacob Pearl, the third man mixed up in the burglary of J. D. Torrie's clothing store a few weeks ago, was brought to Orangeville and lodged in the gaol here on Monday night. Pearl was arrested in Toronto, tried and sentenced to two years less one day in the Ontario Prison Reformatory for the theft of an automobile in the city. After his conviction he was turned over to the authorities here for trial on the burglary charge. He will appear before Magistrate Falconer to-day, but will likely be remanded for a week.

Albert Chadwick, of Sprucedale implicated in the theft of $500 worth of furs and clothing from the Norton Fisher Co.'s store in Shelburne a couple of weeks ago, is also in the toils here. He was brought to Orangeville Tuesday night and will also appear before Magistrate Falconer to-day.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Things are going along merrily at High School this year. The Inspector has paid his visit, Field Day Day is over, and now the students are settling down to study in earnest.

The Literary Society has been organized for the year with the following officers: Honorary President Principal E. Hackett, B. A.; President, Gordon S. Adamson; Vice-President, Frederick A. Wansbrough; Secretary, Kathleen Wheelock; Treasurer, Douglas L. Adamson.

So far there has not been a meeting of the "Lit," but we will hope for one in the near future.

It is rumoured that the autumn party will be held within the next couple of weeks.

The student body of the school is making elaborate preparations for the Annual Commencement Exercises, to be held in December. It is expected that a play will again be the main feature of the programme. Last year's play was such an unqualified success that another this year should draw a capacity house. It might not be a bad idea to hold the exercises on two consecutive nights. This would give everybody an opportunity of patronizing the enterprise and do away with the necessity of refusing admittance to the Opera House for lack of seating capacity. It has been found necessary to do this for two years now and a two-night performance is the only solution.

Mr. W. E. Capps, Musical Instructor of the Orangeville Public School and choir leader of Grace Methodist Church, Brampton, has been secured by the Board to teach singing at High School.

The Cadet Corps has been organized with the following officers:—Commandant, Principal E. Hackett, B. A.; Captain, Gordon S. Adamson; Lieutenants, R. Wilson McConnell and Jamieson Anderson.

The students are not neglecting the sport side of school life. The girls have a real basketball team. Just to show that there is class to the outfit, they journeyed to Erin not long ago and came home with the long end of a 13 to 6 score. Then they challenged the Shelburne High School girls to come down and play in the gymnasium last Thursday afternoon, but on account of the bad weather the game was postponed indefinitely. The boys have several honest-to-goodness rugby teams. They play their games out on the campus daily, immediately after four o'clock. When they don their many-colored uniforms, some of which closely resemble Joseph's coat of Biblical fame, they have every appearance of a real aggregation. So far the local boys have had no encounters with outside teams, but they are living in hopes that some time before the snow flies and the time comes for skating they will be able to induce a team from a nearby school to try conclusions with them.

HAIL AND RUST DAMAGE

In a letter to The Banner Mr. Ernest Bradley, of Verwood, Sask., formerly of Orangeville, says that his district suffered severely from hail and rust this year. South of where he lives the farmers were completely hailed out. Fortunately most of them carry heavy insurance. Mr. Bradley states that this is the first year he has suffered over a five per cent. loss from hail since he went to the West. This year he lost 75 to 100 per cent. and had only part of his crop insured for $10.00 an acre. Threshing has just been finished in the district. The early part of the autumn was extremely wet, but the weather had turned finer and cooler at the time Mr. Bradley wrote, some two weeks ago.

HOUSE BURNED

Early on Wednesday morning of last week fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the large frame house on the farm of Mrs. George Reburn, lot 5, con. 2, E. H. S., Mulmur. Arising from their beds about 5.30 a.m., Mrs. Reburn and her son, Stanley, detected the smell of smoke, but investigation failed to reveal the cause. The latter then proceeded to do his morning chores about the barn nearby and while returning to the house discovered one end of the house in a blaze. Realizing that it was impossible to save the house fom the devouring element all efforts were directed towards saving the contents, most of which were rescued, through the united labors of many neighbors who came to the rescue. The house was totally destroyed. The cause of the fire is a mystery, the conflagration starting in the end of the house where no stove was located nor other known cause that would make a fire possible. Mrs. Reburn and her son are living in temporary quarters in a vacant house across the road. They will rebuild their home at once. Insurance of $1,000 was carried in the Dufferin Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co.—Free Press.

WEST MONO MISSION

Services will be held on Sunday, November 4th, as follows:—

St. Matthew's, at 11 a.m.; St. Luke's at 3 p.m., and Herald Angel at 7 p.m.

Harvest Thanksgiving Services will be held at Herald Angel Church on Sunday, Nov. 11th, as follows:—Holy Communion at 8 a.m.; Matins and Sermon at 11 a.m.; Men's service at 3 p.m.; Evensong and sermon at 7 p.m. Special preacher, Rev. W. H. Hartley, Shelburne; soloist, Rev. S. C. Jarrett.

RICHARDSON—KEYES

A quiet wedding took place at the Presbyterian Manse, Orangeville, on Tuesday, October 30th, at 2.30 p.m. when Miss Vera B. Keyes, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Keyes, Prince of Wales Road, Mono, became the bride of Mr. George A. Richardson, of Buffalo, N. Y., only son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Richardson, of Baltimore, Md. The Rev. F. W. Mahaffy was the officiating clergyman. The bride wore a dress of golden brown velva-velta, hat to match and a muskrat coat. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls. The happy couple left next morning for Buffalo, N. Y., and Baltimore, Md.

THAUBURN—WATT

The marriage of Harriett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Watt, Cobourg, and Thos. Thauburn, of Brampton, took place on Wednesday afternoon of last week at the home of the bride's parents, Cobourg. The bride, who was unattended, wore white canton crepe and carried Sunburst roses and lily of the valley. She was given away by her father. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left by motor for New York to spend their honeymoon. The bride's travelling suit was brown crepe, French wrap of Marvello trimmed with sable, and hat of brown touched with gold. Mr. and Mrs. Thauburn will reside in Brampton.

FINAL ANNOUNCEMENT

The big event of the week-end of November 2nd, 3rd and 4th, is the Older Boys' Conference in Fergus. All boys over 15 years of age, of any denomination, in the counties of Wellington, Dufferin and southern half of Simcoe, are invited to attend. Also the leaders and workers with boys, S. S. Superintendents, and pastors are expected to come. The Conference begins with a supper for leaders and adults in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Friday evening, Nov. 2nd, at 6 o'clock. Everything will move with precision, interest, benefit and uplift to the closing session in Melville Presbyterian Church, conducted by the older boys. The best boys' work speakers in Canada will be present, Taylor Statten, C. F. Plewman and Rev. J. R. Harris. The addresses and discussions will deal with everything of vital concern to boys and their leaders. The physical and sports feature of the Conference is in the very best of hands—Mr. W. E. Simpson Guelph Y. M. C. A. Banquet on Saturday evening in the Methodist Church. It will be a big time. The registration fee is one dollar, to be sent to Mr. R. D. Kerr, Fergus.

YOUNG DAUGHTER MADE WELL

Mother Tells How Her Daughter Suffered and Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Vancouver, B.C.—"My daughter is a young girl who has been having severe pains and weak and dizzy feelings for some time and had lost her appetite. Through an older daughter who had heard of a woman who was taking it for the same trouble, we were told of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My daughter has been taking it for several months and is quite all right now. It has done all it was represented to do and we have told a number of friends about it. I am never without a bottle of it in the house, for I myself take it for that weak, tired, worn-out feeling which sometimes comes to us all. I find it is building me up and I strongly recommend it to women who are suffering as I and my daughter have."—Mrs. J. McDonald, 2947 26th Ave. East, Vancouver, B. C.

From the age of twelve a girl needs all the care a thoughtful mother can give. Many a woman has suffered years of pain and misery—the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance of the mother who should have guided her during this time.

If she complains of headaches, pains in the back and lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter, make life easier for her.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for such conditions. C

FINED $150 UNDER NEW HOTEL ACT

London Doctor Pleaded Guilty to Charge of Procuring Lodging.

Dr. A. L. Breen, of London, formerly of Espanola, pleaded guilty in Owen Sound Police Court, before Magistrate Creasor, to a charge laid under section five of the Standard Hotel Registration Act, 1923, which came into force on May 8th last—that of procuring lodging in a standard hotel for himself and a woman not his wife. Dr. Breen was fined $150 and costs, which included $36.-90 expenses of the woman's husband from Espanola.

The offence was committed in a local hotel on September 10th last the defendant and the woman procuring lodging there. In court Dr. Breen claimed ignorance of the law. The Act is entirely new and this was the first conviction in Owen Sound under its provisions.

Dr. Breen stated that civil proceedings were pending, the husband bringing an action for alienation of his wife's affections.

The new Standard Hotel Registration Act, 1923, was passed at the last session of the Ontario Legislature, coming into force on May 8th last. It is an Act respecting the registration of guests in standard hotels. Under the section in question "every male who procures or attempts to procure or authorize or permits any other person to procure lodging in a standard hotel for himself and any woman whom he falsely holds out to be his wife or of whom he falsely holds himself out or permits himself to be represented as the husband, and every such woman, will be liable to a fine not less than $100 or more than $500, or not more than three months in gaol.

HUNTERS CAMPERS & TRAPPERS ALL USE Zam-Buk

A Trusty Friend in Time of Accident.

"One day last Fall whilst away in the woods, I cut my leg severely. Proper surgical attention was unavailable, and poisoning developed causing the leg to swell to twice normal size. The wound had defied every other salve and remedy when Zam-Buk was brought and applied.

"From the first this herbal balm had a most gratifying effect. It removed pain in a surprising way, caused the wound to lose its swelling, inflamed appearance, and by degrees accomplished complete and perfect healing. It made me realize that you can't do without Zam-Buk."

COLD SORES & FROST BITES

Trapper William Jones of Ont., writes:—"Whilst I was out on a long tramp, one of my heels got badly frozen. By the time I got back to the cabin the pain was intense, but it was speedily allayed by Zam-Buk. The relief was really wonderful, and soon inflammation and swelling were gone per[illegible]. Mr. Edward Atkinson, of West Pilkington, has sold his 100-acre farm to a nephew of the same name, Edward Atkinson, of Peel township, who will get possession on March 1st, 1924.

Lester Middlebrook, a young farmer near Islington, while assisting his brother to cut straw after a threshing, had his right hand badly lacerated when he caught it in the cogs of the cutting box. No bones were broken but several stitches were required to close the wounds.

The opening of the new home of Sandhill Methodist Church will be held on Friday evening, November 2nd.

Charles Leavitt, aged 35 years, farmer in the township of Erin, fell well, while filling his silo at his home had his right arm cut off just above the elbow as he was adjusting a grease cup on the blower near where the knives revolve. Mr. Leavitt's father years ago, lost an only son. Last year his barns and the season's crops were destroyed by fire.

UNION JACK NIGHT AT MONO MILLS

Major T. L. Kennedy, M. P. P., Presented British Flag to R.B.P. 297

A special meeting of Mono Mills Preceptory No. 297 was held on Oct. 9th for the purpose of receiving a present of a Union Jack from Sir Knight Major T. L. Kennedy, M. L. A. for Peel County. Among those called to the platform were M. W. Sir R. M. Lavery, G. S. B.; R. W. Dr A. J. Hunter, P. G. M.; R. W. Sir T. H. Bullock, A. D. G. M., and W. Sir Kt. Jas. A. Patterson, P.P. of R. B. P. 621, who was one of the charter members of 297.

The W. P., Sir J. N. McCutcheon called on Sir Kt. Major Kennedy to address the meeting. The Major, who bears scars in evidences of his service in the Great War and which he will carry all his life, spoke at some length on the symbolism of our National Flag. Every country has its own flag which is honored by its own people, but no flag, said the Major, is so respected and revered by every nation excepting those who have no reverence for anything, and by them it is feared as the symbol of juctice. The British Flag stands for freedom—freedom of speech, freedom of thought, freedom of religion. The speaker cited many instances from the pages of history, and from his personal experiences on the battlefield to show how the Flag is loved by every Briton. In formally presenting the flag, he said that he felt it an honor to have the privilege of presenting this symbol of juctice and equality to the Preceptory of Mono Mills, a place whose name is well-known as a centre of sturdy and steadfast Orangeism.

The Preceptor accepted the Flag and called on R. W. Sir Kt. T. H. Bullock, A. D. G. M., who is one of the old members of 297, to reply to Major Kennedy in the name of the Preceptory. Sir Kt. Bullock, though taken unawares, was fully equal to the occasion. In his calm, earnest manner he called to mind how Englishmen in the centuries past, and in later years, Britons from every part of our great Commonwealth of Nations, had left their homes in the desert places, on the highways of the world, and in the depths of the seas, in defence of their country's flag. In thanking the donor, Sir Kt. Bullock assured the Major that if it was an honor to him to present it, it was a greater honor to the Preceptory at Mono Mills to receive it from the hands of one who had proved his loyalty to the old piece of bunting by shedding his blood in its defence.

Among the other speakers were Sir Kts. Dr. Hunter, P. G. M.; R. M. Lavery, G. S. B., fresh with inspiration, who helped to build the hall 50 years ago, and who told his hearers that the mason who built the foundation was a Roman Catholic.

A most enthusiastic meeting closed with the National Anthem, after which lunch was served. Visitors from Brampton, Cooksville, Palgrave and Orangeville were well satisfied that it had been good to make the trip, and everyone present felt confirmed in their love of, and loyalty to, the good old Union Jack.

DEAF, BLIND, YET A GOOD MUSICIAN

Helen Martin Not Discouraged by Her Handicaps.

(From "Success" Magazine)

That a real ambition cannot be downed by handicaps of any sort has long been conceded—theoretically We say "Where there's a will there's a way," but usually we make a few mental reservations when we say it.

The story of Helen May Martin, of Olathe, Kansas, however, has proved both the theory and the proverb literally true. Helen Martin had an ambition. She wanted to become a musician. But she had two grave physical handicaps to overcome. At the age of eight she became deaf and gradually she lost her sight until at seventeen she was totally blind. That was ten years ago.

Considering these handicaps, that she should want to be a musician is a bit surprising, but that she should actually fulfill her desire, as she most certainly has, is amazing. She has become a musician in every sense of the word, and is more than a mere player of a few "pieces" for she has appeared professionally and is going on with her career.

Her blindness makes it necessary for her to read her music with her fingertips, the notes being indicated by a system of raised numerals. She memorizes as many as sixteen to twenty bars before she starts her practicing. Though she cannot hear what she plays she "feels" it and for this reason she always plays with the toes of one foot pressed against the bottom of the piano. This sense of "feeling" is so developed in Miss Martin that she enjoys good music when it is played by good musicians.

Miss Martin felt the need of an instructor but it was not easy to find someone willing or able to help her. Finally Miss Clella Perkins, who had taught music in a school for the blind, learned the deaf language used by Miss Martin and found it possible to instruct her. With Miss Perkins' help and her mother's unfailing encouragement, Miss Martin progressed rapidly.

Although she is most interested in music, Helen Martin's education has not been confined to music alone. She has completed the ten years' course of study given at the Kansas State School for the Deaf. Mrs. Martin declares that she is as proficient at sewing, knitting, domestic science and all the household duties as any other mother's daughter. She is also an expert typist and reads with ease several systems of printing for the blind, so that she is conversant with current events as well as good literature.

QUICK RETURN

An Irishman was handling dynamite in a quarry. He let a stick drop, and the whole box went up, taking Mike with it. The quarry boss came around later and said to another Irishman:

"Where is Mike?"

"He's gone," replied Mike.

"When will he be back?" asked the boss.

"Well," replied Pat, "if he comes back as fast as he went, he'll be back yesterday."

EGG GRADING IS NOW COMPULSORY

New Dominion Regulations in Force —Require Marketable Eggs to be Classified.

The new egg grading regulations, as laid down by the Dominion Department of Agriculture, are now in force and instructions in regard to the proper standardization of eggs for commercial purposes are being given prominence.

The regulations respecting the marking and grading of eggs read as follows: "Every case or container of eggs that is exposed, displayed or offered for sale by any person selling or delivering eggs direct to consumers in a public place or manner shall be marked, labelled or tagged in conspicuous letters with the name of the class and grade of eggs contained therein."

Under the regulations, eggs are divided into four classes: Specials, Extras, Firsts and Seconds.

Specials are eggs of uniform size weighing 25 ounces or more to the dozen, with air cells less than 3-16 of an inch; firm whites, dimly visible yoke, sound and clean shells.

Extras are reasonably uniform eggs weighing 24 ounces or more to the dozen; air cells less than 3-8 inch; firm whites, moderately visible yolk, sound and clean shells.

Firsts are described as eggs weighing 22 1-2 ounces to the doz.; air cells of less than 1-2 inch; firm white, freely moving yolks, sound and reasonably clean shells.

Seconds are eggs sound in shell but may be weak and watery with heavy yolks, or all other eggs fit for food.

Giant Canadian Pacific Pier Under Way at Vancouver

THE growth of Vancouver and the ever-increasing transpacific trade of this seaport has necessitated the construction of a new pier, one of the largest on the continent, for the accommodation of the Canadian Pacific Empress liners. According to an announcement made by E. W. Beatty, K.C., President of the Company, at Vancouver recently, the pier, which is to be known as Pier B-C, will be of modern concrete design, capable of berthing the largest vessels trading to and from this port. It will be 1,100 feet long and will extend from the shore between Pier A, Burrard St., and Pier D, Granville St., on Burrard Inlet. An outlay of several million dollars upon this work and the associated buildings will be involved.

BACK ACHED TERRIBLY

Mrs. McMahon Tells How She Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chatham, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a run-down condition after the birth of my baby boy. I had terrible pains and backache, and was tired and weak, not fit to do my work and care for my three little children. One day I received your little book and read it, and gave up taking the medicine I had and began taking the Vegetable Compound. I feel much better now and am not ashamed to tell what it has done for me. I recommend it to any woman I think feels as I do."—Mrs. J. R. McMAHON, 153 Harvey St., Chatham, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has for nearly fifty years been restoring sick, ailing women to health and strength. It relieves the troubles which cause such symptoms as backache, painful periods, irregularities, tired, worn-out feelings and nervousness. This is shown again and again by such letters as Mrs. McMahon writes, as well as by one woman telling another. These women know, and are willing to tell others, what it did for them; therefore, it is surely worth your trial.

Women who suffer should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for a free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women."

The agreement calls for the proper installation of 30 100-watt lights in the village.

While returning from a concert held at Mount Forest, Miss Spence, school teacher at Colquhouns, suffered a fainting spell and fell from the car in which she was riding. She was unconscious when picked up and remained so for several hours. Miss Spence had been sitting alone in the back seat, and it was not until the car had gone a considerable distance that she was missed.

When his clothes became entangled in a ditching machine in Turnberry township, John Hyndman, of Howick township, had his apparel literally torn off and the calf of his leg badly cut, and narrowly escaped being cut to death. Hyndman got too close to the cog wheels, and he was drawn towards the machine. His condition is regarded as serious, and it is doubtful whether he will recover.

Durham householders will have to hand over 20 cents more on each dollars worth of tickets they buy from the local milkman after the first of November. The expense of delivery, the expense for bottle tops, and the extra expense of those who do not promptly return their bottles, or in some cases do not return them at all, have been factors in adding 20 cents to the usual dollar ticket.

A fire, causing damage estimated at $20,000, broke out about 3 a.m. a week ago Sunday, in the plant of the Booth Fisheries, of Wiarton, a branch of one of the largest fish firms on the upper lakes. The fishing tug, Sailor Queen, which was moored to the dock, was burned to the water's edge. Thousands of pounds of fish in the bins, the season for freezing fish for the winter being at its height, were destroyed.

A woman living on a farm near Stayner was caught in a store in Collingwood and was arrested by the Chief of Police. The woman carried a satchel and quietly slipped articles of wearing apparel into it when opportunity presented. In the police court the woman pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs on each charge, in all $26.00. The fines were paid.

Out on the 4th of Guillimbury there may be seen on a farm a curiosity in the form of a four months old duck without the vestige of a feather. The duck is absolutely devoid of wearing apparel and it could qualify for candidature in any of the bald headed rows of our theatres. The duck possess no modesty whatever, and struts and quacks around the barnyard as though it were the most beautifully gowned duck in the entire kingdom.

Five young men near Cayuga who, as a hallowe'en prank last year removed a red lantern from the entrance to a bridge which was down, and which resulted in Dr John Jacques, a veterinary surgeon being instantly killed when he motored into the trap and his car crashed down into the creek, were on Saturday last ordered by Judge Lennox to pay the widow $500 each as well as all the costs of the action and to furnish securities for their future good behavior for three years. Following the doctor's death the five youths skipped to California, but were persuaded by relatives to return. They were later arrested and charged with manslaughter.

NEW LAMP BURNS '95 P. C. AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil.)

The inventor, F. N. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

An advertisement to men in their "twenties" and "thirties"

$5,000 or $10,000 would come in mighty handy to you to-day, wouldn't it?

Think, then, how much more valuable it will be to you at forty-five or fifty.

Of course, you'll say, I'll have been successful and won't need it then. But stop! You may—and if you do, you'll need it more then than you do to-day.

Your producing years will be waning and $10,000 will mean all the difference between a dependent and an independent old age.

Man, there's a big idea back of Imperial Old Age Insurance—one that's mighty interesting to you. Let us send you particulars. Write for them now. A postal will do. Address:

TORONTO PUPILS SING IN GRACE CHURCH

A group of young people from Toronto, pupils of Mr. W. E. [illegible] gave a recital in Grace Church on Thursday evening in aid of a good cause and those who enjoy the opportunity of hearing out of [illegible] grace with the singers. Duet, "Ev[illegible] come," Messrs. B[illegible]; recitation, Miss Carter; song, "Such a Lil' Fellow," "Dear Faded Rose," Mrs. Hutchins; song, "Where the Ebb Tide Flows," Mr. Cox; violin solo, Mr. Cornfield; song, "Japanese [illegible] Silver; song, "On[illegible] Hour," Miss Darby; song, "Your Heart is Calling Me," Mr. [illegible]; song, "Watchman, What of the Night," Messrs. Doney and Capps; [illegible] Your Tears," Miss Brunton; recitation, Miss Carter; song, "Blow, Blow, Thou Wintry Wind," Mr. Doney; song, "I Want You Beside Me," Greta Capps; violin solo, Mr. Cornfield; song, "I Love a Little Garden, "Miss Haywood; song, "The Trumpeter," "Vagabond," Mr. Bennett; duet, "Home to Our Mountains," Mrs. Hutchins, Mr. Capps; [illegible] who is a pupil of Broadus Farmer, formed a very pleasant interpolation in the long program. Mr. Cornfield was accompanied by his sister, Miss Cornfield, and the audience was quite carried away by the evident talent of the young performer. Many pleased remarks were made on the pleasing sweetness of tone which he achieved, especially in the extended passages in his numbers.

Miss Carter, elocutionist, also proved very entertaining, giving her numbers with [illegible] instrumental interpretation [illegible] them most enjoyable.

Miss Haywood, the only Brampton pupil on the program and Greta Capps, daughter of Mr. [illegible], a singer of tender years, gave promises of future development, that their evident talent will fulfil.

The numbers by the Toronto singers proved to the satisfaction of the audience the continued success that has attended Mr. Capps with his classes in Toronto as well as in Brampton. Contralto solos by Miss Brunton and Mrs. Hutchins, soprano solos by Misses Goodway, Silver and Darby, were given in such fashion as to demonstrate Mr. Capps' teaching ability as not confined to any particular type of voice, while strengthening this impression was the work of the male singers, Messrs. Bennett, Doney, Cox and Luck, all of whose numbers were most acceptably performed.

Mrs. S. A. Scott, as accompanist, was warmly approved by the visiting vocalists, playing the scores for the entire program.—Conservator, Oct. 25th.

After the judging dancing was resumed and continued until after two o'clock.

THE WAR MEMORIAL

The committee in charge of the War Memorial has endeavoured to secure a monument with which our citizens may be satisfied. The cost has been considerable and while many generous subscriptions have been made more money is required. An opportunity will be given at the unveiling of the War Memorial on Monday next for any who have not yet subscribed to the fund to do so.

GOOD RED BLOOD A REAL NERVE TONIC

Weak, Watery Blood the Source of All Nervousness.

"If people would attend to their blood, instead of worrying themselves ill," said an eminent nerve specialist, "we doctors would not see our consulting rooms crowded with nervous wrecks. More people suffer from worry than anything else."

The sort of thing the specialist spoke of is the nervous, rundown condition caused by overwork and the many anxieties of to-day. Sufferers find themselves tired, low-spirited and unable to keep their minds on anything. Any sudden noise hurts them like a blow. They are full of groundless fears, do not sleep well at night. Headaches and other nerve pains are part of the misery, and it all comes from starved nerves.

Doctoring the nerves with poisonous sedatives is a terrible mistake. The only real nerve tonic is a good supply of rich red blood. Therefore to relieve nervousness and run-down health Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be taken. These pills enrich the blood, which tones the nerves, improves the appetite, gives new strength and spirits, and makes hitherto despondent people bright and cheerful. If you are at all "out of sorts" you should begin taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE TOWN COUNCIL

The Town Council held quite a lengthy sitting on Monday night. Considerable business was transacted, but it was largely of the ordinary routine variety. Accounts passed were:—

Wm. Marshall, $81.25; Geo. R. Hogben, $1.50; Geo. King, $30.50; Watrous Engine Works, $11.76; E. C. Clark, $13.00; Dominion Express Co., 85c.; Orangeville Hydro-Electric Commission, $359.35; A. Henderson, $13.57; Bell Telephone Co., $5.64; D. A. Hogg, $19.05; Joseph Ogston, $23.55; Alfred Colley, $6; W. Brown, 60c; E. Y. McGregor, $3.00; J. J. Smith, $22.60; Thos. Wright, $10.00.

Referred accounts—Wm.A.Clowes $20.80, to F. & W. Committee; Geo. Foster, $6.00, to T. P. Committee.

J. J. Still was granted the usual rebate of $6.93 taxes on the Moody property.

[illegible] was granted [illegible] of [illegible] from the Girls and Elegant Women's Institute requesting the Council to furnish [illegible] during the winter months. The Town Property Committee was authorized to purchase a ton of coal for this purpose and to procure additional supplies as needed.

The Special Committee appointed to confer with the Nightwatchman re the patrolling of the streets, recommended that the Watchman be instruucted to try doors of all business places at least three times during the night. The Deputy-Reeve and Messrs. Reid and Arnott were appointed to arrange with the merchants and other business men of the town in regard to the employment of an additional watchman for a month or so.

R. G. Lee, Manager of the Cataract Electric Company, writing the Council on the subject of the condition of the street lighting wires and poles, expressed his desire to do whatever he could to remedy unsafe or unsatisfactory conditions. At the same time he contended that his Company was not responsible for all the faults. He specifically mentioned the position of the wires at the railway crossing on John St., where he averred that the Hydro had built over the Cataract system without giving the latter four inches clearance. While disclaiming all responsibility for this, Mr. Lee stated that his Company would do what it could to obviate the danger due to the close proximity of the lines of the two systems by lowering its wires.

Mr. U. W. Christie, the engineer, submitted a statement of the cost of the Broadway pavement and a schedule of the special assessment of the properties along the street for their share of the cost of the improvement. The total cost of the pavement, including drains, catch basins and gravel sides, is set forth as $12,471.83. The cost of the drain from the First St. corner west along the north side of Broadway was $436.48 and the cost of the gravel sides $1297.78. The deduction of these two items reduces the cost of the pavement proper to $10,737.57. To this is added $1533.21 for engineering fees, advertising and various incidental expenses, bringing the total chargeable as a local improvement up to $12,270.88. Of this $10,095.11 is charged to the town and $2,175.77 to the property owners, on the frontage tax plan.

WHAT MAKES A TOWN?

What makes a town, anyway?

Is it the wealth evidenced by the homes and splendid store buildings? These may attest the stability and thrift of certain people but they offer no great inducements to commercial and moral progress. Is it the spirit of good order and law observance? That is a factor only. The sleepiest old hamlets that dot the map have this spirit in rank abundance. Is it the schools and churches? May their number ever innrease, but they don't make a town—they only nurture it. Is it the geographical location, the character of the country surrounding, the shipping facilities, the natural advantages?

None of these are essentials.

Well, what is it that makes a town, anyway?

Just one thing—the unity of the people, the existence of a common bond which causes business and social enemies to put aside all differences when it comes to boosting the town. No town ever made real progress in the way to substantial success without the get-together spirit unanimously adopted. It has rejuvenated old hulks of towns that were yawning their way into endless sleep. It has infused new life blood into the heart of commercial life and made thriving cities out of paralytic villages.

Natural advantages count for much and prosperity can not be built upon shifting sand, but any town with half a chance can be made to grow and expand and thrive when its citizens join with one accord in the boosting program.

The population of our Canadian towns is so changeable nowadays that the newspaper man is often surprised to see how his subscription list changes from year to year. New names are coming in all the time, replacing those who leave town and drop their subscription. It is often a matter of wonder to the newspaper worker that anyone who has lived in one place for a number of years can have made so few ties that he can get along without this regular record of the doings of his friends and the progress of the community that he once called his home. To a host of people, however, no sums bring better returns than the trifling amount paid for a regular letter from a former home in the shape of the local newspaper. In this way they keep in touch with the old friends. Familiarity with their doings make these friendships permanent. Old friends are best in this world. They represent an investment in good fellowship, in which you have put much of the best of your life. Keep up with these old friendships and your old home. It will pay.

A PRISON SOLILOQUY

After the removal of Leo Craig, one of the men sentenced to a term in Kingston penitentiary for the burglary of J. D. Torrie's clothing store, the following verses were found in his cell in the Orangeville gaol. The verses, which were roughly written with lead pencil on both sides of a single sheet of paper, indicate that Craig had his serious moments, in which he regretted the career of crime in which he had engaged. The verses read:—

If you listen to me well, a story I will tel.
Of all the wrong and misery I have caused,
While through this life I've roamed from mother's side and home,
God grant my story cause you all to pause.

Always gay and blithe as I journeyed on through life,
I might have filled my mother's heart with joy;
But alas I wandered o'er and roamed from shore to shore,
And now my mother weeps o'er her boy.

I have relations by the score, who would turn me from the door,
Or meeting me on the street would pass me by;
If you ask me why it's done, I would answer you and say,
I am only an ex-convict and am only in the way.

I know that I've done wrong amidst this worldly throng,
Like others I have been caused to stray away;
Still I am only a lad and not wholly bad,
Although to temptations I've oftimes given way.

Our wineglasses together clink while each other's health we drink,
We drowned our slumbers for a little while;
Then while our temples throb, we are led somewhere to rob,
Our comrades keep us on the vile.

While I waited for my trial, like the vilest of the vile,
I was shut away from all that I held dear;
With no kind friends to seek, or my mother to me speak,
And e'er I saw my friends depart it nearly broke my mother's heart.

As my mother shed her tears, I was sentenced to three long years
Behind the prison bars, dark, damp and cold;
And as the days now creep, my mother's left to weep
And with sickness often suffers I am told.

So God bless all inclined to a convict to be kind,
And help him on the road to truth and fame;
Although once or twice he fell, there is none can tell,
But a kind word may that convict's life reclaim.

So never turn away from those who have gone astray,
But try to help the poor ones on;
A better life they'll lead and from prison walls be freed,
And they'll remember your kindness evermore.

At the foot of the verses Craig writes that he is very sorry that he could not write in a half decent manner, adding that it is very difficult to write lying in a cell.

—Do not overlook the Fowl Supper in the Methodist Church on Thanksgiving Night.

ALTON

Anniversary services will be held in the Presbyterian Church here on Sunday, November 11th, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Rev. Dr. Armstrong, a former minister of the church and now a resident of Guelph, will preach at both services.

Dr. Caldwell's sermon on Sunday, November 11th, Armistice Day, will be "The Transfiguration of Christ on Mount Hermon.

The people of Alton are looking for well-lighted streets by the Cataract Electric Co. as soon as the new transformer comes. The sooner the better our citizens will be pleased.

An interesting event took place at the home of the bridegroom on Wednesday, Oct. 31st, when Mr. Alonzo C. Tennyson, one of our well-known merchants and a highly esteemed citizen, was united in marriage to Miss Annie Puckering, also a resident of Alton. The nuptial knot was tied at 7.30 p.m. by Rev. J. T. Caldwell, M. A., B. D., Ph. D., pastor of Alton Methodist Church. After the marriage ceremony and the congratulations of the friends who were present, all sat down to a bountiful wedding repast. Mr. and Mrs. Tennyson will reside in Alton.

Mr. Jack Preater, of Dodswood, Alton, was given a pleasant surprise on Hallowe'en night when thirty of his friends arrived to spend the evening with him. In spite of the wintry night there were thirteen guests from Orangeville, all in masqoerade costumes, the outfits including clowns, perriots and gipsies. Miss Oliver looked a lovely "Starry Night,' 'and Mrs. Parsons made a typical 19th century bride. The early part of the night was spent in some jolly games, after which refreshments were served in oldtime style. This was followed by dancing. At one interval Mrs. Dorrington made lots of fun by posing as a gipsy fortune teller, and told in most entertaining fashion the past, present and future of a number of the guests. After this there was more dancing and when the assembly began to disperse everyone expressed their thanks and their appreciation of the efforts of the Preaters to give every person a nice time. We are looking forward to a few more evenings like this during the winter season, for there is always a good time ahead of those who receive an invitation to that cottage.

Mr. Austin Harrison, of Detroit, is visiting at his home here.

Mr. James Barber is spending a few days with Mr. E. D. Barber.

Mrs. Roy Dods, of Toronto, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dods.

Mrs. T. Meek attended a meeting of the Women's Institute in Cheltenham on Tuesday last.

Mrs. Levern Moulder and babe, of Toronto, are visiting Mrs. Trimble.

Miss Dorothy Dods is the guest of Mrs. E. Harrison.

Mr. Lorne Shaw, of Georgetown, spent the week-end at his home here.

The Junior Institute dance is to be Friday evening, Nov. 9th. The services of May's orchestra, Brampton, have been secured and a real dance is expected, the proceeds of which are to go towards improving the Town Hall.

Harvest Home services were well attended in the Methodist Church on Sunday, despite the weather. The concert and dinner on Monday were also successful, the proceeds amounting to quiute a gratifying amount.

Dance in Town Hall, Nov. 9th. May's orchestra.

Mrs. J. Harold Cameron, (nee Helen Ruth Babcock) will receive for the first time on Monday, Nov. 12th, from 4 to 6 o'clock, at her home, Grandview Farm, 3rd line, west, Caledon.

MRS. J. J. ELLIS

Caledon township lost an old and lifelong resident last week in the passing of Mrs. Margaret Ellis, widow of the late J. J. Ellis, who answered the inevitable summons at her home, lot 30, Centre Road, on Friday. Her end was tranquil, fitting close to a long and useful life, spent in loving service for those about her. A strong woman and blessed with more than the average endowment of good health, the late Mrs. Ellis had scarcely known what it was to experience sickness until last July, when she began to fail quite rapidly. She was, however, able to go about the house until a short time before her death. The dissolution was due to a gradual breakdown, the natural result of advanced age.

The late Mrs. Ellis was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Hunter, early settlers in the north of Caledon. She was born on August 12th, 1834, and was therefore 89 years of age. Her girlhood was spent on lot 30, 2nd line, west, Caledon, the farm now owned and occupied by Mr. Jas. Johnston. After her marriage to Mr. Ellis in 1869, she went to live on lot 30, Centre Road, which continued to be her home for the remainder of her lifetime. Her husband died fifteen years ago last April. She is survived by one son, Mr. John Ellis, two daughters, Mrs. Margaret Johnston and Miss Sadie Ellis, and a grandson, Harold Johnston, living on the homestead. David Hunter and Miss Sarah Hunter, both of Orangeville, are the surviving members of her own family. The late Mrs. Ellis was a kindly, warm-hearted woman, who was always ready to extend a helping hand to those in need or distress from any cause. She was a fine neighbor and enjoyed the respect and good-will of the people of the community in which her life was spent. She was a loving and devoted wife and mother and her death will be keenly mourned by the members of her family, who have the sympathy of all in the loss of a beloved parent. Mrs. Ellis was one of the oldest members of St. Andrew's Church and a regular attendant at the Suunday services as long as her health permitted. She was also a member of the Ladies' Aid Society and a regular contributor to the objects of that Society.

There was a large attendance at the funeral, which was held from her late home to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Sunday afternoon. Rev. F. W. Mahaffy was the officiating minister and Messrs. T. W. Huston, Toronto, Herbert McEwan, Fred Webb, Fred Hatcher, Richard Russell and Chas. Reid were the pallbearers. The floral tributes included a pillow from the family, a wreath from the grandson, broken column from Miss Sarah Hunter, sheaf, Jas. and Miss Ellis, Mono, sheaf, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. W. Huston, Toronto; sheaf, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Watson, Toronto, and spray, Mr. and Mrs. Been Cook Jr.

Among the friends present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Thos. W. Huston, Mr. and Mrs. Ruussell Watson, Mrs. M. Clarke and Mr. John A Ellis, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Warren, Woodbridge, and Mr. and Miss Forbes, Toronto.

CALEDON

We are sorry to report the serious illness of Mrs. Jos. Campbell, 1st line, west, but hope for a speedy recovery.

The ladies of Knox Church will hold their Annual Bazaar on Friday afternoon, November 23. They will have for sale useful and fancy articles, homemade baking, candy, and ice cream. Tea will be served. In the evening a musical concert will be given. Come and bring your friends.

The Caledon Hunt Club have again departed to the northern wilds. The party consisted of Dr. Stubbs, ex-M. P., Dr. Thomas, Dr. W. F. R. Stubbs, V. S., Mr J C Warnock, Mr Darraugh, Mr. Gray, Mr. McCormick, Mr. H. B. Nichols, Mr. C. Rutledge, Mr. C. R. Overland, Mr. J. Nesbitt, Mr John Speers, Mr. W. B. Dodds and several others.

The Union Young People's Society held their annual meeting in the basement of the Presbyterian Church on Tuesday evening, Nov. 6th. The following officers were elected:—President, Mr. M. McKim; Secretary, Mrs. (Rev.) T. W. Mills; Treasurer, Wm. Dodds; Educational Vice-President, Mrs. MacFetridge; Missionary Vice-President, Mrs. N. McLachlan; Devotional Vice-President, Marie Dodds; Social Vice-President, Mrs. H. B. Nichols; Organist, Mildred Nichols.

The Rev. T. W. Mills is taking a well earned vacation. There will be no service in Knox Church for three Sundays. Sunday School as usual at 10 a.m.

—Thanksgiving Supper and Entertainment in the Methodist Church Monday night.

WILLIAM J. GORDON

William James Gordon, an old and widely known resident of Dufferin County, passed away at his late home, 39 Erie Ave., Hamilton, on Thursday, November 1st, at the ripe age of 83 years. Death was caused by heart weakness, aggravated by rheumatism. Deceased had been quite poorly since the beginning of the present year, but was nevertheless an active, vigorous man considering his advanced age. The late Mr. Gordon, who was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gordon, early settlers in the township of Amaranth, was born on a farm near Laurel. Excepting a few years' residence in East Garafraxa he followed farming near Laurel until some thirty years ago, when he retired and moved to Orangeville. He continued to reside here until four years ago, when he and Mrs. Gordon purchased a property in Hamilton and moved to that city. The late Mr. Gordon was a man of a cheery, optimistic nature, who had the happy faculty of looking on the bright side of life. As a neighbor he was kindly, honorable and ever ever ready to do a good turn. Industrious and energetic, he was also the possessor of commendable public spirit, taking an active interest in all problems that affected the wellbeing of the community. While a resident of Orangeville he served in the Town Council for a number of years, his practical knowledge of roadmaking qualifying him for useful service on the R. & B. Committee, of which he was made Chairman as long as he remained in the Council. Mr. Gordon was a staunch member of the Methodist Church and was an official of the Orangeville church for a number of years. In politics he was an ardent and outspoken supporter of the Conservative party. Deceased was twice married and is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Switzer, of Orangeville. Jos. Gordon and Mrs. M. Varcoe, of Orangeville, brother and sister, are the only surviving members of a family of nine.

The remains were brought to Orangeville for burial, the funeral taking place from the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Varcoe, West Broadway, to the Forest Lawn Cemetery, on Saturday afternoon. Rev. G. W. Hewitt, of Hamilton, a friend of many years' standing, conducted the services and was assisted by Rev. H. L. Partridge. The pallbearers were Messrs. John Fife, of Hamilton, Wm. Lambe, Geo. Nicholson, Irwin Stephenson, M. Varcoe and Thomas Bennett. A number of floral tributes bore testimony to the sorrow and sympathy of friends.

CALEDON EAST

On Sunday next, November 11th, special Armistice and Thanksgiving services will be held in the Methodist churches at Mono Road at 11 a.m., and Caesar's at 3 p.m., and at Caledon East at 7 p.m. Special Thanksgiving anthems by the choirs. Come and remember the boys who fought and won.

LILLIAN BRAWLEY

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brawley, of Wingham, formerly of Fraxa Junction, sympathize deeply with them in the trying loss they have suffered this week through the death on Sunday of their youngest daughter, Lillian Adele, a bright and lovable girl of 17 years and 8 months. A largely attended funeral service was held in the Methodist Church at Wingham at 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon. The remains were brought to Orangeville for burial yesterday morning, the funeral taking place from the C. P. R. station to the Forest Lawn Cemetery immediately after the arrival of the 9.30 train from the west.

THE MAPLES

The last meeting of The Maples Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Geo. Robinson on Thursday afternoon, October 18th, at 2.30 o'clock. The programme consisted of a humorous reading by Mrs. Wm. Morrow, instrumental music by Miss Cora Robinson, a well-rendered solo by Miss C. G. Simpson and Community Singing. The roll call was answered by "Little Things That Make Life Beautiful."

The next meeting will be a Social Evening, to be held at the home of Mrs. Henry Reid on Thursday evening, Nov. 15th.

There will be a special Thanksgiving service in the Methodist Church on Sunday next, Nov. 11th, at 2.45 p.m. Rev. W. W. Rackham, of Laurel, will conduct the service. A special offering is asked for and there will be special music. Everybody welcome.

AN INVITATION

All persons interested in good Live Stock are cordially invited to attend our First Annual Sale of "Grand View" Purebred Herefords, 29 in number and consisting of 7 bulls and 22 females, to be held on our farm, lot 1, con. 7, Amaranth township (Amaranth-East Garafraxa townline, seven miles west of Orangeville), on Thursday, November 15th. The offering consists chiefly of sons and daughters of the Grand Champion, "Supreme Fairfax" No. 33689, imported from the noted herd of James V. Hill, Roundhead, Ohio, U. S. A., and out of matrons of popular blood lines and good breeding merit. This Sale will give a rare opportunity to procure Choice Young Bulls and Females at your own price. Full particulars will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Amaranth Stn., Ont.

HOSPITAL NOTES

The members of the I. O. D. E. are grateful to Mr. Somerville, the architect of the new wing, for a donation of $25.00, and to Mr. John Nason for two bags of potatoes.

The regular monthly meeting of the I. O. D. E. will be held at the home of Mrs. G. B. Hayes, Zina St., at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon of this week.

There have been a good many children's plays and entertainments of high quality put on in Elora from time to time, but few, if any better, than "A Night in Fairyland," presented by about 90 children in the Armories last week. The special costuming and music were especially good, and the manner in which the various parts were taken reflected the highest credit on the training of Miss Drake.—The Elora Express.

SALE REGISTER

Messrs. John Black & Sons will hold their first Annual Sale of "Grand View" Herefords on Lot 1, Con. 7, Amaranth township (Amaranth-Eart Garafraxa townline), on Thursday next, November 15th. The offering includes 29 head of purebred Herefords, 7 bulls and 22 females, chiefly sons and daughters of the grand champion bull, "Supreme Fairfax" No. 33689. The Sale is attracting a lot of interest and should draw an immense crowd. Full particulars will be found elsewhere in this issue.

MONO MILLS

The members of Mono Mills Loyal Orange and Lady True Blue Lodges will attend divine service in the Presbyterian Church , on Sunday, Nov. 11th, Armistice Day, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon. Members of neighboring lodges are given a cordial invitation to attend the service.

ST MARK'S CHURCH

The service at St. Mark's Church next Sunday morning, November 11, will begin at 10.45, in order that the two minutes' silence may be observed at 11 o'clock. All the members of the congregation are asked to be on time. Both services will be of a thanksgiving nature. A cordial invitation is extended to all members of the community who are not worshipping elsewhere.

No use of going to any other clothing store for the new overcoat you need; come to us and save TIME and MONEY. We can fit you out in fifteen minutes and give you the real goods.

It is a highly luxurious feeling to slide into one of our warm, well-lined overcoats. Do so and you will be so prosperous that you can also afford one of our handsome, stylish, well-made new suits.

We have been selling clothing for a good many years, but we never have had anything to compare with the immense stock of Coats we have this year. We spent a great deal of time in picking out these Coats, but when you see them, you will agree with us that we have a right to be justly proud of our selection. We have dozens and dozens to choose from, and for style, quality and price we defy competition.

Be sure to see these Men's and Boys' Coats before buying.

Remember our Guaranteed Serges to order, Botany wool and Indigo dye.

LAUREL

The Thanksgiving Dinner, which the W. M. S. of the Presbyterian Church had planned for Tuesday evening, November 13th, has been postponed indefinitely.

Mr. E. Hamilton, our veteran township clerk, has seen twenty-seven years continuous service as clerk of the municipality. Mr. Hamilton has proved a faithful and capable official and has given the people of Amaranth excellent service in the responsible position he fills so well. He has a record of forty years' municipal service to his credit, having been collector for seven years,member of the council for four years and reeve for two years prior to his appointment to the clerkship. Despite his fourscore years Mr. Hamilton is still hale and fairly vigorous. Failing eyesight is his chief trouble and he finds this no small handicap in the clerical work of his office, which is necessarily quite heavy.

Mr. Samuel McAllister, lot 10, 2nd line, east, Caledon, will hold a Clearing Auction Sale of his Farm Stock, Implements, etc., on Tuesday, Nov. 20th. Full particulars elsewhere in this issue. J. A. Martin, Inglewood, Auctioneer.

FIVE YEARS IN PEN

James Chadwick Given Heavy Sentence For Burglary.

Five years in the Kingston penitentiary was the sentence meted out Tuesday morning at the police court, Guelph, to Jas. Albert Chadwick, recently of Sprucedale, a little hamlet near Orillia, as the punishment for his complicity in the burglarizing of the store of C. S. Ewing, of Fergus, on the morning of October 20th. When Chadwick was arraigned on Tuesday of last week he pleaded guilty to the crime inasmuch as he admitted to the court that he had kept watch while the actual burglary was committed, and was told that he was equally guilty with the man who entered the store He asked that sentence be deferred for a week in order to permit some inquiries being made regarding his previous character and a number of these were secured, and they were all of a favorable character in so far as they knew the man. These were presented to Magistrate Watt, and were given consideration.

"Have you anything to say why the sentence of the court should not be pronounced against you?" asked the Magistrate.

"Nothing, except that I am prepared to do all I can to help get the other fellow, and I am willing to do all I can to help in getting the goods which were stolen returned," was the answer.

In passing sentence Magistrate Watt referred to the fact that Chadwick, when arrested just outside of Milton was in possession of a loaded revolver, which he did not carry for any good purpose, and he expressed the belief that he would not have hesitated to use it had occasion required it. He also had a large crowbar and other utensils which are commonly used by burglars, and in view of these circumstances he had no hesitation in stating that the accused was not a safe man to be at large, and then sentenced him to a term of five years in the Kingston penitentiary.

The accused took his sentence with a tremor in his face, and was marched back into his cell. His wife, with a little baby girl in her arms, which was a living picture of her father, awaited him in the corridor outside of the cells, and as he came back she completely broke down. There are five small children to be cared for while the husband and father is serving his penitentiary term, and a great deal of sympathy was felt for them by those who know the circumstances.

The authorities have not been able to get very much out of Chadwick since his arrest with regard to his knowledge of some other robberies which have taken place in the country, but they are hopeful yet that he may come through with some valuable information. It is believed that there were four men implicated at Fergus, but the theory is that one of the motor cars with the two other men in it got away and drove north, and that they are the chaps who broke into Mrs. Wendt's jewellery store at Clifford on the following morning and got away with $1,500 worth of goods. The Provincial police are still working on this case and there is likely to be some interesting developments before the end of the week.—Fergus News-Record

ROMANIZING THE CIVIL SERVICE

The Immigration Department of the Dominion Government is now in the hands of the Knights of Columbus. When W. J. Black resigned his position as deputy minister to accept a post with the National Railways, Mr. W. J. Egan was appointed in his place. Mr. Egan has had no experience in immigration affairs. He has been out of Canada for twenty years, acting as a trade commissioner in South Africa. It is hard to believe that he has any qualifications for the post, except that he is a Roman Catholic. It appears to be the policy of the present government to fill all the key positions in the Civil Service with Roman Catholics as fast as vacancies can be made.

The private secretary to the Minister of Immigration is also a Romanist, and it is said in Ottawa that he was instrumental in getting his fellow Romanist into the place of Deputy Minister. Between them these two officials will be able to dictate the policy of the department.

When, to this change in the immigration department, is added the statement of Bishop Fallon, to the Roman Catholic Women's League, at Windsor, that they should work for Roman Catholic immigration from Europe, the wheels of the Roman Catholic machine become visible.

With a Knight of Columbus in control of the Civil Service commission; with the postoffice in the hands of a Roman Catholic minister and the deputy minister, the chief superintendent, and private secretary all Romanists; and now the Immigration Department Romanized, it will be seen how rapidly the service is being placed in the hands of the followers of the Papacy. Another three years of the King administration will probably leave the entire Civil Service in the hands of the Knights of Columbus.—Orange Sentinel.

Never be without Peps if you are at all susceptible to coughs, colds and chills. Dissolved in the mouth, these breatheable tablets instantly fill the chest and lungs with their healing germicidal vapours. These strengthen the air passages and repel germ-attack.

Peps end the snuffling and sneezing, the wheezing, soreness and cough before it develops into bronchitis or dangerous lung trouble. Peps are speedily effective and vastly safer and better than dangerous drug-laden mixtures or tablets containing harmful chemicals.

As a preventive and remedy for coughs, colds and chills, wheeziness, hoarseness, grippe, bronchitis and sore throat, nothing can equal Peps. Splendid also for weak-chested children and old folk, and for preachers, singers and public speakers.

Here and There

The season for moose hunting opened in New Brunswick October 1st, and the chief game warden expects one of the best seasons in the history of the province. Game is reported plentiful in all sections.

The drydock at St. John, New Brunswick, is now an accomplished work. It was opened October 29th. The largest drydock in North America, it is capable of accommodating the largest ships of the British Navy.

Speaking in London, England, on October 19th, Sir Lomer Gouin, Canadian Minister of Justice, stated that Canada's exports per capita were three times more than those of the United States and her imports per capita four times more. The British Empire was Canada's second best customer.

There are more telephones in Canada per 100 population than in any other country except the United States. This is shown in a report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in which the proportion of telephone users per 100 population is set at 10.53.

A dispatch from London states that a number of cattle from the Prince of Wales' ranch was included in a large consignment of Canadian cattle which reached Cardiff recently. There appeared to be a keen demand for the consignment and 150 head were despatched to Norfolk farmers by special train.

Members of the Bread and Cake Bakers' Association of Canada, at the closing session of their Toronto convention, pledged subscriptions totalling $10,000 towards the launching of a permanent institute of baking, in connection with the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. It is expected that the school will be opened early in 1924.

Canadian Pacific Railway figures show remarkable increases in the shipment of grain for the ten week days preceding and including October 18th, this year, as compared with 1922. During the ten days there were loaded for shipment over the whole system a total of 16,195 cars, at the rate of 2,350,000 bushels a day, in comparison with 12,000 cars at 1,753,000 bushels a day last year.

It is expected that by the end of the present month track-laying on the branch of the Canadian Pacific running from Kipawa to the Government dam on the Da Quinze River, a distance of 69 miles, with a spur from Gaboury to Ville Marie, a distance of 8 miles, will be completed and that by the end of November the whole line will be ready for operation.

A system of education by mail for those who live in remote rural districts out of reach of rural schools is being prepared by Hon. Perron Baker, Minister of Education for Alberta, to go into effect this month. The working plan has already been drawn up to run through the winter to the end of the school year. It is expected that from 20 to 40 lessons will be given in the case of each applicant for the service.

Of 526 girls brought to Saskatchewan from the British Isles from 1920 to June 15, 1923, only six have returned overseas, and of the sum of $45,411.55 advanced to the girls the sum of $42,980.98 had been repaid up to June 15th, 400 having repaid their loan in full and the balance of 126 paying all but the sum of $8,430.57. The girls came to Canada to positions as household workers.

ATTACKED BY SHARKS.

Three Australian Fishermen Devoured by Hungry Monsters.

Fishermen in Australia are beset with terrible dangers unknown in Canadian waters.

A fishing expedition of four men which set out from Bellambi, near Wollongong, N.S.W., had an appalling sequel, the boat being attacked by a school of hungry sharks, three of the men being devoured.

The party consisted of: George Clarke, aged 30; Garnet Powell, 36; James Rigby, 50; and John Butler, 40. All except the latter lost their lives.

The party, as was customary with them, went out fishing in a 14-foot skiff off Bellambi Reef, two miles from the shore, at about 7.30 on Saturday morning with the intention of catching snapper. They had been fishing some time when one saw rushing towards the reef a school of man-eaters, evidently in pursuit of the snapper the fishermen sought.

Recognizing the danger that confronted them, the men did not wait, but immediately got to work with the oars, but before they could move the skiff any distance one of the school either charged or hit the skiff and knocked a hole in her side. The boat began to fill with alarming rapidity, and although the men hurriedly stuffed their coats and boots into the gaping hole their efforts proved fruitless, and the skiff sank, at the same time turning over.

For some time the men appeared to have tried to hang on to the boat as she floated half submerged. Mr. Rigby then suggested that he and Mr. Butler should set out for the shore. Before Mr. Butler had gone far, however, a fishing line caught round his legs, and he had to return to the boat. Mr. Rigby swam on, but a few minutes afterwards his agonized cry, "A shark has got me!" was heard, and he sank. Mr. Butler then helped to support Mr. Clarke, who was endeavoring to hang on to the rolling framework of the boat, but, worn out with the strain and his exertions, Mr. Clarke let go and sank. He was never seen again.

Meanwhile Mr. Powell had been clinging to the stern of the boat in dreadful mental agony, as was Mr. Butler, for they were far from land, with the monsters of the deep still prowling round them. Suddenly Mr. Powell, who had made a brave fight to keep afloat, sank from sight. When in one of its rolling motions, the boat being now lightened, turned over, Mr. Butler, who was in a fearfully exhausted condition, climbed inside, and sat in the submerged shell, the sides of which served as a shield from the monsters who waited to devour him.

Hour after hour passed, and still the unequal contest went on with fate, when a miracle occurred, and he sighted the collier Kurrara, which had left Sydney during the morning for Wollongong. Standing up in the skiff, Mr. Butler waved frantically for some time, and at last his signals of distress were seen and the captain stopped and picked him up. A boat, with men fishing near the shore was then summoned by the collier, and Mr. Butler was taken to land, with the wrecked skiff in tow. He received medical attention.

The police made an exhaustive search in the vicinity of the tragedy, but darkness set in, and they were forced to return to the beach, where hundreds of people had gathered.

Micawber Turned Up.

Mr. Micawber, who was always living beyond his means and hoping for something to turn up, and who was blessed with an ever faithful wife and twins, is one of the best known characters in Charles Dickens' book, "David Copperfield." Some biographers have insinuated that the original of Mr. Micawber was the novelist's own father, who was a poor clerk and often in money difficulties. Another claim now suggests that the original Micawber came from York. This man was Richard Chicken, strolling actor, lawyers' clerk, engineers' clerk, and finally a railway clerk. It was in the latter role that he met Alfred Lambert, Dickens, younger brother of the novelist, who was a civil engineer engaged on railway work in the East Riding of Yorkshire, and through him was brought to the notice of the man who, under the name of Micawber, was to give him undying fame. But there are many more Mr. Micawbers.

Bridal Superstition.

Bachelors who anticipate joining the ranks of the mated may perhaps find the following superstitious bridal lore of interest:

A January bride will be a prudent housekeeper and good tempered. A February bride will be an affectionate wife and tender mother. A March bride will be a frivolous chatterbox, given to quarreling. An April bride will be inconstant, not intelligent, fairly good looking. A May bride will be handsome, amiable, of a happy disposition. A June bride will be impetuous and generous. A July bride will be pretty and smart, but somewhat quick tempered. An August bride will be both amiable and practical. A September bride will be discreet, affable and much liked. An October bride will be pretty, coquettish, loving, but jealous. A November bride will be liberal, kind, but wild of disposition. A December bride will be good looking, fond of novelty, entertainment, but extravagant.

A Rare Coin.

A "Petition" crown, supposed to be the most valuable of English coins, was sold at Satheby's for $1.35. Roettier, a Dutchman, was appointed as engraver after the Restoration of King Charles II., in place of Thomas Simon, who was in disgrace because he had worked for the Commonwealth. Simon therefore produced some crown pieces with the following petition engraved round the edge, "Thomas Simon most humbly prays your Majesty to compare this tryal piece with the Dutch and if more truly drawn and embossed with more grace fully ordered and more accurately engraved to relieve him."

Mother and Her Baby Are Relieved of Eczema

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Salt Burn, Sask., writes:

"Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food having restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

The marriage of Miss Pearl Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Campbell, of Norval, and Dr. Fred Gallop, son of Dr. and Mrs. Gallop of Georgetown, was quietly celebrated in Toronto a week ago Wednesday. After the honeymoon the happy couple will make their home in Acton.

At a meeting of the Wellington County Farmers' Improvement Association held in Fergus on Oct. 15 motions were passed for payment to the three judges of the Drayton Live Stock Judging Contest of their travelling expenses, and of a grant of $20 to the Arthur Branch of the Ontario Plowmen's Association.

The liability of municipal councils is again shown in a judgment at Osgoode Hall lately dismissing the appeal of the town of Orillia against the judgment of Simcoe County Court, which awarded Mrs. Alexander Pilkey $2,500 for injuries received when she fell on an icy sidewalk. The County Court's decision was confirmed and the town must pay $2,500 and all costs.

ROMAN CATHOLIC IMMIGRATION

At the convention of the Catholic Women's League of the London diocese, held at Windsor on Oct. 17th, Bishop Fallon urged the members of the league to support the movement for the immigration of Roman Catholics from Europe. Having the machinery of the Federal Government under their control the Roman bishops are improving their opportunity to secure a large Roman Catholic immigration into Canada. It will be observed that Bishop Fallon urged help for settlers from Europe and said nothing about encouraging desirable British settlers. If there is an influx from Central Europe and Italy the newcomers will largely be of the Roman faith. Considerations of their fitness or desirability from a national point of view does not weigh with the bishop so much as their religious leanings

That there is a plan to fill this country with that class of immigrants is borne out by the recent experience of the inspectors at Ellis Island, the American port of entry. A large number of Italians arrived there with papers showing their intention to settle in Canada. Behind this movement there must be a directing organization, and a glimpse of it is obtained from the appeal of Bishop Fallon to the members of the Roman Catholic Women's Leagueue.

There is only one way to counteract this enterprise, and that is by the Protestant organizations becoming actively interested in promoting the immigration of British people. They are at a disadvantage owing to the fact that the Immigration Department is now in the hands of a Roman Catholic Deputy Minister, while the Government as a whole is completely dominated by Knights of Columbus and Roman Catholic influence. A great deal can be done, however, by lending aid individually to those British people who come, so that their success will attract their relatives and friends at home. It should be kept in mind that the Roman Church is trying to capture this Dominion. Those who believe that would be bad for the country should be alert to work for Protestantism.—Orange Sentinel.

THE FRENCH INVASION

A resident of Northern Ontario has contribuuted an article to the Globe giving an explanation of the methods adopted by the French Roman Catholic authorities to populate that vast fertile section of Ontario. It is the statement of a man who has opportunity to observe the invasion, and see a township originally settled by English-speaking people transformed into an almost solidly French district. Mr. Bell, the writer, puts the blame for this state of affairs upon the failure of the Protestant churches to provide the right kind of leadership for the new settlers. This lack of leadership has resulted in dissensions that prevented adequate schools and the growth of a community spirit among the settlers. The French on the other hand, have had the direction of their priests in all the activities of the settlements. It has been productive of harmony which makes life in the new districts endurable and hopeful.

Unless some steps are taken quickly this influx of French Canadians into the north will create a problem for the Government that will be difficult to deal with. We have had experience in the eastern counties and up the Ottawa Valley that should be sufficient to warn our provincial statesmen against allowing conditions to grow up that will cause them and their successors grave anxieties in the future.

For at least a quarter of a century the French hierarchy have been working to a carefully thought out plan to capture the clay belt of Northern Ontario. No effective measures have so far been devised to preserve that part of Ontario for the English-speaking people. If the time comes when, by this invasion, the French are able to secure a block of fifteen or twenty members in our Legislature they will have a balance of power that will enable them to control the destinies of this province, as they do Quebec. It is time that both our political and religious leaders concentrated upon this problem. In another quarter of a century it will be too late.—Orange Sentinel.

Great Boom for Alaska.

A very considerable improvement in the business of Alaska is predicted by a recent investigator who was sent there to look the field over. The exportation of fish, which has been the great source of revenue for the past ten years, will be found to have greatly increased during the last year when an account of the business shall have been taken. There is a revival in the mining industry and the export of high-grade lumber, cut from the Tongrass region, has shown a very promising beginning. The Government efforts to foster the pulp and paper manufacturing mean much for the country, and the completion of the railroad from Seward to Fairbanks will be the means of increasing the agricultural resources of the land. The completion of this road will take place at an early date.

How They Sold Out.

Two Irishmen going to the Derby races took a keg of whiskey to sell there. In going they agreed that neither should have a drink without paying for it. They went a good way and then had a rest. One of them, who had threepence (the other had nothing) got some whiskey and paid the other for it. By and by the one who got the threepence became thirsty, too, so he had some whiskey and paid the one who first had the threepence for it. They went on their way, first one paying and then the other, till all the whiskey was drunk. They then started to count the receipts and were a little surprised to find they had only threepence.

The Longest Reign.

The longest reign on record is that of Louis XIV. of France, who was on the throne for seventy-two years. Queen Victoria ruled for nearly sixty-four years.

HORSE SAVED ADMIRAL KERR.

When His Arab Bore Him From Armed Bedouins.

"The most thrilling moment in sport that I have experienced," says Vice-Admiral Kerr, C.B., who attempted the Atlantic flight and is now a major-general in England's air force, "is the moment in a race when one has judged the pace, and summed up in one's mind what is left in one's horse to call on, and also what the other horses in the race have left in them. The moment has arrived to make the final effort; hands and horse respond to the call of one's judgment and the race is won before the post is passed. That is the most thrilling moment that can come to anyone.

"I made this remark to that excellent rider and jockey, George Lenton, about thirty years ago, and he replied: 'You are quite right, but only a few people experience it. The majority of riders never know they have won until they are past the post.'

"From the point of view of being the chased and not the chaser, the most thrilling moment in my experience was as follows: When I was a midshipman, in the Egyptian war, I was sent on a message which took me into the desert, and was chased by a party of armed Bedouins. After a very sporting race for about two miles, I saw ahead of me signs of civilization, a gap between two walls leading to a village.

"Across the gap was a kind of wattle fence. I put my Arab at it, but he refused to jump—mother had never taught him. The Bedouins were rapidly approaching, and my horse had put on that stubborn appearance, which communicated itself to me through my legs and along the reins, as summing up his feelings in the terse sentence: 'I'm hanged if I'll jump!'

"I pulled out my sword to use as a whip, and not as Balaam threatened to do to his ass in a somewhat similar situation. It was a nice, thin, rapier-like sword, and it entered into its new role with the zest of a born actor. I felt the tense muscles of the Arab easing, and just as the leading Bedouins were upon me, he made the most delightful spring into the air, and, landing successfully on the other side of the fence, went off like an arrow from a bow!

"From the point of view of the hunted, that spring of my horse gave me the most thrilling moment of my life, and, on looking back and seeing my pursuers baffled by the fence, I suspect they experienced the greatest anti-thrill of their lives So baffled were they that they forgot to shoot until I was out of sight!"

"The House Beautiful."

The Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings in Great Britain is getting perturbed over the suggested demolition of Houghton Towers, the "House Beautiful" of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," which stands in ruins near Houghton Conquest, Bedfordshire, England.

The ruins are very beautiful, and since they still are considerable, consisting of the north and west loggias, the entrance porch and the towers, as well as the whole of the external walls, it is argued that the cost of removing the material would not be much less than any sum likely to be realised by the sale of the stonework.

Apart from its association with Bunyan, Houghton Towers is a valuable example of the skill of John Thorpe and Inigo Jones, its architects. It was built for Mary, Countess of Pembroke. On the frieze of the west front, dated 1604, are the porcupine of the Sidneys and the bear and ragged staff of the Dudleys. Though the work of building was started from the plans of John Thorpe, it had not far advanced when Inigo Jones took it over and at once put into practice his new ideas gathered in Italy.

After the death of the Countess in 1619 the house passed from the Pembroke family into the hands of the Bruce family, who made some internal alterations, in the taste of the seventeenth century. These alterations included a fine Carolean staircase, which was later sold and may now be seen in the Swan Hotel at Bedford.

The last man to live at Houghton Towers was the Marquis of Tavistock, who was killed while hunting. His father, the Duke of Bedford, declared that he could not bear the idea of a stranger living in his son's home, so he ordered the roof to be riven off and the interior sold. That was in 1794, and ever since the "House Beautiful" has been slowly descending to ruin.

Hymn In Court.

When the Folkestone, England, magistrates refused to license Sunday dancing recently, a number of objectors to Sunday dancing—who included clergy, ministers, churchmen and women of all denominations—in the body of the court commenced singing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." Led by a Baptist deacon they sang the four lines of the Doxology, while the court clerk and police cried "Order, order," before they were ejected.

A Brutal Mother.

A horrible case was heard in the Hamilton, Lanarkshire, court, when Isabella Gillespie or Moran was put on probation for six weeks, for battering her six-year-old daughter's head against a wall because she had lost threepence. The sheriff said the very beasts did not treat their offspring in such a way. It was a horrible case, the child's head having been battered against a wall and also banged on the floor.

Chilblains & Frost-Bite

As a remedy for these most troublesome of Winter skin afflictions, chilblains and "frost-bites," Zam-Buk is specially effective. It takes out inflammation and reduces swelling in a wonderful way and soothes the fiery tingling irritation.

Where the chilblains are broken and have a raw ulcerated surface, Zam-Buk is doubly valuable because of its great healing power. Its pain-killing efficiency and its fine antiseptic properties place Zam-Buk far above ordinary ointments.

Miss Lafond, Beaverdale, Ont., writes:—"Every winter I suffered agonies from chilblains. Nothing gave me relief. I got Zam-Buk. This splendid healer completely rid me of this trouble. Zam-Buk is equally good for 'chaps' cuts, burns, scalds, etc. Keep Zam-Buk always handy, 50c. box.

DR. T. G. PHILLIPS

Old Medical Practitioner Passes Away in Toronto.

Thomas Graham Phillips, M. D., C.M., 41 Briar Hill Ave., one of Toronto's oldest doctors, died last week. He was born in Peel county Sept. 3, 1834, and moved to Toronto when a young man. He had practiced medicine since 1860, having received his early education in Knox School by private tuition. Later he went to Trinity Medical School and studied surgery under Thomas Beasley.

He graduated from University of Toronto in 1860, and in 1861, after the abolishment of the religious test at Trinity, he received his degree from the latter. Dr. Phillips took his post-graduate course in New York City Hospital and started practice in Grahamsville.

About 60 years ago Dr. Phillips ran for the first Dominion Parliament, at that time advocating a deep waterways system for the St. Lawrence to the Great Lakes. Afterwards he went to Winnipeg where he served as medical health officer for many years. He also took an active part in Conservative politics in the West, and at one time travelled for 40 days across the prairies with former Premier Arthur Sifton, making two speeches a day.

In 1882 he returned to Toronto and married Elizabeth Duncan, daughter of William Duncan, J. P. for West Work.

Three daughters, Mrs. W. Motherwell, Calgary; Florence and Marguerite, at home; and one son, Dr. T. G. W. Phillips, Calgary, and one grandson, H. John Motherwell, survive.

Dr. Phillips was the independent Conservative candidate in the old riding of Cardwell in 1867, the year of Confederation, and was defeated by only two weeks. Deceased had property interests in Orangeville for a number of years, being the owner of the block now occupied by the Gem Theatre. He visited the town frequently until a few years ago and was often here on monthly fair day. It is interesting to recall that one of the planks in his Cardwell election platform was direct railway communication between Toronto and Owen Sound. Another was the deepening and enlarging of the St. Lawrence canals, still a live question, so that sea-going vessels could pass up the river, thereby making Toronto an ocean port.

SUIT OVER CAR

Only One Case Tried at Orangeville Fall Assizes.

There was absolutely no criminal business at the Orangeville Fall Assizes, which opened before His Lordship, Mr. Justice Mowat, in the Court House here on Tuesday of last week. The only civil case down for trial was an action by Arthur Reid, of Toronto, formerly of Waldemar, against J. E. Smith & Co., for alleged illegal seizure of a Ford car that the plaintiff had purchased from the defendant company on time payments. Reid had also bought a number of farm implements from the defendants. He made some payments, which he contended were on the car. These the defendant firm had applied on his general account. The defendants repossessed the car, claiming that there was an unpaid balance of $200. Reid was allowed to retain the car and the defendants were given judgment for $200, each of the parties paying their own costs.

COMMUNITY FROLICS

Orangeville Celebrated Hallowe'en in Novel and Successful Fashion.

Instead of leaving the boys and girls of the town to celebrate Hallowe'en as they might deem fit, the Arena Committee, composed of a number of our representative citizens, took the programme in hand and arranged for a Night of Hallowe'en Frolics in the Arena building. The departure proved a huge success in every way. The celebration attracted a crowd that thronged the galleries of the big rink to capacity and provided so much fun and merriment for the juvenile element of our population that they had neither the time nor the desire to indulge in the time honored Hallowe'en pranks. As a result there was quietude and order everywhere within the confines of the town except in the Arena, where the greater part of the population had assembled. Here fun, laughter, music and mirth-making novelties of one sort and another held the stage for four hours and sent the big crowd home in the best of spirits and well satisfied with the new method of celebrating Hallowe'en. It is of course impossible to do justice to a programme of such length and variety. A description of the costumes worn by many of the entertainers would itself take more space than The Banner has at its disposal. There were jazz bands, the players being decked out in striking costumes, clowns enough to stock a whole circus, and some of them mighty good ones at that, horse races, with Barney Google and the famous "Spark Plug" much in evidence and a number of burlesque shows of a highly amusing nature. In the intervals the bands paraded and treated the concourse to lively music.

The fun started with street parades headed by jazz bands from the different Wards, the parades coming together at the rink. After an impromptu programme by the different bands, clowns and other volunteer entertainers, the Tuxis Boys led the gathering in some community singing, which was not any too successful owing to the volume of sound necessary to fill the big rink. This was followed by a keenly contested basket ball game between two teams of High School girls. A number of races for school children brought forth an army of contestants and created plenty of excitement. The list of winners follows:

Boys, 8 years and under—Jack Rohmer, Jim Merlina, Glen Morris.

Girls, 8 years and under—Dorothy Hopkins, Lilly Clowes, Helen Overland.

Boys, 10 years and under—Maurice Young, Jack Rohmer, Gordon Walker.

Girls, 10 years and under—Margaret Brawley, Helen Stump, Pauline Reid.

Boys, 12 years and under—Kenneth Louden, Jack Portland, Teddy Dewar.

Girls, 12 years and under—Margaret Irvine, Ruth Abbott, Ruth Hughes.

A candy shower for the children and the Hindoo football match were exciting features and seemed to be just as much enjoyed by the spectators as by the children themselves. Another event that created much interest and not a little excitement was the tug-of-war between teams of eight men each from the four Wards. The first contest was between the North and East. The East Ward had a comparatively light line-up and were soon pulled over the line by the heavy octette that represented the North. The real contest was between the West and the South. The latter got the jump on their opponents when the word was given and had them perilously near the line right at the start. The Westerners got set and managed to gain back some of the lost ground. For a long eight minutes the teams struggled with little advantage either way. The Committee then decided the pull a draw and as the North had a win to their credit returned them as winners. The teams were:—

North—Austin Adams, Hilliard Anderson, Wm. Palmer, Fred Webb, H. A. Dorrance, J. D. Torrie, Thos. A. White and E. A. Menary.

South—K. Matthews, H Gilmore, Robt. McKibbon, Thos. Rennick, Geo. Raspin, Geo. Foster, Wilson Huston and Leonard McCabe.

West — A. E. Annis, Lloyd Mennie, M. H. Reid, T. J. Robinson, A. D. McKitrick, Christie McAulay, Dr. G. H. Campbell, John Nason.

East—Geo. Morrison, Lorne Flatt, Geo. Stoddart, Jimmy O'Brien, Fred Crisp, Gil Hackett, Alex. Dalgleish and Norris Hughes.

Tilting the bucket was a pastime that provided much fun. Two teams of Orangeville Public School girls staged another excellent basketball game and the High School boys and the Dods Knitting Co. team met in a well-played soft ball game, the latter winning by a score of 7 to 3. The players were:—

High School, Mekim c; Rowan p; Connell 1b; Willoughby 2b; Price 3b; Kyles s.; Sanderson rf; Henry cf; Adamson lf.

Dods Knitting Co.—Wilson rf; Smith 3b; P. Bradley lf; D. Black cf; Ridley p; Sanderson c; McGrath 1b; Bell 2b; Brawley ss.

The programme was still in full swing as the midnight hour approached and proved so lengthy that several numbers had to be deleted. Taken in every way the Frolics were a big success and much credit is due to President J. B. Adamson of the Arena Company, the originator of the idea, and the various committees that had the arrangements in hand.

CHILD WELFARE CLINIC

Twenty-two interested mothers brought their children to the Child Welfare Clinic, held in the Public Library on Thursday and Friday, and thus secured expert advice in regard to the physical condition of the children and the best feeding and care necessary to promote their greatest welfare.

Dr. Bell, of the Provincial Board of Health, assisted by the District Officer of Health, Dr. Fraser, gave each child a complete physical examination and pointed out any defects, and, where necessary, the children were referred to their own family physician for treatment.

Excellent advice was given regarding the feeding and care of the babies to provide them with the best foundation of health for the future. The mothers expressed their satisfaction in having the children examined and in the advice, which enabled them to understand certain conditions and deal with them intelligently.

The homes will be visited to make any further explanations of the doctor's findings and to show the exact method of making up the feedings for the babies.

The attendance at the Clinic of the mothers from distant points was particularly gratifying as evidence of their real appreciation of the value of the Clinic to them in helping them to promote the best interests of their children.

The members of the Child Welfare Committee of the I. O. D. E. and Nurses from the Hospital were able assistants of the Provincial Nurse.

The importance of more attention beng given to the nutrition and correction of physical defects of the children below school age is becoming increasingly apparent. The most critical period in the child's life is the first year. Then is the foundation laid of the future physical condition. It is essential that the best help which modern science has to offer, should be available to every mother, that she may give her children a foundation of good health, which is so vital to the happiness of the individual and the welfare of the nation.

SAVED BABY'S LIFE

Mrs. Alfred Tranchemontagne, St. Michel des Saints, Que., writes:—"Baby's Own Tablets are an excellent medicine. They saved my baby's life and I can highly recommend them to all mothers." Mrs. Tranchemontagne's experience is that of thousands of other mothers who have tested the worth of Baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are a sure and safe medicine for little ones and never fail to regulate the bowels and stomach, thus relieving all the minor ills from which children suffer. They are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail, at 25 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PLAINTIFFS WON SUIT

In Tuesday's Division Court, E. C. Daniels and Geo. Beswick were given judgment in an interpleader action to recover a team of grey Percherons, formerly the property of Huskisson Bros., of Mono. The animals were seized by Bailiff Hughes last spring, but were claimed by Harry Burridge, of Mono, who maintained that he had bought the team from the Huskissons. Burridge, however, was unable to produce any bill of sale, and failing this there was not evidence to satisfy the court that the team had actually passed into his possession. J. L. Island appeared for plaintiffs and C. R. McKeown for defendant.

DOWN FOR FIVE YEARS

When arraigned before Magistrate Falconer on Thursday afternoon last Albert Chadwick, of Sprucedale, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a quantity of furs and clothing from Norton Fisher's store in Shelburne. The Magistrate sentenced the prisoner to a term of five years in Kingston penitentiary. Chadwick left for Kingston on Thursday night in charge of Provincial Officer Mennie and Deputy Sheriff Ralph Endacott.

Jacob Pearl, who is confined in the gaol here awaiting trial for the Tornie burglary in Orangeville, was remanded until Friday, when it is expected that his trial will be proceeded with.

The Magistrate made an order for the return to Toronto of C. K. Chu, a Chinaman wanted in the city on a charge of forgery. Chief Portland took the celestial to the city on Friday.

ORANGEVILLE, ONTARIO

BOYS' CONFERENCE

One Hundred and Fifty Delegates Were Registered at Successful Conference at Fergus.

"The Abundant Life" was the theme of a very successful Older Boys' and Leaders' Conference held in Fergus on Friday, Saturday and Sunday last, for Tuxis Boys, Pastors, Superintendents, Leaders and Older Boys. The speakers and leaders were: Taylor Statten, Secretary of the National Boys' Work Board; Rev. J. R. Harris, Secretary of Religious Education of the Presbytery of Toronto; C. F. Plewman, Secretary of the Ontario Boys' Work Board, and W. Simpson, of the Guelph Y. M. C. A.

The Conference opened on Friday evening with a supper for leaders and adults, in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Mr. Statten addressed the gathering on "The Marks of a Successful Leader." At the session in Melville Presbyterian Church on Friday night the selection of officers resulted as follows:

Grand Praetor (Pres.) — Harry Berry, Guelph.

Grand Deputy Praetor (Vice-President)—Gordon S. Adamson, Orangeville.

Grand Scriptor (Secretary)—Fred A. Wansbrough, Grand Valley.

Grand Comptor (Treasurer)—Otto Lovell, Fergus.

The Saturday morning session was largely taken up with a discussion of different phases of Boys' Work. Following an explanation and demonstration of a mid-week session devotional period on Saturday afternoon, all the delegates, headed by the Fergus Citizens' Band, marched up and down the main street and then to the Park, where games of all kinds were thoroughly enjoyed by the boys. On Saturday evening a Tuxis Boys' banquet was held in the Methodist Church. After this one of the finest sessions of the Conference was held in Melville Church and was addressed by Mr. Statten.

The closing session of the Conference took the form of a mass meeting in Melville Church on Sunday night. Several of the delegates spoke in appreciation of the way in which they had been entertained during their stay in Fergus. The boys were high in their praise of the way the ladies and also the girls had made the three days spent in Fergus enjoyable beyond description. Just here we might add that the way in which the Orangeville boys were entertained was wonderful. Too much cannot be said in appreciation of our hosts and hostesses.

Beautifully impressive was the close of the Conference, when the delegates joind hands and formed a complete circle around the church. Then a verse of "Blest be the Tie that Binds" was sung. This was followed by a brief silent prayer for "the fellow to the left," the second verse by a similar interval of supplication for "the fellow to the right," and the third verse by a silent petition for "yourself." After the singing of the fourth verse the Conference was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Rev. N. Argyle Hurlburt, pastor of the Fergus Methodist Church, was untiring in his efforts as chairman of the committee in charge of the Conference. The splendid success that it was can be, in no small measure, attributed to his ability and good management. Mr. R. D. Kerr was the efficient registrar and looked after all the details of registration and billeting in a very capable manner. Rev. Roy W. Frid, pastor of the Elora Methodist Church, had charge of the publicity and showed much ingenuity and resource in the way he advertised the Conference.

There was a registration of 150. Large delegations were present from Orangeville, Rockwood, Elora and Fergus. Palmerston, Guelph, Thornbury, Harriston, Mimosa, Mono Mills and Grand Valley were also represented. The boys from Thornbury came the greatest distance and Orangeville had the distinction of sending the greatest number of delegates. It will be remembered that at th Conference here last March the largest delegation came from Fergus.

The following were registered from Orangeville: John E. Smith, John Kearns, George Campbell, Kenneth Matheson, Wallace Cunningham, Harold Duke, Ross Robertson, Hillyard Rawn, Robert Mahaffy, Clayton Connell, Donald Watt, Gordon S. Adamson, John Kyles, Christie McAulay, W. Crozier Price, Douglas Adamson, Earl Claridge, William Hanna, Jack E. Owen, Carmel Davison, R. Fairbairn, Russell S. McGillivray, Gordon Smith, M. A. McKitrick, Aubrey Wry, Elgin Hall, W. H. Edwards, R. Jamieson Anderson and R. Wilson McConnell.

In addition to the above a goodly number of local leaders and boys motored over to Fergus on Sunday and attended the closing sessions of the Conference.

SIMPSON—M'COLMAN

At College Street Presbyterian Church, Toronto, on Saturday, Nov. 3rd, Sadie E., youngest daughter of Mrs. D. McColman, Smyrner, Ont., was married to Mr. R. E. Simpson, of Allenford, Ont. The bride wore a gown of delft blue chiffon velvet with hat to match. Immediately after the wedding breakfast, served at the Hotel Carls-Rite, Mr. and Mrs. Simpson left for their new home, carrying with them the good wishes of a host of friends.

ST. MARK'S BAZAAR

The ladies of St. Mark's Church are holding a Bazaar in the Town Hall on Saturday afternoon and evening, December 8th. Everything you need for Christmas gifts. Special gifts for the children. Japanese Tea Room, where a special cup of tea will be served by dainty maidens from Japan.

ELBA

On Wednesday, Oct. 24th, members and visiting ladies of the Elba Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. A. T. Lindsay and enjoyed a pleasant afternoon. When the business was transacted, a short program was given, including music, by Mrs. Patterson; paper, by Mrs. Henry; solo, Miss Young, and exchange of recipes. The next meeting will be in the form of an "At Home" at the Orange Hall, Nov. 21, for the members and their families.

SABBATH SCHOOL CONFERENCE RECOMMENDATIONS

At a very successful Sabbath School Conference held in Tarbert Union Church recently, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Your Committee on Resolutions beg leave to report as follows:

1. That a vote of thanks be extended to the ladies of Tarbert church for the excellent tea provided for the delegates, and also the church officials for its use for this Sunday School institute.

2. Resolved that the different ministers on the Mount Forest District be requested to organize wherever possible, Canadian Girls in Training Groups, Tuxis Squares and Trail Rangers.

3. We recommend that each Sunday School and Young People's organization make such provision that some of their members may be appointed to attend the Summer School at Port Elgin.

4. We would urge that all Sunday Schools throughout the district send delegates to all Sunday School Institutes and Conventions, both township, county and province, in order that they may get a larger view and gather inspiration from their work.

5. We heartily approve the purchase of property at Port Elgin and pledge our support in the financial enterprise.

Low Ford Closed Car Prices Bring Heavy Buying

The unusual opportunity to secure a new Ford Sedan for $685 or a new Ford Coupe for $595 has created such a heavy demand that the few cars remaining of the small original allotment will likely be sold within a few days—some Ford dealers are practically sold out now.

We will not be able to get more of these cars, as factory production has ceased on these models.

Orders are being booked and deliveries made strictly in turn.

Consider the value offered—the time saved—the comfort and the convenience of having a closed car for cold weather.

Let us enter your order at once if you wish to get a Ford closed car at present prices.

	Old Prices	Reduction	New Prices
2-door Sedan	$785.00	$100.00	$685.00
Coupe	695.00	100.00	595.00

All Prices F. O. B. Ford, Ont.

New Four-door Sedans and entirely redesigned Coupes will be brought out at a substantial advance in price.

GONE TO HIGHER COURT

Samuel Duckworth, a former well-known character of East Luther, died in Toronto on Saturday, the funeral taking place on Monday to Prospect Cemetery. Sammy, as he was familiarly called, had reached his 75th year, but there were few who would have admitted he looked or acted as such. His early days were spent in East Garafraxa, where he worked hard and to advantage. About 45 years ago he came to East Luther, settled on the 2nd concession, about a mile west of the village, and up to his removal to Toronto some ten years ago, provided no little excitement and talk. He was small in stature, but made up for any deficiency by a wiry energetic body, and a quick acute mind that carried him around many a tight corner. In his many business experiences he bumped into frequent court proceedings, many of them of his own seeking, and was singularly fortunate as a rule. In the Division Court today he had an interesting case that promised a lively legal tilt, but a higher power intervened and Sammy answered the inevitable summons to the higher court, from which there is no appeal.—Star & Vidette.

ALBERTA COAL POPULAR

Mr. A. W. Annis is unloading a second carload of Alberta coal this week. There is no hesitation now on the part of townspeople to place an order for some of this coal. The first carload brought in some weeeks ago was delivered almost entirely in one ton and half ton lots. One citizen, Dr. D. L. Fee, who had lived in Edmonton and knew what a satisfactory fuel good Alberta coal is, filled his bins with it, but citizens who had never used it were cautious. Caution has vanished in cases where townspeople have tried out this western coal and they are anxious to get more of it. As a fuel for grate fires, it has everything else in the coal line beaten and for the ordinary furnace, Quebec heaters and the average coal burning range, it has given satisfaction. — Alliston Herald.

THE BANKING QUESTION

Shelburne Meeting Passes Resolution in Favor of Government Inspection of Banks, Asking the Dominion Government to Amend the Bank Act so as to Compel Chartered Banks to Create a Reserve Fund to Guarantee Depositors Against Loss, and Asking the Federal Government to Reimburse in Full the Depositors of the Home Bank.

There was quite a good attendance at the meeting held in Shelburne Town Hall Thursday evening of last week, under the auspices of the U. F. O., to hear the discussion of Canada's Banking System by Wm. Irvine, M. P., Laborite, of Calgary, and R. J. Woods, M. P., Progressive, of Dufferin.

County Director Geo. A. Ferris occupied the chair. Mr. Ferris said that although the meeting was under the auspices of the U. F. O., it was just a public meeting for the public good.

Wm. Irvine, M. P., was the first speaker. Mr. Irvine said he had addressed many meetings throughout the country and the attendance and interest showed the intensity of public opinion. The people must apply new methods to new conditions. The financial system is the life-blood of the country. The labor organizations have been fighting capitalists, but know nothing of finance. Labor is between the capitalists and the public. The public blames labor and labor blames the capitalists. Individuals or a class are not to blame for the financial unrest, but the financial system. The World War showed the connection between the amount of money in circulation and the economic conditions in a country. It might be noted that the British Government sees the need of a change in the financial system. In Canada the Bank Act gives the bankers a monopoly of the credit system of the country. The people have paid too little attention to Canada's credit system. The farmers at Ottawa have delved into this question. They started an investigation and endeavored to improve the Bank Act. One of the speaker's experiences had been interviewing Henry Ford on the banking system. When Ford was starting he was refused a bank loan. Mr. Ford tells of later meeting a banker at a banquet. The banker asked for business, so Ford sent him a deposit of two million dollars. The next he heard from the banker was the request, "For God's sake take your money out—we can't pay you interest." The bankers, the speaker continued, don't understand the real effects of finance. They say, "We are not economists, we are just plain bankers." Your credit is the banker's belief in your ability to pay back. The banker's credit is your belief in his ability to pay back at any time the money you have placed on deposit with him. The banks have only fifteen per cent. of the money that is on deposit—the rest is out on loan. Do not take your money out of the bank if you wish the bank to stand. Real credit is goods itself; financial credit is the interpretation of these goods. The real credit of a country is in its lands, mines, agriculture, etc., and the skill of the people. A new financial system is needed. In regard to the failure of the Home Bank he imagined that it was too late for the Government to undertake to do anything that would be of service. When the House met, he was going to advocate that the Government should pay 100 per cent. of deposits of the Home Bank, although he didn't think they would do that, "as the bankers are the Government." He would also advocate a change in the Bank Act by which deposits will be protected in the same way the bank notes are protected. He would also advocate the Government taking steps that would show the true standing of every bank in Canada. This, he thought, would help save the small banks from being gobbled up. He spoke of the recent run on a bank and Provincial funds being placed on deposit to show faith in the bank. He hoped the Premier wohld put some of his own money in that bank to show his confidenre in it. Provincial funds there didn't count, as they were safe by priority of claim over ordinary depositors.

R. J. Woods, M. P., said he would not talk at great length. He had been greatly interested in listening to the address of Mr. Irvine, who had taken an active interest in the question in the Dominion House when the revision of Bank Act was before the Banking Committee and the House. Mr. Woods thought there should be further change in the Bank Act. Citizens had a right to expect members of parliament to look after their interests in all matters. A great many people had an idea that depositors' money in a chartered bank was safe—that the Government was behind the chartered banks—while the fact is that the Government is not responsible. The Bank Act is only a set of rules with which the banks must comply. Owing to circumstances, the people haven't as much confidence in the banks as they once had. Changes might be made in the Bank Act or in the financial system. There might, for instance, be a Federal Reserve Bank, as in the United States, governmentally administered. The speaker could not see why a Government banking system could not be worked—run by the Government, and with the Government responsible to the depositors for every dollar deposited. He could not see why a Government system could not be established—although it would require much work to carry out. The Progressive group in the Dominion House had been against completing the revision of the Bank Act for another year. One amendment that had been proposed that had struck him very favorably, and of which the Progressive and Labor groups had been in favor, had been the one providing for Government inspection. But it had been turned down. There is now no Government inspection of banks. The banks do their own inspecting. Bank reports are of course sent in to the Finance Department, but they are not closely investigated there. The Progressive group is in favor of Government inspection of banks for the protection of the public and the depositors. The speaker could not see why Government inspection could not be carried on successfully. The Government looks after the income tax and other things by inspectors—why not the banks also. The condition of the Home Bank was brought to the attention of Sir Thomas White, Finance Minister, in 1914, again in 1916, and again in 1918. The Finance Minister accepted statements of Home Bank officials that the bank was all right. Where did the lost money go to? Probably to further wild-cat speculation instead of loans to honest business. Depositors should not lose by reason of the Government not doing its duty. The people have a right to know the standing of the banks and their real condition. The banks should be thoroughly inspected and thoroughly audited. The little depositors—the widows and the laboring men—are the ones to be pitied when a bank fails. The Government should protect these people. These wrongs should be righted, and the only way to right them is to have men in the legislative halls who will look after the interests of the common people. Mr. Woods concluded by expressing his pleasure at seeing so many out to the meeting. He thought there should be meetings of this kind for the discussion of public questions when they can be free from the excitement of a political campaign.

Mr. T. J. O'Flynn and Mr. Irvine had a little argument about one of the statements Mr. Irvine had made in his address.

Chairman Ferris expressed the opinion that it was better to wreck the Bankers' Association than to wreck public confidence, and asked the question: "Is our banking system a fake?" He thought there should be Dominion and Provincial banks and was in favor of a national banking system.

The following resolution, with Reeve Dean, of Shelburne, as mover, and ex-Reeve T. J. O'Flynn as seconder, was passed unanimously:

That the following resolution be sent to our Federal Member, Mr. R. J. Woods, and to the Finance Minister:

We, representing the depositors of the Home Bank in Shelburne and vicinity, resolve as follows:

First—That in the opinion of this meeting the Federal Government should reimburse the depositors of the Home Bank in full.

Second—That at the next session of Parliament the Bank Act should be amended to compel the chartered banks to create a reserve fund to guarantee depositors against losses.

Third — That the Government should have a system of Government inspection.

The meeting closed with the passing of a vote of thanks to Mr. Irvine, and the singing of the National Anthem.—Economist.

Peel County jail held 63 prisoners during the last year ending September, of whom 58 were men. Statistics give their religion as: Roman Catholic 11; Church of England 16; Presbyterians 18; Methodists 14 other denominations 4. Six were given long sentences, and one received corporal punishment. The cost of maintaining the jail, with salaries was $2,838.50, and the cost per prisoner 12 3-4 cents per day.

Many Chinese are busy in the marshes at Port Credit digging up what they call "water potatoes." The root grows on the bottom of the marsh reeds and in appearance closely resembles a tulip bulb. For as long as two hours at a stretch they will work waist deep in the slimy mud, caring nothing of the discomforts so long as their work is well rewarded. The harvesters claim that the tuber is edible, and that there is a good market for them in the Chinese restaurants of the city.

A kindly but somewhat patronizing landlady, says Harper's Magazine, inquired of the professor's young bride how she and her husband planned to spend the summer vacation.

"Our plans thus far," replied the bride a little distantly, "are only tentative."

"How delightful," the landlady exclaimed. "I'm sure you will enjoy camping out more than anything else you could do."

DAISY CAUSES TROUBLE

Weed Inspector for Elderslie Sued for $80. Elderslie Township a Party to the Suit.

Eb. Harris is weed inspector for North Elderslie. His full name is Ebenezer and he is named after the Bible place where the Israelites were smitten by the Philistines in the days when Samuel was a judge in Israel.

Donald McNeil, a Tara man, has given notice to Ebenezer that he will do his best to smite him financially at the Division Court sittings in Tara on Nov. 8th. As the weed inspector was appointed by by-law of the Council of Elderslie the municipality is a party to the suit and will in the end be mulcted to the extent of $80 and costs if the plaintiff gets the full amount of his claim. The Reeve and members of the Council are backing up their inspector and have asked Mr. Mickle to fight the case. McNeil is the owner of the west half of lot 19, con. 14, Elderslie. He has not lived on it for several years and has had it leased to different parties for hay and pasture land. Complaints came to the weed inspector that their farms were being polluted by weed seeds from Donald's domain. The inspector is not an arbitrary man but he is firm and he sent out men to cut down the weeds with a mower. The greatest of all enemies to crops, the ox-eye daisy, seems to be the meanest flower that bloomed and did not give thoughts that too often lie too deep for tears as one poet, who didn't know much about weeds unwisely puts it. On the contrary the neighbors might have been moved to use words not found in a Sunday School program had they not been men of deep piety for the wind has the faculty of transporting noxious weed seeds to great distances. In cutting down the weeds the plaintiff claims a lot of hay on his farm was wasted and that is where the bill for damages comes in. The weed cutters sent in a bill of $12.50 which was paid by Elderslie Council. There is no doubt about the Council having the power to appoint a weed inspector under by-law and there is no doubt about the inspector having power to order the weeds to be cut down at the owner's expense after giving him a reasonable time to do the work himself. It will, therefore be interesting to know what the line of attack is and the case will draw a large crowd to the Court at Tara, for it is the first under the Noxious Weeds Act in this locality. The Act also makes the Council responsible for weeds being cut on the highway. This could be improved on by making every property owner or tenant responsible for the cutting of noxious weeds opposite his own premises. Reeve Oswald and two members of the Couuncil, besides ex-Warden Lewis and ex-Reeve McKay, saw the field where the weed cutting was done before tho mower got in its work and they will give expert evidence in the weed case.—Chesley Enterprise.

Two Milton doctors were called, and they had him removed to Guelph General Hospital. The diagnosis concluded there was a clot of blood on the brain. An operation took place, but the patient never regained consciousness, and died on Friday morning.

BACK ACHED TERRIBLY

Mrs. McMahon Tells How She Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chatham, Ont.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a run-down condition after the birth of my baby boy. I had terrible pains and backache, and was tired and weak, not fit to do my work and care for my three little children. One day I received your little book and read it, and gave up taking the medicine I had and began taking the Vegetable Compound. I feel much better now and am not ashamed to tell what it has done for me. I recommend it to any woman I think feels as I do." —Mrs. J. R. McMahon, 153 Harvey St., Chatham, Ont.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has for nearly fifty years been restoring sick, ailing women to health and strength. It relieves the troubles which cause such symptoms as backache, painful periods, irregularities, tired, worn-out feelings and nervousness. This is shown again and again by such letters as Mrs. McMahon writes, as well as by one woman telling another. These women know, and are willing to tell others, what it did for them; therefore, it is surely worth your trial.

Women who suffer should write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Cobourg, Ontario, for a free copy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women." C

In Romney township, eighteen miles east of Leamington, an oil gusher that shot 72 feet above the derrick, was struck at a depth of 3,500 feet. A week before the strike it had been about decided to abandon work, as the drillers were then down deeper than ever before in the district.

Of three thousand illicit stills seized in the past year throughout the dominion of Canada, 428 were in the "wet" Province of Quebec. The average per province is 333 and yet Quebec has nearly a hundred above the average. And yet some people say the moonshine operators are confined to prohibition provinces.

That Police Magistrate Moore, of Acton, has had a busy itinerary of police court cases during the past year, the fact that fines aggregating $7,659 have been imposed is ample proof. Of this large sum $4,313.00 was imposed on violators of the law in Halton county; $3,296.00 in Peel County, and $50.00 in Wellington county.

"The Only Remedy" Says This Doctor

"The treatment of skin diseases (eczema) and diseases of the scalp is known to be difficult," writes Dr. W. L. Randolph. "However, there is one remedy that is known to be entirely dependable in this distressing and troublesome disease. I refer to D. D. D. Prescription."

If you have never tried D. D. D. for skin disease, whether a small spot, or whether one of the dreaded forms—the torment of eczema or the hard scales of psoriasis—get a bottle at once on our guarantee that if it doesn't relieve you your money will be refunded. $1.00 a bottle. $20 A WEEK

John D. Rockefeller's Nephew Makes Start in Life.

Starting the first day of a new job as any ordinary bank clerk might do, but ending it in a blaze of publicity which made him fear for his job, Godfrey S. Rockefeller, son of the late William G. Rockfeller and grand-nephew of John D. Rockefeller, began earning $20 a week in the National Commercial Bank and Trust Company, Albany.

Mr. Rockefeller went to Albany with his bride of five months and set up in a modest apartment in the residential section. His new home is two miles from his job, with no subway to whisk him down town, but Mr. Rockefeller was at his desk promptly at 8.30 in the morning. He was put to work sorting and listing checks in the transit department.

"The fact that he was a Rockefeller had nothing to do with his employment in our bank," said one of the officials of the institution. "Before he was accepted his credentials were examined in the usual way. He will be employed at the same salary given any new clerk and will receive no more consideration. He does not expect it. He is a democratic young man and wants to win his way on his own merits."

Mr. Rockefeller himself was reticent as to his new job. Local newspapermen were not slow in visiting the bank and trying to get interviews with the new clerk.

NEW LAMP BURNS 95 P. C. AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil.)

The inventor, F. N. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

An advertisement to men in their "twenties" and "thirties"

$5,000 or $10,000 would come in mighty handy to you to-day, wouldn't it?

Think, then, how much more valuable it will be to you at forty-five or fifty.

Of course, you'll say, I'll have been successful and won't need it then. But stop! You may—and if you do, you'll need it more then than you do to-day.

Your producing years will be waning and $10,000 will mean all the difference between a dependent and an independent old age.

ORANGEVILLE PRESBYTERY

At the meeting of the Orangeville Presbytery in St. Andrew's Church here on Tuesday, a call was presented from the united Presbyterian congregations of Flesherton, Eugenia and Proton Station to Mr. Joseph Harrower, B. A., of Toronto, a recent graduate of Knox College. Presbytery sanctioned the call and made provisional arrangements for the induction of Mr. Harrower, should he accept.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The Baptist Church had an enjoyable and helpful Thanksgiving afternoon and evening. About 4.15 a Fellowship meeting began, the pastor delivering an informal address, and a number leading in prayer and giving testimonies and notes of praise. After this meeting a Supper was served in the basement, at which there were something over one hundred present. The Ladies' Aid of the church, of which Mrs. Horley is the President, deserves to be congratulated upon the very pleasant manner in which tea was served. After the Supper there was a good visit all round and then the company adjourned to the auditorium for a song service and then the evening meeting. Pastor Albert Hughes, of Toronto, delivered a splendid sermon on what Christ's choosing twelve to be with Him meant. He spoke of God looking for men with whom to fellowship and whom he can trust. The speaker mentioned something of what this meant to the disciples and also to the Christian to-day—fellowship, security, peace and transformation. Madam L. H. Jones supplied special music.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Lacrosse lovers who saw Lionel Conacher play with the Maitlands last summer and learned to admire the big fellow for his clean and manly sportsmanship, will regret that he allowed himself to be interjected into the Parkdale-Hamilton Rowing Club rugby game on Thanksgiving Day. Conacher was never a Parkdale player and even if he was technically eligible to play the Parkdale Club was guilty of mighty poor sportsmanship, when it endeavored to use him to win the game. Conacher is perhaps not so deserving of censure as the Parkdale Club officials. The big chap is passionately fond of the game and it is likely that he was thinking more of the chance to play than he did of the ethics of his action. It is gratifying to note that Toronto sporting writers have not hesitated to condemn the action of the Parkdale officials. This appears to be a case where outspoken censure is very necessary for the good of the game.

Thoughtlessness is not the least of the offences that are chargeable to autoists. It is surely thoughtlessness, or shall we call it something worse, that causes motorists to disturb nearly every outdoors meeting by starting up their cars during a speech, an elocutionary number or a musical selection. Interruptions from this source are disconcerting to a speaker or an artist and are also very annoying to the greater part of the audience, who have their attention distracted for the moment and are perhaps prevented by the noise form hearing something that they are particularly anxious not to miss. It is not necessary to interfere with a programme by starting up cars while some person is speaking, singing or playing. Good sense and good breeding require the motorist to give the same attention and order that is expected from the rest of the audience. If it becomes necessary to leave the grounds there are plenty of breaks in the average programme that will give opportunity to do so. Motorists should be considerate of the feelings of others and a little consideration would save audiences a great deal of needless annoyance.

The Soldiers' Memorial unveiled in Alexandra Park on Monday afternoon is a credit to the town of Orangeville and the County of Dufferin. It is a worthy monument to the soldier sons of Dufferin who yielded up their lives on the blood-stained battlefields of Flanders and France. A word of praise is due to the Memorial Committee for the very satisfying way in which it has completed its arduous task—arduous but nevertheless a labor of love. From time to time the Committee has been criticised by citizens of the county and even by the press for its seeming tardiness. This seems to have been a case where the Committee showed wisdom in moving slowly and after mature deliberation. It gathered invaluable material from the experince of other places and was also able to profit by this experience and thereby avoid mistakes that in a work of this kind are beyond remedy once they are made. The Committee did its work well and its members are entitled to the grateful thanks of every citizen of this county who was anxious to have the names and memory of our war heroes preserved in some enduring manner.

Citizens and country people who do their business in Orangeville have doubtless noted with no little satisfaction the improvement in the condition of Broadway this autumn. Thanks to the pavement, the gravelling and grading along the sides of the street, and the street oiling, the roadway is now comparatively dry even in the wettest weather. The sides of the street are standing the stress of traffic and weather conditions in a very satisfactory manner. Some of the credit for this must be given to the oiling early in the suummer. The heavy asphalt oil laid the dust in effective manner and also acted as a bond, turning off the water and lessening the grinding, wearing down effect of heavy vehicular traffic. It would be a source of satisfaction if other stretches of the street could be put in anything like the same condition as the paved section. There is a particularly bad piece of roadway reaching from the west end of the pavement as far as the Faulkner St. corner. This was a veritable bog-hole during the wet weather last fall and this spring. If we get a protracted wet spell it will be just as bad this fall. Owing to the springy, unstable bottom it is a hard bit of road to improve by the ordinary method of grading and gravelling. Paving is the only kind of improvement that will make a permanently good roadway here. If some scheme of paving this particular block could be worked out, the improvement would be a real benefit to the street and town.

NIGHT IN FAIRYLAND

Some of the prominent numbers of the Juvenile Production, "A Night in Fairyland," which will be staged in the Orangeville Opera House on the nights of November 22 and 23, are the Dance of the Butterflies, the Sailors' Dance and the amusing fairies' version of the stately minuet. The production is being staged by Miss E. M. Drake, under the auspices of Lord Dufferin Chapter of the I. O. D. E. At least ninety local children are taking part. Tickets are now on sale at the popular price of 50 cents.

WORK-WORN WOMEN

Care of Home and Children Often Causes a Breakdown.

The woman at home, deep in household duties and the cares of motherhood, needs occasional help to keep her in good health. The demands upon a mother's health are many and severe. Her own health trials and her children's welfare exact heavy toll, while hurried meals, broken rest and much indoor living tend to weaken her. No wonder the woman at home is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. Too many women accept these visitations as a part of the lot of motherhood. But many and varied as her health troubles are, the cause is simple and relief at hand. When well, it is the woman's good blood that keeps her well; when ill she must make her blood rich to renew her health. The nursing mother more than any other woman needs rich blood and plenty of it. There is one way to get this good blood so necessary to health, and that is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These enrich the blood, and through their use many weak, ailing wives and mothers have been benefitted. If you are ailing, easily tired or depressed, it is a duty you owe yourself and your family to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail, at 50 cents a box, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

DUFFERIN'S SONS

The clash of arms in Europe came,
And through the world it sounded,
"Dufferin's Sons," they heard the call,
The "Colours" they surrounded.

They rallied to their Country's aid,
To serve their King and Nation,
Their brave hearts on the altar laid,
From farm, and ranch and station.

Adown the years the tale will go,
Of their sacrifice great and noble.
Their stirring deeds, as they faced the foe,
So fierce, and of ways ignoble.

The war has passed, and now peace reigns,
But many are sleeping quietly
On Flanders fields, their bodies lie
In the rest they earned so blithely.

Now to their honour we have built
This monument in our town,
Which to the generations yet to come,
Will witness bear of their renown.

With pride the native son may speak
Of the comrades gone before him,
Who such record made by their manly worth,
And with emulation "Carry On" in memoriam.

—T. JONES.

2. Lloyd George conversing with J. J. Kelly, General Manager, Canadian Pacific Railway, eastern lines, on the observation platform of his private car.

IN appreciation of the arrangements made for his comfort while travelling over the lines of the Canadian Pacific, the Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George wrote E. W. Beatty, President of the Company as follows:

"My dear Mr Beatty,—

"I have had such a heavy list of engagements to fill since I arrived on this side of the Atlantic that this is literally the first opportunity I have had in which to write to thank you very heartily for the magnificent arrangements which you made for my journey west of Toronto. Every facility and every comfort were afforded to my wife and daughter, and also to the entire party, and I owe you a deep debt of gratitude.

"With all best wishes, believe me, ever sincerely,

(Signed) "D. Lloyd George."

MELVILLE

Caledon township lost an old pioneer and lifelong resident in the person of Samuel Nelson, a widely known resident of this district, who passed away on Thursday, November 8th, at an advanced age.

The late Mr Nelson was the son of Samuel and Elizabeth Aiken Nelson, who came to this part from County Monaghan, Ireland, in the year 1832, settling at Churchville for a year or two, then breaking trail through the forest to the birthplace of the subject of this sketch, lot 21, 1st line, west, Caledon There were eleven children in the family, of whom only two, Mrs. S. Ablett and Mrs. A. Macdougall, of Toronto, survive. The late Mr. Nelson was born in January, 1845, and married Miss Naomi Dodds in the year 1876. His wife predeceased him ten years ago.

Deceased was a warm-hearted and kindly man, always ready to help any one in the time of trouble or loss, and enjoyed the respect and esteem of everyone in the township. In his earlier days he saw military service during the Fenian Raid and was Lieutenant of the Alton Company of the Peel Regiment in those stirring days. He was a staunch member of the Presbyterian Church and was an elder in Knox Church, Caledon, until prevented by illness from continuing to attend the Sunday services and discharge the duties of his office. In politics he was a Conservative, but did not take a very active interest in public affairs. Two sons survive, Norman C., living on the old homestead, and Herbert L., on the adjoining farm. These have the sympathy of the whole neighborhood in the loss of their parent.

The funeral, which was quite largely attended, took place on Saturday, Nov. 10th, to the Forest Lawn Cemetery, Orangeville. The funeral service was conducted by the Rev. T. W. Miller, of Caledon. There were a number of beautiful floral tributes from the family and relatives.

Those who acted as pallbearers were Messrs. Allan Maxwell, Raspin Scott, Cardwell Walker, Alvin Dodds, Wilson Huston and Gerald Nelson.

We deeply deplore the great loss this community has sustained and extend to all the friends our sincere sympathy, but let us express our thoughts in the words of the Poet Longfellow:

Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime;
And departing leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of Time.

CALEDON EAST

A happy event took place on Thanksgiving Day at the home of Mr and Mrs. R. W. Burrell, when the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B Cannon was baptized in the presence of many relatives and friends, by the Rev. J. G. Rogers, assisted by the Rev. Alfred Laycock. A unique feature of the gathering was the serving of the christening cake on a dish, which was a gift to the great-grandparents on the occasion of their golden wedding. Also the baby wore a bib which was worn by her father at his christening. After the supper, which was prepared by the great-grandparents, a very happy evening was spent.

BOUGHT HOCKLEY STORES

Hockley village will no longer enjoy the luxury of two stores and the attendant competition. Mr. David Brown, of Tullamore, has bought out Neil McQuarrie and the opposition store and will merge the two into one place of business. The new proprietor is said to be an energetic business man, who has the qualities that bring success. Friends of Mr. McQuarrie—and he has many of them in the village and district—will regret his retirement.

ALTON

The people of the Presbyterian Church were favored with good weather for their anniversary services last Sunday, and good congregations gathered at both services. The many friends of Dr. Armstrong were pleased to meet and hear him again, and were gratified to learn that in spite of his advanced years he is still able to speak with a good deal of force and in an instructive manner. The interest and the profit of the services were greatly added to by several anthems rendered in a very acceptable manner by the choir, and a solo by Mr. Rutledge Wallace.

Our ladies have a real treat in store in the coming visit of Mrs. (Rev.) T. R. White, of Aurora, who will address the Women's Missionary Auxiliary in the Methodist Church on Wednesday evening, Nov. 21st, at 8.30 o'clock. Everybody will be made welcome, including the men. Silver collection taken at the door.

The subject of Dr. Caldwell's sermon on Sunday next, Nov. 18th, will be "A Dark Cloud That Threatens the British Empire."

The road between the two railway crossings and the bridge over the Melville branch of the Credit River are in a bad condition these muddy times. Could gravelling be done to advantage at this season of the year? If so there should be no delay in putting it on.

Alton friends of the proprietor, Mr. Amos Mason, formerly manager of the Beaver Knitting Mills here, will be pleased to learn of the success of his new enterprise, the Mason Knitting Mill in Acton. Since Mr. Mason took hold of this business it has expanded steadily until now it has become necessary to build a two storey addition. The old building was 27 by 53 and Mr. Mason is now building a storey of stone and concrete of the same size over the plant. This will enable him to add largely to the output of the factory

Miss Edith Culligan rendered a piano selection in finished and charming manner at the Young Artists' Recital held in Massey Hall, Toronto, on Friday evening, November 9th. The programme was broadcasted over the Star Radio.

LAUREL

Laurel Junior Farmers' Club have secured the use of a Purebred Bacon Type Yorkshire Boar from the Ontario Department of Agriculture. The hog, which is easily the finest ever seen in these parts, weighs about 700 lbs. He will be kept at W. H. Gray's, lot 14, con. 5. We understand that the Department purchased the hog from the well-known "Silent Hill" Farm at St. Mary's.

CAMILLA

We are very glad to report that Mrs. Coutts is improving.

Misses Florence and Victoria Parks, of Beeton, spent the holiday at their home here.

Misses Bessie and Mary Reid and Miss Cook, of Toronto, holidayed at the formers' home here.

Mrs. Albert Curtis spent the holiday with friends in Brampton.

Miss Reta Kendrew, of Toronto Normal School, spent Thanksgiving with her parents.

A COMING EVENT

The event of next week will be the musical show, "A Night in Fairyland," which has the unique distinction of being the only all-juvenile production for amateurs in the country. Founded on the story of a mortal child who visits Fairyland, it is a miniature musical comedy with well-costumed dances and songs at unexpected moments.

BRIGHT YOUNG GIRL DIES

Early on Sunday morning the Good Shepherd called Home Lillian Adele Brawley from her sufferings. She was a patient sufferer for the past few months. Prior to her illness she was a bright, cheerful school girl and since the family moved to Wingham a couple of years ago she has endeared herself to all who knew her. Kind and tender hands have ministered to her every want and medical specialists have done all in their power but of no avail. The call came from the Heavenly Father and Adele was prepared to answer it.

She was seventeen years and eight months, and besides her sorrowing parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brawley, she is survived by three brothers and one sister, viz.; Walter, of Detroit; Mrs. George Black, of Wroxeter, Harry and Billie at home.

An impressive funeral service was held in Wingham Methodist Church on Tuesday afternoon at 3.30, Principal A. L. Posliff and the girls of Adele's class marched from the home to the church, each girl carrying a wreath or spray of flowers.

The young men who acted as pallbearers were Morris Christie, Jack Young, Clifford Hingston, Harold Boyce, Bruce Edgar and Ken Carter. Rev. Mr. Waddell, of the Baptist Church, prayed, and Mr. Willis sang "Home at Last."

Her pastor, Rev. Mr. Cragg, spoke tenderly with words of comfort for the bereaved, referring to the many sterling qualities of the departed young lady. He made mention of one instance when entering her room and remarking about the beautiful flowers, and how he had just come from another sick room where there were none. How the little wasted form lying there had brightened up and smiling, pleaded with him to take some of her flowers to the other sick room. No person ever heard Adele complain through all her suffering. He concluded the service with a request that all the young friends would take an example after the dear girl who was gone to her Heavenly Home.

The floral tributes were beautiful, including wreaths and sprays from the following: Miss Issard's and Miss Bennett's Sunday S. Class, Mr. and Mrs. J. Galbraith, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Brawley and family; Morris Christie, Mr. and Mrs. R. Spotton, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hamilton, Gorrie Associates, Mr and Mrs. J. B. Crossett, Teachers and Pupils of Miss Reynolds' and Mr. Posliff's rooms, Doris Walker and Irene McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Baker, Mrs. Chester Patton and family, Mrs. Lavina Patton, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lang, Alberta Walker, Clifford Hingston, Kenneth Carter, Miss Phyllis Johns and Stanley Hutchinson, Mr. and Mrs. B. Whitmore, Methodist Sunday School Miss N. M. Walters, Miss Daisy Brawley, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brawley (a brother, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Black (a sister), Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brawley and family.

The remains were interred in the family plot in Forest Lawn Cemetery, Orangeville, on Wednesday morning, going via the C. P. R.

She is not dead, the child of our affection,
But gone on to that school
Where she no longer needs our poor protection,
And Christ, Himself, doth rule.

THOS. ALLINGHAM

Oldtime friends in this district will regret the death of Thomas Allingham, formerly of Whittington, who passed away at his home at Decker, Man., on Thursday, Nov. 1st, at the ripe age of 82 years and 4 months. The remains were interred at Isabella, Man., on November 3rd. Deceased went west 23 years ago last May. His wife died in Ontario in 1865. He is survived by a family of one son and three daughters, all married and residing in the West.

KICKING VS. PULLING

Referring to the tug-of-war held at the Arena on Hallowe'en night the members of the South Ward team, on reading over last week's issue of The Banner, cannot understand why the writer reported this as he did by saying that the South Ward team held the Westerners perilously near the line at the start and later lost ground. The South team are prepared to contradict this last part of his statement by saying that they pulled the Westerners over the line and as the line moved slowly to the east end of the Arena the Westerners were forced to follow by the strength of the Southerners.

SOUTH TEAM.

THANKSGIVING SUPPER

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church held a well-attended Thanksgiving Supper and Entertainment in the church on Monday night. A splendid fowl supper was served by the ladies of the church and was followed by an enjoyable programme. The numbers on the latter included a solo by Miss Gardiner, instrumental music by Misses Margaret Irvine, Ida Wilkins and Margaret Price, recitations by Miss Ruth Coulter, a solo by Mr. Harry Sloan, a piano duet by Misses Kearns and McArthur, saxophone solo by Mr. Harvey Curry, a trombone solo by Mr. F. A. Falconer, an instrumental duet by Miss Clara Hulse and Mr. Ellis Liddy, and a short address by Rev. H. L. Partridge. Miss Alberta Kearns acted as accompanist during the eening. Mr. C. R. McKeown, M. L. A., occupied the chair in his usual acceptable manner.

DR. ROBT. P. NEIL

Former Mono Township Boy Dies Suddenly in Calumet, Mich.

Dr. Robert P. Neil, well known Calumet dentist, died suddenly yesterday morning at 5 o'clock at the family home at 236 Iroquois street, of heart failure. He spent Sunday at Eagle Harbor and on retiring that evening apparently was in good health.

Dr. Neil was one of Calumet's best known dentists. He enjoyed a wide acquaintance throughout the copper country and his many friends were grieved on learning of his death.

The late Dr. Neil was born in Camilla, Ontario, Canada, in 1873, and attended the public school there; later he attended Northwestern University in Chicago, where he received his degree. He then came to Calumet where he has practiced for the past twenty-six years.

He is survived by his widow, two children, Margaret, at home, and Harris, of the M. C. M., two brothers, Grant, of Minneapolis and John of Chicago. Funeral arrangements are incomplete, awaiting word from absent relatives. — Calumet, Mich., Ex.

Dr. Neil is a son of the late Mrs. Eliza Neil, of Camilla. He graduated from the Orangeville High School before entering upon the study of dentistry.

ROBERT ARLOW

Robert Arlow, a retired farmer, who had been a resident of Orangeville for the last three years, passed away at his home on Wellington St. on Saturday last. Mr. Arlow, who had been failing in health since last spring, had been seriously ill for five weeks before his demise with heart trouble and hardening of the arteries. Deceased was born in Mono township near the village of Mono Mills on Christmas Day, 1864, and was therefore in his 59th year at the time of his death. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Arlow, came to the township from the north of Ireland. The late Mr. Arlow farmed in Mono and Adjala townships until about three years ago, when he disposed of his property and moved to Orangeville. He was a quiet, industrious man of a kindly, obliging nature and enjoyed the goodwill and respect of a wide circle of neighbors and friends. He was a member of the C. O. C. F. and a Conservative in politics. He was a staunch member and supporter of the Presbyterian Church and was one of the elders of the Mono Mills church for a number of years. His widow and a family of two sons, Samuel and Roy, and one daughter, Mrs. Orville Speers, of Caledon, have the sympathy of our townspeople and their old neighbors in the Mono Mills district in the trying bereavement that has overtaken them. James Arlow, of Mono Mills, is the only brother, and Mrs. Geo. Morrison, of Glencairn, the only sister now living.

A large number of friends and neighbors were present at the funeral, which was held to the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Monday afternoon. Rev. F. W. Mahaffy conducted services at the house and grave. The pallbearers, all former neighbors at Mono Mills, were Messrs. Jos. Kidd, Lisle; James Kidd, Geo. Patterson, John Moon, Enoch Snell and Thos. Mason. The flowers included a pillow from the family, and wreaths from Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Darraugh, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Donaldson and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Williams.

THE LATE CHAS. WILSON

The death of Charles Wilson, a former well-known resident of the Mono Centre district, occured at the home of his sister, Mrs. Alex. Patterson, lot 18, con. 1, east, Mono, on Wednesday, October 31st. Deceased, who was 68 years of age, moved to the West a number of years ago and had lived at Estavan in Saskatchewan for about ten years. He was a widower and is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Speer and Miss Cora Wilson, both living in Oshawa. William Wilson, of Estevan, is the only brother now living and Mrs. Wm. Patterson, of Mono Centre, Mrs. Allehin, of Hamilton, and Mrs. Alex. Patterson are the surviving sisters. Interment took place in the Forest Lawn Cemetery on Friday afternoon following his death, the funeral being held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Patterson. Rev. Wm. Coutts was the officiating minister and Messrs. Edward Mountford, Isaac Conn, Wm. Barber, Jas. Buchanan, Robert Patterson and R. W. Langford were the pallbearers.

CALEDON

(Intended for last week.)

Messrs. Thos. Petch and Fraser Warnock are wearing very broad smiles these days—a boy each.

The Caledon Hunt Club have departed for their annual vacation in Northern Ontario. We wish them a pleasant outing.

Mr. Watson Berry is the genial and obliging station agent pro tem.

Our chopping mill is now doing a rushing business, so farmers bring your grain to-day and bakers buy their flour.

Mrs. J. J. Nesbitt is visiting friends at Credit Forks.

Mrs. Jos. Campbell was seized by a paralytic stroke on Saturday night last and her condition caused her family and friends very serious alarm, but we are glad to state that she is now somewhat improved.

L. O. L. No. 250 will hold its November meeting next Monday night, when degrees will be conferred and general business transacted. All members are urged to attend.

DR. J. H. TURNBULL

Banner readers, many of whom knew and admired the late Dr. Jas. H. Turnbull, pastor of High Park Presbyterian Church, Toronto, will wish to read the following appreciation, which we reproduce from last issue of the Presbyterian Witness. The article is from the pen of Rev D. N. Morden, a co-Presbyter of Dr. Turnbull. It reads:—

In the death of the Rev. J. H. Turnbull, D. D., minister of High Park Church, the Presbyterian Church in Canada has suffered a loss it can ill afford at the present time.

Dr. Turnbull was one of the outstanding men in the Church to-day. As a preacher he was in the first rank. He was a clear thinker, an easy speaker, and behind all, there was a personality that gave force to everything he said. He possessed but little of what we call the intuitional. He did not feel his way to a solution of problems, but he thought his way through them. His was the intellectual appeal. He had all the tender emotions developed to a very high degree, but only as men came into personal touch with him did they get a glimpse of this side of his nature. Scotch-like, he seemed to distrust emotion when it wanted to speak, and so it was always held well in check. If because of this his preaching lacked mountain peaks, on the other hand there were no valleys. He always had something of a high order to say, and he said it in a convincing way.

As a counsellor in the courts of the Church or with a friend in perplexity he was at his best. The writer has been closely associated with him in Church work for over thirteen years. He had heard him speak in all the courts of the Church and in committees, on almost every theme, and never has he heard him that he did not add something to the discussion. He loved to wrestle with a problem and his clear thinking always helped in its solution. He was just coming to the height of his intellectual powers. The highest places in the councils of our Church were opening before him, and those who knew him best believed there were no heights to which he would not have attained.

While he was an outstanding minister, he was, best of all, an outstanding man. He never lost his buoyancy. He never lost his boyhood love for fun. In his playtime we always thought of him as a big boy. He was a good sport, if not a keen one. He loved the game for the associations and the fun he got out of it and put into it. He loved men and loved to be with them, and those who played with him and ate with him will be poorer now that he has gone. His genial smile, his hearty laugh, his playful humour humour without a sting to it, mirth provoking, healthful, will be missed, missed just when we needed his counsel, his sympathy, his cheerfulness most. He is dead but it is hard to realize it. He was so strong, the picture of health, giving promise of a long and useful life. Dead here to-day, now gone. A lovely way to go, but hard for those who are left behind. Many a heart will be sad to-day, many an eye dim as they read of his death, and many a prayer will go up that the God of all comfort will sustain the dear wife and children in the hour of their trial. It is hard for us to lose such a friend, what must it be to lose such a husband and such a father?

MRS. HENRY SCHENK

Gertrude Tilman, beloved wife of Henry Schenk, old residents of the Camilla neighborhood, departed this life at her home, lot 22, Centre Road, Mono, on Wednesday, November 7th, at the ripe age of 76 years. The funeral was held from the bereaved home to Mono Centre Cemetery on Friday afternoon, Nov. 9th, Rev. W. H. Hartley, Shelburne, conducting the services. The late Mrs. Schenk is survived by her aged husband, who is in very indifferent health, a son, Amos, and a daughter, Mary, at home. The married members of the family are two daughters, Mrs. H. A. Nash, of Estevan, Sask., and Mrs. Godfrey Anderson, of Honeywood, and three sons, Abram and Malcolm, living in the West, and Ezra T., of Bolton.

SOUVENIR PROGRAMMES

The Orangeville Memorial Committee issued an attractive souvenir programme for use at the Unveiling Ceremonies on Monday afternoon. The programme set forth the order of service in detail and also contained an honour roll of the 144 soldiers who lost their lives in the war as well as a service roll of some 579 names of men who enlisted and went overseas from this county. It is easily the most complete record of Dufferin's part in the Great War that has been compiled up to the present time. A limited number of copies are still available and may be obtained from Mr. C. V. Jeffers Secretary of the Committee. The price is 50 cents a copy.

HALLOWE'EN FOR TEACHERS

The principal of the Public Schools, Capt. A. Firth, and the teaching staff held a Hallowe'en entertainment for the trustees and their wives last Wednesday night. Inspector W. J. Galbraith, Mrs. Galbraith and Miss Galbraith, school nurse, being the guests of honor. A guessing contest, "What Our Mothers Missed," was won by Inspector Galbraith and Mrs. W. Shirra, and the euchre prizes by Miss Galbraith and M. G. Chantler. The schoolroom in which the affair was held was very prettily decorated and the lady teachers served a very nice supper.—Banner & Times.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail, at 25 cents a box, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GRANGER

Just a few lines to let you know that our burg is still on the map and very much alive.

Our school teacher, Miss Young, spent the holiday at her home in Erin.

Mr. E. A. Fines, B. A., of Clinton, Ont., spent the Thanksgiving holiday with friends here and in Amaranth.

Mr. Gordon Wooder spent the week-end under the parental roof.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McKee spent the holiday with friends here and at Whitfield.

Mr. Clarence Wooder has gone north for the hunting season.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Scott spent Sunday with Rosemont friends.

Miss Ethel Ewing, of Rosemont, visited her sister, Mrs. H. Scott, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Scott, of Mono Centre, were visitors in our burg last week.

Mr. Ted Mountford has leased Wm. Rennick's farm here and is fall ploughing on it.

Mrs. Geo. Dick, of Toronto, is spending a couple of weeks with her mother, Mrs. J. Law.

Quite a bit of excitement was caused by a fire which started in Trueman Thompson's house on Friday afternoon, but fortunately the fire was checked before any serious damage was done.

Quite a number attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Henry Schenk on Friday.

Threshing will soon be a thing of the past for another year.

KYLES' PARTY

A stir in the air, bright lights shining forth
From windows to the south and also to the north,
When eight o'clock came the guests did arrive,
Some came on foot, while otheers did drive.

Young folks came, and old folks too
They all looked merry, as Camilla people do,
The floor was slippery, the music was grand,
In the corners only, there was room to stand.

The music started; places all,
Couples short and couples tall,
It was the married people's dance
And they got the floor that time by chance.

The callers struck up that old refrain,
All to the centre and back again,
Then right to your partner and all grand chain,
And chessie back and swing your "lain."

The fiddlers played well, we all could see,
"Barney Google" and "I Love Me,"
The young people fox-trotted to and fro,
The latest steps they all did know.

The dance was fine; the time went on,
And soon to twelve the hands had gone,
Then each boy, with his lady fair
Looked around and grabbed a chair.

Then round about the waiters flew.
With cakes and tea and sandwich, too;
The waiters had all that they could do
That night, at Kyles' party.

The orchestra started up once more
The couples again did take the floor.
And then the "tagging" began, you see,
And my girl was taken away from me.

When the time to go at last came nigh,
To our hostess and host we said good-bye;
We had a good time, we can't deny
That night at Kyles' party.

CAN YOU SAY IT?

According to the Kansas City Star: "Who started the ridiculous practice of pronouncing coupe "coop?" At first, this pronunciation was regarded merely as a playful bit of humor, but, whether it was so intended or not, the usage now is a custom indulged in unconsciously and without a smile. Why use another pronunciation when the only one authorized is "koo-pa?"

Which is all very well. We smite the lyre:

I knew a man named Jacob Jay
Who bought himself a swell coupe,
A sweller car was never seen.
And it was light on gasoline.
He loved it as he loved his life--
Cared more for it than for his wife—
Puffed up with pride was Jacob Jay,
Driving in his swell coupe,
Until he met old Oscar Snoop,
Who told him he had bought a coupe.
Now this gave Jay an awful jar,
And when he saw the bus one day
He said, "That is a fine coupe."
But Oscar gave a fiery whoop
And claimed it really was a coupe.
And so they argued loud and long,
And each was right and neither wrong,
But now, for fear of seeming green,
Each calls his coupe "my new machine."

HOW TREES ARE KILLED

Oak Trees Suffer From Fungus Growth After Being Weakened by Civilization.

"Civilization" with its enervating influence on human beings is likewise blamed for the gradual decay of one of the finest of all trees to be found in and around Toronto, the sturdy gnarled Oak of history and romance.

Civilization means the blighting of certain species, while other hardy specimens of trees are apparently unaffected by it.

"A great many of the trees in Queen's Park and other parks are quite an age for one thing," stated Prof. C. D. Howe, Dean of Forestry Department of the University of Toronto. "There is an epidemic of fungus which is attacking these trees as well, and I suppose the primary cause of the fungus is a previous weakening of the tree. They are just like human beings. I cannot say just how prevalent this fungus growth is in the country parts of Ontario, but it is very common in our city trees. I would say these trees are 100 years or over, and the oak species live rarely to over 150 years. I cannot see why it would not be possible to replace many of these older trees with younger ones taken from the city nursery. I imagine that that could be done."

How It Destroys.

"Civilization brings various effects on the oak tree, and on all trees in fact," stated E. J. Zavitz, of the Forestry Department. "The soil is disturbed. The leaves are gathered up and this moisture removed. The grass is worn off and another protection removed. Then in the winter especially, the air is often filled with gas. In winter the trees breathe a great quantity of sulphuric acid from gas and chimneys. The air is bad for them, and whole conditions are abnormal for a natural tree.

Trees in the parks are also liable to have the bark injured by various means. This is one cause of fungus. Tree dentistry attempts to arrest the growth of the fungus but it is not always successful because the weakened condition is not removed. The fungus acts very much like a cancer does in a human being. It has a tendency to spread, once it takes hold.

Some Hardy Species.

"Trees vary as to their ability to withstand these destructive influences of civilization," stated Mr. Zavitz. "Certain species like the Austrian Pine seem to flourish in spite of civilization. It is very hardy. Most of the oak trees in this part of the country are native trees. There are a few varieties which have been imported, but they are rather rare. The common species in Toronto are the Red, White and the Black Oak and the Burr Oak, which latter has an acorn somewhat like a burr. There are three or four other species in southwestern Ontario, Chestnut, Swamp, White and so on. The White oak more nearly approaches the English oak than any of the others," he said.

"The oak on the whole is not an easy tree to transplant. It is rather difficult to nourish them after the change."

Get Used To It.

"If the oak trees were grown from seeds or from very small plants they would stand a better chance of flourishing when grown in the environment of the city," stated Parks Commissioner Chambers. "It is just like bringing an Eskimo to this environment. If he were mature he would probably not survive the change, but if he were brought in infancy or early childhood the effect would be much less. It is the same with trees. The hardiest of the oak species which we have is the Pin oak, which has a rather deep cut foliage and I suppose is named for that reason.

"It is easier to grow and transplant than the others. The Red oak has a red foliage in the autumn, the Black oak a dark foliage, the Scarlet oak, a deep scarlet autumn folliage, and so on. The bark of the White oak is somewhat lighter in color than the others."

"Some of the other species, such as the elm tree, are affected somewhat like the oak," stated the commissioner.

"There are several species of the elm tree and they vary in hardiness as well as the oak. The hardiest of the maples is the Norway maple, which seems to endure and flourish in any environment."

"COOKIE" WRIGHT IS ARRESTED ON ARSON CHARGE AT WIARTON

Startling developments in connection with the burning of Stead's livery stable, at Wiarton, on February 5th last, are expected with the arrest of "Cookie" Wright, of Wiarton, on a charge of arson. Wright was brought before Police Magistrate McNabb, of Walkerton, but was remanded to jail until Friday, November 9th, at 2 o'clock. He did not enter a plea. "Cookie" Wright had been released from jail only a week ago on parole, and his arrest came as the result of investigations which have been carried on in Wiarton recently by Deputy Fire Marshall Burnett.

James Cochrane, who is now serving a sentence of three months in the county jail at Walkerton, is also alleged to be implicated in the affair, but it is stated by Police Magistrate McNabb that it is impossible to try a man while he is under sentence. Deputy Fire Marshall Burnett, however, is of the opinion that when the charge is more serious than that on which the man is serving sentence, he can be brought up for trial. He is to be faced with the charge of arson also.

Both Wright and Cochrane have bad records, and reputations as bootleggers in the Wiarton district, and a case in which Wright figured very largely was heard in Owen Sound some months ago. Wright was found guilty, and was given a week to obtain his fine. During the week he slipped away, but was later caught, and compelled to serve as least a part of his sentence. He had only obtained his freedom a week when he was again arrested on the arson charge.

It is stated that Stead, the owner of the burned livery stable, had been driving Constable Blood about on his duties for some time before the fire occurred. His actions are alleged to have incurred the displeasure of the men, and this is the alleged reason for the burning of the barn.

The fire was one of the most serious Wiarton has had and the loss was in the neighborhood of eight or nine thousand dollars. Mr. Stead had no insurance and the fire entirely wiped out his business.

It was on Monday morning, February 5th, the fire occurred. It broke out about 3.20 o'clock in the morning and the livery stable, five horses, a number of buggies and cutters, and two cars were totally destroyed. Hill's blacksmith shop, Ruhl's flour and feed store, and the shed behind the old Commercial House, were also destroyed.

The cause of the fire and the exact origin were unknown. It was certain that there had been no fire in the buildings since Saturday, and this could not have been the cause of the conflagration. Mystery shrouded the whole affair. When the alarm was given all four buildings were in flames, and the fire department confined its efforts to saving the surrounding buildings. Mr. Stead had no insurance, and there was but very little on the other buildings, probably not more than seven or eight hundred dollars in all.

The arrest of Wright but begins what promises to be one of the most sensational cases Wiarton has ever known.

GLARE LIGHTING HARMFUL

Expert Points Difference Between Light and Illumination.

"Lighting units should not be designed nor selected primarily as ornaments, any more than radiators or fans. They should be designed and chosen to render properly visible the field of view," said Frank T. Groome, addressing the Building, Owners' and Managers' Association. Architects and building owners in general had failed to show the same grasp of lighting matters that they exhibit, in design and mechanical equipment, yet the two were intimately allied.

"How often have you seen an interior exquisitely proportioned actually, yet grotesquely distorted by the unnatural ceiling and column shadows thrown by ill-chosen light sources?" he asked. Fixtures suspended from the ceiling may make a room, proportioned without reference to the lighting, look squatty. Concealed lighting from coves may make the same room look too high. Lighting from opaque side wall brackets (a common Masonic Temple device) will give an appearance of mechanical artificiality that is not attractive."

He deplored the use of the high powered lamp without protection to the eyes, and said that the use of these lamps in Toronto in this manner was without duplicate in any other city.

Better illumination could be obtained by using less light, and reducing the eye strain, which "will in two years have every person in the room who does not wear glasses wearing glasses, and those who do wear glasses, wearing colored ones."

Theatres, churches, factories, show-windows, homes and offices—all were badly lighted, in most cases, he said.

"I Was Terribly Weak After Baby Was Born"

Mrs. H. McClure, Norwood, Ont., writes:

"After my baby was born, I was terribly weak and run down, with pains across my back. I had heard so much of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food that I decided to try it. Three boxes proved enough to make me quite strong and well again. I also used Dr. Chase's Ointment for a rash which broke out on the baby, and the rash disappeared completely in a short time."

HOW'S THIS ONE?

The belief that an editor knows everything is widespread, but one small boy discovered the limitation of the editorial mind. Here is the anecdote as we got it from a contemporary:

"Father," asked a small boy of an editor, "is Jupiter inhabited?"

"I don't know, my son," was the truthful answer.

Presently he was interrupted again.

"Father, are there any sea-serpents?"

"I don't know, my son."

The little fellow was manifestly cast down, but presently rallied and again approached the great source of information.

"Father, what does the north pole look like?"

But, alas! again the answer: "I don't know, my son."

At last, in desperation, he inquired, with withering emphasis, "Father, how did you get to be an editor?"

GRINDING TAXES

The world's still paying for that fuss with guns and battle axes, and sometimes I am prone to cuss when digging up my taxes. The city is out of sight, the county tax is higher, the tax on income is a fright, and bankruptcy comes higher. Last evening at the Blue Front Store, where all the boys assembled, I made a loud and raucous roar until the welkin trembled. There was an uproar of applause, for nearly all detest the laws that tax us to a frazzle. But there was one who lacked a leg, whose face was bleak and dreary; in frigid tones he said: "I beg to say you make me weary. While war was raging over there, and fine young men were scrapping, you roosted in your easy chair, and did your "Home Fires" yapping. You basked on downy beds of ease, you loafed on padded benches, while we were wading to the knees in black and filthy trenches. I saw the mighty foe advance, led on by Alexanders; I lost a collar bone in France, I lost a leg in Flanders. And I was gassed and I was shocked, and I was shot to pieces; when fat men talk as you have talked my weariness increases." Then I felt pale around the gills, I had a feeling cheesy; we gents who pay the country's bills are getting off quite easy."—Walt Masoh.

U. S. HUNTERS

Fewer in the North This Year.

Sporting goods stores report that the number of hunters coming from the United States this year shows a considerable falling off. This year the number arriving was practically nil.

So far as the storekeepers are able to ascertain, the main reason for the absence of the huntsmen is lack of cash. On top of this, quite a number are peeved because the Canadian customs authorities now require United States citizens to pay duty on rifles which they bring into Canada, instead of resting content with taking the serial number of the gun, as they did up to a couple of years ago. Duty is refunded to the Americans when they leave Canada, but a number of them do not like the trouble of having to pass the customs.

Already "trophies of the chase"—carcases and antlers—are coming from the north. Reports received are to the effect that game is plentiful in the northern woods.

The most convincing proof of the true worth of "Fruit-a-tives" as a medicine for women is found in the letters written by them to "Fruit-a-tives". For instance:

HUNTERS' SEASON

Hunting season has arrived, and there is no doubt, as in past years, several accidents will take place through some not knowing what they are really shooting at. "Never shoot at anything until you know what you are shooting at." This was told me many years ago, and I have never forgotten it, nor the admonition that went with my first gun, and I have never disobeyed it, but as a consequence I have lost some deer that I might have killed. But I have never killed a man. Never in all my experience in the Northern part of Ontario and Western States hunting have I had occasion to thank God for advice—never but once. That was some years ago up north. A friend and I had been after partridges. His four year old boy wanted to go with "Daddy," but the trail was too long and rough. So he remained at home. We drove ten miles and followed an old tote road as many miles more for partridges before we started for home. Driving back leisurely we talked over the day's sport, reverted to past hunting trips, and finally settled into silence as the horse walked along the timber-lined roadway, little more than a trail. The sun had gone down and the logs beside the roadway were black and indistinct in the deepening shadows of the evening, the gloom of the virgin forest. Suddenly there was a commotion on a log to the left of the trail, a grey object scurried a few feet along the log, then dropped over behind it, and rustled on all fours through the underbrush, although keeping close to the roadway. "Looks like a cub bear to me," said my companion as he pulled up the horse. "Or a lynx—it's big enough and more like one, he added. "More like a wolf to me," I replied as I slipped from the buggy, 12-guage in hand. "If it's a bear or lynx shoot close and pull both barrels," he said, as I moved up the roadway toward the heap of blackened logs. I. stepped cautiously, gun half raised, safety pushed forward, and fingers on both triggers, I could see the object indistinctly, close beside the log, moving stealthily through the scant underbrush. I glimpsed it fair-grey, squat, as big as a small bear or lynx, or perhaps a wolf. But I couldn't determine what it was. Certainly a wild beast, for nothing else could be there—away in back of civilization, the camp the only habitat of man, and that four miles down the trail. I took another step forward, silently, cautiously, and again the beast moved. I could see it fair and full, but what was it? Certainly an animal of the forest, seemingly, but what? My gun was at my shoulder, fingers on the two triggers, but I waited. I didn't know what I was about to fire at. Another step, then another, and still another—closer, closer. Gun at my shoulder, fingers on trigger for two shots at one pull, waiting to know what I was shooting at before sending both charges of chilled shot into it, driven by twenty-eight grains of powder in each barrel. Two steps more, then I saw what it was. "It's only your boy," I said, and I stepped forward and drew his little boy from behind the log, gathered him in my arms, and climbed back into the buggy. "Well, well, son, what are you doing here?" querried the father as he started the horse. "I wanted Daddy and I runned away," the little fellow replied as he cuddled close in my arms. That ended the incident for a year. The following year we again drove over the same trail, again returning from the hunt. It was dark as we approached the spot where, a year before, we had found the boy looking for Daddy. We passed in silence, and drove a half-mile forward before my chum said, "Did you ever think what a close call we had from killing the youngster last year? If you did not always know before you shoot just what you are shooting at, you'd have blown him to pieces." I had thought many times and I had thanked the Giver of good many a time in my heart for that admonition of a very close friend to a young boy many years before: "Never shoot at anything until you know what you are shooting at."—Phelpston Cor. Elmvale Lance.

POLICE NOT THE REASON

University Again Raises Objection to use of Technical School as Police Administration Building.

Suggestions made lately for using the old Technical School on College street, Toronto, as a police administration building, have again raised the question of the attitude of the University authorities to such a move and they have raised objection as they did some years ago, when the same proposal was under consideration.

A letter of protest from Sir Edmund Walker, the chancellor, was received by the Mayor.

The school is near the University grounds and in the close neighborhood of the Mining building and the Social Service building as well as Orde St. Public School and the Conservatory of Music.

When the question arose about fourteen or fifteen years ago, Sir Edmund Walker was chairman of the Board of Governors of the University, and he and other members of the Board strongly objected to the move. The University took no official action, but the protests of certain members of the Board and a number of residents in the district were successful in preventing the change.

Objections were made solely on account of the type of people that a police building would bring to the neighborhood.

A pure herbal emollient of great healing power in skin diseases and injuries—this is shown in a report on Zam-Buk by that eminent Doctor of Science, Mr. Wentworth Lascelles-Scott.

Zam-Buk has won world-wide repute for its reliability in troubles like eczema, poisoned wounds, ringworm, bad legs, etc., now comes Dr. Scott's evidence.

Scientific Excellence.

"My exhaustive analysis proves that Zam-Buk is possessed of antiseptic and bactericidal power which promptly alleviates skin disorders due to parasites and pathogenic organisms. Moreover its astringent and balsamic constituents render Zam-Buk an emollient of rare healing power.

"Zam-Buk's constituents are exclusively of herbal origin, it contains none of the irritating mineral drugs and animal fats commonly found in ordinary ointments.

"In my opinion Zam-Buk, is well adapted for treatment of superficial injuries and prevalent skin disorders."

There was and is no feeling against the police officials, but their administration attracts an undesirable type of person, such as court hangers-on and sensation seekers, and it is this clientele that the University wishes to exclude from its precincts.

MRS. SUSAN CRAWFORD

Mr. Robert Crawford received word this afternoon of the death of his sister, Miss Susan Crawford, at the Gladstone Hospital, Toronto, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Miss Crawford had been ill for the past eight months. She was a daughter of the late Robert Crawford and was born on the old homestead on the third line, east, Chinguacousy. Miss Crawford was in her 69th year and her demise is the first break in a family of twelve, six sons and six daughters. She was a continuous resident of Chinguacousy up to two years ago, when she went to Toronto to live with her sister, Mrs. John Simpson. In religion she was a Methodist, a member of Mt. Olivet Church until her departure to Toronto. Those surviving are: William, West Toronto; Robert, John and Dr. E. M., Brampton; Joseph, Chinguacousy; and James on the homestead; Mrs. M. A. Johnston, Mrs. E. J. Norval, Mrs. Isabella Kee and Mrs. Jno. McClelland, Brampton, and Mrs. Simpson, Toronto. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon from West Toronto to Brampton Cemetery. — Peel Banner & Times.

Following an illness of about eight days, Mrs. Jane Jeffries passed away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Rainey 648 Euclid Avenue, Toronto, on Tuesday of last week. Mrs. Jeffries was the widow of the late Rev. T. M. Jeffries, centenarian Methodist minister of Oakville, who died more than a year ago. She was 86 years of age, and was born near Gananoque, Ont.

BANQUET FOR CHAMPS

Champion Dufferin Midgets Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Savage at The Queen's, Monday Night.

Mr. and Mrs William Savage entertained the members of the champion Dufferin Midget lacrosse team to a complimentary banquet at the Queen's Hotel on Monday night. Covers were set for some twenty-five guests. The menu was of the high and satisfying order for which The Queen's has become noted since Mr. Savage assumed charge of this new popular hostelry. Needless to say the tempting array of toothsome meats and viands was keenly relished by the players, who attacked with the same vim and deadly execution that they were wont to exhibit on the lacrosse field. At the close of the feast the Midgets showed their gratitude by presenting their host and hostess with a gold pencil apiece and an address which Donald Watt read on their behalf. Mr. Savage acknowledged the gifts in a characteristically happy and humorous manner. During the evening Mayor Jeffers contributed to the enjoyment and happiness of the players by presenting each of them with a gold-filled signet pencil. Mr. W. C. Hopkins, who has taken an active interest in the fortunes of the champions, occupied the chair. Among the guests who had the pleasure of spending the evening with the boys were Dr. T. H. Henry, Rev. J. W. McDonald, Dr. R. N. Kyles, E. H. Sproule, Mayor Jeffers and B. M. Guire. Songs by Wm. Clowes, accompanied by Clayton Connell, and dances by Geo. Williams added variety and spice to the entertainment. The address to Mr. and Mrs. Savage read:—

On behalf of the Midgets we wish to express to you something of our gratitude for your kindness to us. We have enjoyed your hospitality to-night at this sumptuous banquet. Someone has remarked that "the shortest way to a man's heart is through his stomach," and we must say that you have reached our hearts to-night.

Besides this we want you to know that we appreciate the interest you have taken in the Midgets all summer. You have cheered and encouraged us both by your presence at all the games and by the kindness you have shown us.

We would ask you to accept these small tokens of the gratitude and goodwill of the 1923 Midgets.

Ascension Island

Ascension Island, although lying in the regular trade of the passenger steamer, is perhaps one of the least known spots to the casual traveller, and the reason is not far to seek.

For many years Ascension was primarily a naval station, and incidentally a cable station. Now, however, it can no longer be known as H. M. S. "Ascension" as it is purely a cable station, administered entirely by the Eastern Telegraph Company, under the Governor of St. Helena.

The superintendent is chief magistrate, and all the other public offices are filled very capably by one man, formerly an officer in one of the company's ships. He is harbor master, chief of police, postmaster, treasurer, paymaster and above all food controller. The canteen is still in existence, under the new management; but the essentials of life are apportioned out under a system which is fairness itself and unalterable as Destiny.

The general conformation of the island is at first sight unattractive. It has been described by a celebrated geologist, after a recent visit, as the most perfect specimen of a volcanic island.

If the rollers permit, the visitor lands at a little stone jetty and walks between dilapidated coal and storesheds, through black sand and clinker to the "Garrison." This is a bungalow village laid out in two rows with true military precision. The female touch is evident here and there, from the few flowering plants, nourished with ash and bath-water.

The country all around consists of dreary clinker and abrupt, dome shaped hills and craters common to all such volcanic regions, brick-red and yellow sand, mingled with black rock and cinder; but the personal discomfort is mitigated by the unceasing trade wind, which keeps the indoor temperature cool, and generally makes life bearable. Nevertheless the prospect is anything but inviting.

The inhabitant, however, finds many relaxations. The large staff of cable operators renowned in all the world's outposts for their love of sport, have their regular games of cricket, football, and hockey. The upper story of the post office serves as club and sports pavilion, complete with bar and billiard room. Occasionally, to vary the monontony of the evening, a gramophone dance is held on the verandah. There are two tennis courts, a shooting range, swimming bath, and golf links. Sharks render sea bathing too dangerous.

During the day the waters for miles around are infested with "Krooboys" (commonly known as "blackfish") which are a pest, eating anything, and serving no useful purpose to mankind unless it be cleaning the weed from the bottom of the ships anchoring in the bay.

At sunset, however, like flies in winter time, they all vanish, nobody knows whither. Then one can catch good fish by the score. "Silverfish," Steenbras, "soldiers," rock cod, and cavalhoe" are plentiful. Young sharks are often landed, and dolphins and flying-fish can be seen out in the bay.

In the season the turtles make their appearance. These are caught and kept in a turtle pond, and furnish the only export from the island. Other fauna include the curious "bosun bird" and, on land, a few wild asses and many rats and mice.

The greatest treat of all which Ascension holds for the exile has not yet been mentioned. In the centre, about five miles inland from the "Garrison," the island rises to a height of 2,900 feet. This spot is known as Green Mountain, and here, after a few miles' walk across barren clinker, and an arduous climb—or, if one prefers it, a long toil around by a road which twists and turns every few yards—one reaches a new country, as different from that left behind as Devonshire is from Morocco.

Here is rich green grass, and the welcome shade of trees, fresh mountain air, and the scent of damp turf and flowers.

Often the mountain is capped with clouds which condenses into and supplies water to the population far beneath. Here is a farm where a farmer—imported specially from St. Helena—grows fruit and vegetables and raers sheep, cattle and pigs for those who, less fortunate, live where these things cannot be grown. Here, when leave permits, the men from the station spend their week or week-end in their mountain cottage. The married folk also have their bungalows, whither they can bring children and servants for a much-needed change.

A few hundred feet down the slope the work of the Royal Marine becomes evident. Here one can follow a path, completely encircling the peak, and hewn from solid rock in places, now skirting beetling crags, now winding across a gully and sometimes tunnelling through an outlying bastion. This is Elliott's Pass, and its circumference makes a pleasant half-hour's walk.

Thus, in conclusion, it seems that the exiles can find enough variety in their lives to pass the time pleasantly, even to grow fond of the place.

Indeed, in their khaki shirt, shorts and jute-soled shoes those who dwell on the isle all present a picture of health.

Water is scarce, fruit scanty, and there are other minor discomforts, but, if we except accidents on the football and hockey fields, there is little illness; and when one considers the absence of rates and tax collectors and compares life in this so-called exile with all the petty worries of life in the centres of civilisation, one can almost find it in one's heart to envy those who pursue their even, placid way on Ascension Isle.

A typewriter which writes music has been invented by an Italian.

BADLY BROKEN LEG

Raymond Stroud, brother of Mrs. Jos. Murphy, of Mulmur Corners, who makes his home with his sister and brother-in-law, sustained a serious injury to one of his limbs last Wednesday evening, which necessitated taking him to the Barrie hospital. He had driven a team into the barnyard and had hurriedly unhooked the traces and started the horses for the stable door. One tug had been overlooked and happened to be attached to a youung nervous horse, which took fright. The young man, in his attempt to retain control of the team, was knocked down and run over by the wagon, one leg being broken immediately above the knee. Doctors were summoned from Alliston, but had to abandon efforts to reduce the fracture because the bone was splintered and the leg was swelling badly. Friday morning neighbors assisted Mr. Murphy to get the unfortunate young fellow into town and by the morning train he was taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital in Barrie. When he left Rosemont his friends were fearful lest he should lose the leg, but reports from the hospital are to the effect that the bone can be set. An ex-ray revealed the extent of the fracture, but up to today (Monday), no attempt had been made to get the bone into place because of the swelling. This was reported to be going down and it was expected by Tuesday or Wednesday the doctors would be able to put the injured limb in condition to mend satisfactorily.—Alliston Herald

TOASE–MACKINDER

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, November 6th, at 3 p.m., in Prospect Methodist Church, Toronto, when Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John MacKinder, of Mimico, Ont., became the bride of John Warren Toase, son of Mrs. W. Toase and the late Mr. W. Toase, of Caledon East, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Rogers, uncle of the groom, and the Rev. Alfred Laycock, of Caledon East. The bride looked lovely gowned in pearl grey flat crepe and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses. She was escorted to the altar by her father to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Lavinia Toase, sister of the groom. The bridesmaid was Miss Beatrice Mae MacKinder, sister of the bride, who wore pale blue taffeta. Her bouquet was American Ophelia roses. Mr. Noble Cannon acted in the capacity of groomsman. During the signing of the register Mrs. (Rev.) Rogers sang very sweetly, "Because." The church was beautifully decorated with ferns, palms, yellow chrysanthemums and white ribbon streamers. Mr. James Cannon and Mr. Harold McCandless were ushers. After the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. The happy couple left on the evening train for Hamilton and other points, the bride travelling in blue tricotine with hat to match and wearing a coat of muskrat.

DUFFERIN'S TRIBUTE TO FALLEN

The above is the imposing war memorial to the 144 Dufferin County soldiers, who died on active service overseas, unveiled in Alexandra Park, Orangeville, on Thanksgiving afternoon. Inset are shown Mrs. W. H. White, Orangeville, mother of three soldier sons, who unveiled the memorial, and two of her sons, Howard Austin White, killed at Lens, Aug. 22, 1917, and Harold Edgar White, killed at Zillebeke, May 1, 1916.

MEMORIAL UNVEILED

LARGE ASSEMBLAGE WITNESSED IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES IN ALEXANDRA PARK ON THANKSGIVING DAY.

In Bronze and Shaft of Granite Dufferin County Perpetuates Memory of Its Soldier Dead.

A concourse of twenty-five hundren people representing all parts of the counties of Dufferin and Peel witnessed the unveiling of the Soldiers' Memorial in Alexandra Park on Monday afternoon. The size of the assemblage was in itself an impressive tribute to the memory of the brave lads who fared forth to battle at the call of their country and on the shell-torn fields of Flanders sacrificed themselves for the great cause of freedom and in behalf of the free peoples of the Empire whose valiant sons and soldiers they were. The unveiling ceremonies took place under the most favorable conditions for the comfort of an outdoors gathering. Despite the lateness of the season, old Mother Earth was flooded with sunshine and the atmosphere was pervaded by a genial and pleasurable warmth that is seldom experienced in the uplands of Dufferin County as late as the middle of November. It was in every way an ideal day, so perfect that one might be pardoned for the thought that a kindly and beneficent Providence had expressly suited it to the national thanksgiving of a specially favored people.

The service opened at 2.30 with the inspection of the guard of honour, mounted by veterans of the Great War and the Peel and Dufferin Regiment, under Captain H Brealey, late of the Royal Canadian Regiment and Lieut. R. McLagan, late of the 24th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force. Lt.-Col. Conover, of Brampton, was the inspecting officer and was accompanied by Capt. A. Firth, Principal of the Brampton schools. Following the inspection the regimental band of the Peel and Dufferin Regiment contributed a selection under the leadership of Bandmaster Dewar. The guard of honour occupied a position directly to the north of the Memorial with the band grouped in its rear just on the northern edge of the park. On the opposite side of the memorial, directly to its south, the committee had erected a temporary stand for the chairman, the speakers and a number of distinguished visitors. Here, too, was seated Mrs. W. H. White and her daughter Mrs. Austin Arthur. To Mrs. White, the mother of three soldier heroes, two of whom lie in soldiers' graves on Flanders Fields was assigned the honour of unveiling the memorial. After the selection by the band, the concourse united in singing the well-known hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," the choirs of the town leading in the singing.

The chair was occupied by Lt.-Col. J. A. V. Preston, chairman of the Orangeville Memorial Committee and late officer commanding the 39th Battalion, C. E. F. On behalf of the Memorial Committee, Col. Preston briefly thanked the assemblage for their attendance and evident interest in the purpose for which they had come together, namely to do the utmost in their power to do fitting honour to the memory of those to whom all Canadians owed so much. Briefly narrating the steps that led to the selection and erection of the memorial the chairman stated that nearly half the cost had been borne by the County of Dufferin, that a further grant of about $900 had been made by the town of Orangeville and that a further sum of some $2500 had been raised by voluntary contributions. The bronze statue had been designed by Dr. McKechnie, who served overseas during the war, and had devoted himself to sculpture work since hes return to Toronto. It had been designed and executed under the supervision of Mr. G. A. Reid, R. C. A., whose judgment and skill in art ensured a work along correct art lines. As Orangeville was the county town and as the County of Dufferin had contributed largely to the cost of the monument, the Committee had thought it should be made as far as possible a memorial to the fallen soldiers of the whole county of Dufferin.

Rev. F. W. Mahaffy, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Orangeville, read the Scripture passage, taken from Rev. 7: 9, 10 and 14-17. At the conclusion of the reading, amid an impressive and reverent silence, Mrs. White unveiled the memorial. As the flags that draped the pedestal were drawn slowly apart the audience were given full view of the statue. Immediately after the chairman had escorted Mrs. White back to her place on the platform, Major the Rev. F. H. D. Woodcock, of Oakville, late Chaplain of the 164th Halton-Dufferin Overseas Battalion, delivered the dedicatory address, an eloquent effort that made a deep impression on all who were within range of the speaker's voice.

At the outset Major Woodcock stated that he considered it a great honour to be asked to give the dedicatory address on such an auspicious occasion in the history of the county of Dufferin. There were men more worthy of the honour, but none who could appreciate it more highly than did the speaker. While engaged in the work of recruiting during the war he had received great support from the people of the county and particularly from the citizens of its towns and villages. Nowhere did he receive more wholehearted and earnest assistance than from the pople of Orangeville. Referring to the splendid record of the County of Dufferin during the war, the speaker confessed that he had been jealous for the record and good name of this county for the reason that it had been peopled largely from the north of Ireland, the country to which he himself owed his ancestry. Dufferin had done splendidly in that great time of trial and testing and every citizen of the county must be proud of the wonderful list of names inscribed in the honor and service rolls prepared by the Memorial Committee. He was glad that the memorial had taken the form it had and that the people of the county did not spend their money in anything utilitarian. What is wanted is something that will stand for all time distinctively as a memorial to our fallen heroes. It is our duty to commemorate the names of those brave men, who paid the price of our liberty, our freedom and our comfortable citizenship in this country. How could a speaker best do justice to this great theme? Words would fail to describe the greatness of their sacrifice or the magnitude of our debt to their deeds and memory. How had the Empire done honour to their worth and the debt of gratitude its people felt. Then in eloquent terms the speaker told how the great British Empire had sent to France and taken from a nameless, solitary soldier's grave the body of a hero, how they had brought that nameless body to Westminster Abbey and given it a resting place in the most historic place in the Empire and amid the honoured dead of all the centuries. What man had ever had a funeral of such impressive grandeur as this unknown soldier, who was chosen to typify the deeds and sacrifices of the men who upheld the majesty and the might of Britain and the overseas Dominions. The King himself was the chief mourner and one hundred men, each of whom was the possessor of the coveted Victoria Cross, formed the guard of honour. But our hearts were not burried in that grave. We are a Christian people and do not believe that the grave is the end of that unknown man.

"Whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

"He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life; and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life."

What a wonderful entry into Paradise is promised even the humble soldier with his weaknesses, his imperfections and his sinfulness, but pervaded nevertheless by his sense of duty and his determination to be true to his duty no matter what the cost, even should it mean his death.

"Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of righteousness," quoted the speaker.

We believe that these, our heroes, are alive and in Paradise and that we one day shall meet them in the broader and higher life.

Is it worth while to give one's life that the British Empire may continue to live and do its work in this world? What is this British Empire? Do we realize the meaning and tremendous import of these two words. In extent of territory, in wealth and in international influence and prestige, it is the greatest Empire that this world has ever known. It stands for a high ideal of citizenship and ideals of freedom, individual rights and Christian laws so lofty that other peoples must perforce look to and emulate the example which it sets. Amidst the world unrest and uncertainty of the present moment, the world is looking to the British Empire, that great commonwealth of free and freedom loving peoples, to bring peace and order.

How can we best honour the memory of these men—our soldier heroes? What would they have us do? Their dearest wish would be that we would use our best efforts to further the cause for which they fought and died. They bade us take up the torch they yielded from failing hands. This was the torch of righteousness, of justice, the torch of liberty and of freedom. They bade all Canadians who wished to cherish and honour their memory to seize the torch and hold it high. The only way Canadians can dishonour these dead heroes and their memory is to fail in their duty as citizens. Let everyone feel his or her responsibility to hold high those blessed principles for which these men died that truth and righteousness may never fade from the face of the earth.

Captain (Rev.) J. W. McDonald, late chaplain of the 66th Battalion, C. E. F., offered the dedicatory prayer. The guard of honour next gave the general salute, which was followed by the sounding of the "Last Post" by William F. Dewar, late Bandmaster of the 164th Halton-Dufferin Overseas Battalion. All present stood for two minutes with bared and bowed heads in reverent and grateful remembrance of the heroic dead. After a brief interval following the two minutes of silence Bandmaster Dewar sounded the "Reveille," indicative of the blessed hope of a glorious resurrection. The closing numbers of the programme were another selection by the band and an Octette, entitled "Wave Above Them as They Slumber the Flag They Loved So Well," by St. Andrew's Church octette composed of Messrs. E. C. Connop, A. M. Ellis, Norris Hughes, C. McAulay, L. Loch, G. B. Hayes and Carl and Will Hanley. Wreaths and other floral tributes were then deposited at the base of the memorial by Brampton and Orangeville Great War Veterans, Lord Dufferin Chapter, I. O. D. E., St. Andrew's Y.P. S., the Girl Guides, Boy Scouts and a number of the relatives of the departed heroes. Rev. H. L. Partridge pronounced the benediction and the band led the great assemblage in the National Anthem.

Shortly after the close of the service, the regimental band and guard of honour marched west on Broadway to the end of the pavement, returning to the Armouries by the same route.

Many lingered on the Park to inspect the Memorial and read the names of the heroes and the inscriptions that it bears. Much praise was bestowed upon the Memorial Committee for the painstaking and discerning manner in which they had accomplished their task. Visitors, many of them from Brampton and other neighboring towns, freely expressed their opinion that the Memorial was a beautiful and worthy monument to the honour of the 144 Dufferin County soldiers, who had fallen in the War.

The memorial rests on a cement foundation 8 feet and 8 inches by 8 ft., and 8 ft. and 5 inches in depth. The foundation is surmounted by two steps of solid Stanstead granite, the lower 8 ft. and 6 inches square and 10 inches in depth and the upper 6 ft. and 8 inches square and 8 inches in depth. These support the base of the monument, a block of granite 5 feet square and 1 ft. and 10 inches in depth. On the base rests the die, 3 ft. and 4 inches square by 4 ft. and 4 inches in height. This is in turn surmounted by a cap 3 ft. and 5 inches square and 2 ft. in height. On the cap stands a bronze figure eight feet in height, representing an infantry soldier, who has already gone over the top and is depicted in the act of advancing carefully but resolutely into the enemy country. On his left shoulder he bears his rifle and bayonet and in his extended right hand he grasps a Mills bomb, from which he has already drawn the pin and holds in readiness for instant action should he sight an enemy dug-out or other outpost. The pose of the figure and the expression on the face of the soldier are strikingly real and lifelike. The shipping weight of the memorial was 32,800 pounds, and the cost of the finished work will be approximately $7,000.

The monument, which is about 19 feet in height, faces due west. On the face of the cap is the crest of the County of Dufferin in bronze bordered by a wreath of laurel fashioned from the granite, and the dates, "1914-1918," and on the three sides the inscriptions, "Greater Love Hath No Man Than This," "Their Name Liveth For Evermore" and "They Died That We Might Live." On the front of the die are engraved the words, "In proud and grateful memory of the men of the County of Dufferin who gave their lives for freedom, truth and righteousness in the Great War, 1914-1918," and the verse:

"To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep....."

On the other three sides are inscribed in letters of lead the names of the 144 Dufferin County soldiers, who lost their lives in the War. On the four faces of the base—two on each face—appear the names of eight great battles—Ypres—Sanctuary Wood — Passchendaele —Amiens — Courcelette — Vimy Ridge—Arras — Bourlon Wood—in which the Canadian soldiers took part. As already stated the sculptor was Dr. McKechnie, of Toronto, a returned soldier. A soldier of the 39th Battalion, C. E. F., posed for the bronze figure, which was cast in Toronto by the Architectural Bronze and Iron Works. The contractors were Mr. S. H. Rutledge, of Orangeville, and The McIntosh Granite Co., of Toronto, who have carried out their part of the work in a manner highly satisfactory to the Committee. The granite used in the stone is known as Stanstead granite, a Canadian product, and material and workmanship are Canadian throughout.

The names of the soldiers, who form the honour roll, a service roll for the county, the names of the members of the Memorial Committee and the order of service at the unveiling appear elsewhere in this issue.

AN EDMONTON FIRE

Mr. E. E. Tietz, of Edmonton, writes The Banner calling our attention to an inaccuracy in a news item in our issue of October 25th. The item in question reported a fire in an Edmonton hotel, in which Charles Howard, of Collingwood, and seven others were said to have lost their lives. Mr. Tietz says that only one life was lost, but adds that on November 4th a fire occurred in an apartment house on 102nd street and 2nd ave., in which four lives were lost. Three neighboring houses were also partly destroyed.

They Died That We Might Live

Order of Service

Inspection of Guard of Honour, mounted by Veterans of the Great War and the Peel and Dufferin Regiment, under Captain H. Brealey, late Royal Canadian Regiment, and Lieutenant R. McLagan, late 24th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force.

MUSICAL SELECTION—
Regimental Band, Peel and Dufferin Regiment.

HYMN— "O God, Our Help in Ages Past"
Led by massed Orangeville Choirs.

O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope in years to come,
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home.

Beneath the shadow of Thy throne,
Thy saints have dwelt secure;
Sufficient is Thine arm alone,
And our defence is sure.

Before the hills in order stood,
Or earth received her frame,
From everlasting Thou art God,
To endless years the same.

O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come:
Be Thou our guard while troubles last,
And our eternal home. Amen.

CHAIRMAN'S REMARKS—
Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. V. Preston late O. C. 39th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force

THE SCRIPTURE LESSON—
Rev. F. W. Mahaffy

After this I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes and palms in their hands;

And cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb.

* * *

These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

Therefore, are they before the throne of God, and serve Him day and night in His temple; and He that sitteth on the throne shall dwell among them.

They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat.

For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters; and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.—Rev. VII: 9, 10 and 14-17.

UNVEILING OF MEMORIAL—
Mrs. W. H. White
Mother of the late Harold Edgar White and Howard Austin White.

ADDRESS OF DEDICATION—
Major Rev. H. F. D. Woodcock late Chaplain 164th Halton-Dufferin Overseas Battalion

PRAYERS OF DEDICATION—
Captain Rev. J. W. McDonald
late Chaplain 66th Bttn., Canadian Expeditionary Force

IN the faith of Jesus Christ, Who died that we might live, and in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, we dedicate this Memorial to the honour and glory of God, and in loving memory of those whose names are inscribed upon it. Amen.

ALMIGHTY GOD, our Heavenly Father, Who so loved the world that Thou didst give Thine Only-Begotten Son to die for us, we beseech Thee graciously to accept this Memorial which we offer Thee, in grateful remembrance of those who gave their lives for us in the service of their country. We render Thee thanks and praise for the courage and self-sacrifice manifested in these, Thy servants, whom we here commemorate. Grant that we, in our generation, may cheerfully obey Thy will and loyally fulfil our duty in whatsoever state it shall please Thee to call us. May this Memorial ever inspire us to loving service and patient endurance. May all who look upon it realize the constraining call of duty, and the glory of loyalty, courage and self-sacrifice. Grant this, we beseech Thee, through Jesus Christ our Saviour and Redeemer. Amen.

O GOD of the spirits of flesh, we bless Thy Holy Name for the memory of our dear departed, who, having fought a good fight, have finished their course with joy. Do Thou, O Lord, crown the gift of their matchless courage with the gift of eternal peace, and grant that we, encouraged by their example, may, with them, be found meet to be partakers of Thy Heavenly Kingdom, through the merits of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

O ALMIGHTY GOD, Who hast called the nations to fulfil Thine own will, grant, we beseech Thee, that the sons of Canada, who in Thy Providence go forth into all the world, may preserve the brightness of a blameless life, and may, by their example, spread the light of Thy Glorious Gospel among those who know Thee not, through Thy Blessed Son, Jesus Christ Our Lord. Amen.

THE LORD'S PRAYER.—In which all are requested to join.

GENERAL SALUTE BY THE GUARD OF HONOUR—

THE LAST POST—
Bandmaster William F. Dewar
late Bandmaster 164th Halton-Dufferin Overseas Battalion

THE SILENCE OF REMEMBRANCE—
All present are requested to stand in silence, with bowed heads, for two minutes, in reverent and grateful remembrance of the heroic dead.

THE REVEILLE— . Signifying the blessed hope of the Resurrection.
Bandmaster William F. Dewar

MUSICAL SELECTION—
Regimental Band, Peel and Dufferin Regiment.
During the playing of this selection an Offering will be taken to complete the Memorial Fund.

OCTETTE— . "Wave Above Them as They Slumber, the Flag They Loved So Well."
St. Andrew's Church Male Octette.

PLACING WREATHS AND FLOWERS ON THE MEMORIAL—

THE BENEDICTION—
Rev. H. L. Partridge

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM—

When It Is Finished

WHEN it is finished, Father, and we set
The war-stained buckler and the bright blade by,
Bid us remember then what bloody sweat,
What thorns, what agony
Purchased our wreaths of harvest and ripe ears,
Whose empty hands, whose empty hearts, whose tears
Ransomed the days to be.

We leave them to Thee, Father, we've no price,
No utmost treasure of the seas and lands,
No words, no deeds, to pay their sacrifice.
Only while Britain stands,
Their pearl, their pride, their altar, not their grave,
Bid us remember in what days they gave
All that mankind may give,
That we might live. MARJORIE L. C. PICKTHALL

In Flanders' Fields

IN Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

MOTHER OF TWIN BOYS

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Her of Inflammation and Great Weakness

West St. John, N. B.—"I was in a general run-down condition following the birth of my twin boys. I had a great deal of inflammation, with pains and weakness. Finally my doctor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. He said that your medicine would be the only thing to build me up. I am sure he is right, for I am feeling much better and am gaining in weight, having gone down to ninety-three pounds. I was in bed for over a month, but am up again now. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to my friends and give you permission to use my letter."—Mrs. ELMER A. RITCHIE, 82 Rodney St., West St. John, N. B.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Ritchie's experience is but one of many.

NEW LAMP BURNS 95 P. C. AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil.)

The inventor, F. N. Johnson, 246 Craig St. W., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

THE TOWN COUNCIL

Resolution Sent to Minister of Public Works Asking For Enlargement of the Orangeville Post Office.

Postmaster Geo. H. Harshaw addressed the Town Council at Monday night's meeting on the need of enlarging the Orangeville post office. Mr. Harshaw pointed out that owing to the increase in the amount of mail matter handled at the office the present building was no longer large enough to accommodate the public in a satisfactory manner or to allow the staff to sort and handle the mail in an expeditious manner. Following the Postmaster's presentations, Council agreed by unanimous vote to a resolution introduced by Reeve Parkinson and Councillor Reid. The resolution requests the Minister of Public Works to authorize the enlargement of the Post Office in such a manner and to such an extent as to properly meet the needs of the general public and at the same time make it convenient for the handling of the mail matter. The resolution also asks that a tower be erected on the building and a clock placed thereon and that the present general delivery wicket be enlarged to at least three feet in width.

Copies of the resolution will be forwarded to the Minister of Public Works and to R. J. Woods, M. P. for Dufferin.

Frank Russell submitted an account for $21.45, which was referred to the Town Property Committee with power to pay and apply on Mr. Russell's tax account.

Isaac Hughson presented the town with an account for $6.00 for digging a grave in Greenwood Cemetery. Mr. Hughson has been unable to collect from the owner of the plot. The account was referred to the Reeve, with instructions to explain to Mr. Hughson that the Council could not accept any responsibility for the bill.

Accounts passed were:—Adamson Hardware Co., $36.65; W.W. Marshall, $5.90; Geo. King, $26.00; W. A. Clowes, $22.80; H. B. Church, $11.80; Sam Black, $31.36; C. P. R., $5.15; Jas. Morrison Brass Mfg. Co., 73c; Northern Electric Co., $21.27.

Mr. Jos. Reid wrote the Council that he was in a position to supply Pronto Fire Extinguishers for fire protection purposes. No action was taken on the communication.

Dr. T. H. Henry, Medical Officer of Health, submitted his yearly report on health conditions in the town. The M. O. H. reported 55 births, 9 infant deaths and 54 deaths from all causes. There were two cases of diphtheria, 50 cases of measles and 25 cases of impetigo contagiosa, an effection of the glands chiefly among children, reported in the town during the year. Sanitary conditions were generally satisfactory, although there were complaints of stenches from certain drains. These, Dr. Henry averred, could be remedied only by the construction of the long delayed and much needed sewerage system.

Thos. Bennett was granted the use of a small room in the lower part of the Opera House at a rental of $1.50 per month.

Representatives of a manufacturing concern addressed the Council on the subject of locating in Orangeville. They are asking a free site for their plant, a fixed assessment and the co-operation of the council in disposing of $25,000 stock in the concern.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Surely Sir Henry Thornton is not speaking earnestly when he states that the last word has been said regarding freight rates on Alberta coal. Most people will readily agree that the National Railways should receive freight rates that will pay, provided conditions are normal or nearly normal. But if a coal famine should threaten or actually occur, then freight rates on a Government owned railway should not be an effectual barrier to the shipping of Alberta coal to market points east of the Great Lakes.

Monday night the Town Council passed a resolution asking the Department of Public Works to enlarge the Orangeville post office. Citizens will unite in hoping that the resolution may be productive of results. Increase of mail business and the development of the rural free delivery system have added largely to the volume of the mail matter handled in the post office. The staff is crowded for space, too crowded to allow its members to do their work in an expeditious manner. Space in the lobby is also limited and there is much crowding at mail hours. A larger office would remedy all this and would make for a better service. If the Department of Public Works should undertake to enlarge the building it is to be hoped that the work can be done without altering the lines and general appearance of the present building.

There is good reason t obelieve that the present activity of the bootleggers and other lawbreakers of that ilk is part and parcel of a concerted plan to discredit the Ontario Temperance Act in the eyes of the people of this province. Another referendum will probably be asked for by the liquor interests in the very near future. Meantime it is their policy to do anything and everything possible to create the impression that the O. T. A. is not operating effectively.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The Orangeville Women's Institute will hold its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. George Hepton on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 27th. The programme will include an address by Rev. F. W. Mahaffy. Everybody welcome.

MRS. DONALD M'LEAN

Mrs. Catherine McLean, wife of the late Donald McLean, passed away at her home on York St. on Wednesday, November 14th, after a lengthy illness, which was borne with patience and Christian fortitude. Mrs. McLean, who was 68 years and 8 months of age, came to Orangeville in 1901 and during the years she lived here had won the regard and confidence of her circle of friends and neighbors. Her husband predeceased her two and a half years ago and she is survived by an adopted daughter, Miss Alice Finnerty, who unfortunately has been ill and under the doctor's care since last May. Michael Waters, living in Orangeville, David Waters, of Melancthon Station, and Lawrence Waters, of Fulda, Minnesota, are the surviving brothers. The funeral was held from her late residence at 10 a.m. on Friday to St. Peter's Church, where requiem high mass was sung by Rev. Father Bagnasco. The interment took place in St. Patrick's Church Cemetery in Melancthon, Father Callaghan officiating at the grave. The pallbearers were Duncan Sinclair, of Erin, James Henry and Philip McGarvey, of Orangeville, John Flesher, of Toronto, Dan Waters, Melancthon, and John Waters, of Orangeville, the three last named being nephews of the departed woman.

FRANCIS J. DURKIN

In the death of Francis J. Durkin on Sunday, November 11th, after a comparatively short illness of about two weeks, the township of Amaranth has lost another of its earlier settlers. Deceased, who was in his 81st year, was a man of unusual stature and splendid physique. He was a rugged, vigorous type of the hard and daring pioneers who first settled in this part of Ontario and won their way to comfortable and happy homes in a stern and unremitting struggle against privations and natural inclemencies that are but imperfectly understood by their descendants. Six years ago Mr. Durkin had the misfortune to fall, breaking his thigh. The accident left him badly crippled and necessitated the use of a crutch for the remainder of his life. Deceased was a native of the County of Armagh, Ireland, and came to Canada about sixty years ago. His first stopping place after he reached his district was with friends at The Gore, Eas. Garafraxa, where he remained for a short time before taking up a bush lot near Bowling Green in t west side of Amaranth. Shortly afterwards he married Miss Sarah Philip, who predeceased him nine years ago, and who proved a loyal and devoted helpmate during the nearly half-century that they were privileged to spend together. Mr. Durkin was a man of careful and deliberate manner, conscientious in the matter of his word, and always scrupulously carrying out any promises that he made. It can be said of him too that he made an honest effort in life to treat every man as he wished to be treated himself. He was a member of the Bowling Green Methodist Church, a staunch supporter of the Conservative party and a zealous member of the Orange Order. For many a year he was fifer for his Lodge in the annual 12th of July walk, performing this duty loyally and from conscientious motives. He is survived by one son, John, of Bowling Green, and the following daughters:—Mrs. Harvey, of Regina; Mrs. Beemer, of Princeton Mrs. Wm. Irvin and Mrs. James Thompson, of Orangeville, and Mrs. Wm. Bradley and Mrs. Fred Olsen, of Toronto. The funeral, which was very largely attended by neighbors and friends from a distance, was held to the Union Cemetery, Grand Valley, on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 13th.

MRS. JOHN M'BRIDE

Another old and well-known resident of Peel County has passed to the Great Beyond in the person of Mrs. John McBride, of Caledon, whose death took place very suddenly at the home of her son, Mr. Albert McBride, 6th line, west, Caledon, about eight o'clock on Wednesday morning of last week. Mrs. McBride was born in Chinguacousy seventy-two years ago. Previous to her marriage she was Miss McQuarrie, a daughter of the late John McQuarrie, one of the early settlers in the Cheltenham district. Most of her life had been spent in Chinguacousy and Caledon, although she resided in Erin for a short time, leaving that village at the time of her husband's death six years ago, to live with her son. She was a member of the Belfountain Baptist Church and was a woman who was highly respected for her fine character and kindly, sympathetic nature. Surviving are two sons, John A., West Broadway, Orangeville, and Albert, of Caledon, and two daughters, Mrs. John Willis, of Belfountain, and Mrs. Earl Hyatt, Huttonville. Mr. Archibald McQuarrie, of Horning's Mills, is a brother. The funeral, which was attended by a large number of the neighbors and other friends, was held to Melville Church Cemetery on Friday afternoon, Rev. R. Segsworth, of Brampton, conducting the services. The pallbearers were Messrs. Geo. A. Cameron, Thos. Wilson, Thos. Fines, John McQuarrie, R. M. Bell and Frank Wrigglesworth.

F. T. HILL & CO. LIMITED, Orangeville.

101 Glendale Ave., Toronto, on Saturday at the advanced age of 82 years. Deceased, who was born in County Monaghan, Ireland, emigrated to Canada with his parents at an early age and settled near Orangeville. While quite a young man he in farming, from which he retired twenty-five years ago. He is survived by his widow, also 82 years of age, one brother, Philip, and a sister, Miss Nancy McGarvey, of Orangeville, and several nephews and nieces. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning to St. Vincent de Paul Church, interment taking place in Mount Hope Cemetery.

ENDED HIS LIFE

The many municipal and personal friends of William McGhee, ex-Reeve of Melancthon township, were deeply shocked and grieved by the appalling news that he had taken his own life while laboring under a spell of mental depression, which it is thought was induced by financial troubles. Last Thursday morning the unfortunate man took paris green. He was clearing out a ditch on his farm and was working alone at the time. It was sometime before members of his family learned of the shocking deed, and consequently Dr. McGibbon, of Honeywood, did not reach the scene until four hours after the poisoning. All efforts to save the life of the suffering man proved futile and he passed away at midnight on Friday. The late Mr. McGhee was 62 years of age and is survived by his wife and a family of two sons and two daughters. He had been a prominent municipal figure for a number of years, having served at different times as councillor, deputy-reeve and reeve of his municipality. He possessed a bright, cheery nature, had a considerable fund of humor. He was a man of the strictest honesty and was held in high respect as a neighbor and citizen. Mr. McGhee had spent his lifetime in the Horning's Mills district, where he had a wide connection of relatives.

The funeral, which was held to Horning's Mills cemetery on Sunday afternoon, was one of the largest ever held in the County of Dufferin. Rev. Graham, of Horning's Mills, was the officiating minister. The pallbearers were Messrs. Henry Proctor, Alex. Jamieson, Geo. McAlister, John Flear, Jas. Service and Ben Murdy.

O. H. S. VICTORIOUS

The Orangeville High School Rugby Team made a friendly visit to Fergus last Friday and emerged victorious over the Fergus High School team by the score of 17 to 7 after a well-played game. The game was called for 3.30 and was played on the rain-soaked Alexandra Park. Orangeville won the toss. Fergus kicked off, Kyles running the ball back ten yards before being tackled. On three successive downs Orangeville failed to gain yards and Fergus was awarded the ball. The Orangeville line held for two downs and on the third Fergus kicked to Wansbrough, who was downed for a rouge. F.H.S., 1, O.H.S., 0. It was Orangeville's ball on their 25 yard line on the first down. Rowan ran 75 yards for a touchdown. Henry missed the convert by inches. F. H. S. 1, O. H. S., 5. Quarter time was called and the teams changed ends. Fergus kicked off and regained possession on a forward pass, Orangeville losing the ball. Orangeville held Fergus, who were forced to kick on the third down. Wansbrough was tackled for a rouge after a fine run. F.H. S., 2, O.H.S., 5. Henry punted to Russell, who gained yards and on the next play Curlins crossed the Orangeville line for a touchdown, which was not converted. F.H.S., 7, O.H.S., 5. Half time was called and the few minutes of respite were welcomed by both teams. During the first half play was of an even nature as the score indicates.

Henry kicked off for Orangeville. Fergus failing to gain yards on two downs kicked on the third. Orangeville regaining the ball on the next play, Kyles went through the line for ten yards, passing to Henry when tackled, who in turn passed to Rowan when tackled. The Orangeville back line gained yards again on a backfield run. On the next play Wansbrough carried the ball fifteen yards near the Fergus line. Rowan went across for a try, being from a difficult angle. F.H.S., 7, O.H.S., 10. Fergus kicked off, Rowan carried the ball to near midfield. Willoughby punted to Russell, who fumbled the ball when tackled by Rowan. Henry picking up the loose ball went over for a touchdown. O.H.S. failed to convert. F.H.S., 7, O.H.S. 15. Fergus kicked off and O. H. S lost possession on a fumble, but Fergus did likewise, Anderson regaining the ball The O. H. S. now resorted to the aerial attack, Willoughby, Henry and Wansbrough outkicking the Fergus halves and Lewis bringing the ball carrier down with hard tackles. Fergus attempted an onside kick, Orangeville regaining the ball in a scramble. Willoughby kicked to the dead line for the final points of the game. O.H.S., 17, F.H.S., 7.

The Orangeville line, composed of Anderson, Senior, Smith, Adamson, Lewis, Sanderson and Craig, held splendidly. Not once did Fergus break through, while the locals in turn smothered the Fergus line plays. Kyles, at quarter, used splendid judgment; Rowan, at flying wing, was a consistent ground gainer, while the local backfield, Willoughby, Henry and Wansbrough caught and kicked faultlessly. Campbell, Lindsay, Davidson and Stubbs, who were interjected into the game in the second half, proved their worth The manner in which the locals "carried on" is due to the able coaching of Mr. Cross, and he is to be congratulated on his success. Mr. A. Rohmer, as referee, gave satisfaction to both teams. A return game will be played here in the near future. The O. H. S. lined up as follows:—

Snap, Adamson; insides, Smith, Lewis; middles, Senior and Sanderson; outsides, Anderson and Craig; quarter, Kyles; flying wing, Rowan; left back, Willoughby; centre half, Henry; right half, Wansbrough; subs, Campbell, Lindsay, Davidson and Stubbs. The officials were A. Rohmer and Mr. Preston; lineman, Dr. Campbell.

THE D. K. CO. SUPPER

An enjoyable evening was spent in the Queen's Hotel on Saturday night, when the married men's baseball team of the Dods Knitting Co. was banqueted by the single men's team of the same company, the latter being the losers in a two-game contest to decide who would stand the spread. The first game resulted in a score of 7 to 6 and the second 15 to 3. C. Rowan and L. Sanderson acted as umpires. A number of speeches were given by members of both teams, and also Mr. A. W. Dods. The teams were:

Married Men—Bell, Ridley, McGrath, Morrison, Wright, Wilson, Smith and Nelson.

Single Men—Sanderson A. Bradley, P. Bradley, Snell, Black, Hogben, Jackson, Bobby and Armstrong.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Graham, of Amaranth, Celebrate Anniversary in Happy Manner.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Graham, of Campania, Amaranth Township, celebrated their golden wedding in happy manner on Tuesday, November 6th. The bride and groom of fifty years ago were born in Kitley township in the County of Leeds, and were married on November 6th, 1873, by Rev. G. W. White, Church of England rector at Smith's Falls. Coming to Amaranth about ten years later, they settled on Lot 22, Con. 10, in that township, this being the farm on which they still live. Mr. and Mrs. Graham are still enjoying fairly good health and had the pleasure of an unbroken family reunion on Tuesday evening. Two daughters and one son, Mrs. Thos. Burnside, Mrs. Geo. Beattie and Will, two grandchildren, one sister, a number of nephews and nieces, also Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Jay, their present pastor and his wife, were present, and all spent an enjoyable evening.

The bride and groom of a half century ago led the way to the dining room, where a fowl dinner awaited them and their guests. After ample justice had been done to the good things provided and toasts proposed and responded to, an address was read and the happy couple were presented with a Davenport and rocker by the family and a sewing table by the other relatives. Remembrances were also received from distant friends. Before dispersing, the company joined in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Graham many more years of happy wedded life, together with good health to allow them to enjoy them to the full.

THE SALES TAX

About 5,000 Firms in Toronto Interested in New Law That Exacts 6 Per Cent. After January 1st.

The new sales tax, which goes into effect on January 1st, has caused a lot of inquiry at the Customs House in Toronto. Collector Bertram stated that, in order that the 5,000 firms interested in this tax might be provided for, a large amount of printed matter for distribution upon request has been sent from Ottawa. Those who desire may secure a copy of the Special War Revenue Act; regulations issued under this Act; notice as to keeping books and records; and chart as to the application of the tax.

On January 1st, the sales tax is to be increased to 6 per cent. on goods not on the list of exemptions imported by unlicensed wholesalers and manufacturers, retailers and consumers, and on all sales of licensed manufacturers to unlicensed manufacturers and wholesalers, retailers and consumers. A manufacturer who does not do $10,000 worth of business in one year, with certain exceptions, may not be licensed, but all others must be licensed. As to wholesalers, only those doing 50 per cent. of their business with licensed manufacturers will be licensed, and must file a guarantee bond with the Department of Customs and Excise. All sales tax licenses now in force will be cancelled and new consumption or sales tax licenses issued to those entitled to them, without charge, by exchanging the old license. New firms commencing business after January 1st, will pay a fee of 50 cents for the license for the balance of the fiscal year.

IN FAR-OFF PERU

English Chaplain at Negritos Tells of His Work Among "Gringos" and Natives.

Orangeville Presbytery Learns of Work and Problems of Protestant "Padre" in South America.

At the last meeting of Orangeville Presbytery in St. Andrew's Church here, Rev. F. C. Harper, formerly of Hillsburg, and now English Chaplain for Perus in connection with the work of the International Petroleum Company, Limited, submitted an extremely interesting report of his first year's work in his present field of labor. The report was in the form of the following letter, which the Presbytery has kindly allowed The Banner to reproduce:—

Negritos, Peru, S. A.,
September 27, 1923.

To the Reverend,
The Presbytery of Orangeville,
Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Mr. Moderator and Brethren,—

I beg to submit for your consideration a statement of my work here during the past year as English Chaplain for Peru of the International Petroleum Company, Limited. In addition to thus fulfilling the requirement of the General Assembly in this regard, I desire to express to you all friendly greetings and earnest prayers for the advancement of the work of the Presbytery which we have shared in the past.

I arrived in Talara on Sunday morning, Sept. 17th, 1922, after a most interesting trip through the West Indies from New York, and through the great Panama Canal, making the trip in the space of 10 days. The welcome received at the mole at Talara left nothing to be desired both for our personal satisfaction and for a happy augury for the future and its work. I spent the following week in getting acquainted with the "lay of the land," both human and geographical, in conferences with the Company's managers in Talara and Negritos, and on the next Sunday, Sept. 24, the first regular services were begun in Negritos in the assembly hall of the English Club. On Oct. 1st, we began at Talara. Like all "first services," "the church was crowded."

Talara is our refinery town with a native population of 5,000 Peruvians employed in the works, and 38 "Gringo" families with 35 single persons, chiefly Canadians, with about one third Americans and British. There the miles of pipe lines from the wells converge for refining of a yearly output of over 5,000,000 bbls. of crue oil, or for the filling of the oil-tankers from the submarine pipe-line a half-mile out to sea. Six miles south on the Pacific shore and on the Company's narrow gauge R. R., Negritos lies at the shoulder of Punta Parinas, the farthest west "point" of South America, having a native population of 4,000. This is the centre of the field operations of drilling wells and pumping and production, and I have found it the more convenient centre for reaching any part of the concession worked by the Company's men. At Negritos we have 60 Gringo families and our community picnic at the Chira River recently mustered 185 Gringos, including single persons.

Regular services have been held fortnightly on Sunday evenings in each town in the Assembly Hall of the English Club, with myself in charge. Attendance ranges from 30 to 70 adults, all Protestant denominations being represented. We have 4 R. C. families, but by the custom of that church, they do not attend union services and are under the care of a Spanish priest who is perhaps a bit better than the usual run of South American clergy with a lurid reputation. Our services present in their happy informal gatherings a good convincing illustration of church union in actual operation, with the new Presbyterian Book of Praise in use for the latest publication of the gospel hymns, with all joining reverently in the Lord's Prayer, the General Confession or the Creed, and patiently listening to a fifteen minute talk from their "padre," as straight-from-the-heart as I can make it on texts like "Christ Died," etc. Without any managerial direction, the unanimous wish of the people has closed down the club activities during the service hour, eight to nine Sunday nights thereby increasing the helpfulness of these quiet hours for prayer.

Sunday school organization was planned for next in order and before the end of 1922 our information showed 19 scholars in Talara and 26 in Negritos over 5 years of age. We obtained the use of two Public Schools (English) with the great convenience of big blackboards for "chalk talks," and early in 1923 started Sunday School at 10 a.m. in each town every Sunday. By the request of the schools, I am in charge of each in turn, while a good Baptist brother from near Petrolea, Ont., takes turn about with me. The kids love their school, would not leave it for a ball game, and a number have kept a perfect attendance since we started. It has been a real joy to arrange for sing-songs of the hymns on Saturday afternoons, and at other times inter-school ball games and basketball. The Purchasing Department in Toronto has forwarded from Presbyterian Publications a full list of supplies, including quarterlies, "East and West," "King's Own," picture rolls, etc., and at the end of the quarter, the senior scholars have a written test and the juniors an oral test, on the lessons studied. These two are the only schools of a Protestant church in Peru outside of Lima, the capital. R. C. parents have been invited to send their children to share in the good things of the school, but so far have refused, and their 6 children are under the Spanish priest's care—perhaps. I send them copies of the Sunday School papers and always include them in the games and picnics, and watch over them like the others, a policy which will tell for Christ in the end.

My day's work is probably like your own there. My mornings are spent in my office, which has been completely furnished by the Company, in consultations or conferences with heads of departments or others. The afternoons pass in visitation of the casas or bungalows of the staff on the terrace overlooking the ocean beach, or at the shops, or in the field in contact with the men. I also make regular rounds of the two hospitals and two English public schools, acting as presiding examiner at the Negritos Entrance examinations last July, and having the satisfaction of steering one of the successful candidates to Trinity College School, Port Hope, Ont., where he will be under the care of Capt. Rev. F. W. Anderson, one of our C.E.F. "padres." In the evenings I am on duty at the English Club every unoccupied night, and have a unique opportunity to influence the social and recreational life of the community, which makes the club a rallying place. The club comprises buildings that cover about half an acre, with assembly, dining room for single men and women, reading room, with New York and London dailies and the "dear old Globe" on the tables and a circulating library of over 1000 volumes on the shelves. There is a well-fitted billiard room an up-to-date bowling-alley, splendid concrete tennis court, electric lighted for play in the evenings, player piano and grafanola in the assembly hall for use in concerts or dances. Last, and perhaps also worst, there is a bar where any alcoholic beverage may be bought, but only ale, beer and soft drinks may be drunk on the premises. Some good, not much, is done by the rigid regulations of the Directors of the Company over the bar, and there is practically little drunkenness in evidence, but the pernicious treating system and the opportunity afforded to the moderate drinker, exercise a baneful influence.

A word as to the difficulties of the work. First, there is the indirect influence of a R.C. country. In Peru, there is not even yet any legal permission on the statute-book for Protestant churches to enter, organize or operate. I am here because the International Petroleum Company supplies the large part of the revenue for governmental purposes. Since Pizarro landed in 1526, about 10 miles north of here, at Tumbez, the R. C. church has had 400 years to bring into touch with Christ an area and a population just twice the size of your Ontario approximately, in which population only 57 per cent. are Indians. Even the most lenient critic will confess that the Roman Church has had an absolute monopoly, and has made an unmistakeable failure. To-day in Negritos, with a native population of 4,000, the average attendance at mass is between 20 and 40. A negro from Jamaica, who is converted and who lives up country, told me that the local priest in his district of Tamarinde stole one of the native girls, and now goes in fear of his life, the reputation of many of the clergy in such districts being that unsavoury one of having more to do with the natural increase of population than their celibate vows would permit. High fees for marriage ceremony and baptisms have commercialized religion in the eyes of the poor, and the native custom is to dispense with the "benefit of the clergy." One marriage fee I have heard of was $75, and the usual fee is $15. The local priest here does not perform baptisms unless in bunches of six, and at a dollar apiece. The inevitable result is that the natives are non-religious and non-moral. The indirect influence is to undermine the faith of even our gringos living in this pestilent atmosphere, long without a REAL church.

Sunday here is no Sabbath, but a cessation of work and an opportunity for play. Limited hours of daylight because the equatorial sun sets at 6.30, almost immediately after work stops at 5.30, it is alleged, leave only Sunday for sports. Like Saul, I have held the garments of these persecutors of the Sabbath, but I am meeting them on their own ground, quietly and patiently insisting on their giving God place in their lives on that day that is His, and on their showing their children that Sunday is "different."

It is some satisfaction that men cannot play ball and drink whisky at the same time, and there has been so much booze fighting on Sundays here in the past, that sports are encouraged, or rather permitted.

Further, Peru is of that great area south of U.S.A. where liquor is free from any restriction, "where there aint no Ten Commandments and a man can raise a thirst." Spanish-American women smile at their husbands who toast their charms at dinner, until the men are unable to hold up a glass or mumble the toast. Even our "gringo" women of a class get the cocktail habit, and you would be horrified to know some Ontario ladies who have adopted the habit. Young men have landed here who never knew before liquor's taste; they had no friends to warn them, or even care; now apparently they cannot leave it alone. The supply of liquor is unrestricted beyond the Company's bounds, where the "fonda" or native saloon and wine-shop plies its dirty trade. Never and nowhere else so clearly as here and now, can one see the difference between the sane, clean life of North America and the sorry inefficiency and drunkenness of Spanish America. I make it to be my care to meet new arrivals at the boat, scarcely give them time to get trunks unpacked before putting them on their guard against even the beer habit. "Get booze and booze will get you," and then one has to watch them to see how the advice sinks in or not. South America is no place for fellows whose character is in a plastic state, and I pity boys of twenty who have come here with the attraction of bigger pay than in Canada. Occasionally we get fellows here who only last a few months because they were attracted by the promise of a "wet" country; they get no sympathy when dismissed. Men of stiff moral fibre however make good here as everywhere, and men are total abstainers yet after 15 years exile in this desert where character meets the acid-test. Thank God, His Grace is our "one best bet." That leads me to the other side of the question.

What are we doing to make this desert safer? Only by "the glorious Gospel of our ascended Lord," and that through several avenues of operation. The fine hearty community spirit of our Gringo homes, where newcomers find a real welcome in a real home immediately on arrival, and where the oldtimers by their experience help newcomers to get squared away for life in this mill. Sunday evening finds many of the newly arrived single men "out to tea" and then "out to church." The Sunday School is organized on a weekday sports basis, which teaches the younger exiles to "play the game." The Company's managers here are big men who are "warm" toward the religious idea, and seldom absent from our services. Several of our single men have trained concert-voices for use in brightening our services. All of the women of our two Gringo colonies meet at teas and bridge-parties in the afternoon on some day of each week, and they exercise a wholesome influence on the town's life. Tournaments of golf, bowling, tennis, etc., gather our men together when off work. Our welfare program, which provides for the investment of savings in the Company's stock to the extent of 25 per cent. of the monthly pay cheque, and in which the Directors have agreed to give dollar for dollar to help pay for the stock in this Co-operative Investment Trust, helps a man to see the benefit of keeping his bar-bills low and his savings large. In last year's bowling tournament, Sunday games were on the schedule some nights; this year not a Sunday game is scheduled, and it is not because I have been the captain of one of the teams (The Hard-Oils) either. I am to instruct the boys of the native Peruvian public school in the American game of baseball, not because I know the game so well, but because they do not know it at all, and because I have the time and opportunity to help them, by having learned Spanish this past year. (It is rather odd to hear them use English words for baseball terms, but with Spanish pronunciations, like "o-may" for "home," "haw-say" for "base," "yroon" for "run," etc., it is a lark for them to have the "Padre Ingles" for their coach.)

The Company encouurages all plans that make for better relations between the staff and the Peruvians and it appeals to me as a foretoken of that time when North America's influence will tell greatly for God and civilization in South America. Peruvian boys in our shops and in our general office are learning to make good at Canadian accounting methods, machinists' jobs, driving Ford cars, etc. They MUST learn also that Canadian religion is better too than the hollow externalism that they have known under religion's guise hitherto. A recent tragedy in a well-explosion at Lobitos shows the spirit of friendliness between Canadian and Peruvian on the job, even to the point of heroic self-sacrifice. A new well had been sunk to about 900 feet when it struck a gas-pocket and had to be capped with a heavy steel cap. The compression of "high-naptha gas" blew the cap up among the heavy timbers of the derrick, loosened a cross timber, which, falling, pinned a gringo lad of 18 on the floor, and the whole well burst into flames from some spark as steel met steel. All the workmen escaped, but the Peruvian foreman seeing the English lad insensible on the floor rushed back into the flames, and had dragged his friend almost out when another falling plank from above laid him senseless by his side, both bodies being burned to a char in the white-hot flame of high pressure gas whose roar was like that of a huge oxy-acetylene torch. The funerals of both men were held the following day by the necessity of S. American conditions, with Father Perez and myself officiating in turn at the home and the graveside, Protestant Gringos and R. C. Peruvians mingling in the same congregation that stood about the two caskets side by side. I read the passage "Greater love hath no man than this."

Two Jamaica negro workmen here, married to Peruvian and Ecuadorian women, asked me to baptize their children, the husbands and fathers being Protestants and the wives and mothers being R. C.'s—perhaps. Both were surprised when I refused any remuneration, not being able to comprehend a religion that was not commercialized. One of the two fathers who had his other child baptized by the priest, requested me to perform the baptism for that child over again as he said "to make sure that it was done right."

These seem trivial things, brethren, but they point to great things that are surely coming. Great fortunes are being made in South America's vast unexploited treasures greater than the fabled gold of the Incas, and if the Almighty has put it into the hearts of a great corporation to see that their employees have the comfort and blessing of the Gospel in this land of practically heathen darkness, He sees from on high the influence of these employees radiating farther. It is not the first time that He has sent His Word along the trail that commerce has blazed, and I have a great confidence that He has also sent me. I have not done much except make a start, perhaps a good start, but that is for others to say. I will say that in twenty years' ministry I never stacked up against as hard a job singlehanded (humanly speaking.) I have never had so great an opportunity, and never such grateful experience of the goodness of God.

May I express to you, Mr. Moderator, and through you to the Presbytery, my earnest wishes for great blessing on your work? And I would like to ask what you will cheerfully grant. I can imagine you all meeting in the classroom of old St. Andrew's at the regular meeting of November 13th, recognize most of the ministers and some elders present. I would ask that you remember in your prayer the men and women living and working here in far Peru amid great dangers and greater temptations. Our time is the same as yours, for the line due north from here passes near Hamilton, Ontario. Perhaps at 2 p.m. at your November meeting, you might read this letter, and have some of your bishops bring us all blessing at the Throne of Grace. Matheson, Dodds, Throne of Grace. Matheson, Dodds, Thornley, Lindsay, Hare, Lundie choose.

Ask some one to lead in prayer after reading this letter.

I remain,
Yours faithfully,
FRANK C. HARPER,
English Chaplain for Peru, the International Petroleum Co., Ltd.

DORAN-WILSON

A quiet though pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson, Mono Centre on Wednesday, November 14th, when their only daughter, Lillian Pearl, became the bride of Silas James Doran, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Doran, of Mountain, Ont. Promptly at high noon the bride entered the parlor with her father to the strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin, softly played by Miss Muriel McKelvey. She looked charming in a gown of silk canton crepe trimmed with lace and seed pearls and wore the customary bridal veil made in cap effect and caught up with orange blossoms. Her flowers were a sheaf of chrysanthemums. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Forth, the bride's pastor, in the presence of the immediate friends. After the service, which was beautiful and impressive, a dainty wedding breakfast was served. Later in the day the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for a trip to Toronto and North Bay, the bride travelling in a suit of navy blue tricotine and hat to match. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

CAMILLA

Mrs. Coutts is improving.

Mrs. Jennie Stewart is home from the West.

Dougal Large has been up in the north country hunting.

The ladies of the Camilla school district were entertained on Friday afternoon by the pupils and teacher Miss E. Gallaugher. The program consisted of singing, story telling recitations and a debate, entitled "Resolved that the Men should do the Milking," which was won by the affirmative. There was also a spelling match by the ladies, after which a dainty lunch was served. The afternoon was enjoyed by all. There should be more visiting of the school by the parents, as it makes the children eager to show what they can do, so why not co-operate in the work of the school as well as on the farm.

Lena says she is going to study gardening, as ferns are very hard to cultivate.

Bruce declares that the mail has become extra heavy since W. H. came home.

The young people and the U. F. O. are preparing a debate. Watch for further particulars.

VACUUM FLASKS

The interior of a vacuum flask is made of glass, and all sudden changes of temperature should therefore be avoided. It is never advisable to pour boiling liquid into a vacuum flask without first tempering the glass with hot water, nor is it wise to rinse a flask that has contained something hot with cold water. Corks soon become impregnated with the contents of the flask, and should be removed frequently. Cork covers made of parchment paper are sold, which lengthen the life of the cork and prevent the flavor of one liquid becoming spoilt by that of another. A cork should never be forced into a vacuum flask; if it is too large it can, if first dipped in hot water, usually be coaxed into place by a gentle circular movement. The cork should always be removed from the flask when it is empty as if it remains heat is retained for a considerable time. A flask should never be filled quite to the top because the steam will usually loosen the cork and therefore allow heat to escape. It is always better to put tea or coffee into a vacuum flask without milk or sugar. A good vacuum flask should keep liquids hot for at least 24 hours and icy cold for about two days.

THANKSGIVING DAY ACCIDENT

Master Jack Horton, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Horton, of this village, was the victim of a shooting accident on Thanksgiving Day, when Mr. Wm. Tippin was shooting sparrows with a .22 calibre rifle, at the home of Mr. John McArthur, 10th line, Erin. A number of small boys were watching the sport and had been warned to keep back. The rifle had been reloaded and by some unknown means accidentally discharged, the bullet striking Master Jack in the left shoulder and passing out of the left breast. Fortunately it did not strike the lungs, but splintered or passed through the shoulder blade, inflicting a nasty wound. Medical aid was immediately summoned, and the lad is resting as comfortably as can be expected under the circumstances. It is indeed unfortunate that the Thanksgiving festivities were marred by the unfortunate accident, but there is still much to be thankful for, in the fact that the wound was not more serious or even fatal.—Erin Advocate.

MAKE GOOD

MRS. ALEX. M'KECHNIE

In the death of Rosie Suddaby, widow of the late Alex. McKechnie, whose demise occurred at her home, east half lot 22, con. 2, O.S., Melancthon, on Thursday, Nov. 8th, another of the early pioneers of the Horning's Mills district is removed. The deceased was born on January 30th, 1846, in Omemee township, near Lindsay, and was educated at the Omemee Grammar School. In 1872 she came to Melancthon township, and was married to her late partner at Nottawasaga on October 6th, 1874. In the early 80's Mr. and Mrs. McKechnie moved to Angus where Mr. McKechnie died on Nov. 22nd, 1884. Mrs. McKechnie returned to Melancthon shortly thereafter, where she has since resided. In religion deceased was a staunch Presbyterian and was one of the oldest members of Knox Church, Horning's Mills, and one of the most tireless workers connected with church work. She is survived by an only son, John, at present in charge of the Electrical Equipment of the Lehigh Valley Railroad at Manchester, N. Y. Interment took place in Horning's Mills Cemetery on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 10th, service being held in the Presbyterian Church after interment. The late Mrs. McKechnie was an aunt of Mr. Alex. Hageman, Farmington.

ONCE TOO OFTEN

Geo. McDermott, of Port Credit, an Old Offender, Given Prison Term.

Before P. M. Burgess at Port Credit last week George McDermott was found guilty of breaking the O. T. A. and was sentenced to six months' imprisonment in the Ontario Reformatory.

Officers from Toronto, with Inspector Reevely, raided McDermott's house in Port Credit. They found three men at a table with glasses and bottles before them. The bottles had contained beer. A search of the place revealed three bottles of whisky and twenty-seven bottles of beer.

Three officers of the License Department gave evidence.

McDermott offered as a defence the statement that he had received no pay for the drinks, but as his place was an illegal place to have liquor because he had once been fined for B. O. T. A., the plea availed him nothing. McDermott is believed to be an incorrigible offender and the punishment was coming to him.

At the same court M. L. Young, a resident of Port Credit, pleaded guilty to illegal purchase and was fined $50.

Crown Attorney Morphy prosecuted in each case.

On Monday, in Brampton, before P. M. Moore, Mrs. Keats, of Port Credit, appeared on a charge of selling liquor to Hamilton, the speed merchant, who was the cause of Bowers, of Cooksville, being convicted.

Hamilton swore that he bought liquor from Mrs. Keats. The defence produced an elderly man named McKay, of Port Credit, who was Hamilton's companion in the famous automobile ride. McKay said they were not in the Keats house. Mrs. Keats swore that she was in Toronto that day at Eaton's. Mr. Morphy, the prosecuting lawyer, enquired about her sales slips, but she had not brought them with her, but she had three small children along to excite sympathy in the Magistrate's heart. Mr. Keats swore he was at home all the afternoon in question and he had no visit from Hamilton. Mr. Moore dismissed the case against Mrs. Keats.

It Was a Perfect Quarrel

By JOAN M. GRAY

(©, 1922, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Moore had been married exactly eight weeks. Their new home was perfect and Mrs. Larry was a perfect cook. That is, all except her coffee, but being only eight weeks married, Larry was willing to overlook the coffee.

Larry had been a boy of seven, battling other boys his size and larger when Mrs. Larry first opened her blue eyes, and he had been battling the world ever since, and winning with a smile. But in the fight, he had gradually come to hide his deeper feelings under an armor of jest.
